Cold Delays Fund Reports

Snow and cold weather sent a shiver through the Arlington Heights United Fund campaign last weekend, but according to chairman Stephen Jurco the life-blood volunteers were circulating again at the first of the week.

He estimated Tuesday that at least 50 per cent of the more than 600 volunteer workers would have turned their campaign envelopes in for auditing at the Tuesday night final report meeting of the first campaign phase.

A total of $9,477 had been turned in Saturday morning when the six soliciting divisions were pooled at the first report meeting.

The figure represented 13.6 per cent of the campaign goal of $70,000, with about the same percentage of workers reporting.

"Slow reports have been primarily due to the bad turn of weather," Jurco said. "All divisions are putting forth every effort to close the gap and have completed reports from solicitors for the final meeting," he added Tuesday.

MOST OF THE remaining volunteers were expected to report in all divisions during the "mop-up" phase of the drive this week.

Jurco noted that 20 employers in Arlington Heights have offered payroll deduction plans toward the campaign, on a pledge basis to come in through the 1965 calendar year.

Local payrolls of the firms involved total more than 700 employes.

"Using the fair share suggested level of giving: for wage-roll, an amount equal to an hour's pay per month for a full 12-month year; and, for salary-roll, a sliding scale from one to two per cent of gross annual income, each employed person can meet his or her local responsibility on a business-like basis," Jurco said.

CORPORATIONS and partnerships are being solicited for a "fair share" amount, by trade classification, as a firm gift for 1965.

The 13 agencies participating in the current federated community-wide fund-raising campaign are:

2 Boards To Discuss Library

Members of the Arlington Heights village board and library board will meet tomorrow (Friday) to discuss plans for expansion or replacement of library facilities.

The library board, at a crossroads in plans for a substantial referendum - based program, is seeking help of village officials in determining where a new building should be located.

FINAL recommendations now in the library board's hands from a professional consultant group call for a building to be larger than the village's new municipal building by almost 10,000 square feet.

The village board has no legal control over library policy, but does pass on the library budget annually. This year, approximately $10,000 was set aside in the budget for preparations for a referendum and building program.

New Bike Court to Convene Tomorrow

Bicyclists who violate traffic laws in Arlington Heights will face a new arm of the law tomorrow (Friday) as the first session of a special bicycle court convenes with Associate Judge Harold W. Sullivan, District 2, Cook County Circuit Court, presiding.

The special session was devised by Police Chief L. W. Calderwood with Sullivan's cooperation as an extra measure in the police department's drive to curb dangerous offenses.

Writing of citations against bike riders has also been increased in recent weeks, the chief said. Action was spurred primarily by the death Oct. 31 of a youth who went through a stop sign on his bicycle and was crushed beneath the wheels of a truck.

THOUGH THE department has, in the past, taught bicycle safety in all local elementary schools and required parents of bicycle offenders to dicuss the situation with the police juvenile officer, Calderwood said he felt the program has been inadequate.

Now offenders and their parents will be required to appear before Judge Sullivan and answer charges which have the same gravity under the law as those involving motor vehicles.

The most common and most dangerous offenses, according to Calderwood, are running stop signs and riding two on a bicycle on heavily traveled streets.

The chief said he did not know what type of disciplinary action would result from the court hearings, but added that appearance in court should have more force than previous appointments with the juvenile officer.

Mystery Surrounds Suit Against Builder Donations

More than a bit of mystery surrounds a suit presumably filed two weeks ago which challenges the validity of an Arlington Heights requirement that developers donate 10 per cent of the land in a new subdivision for parks and schools.

No copies of the suit have been served at the village hall or to any village official. Village Pres. John G. Woods was informed of the action by a metropolitan newspaper reporter.

A suit had been expected by the village since the challenging developer, Arlington Garden Apartments, Inc., had asked last summer that the village refund $10,000—his cash donation in lieu of land on an apartment development near Euclid Avenue and the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks.

But what village officials did not expect was a report that Arlingdale is acting in behalf of other builders in the village who have been affected by the contribution requirement

Woods said he feels most developers are happy with the donation policy, which has been worked on a voluntary basis rather than by ordinance.

THERE WAS even disagreement among village board members when the suit was discussed Monday as to whether the village has an ordinance requiring 10 per cent land donation or cash donation if land within the subdivision would not be suitable for school or park development.

The suit presumably charges that such an ordinance is illegal and unconstitutional and asks repayment of all funds paid under it.

Edward L. S. Arkema, attorney for the Arlingdale development firm, has claimed that several of the 35 builders operating in Arlington Heights have complained about the ordinance.

THE SUIT could seriously affect other suburban communities as well, since many require, with or without an ordinance, some land or cash contribution by subdividers.

According to reports, the Arlingdale action also seeks a temporary injunction to stop the village from requiring donations while the suit is pending, or spending any of the money already collected but unspent.

Actually, only a minor portion of the donations has been used by the village. Most have gone to School District 25 and the Arlington Heights Park District, which are presumably named as co-defendants.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel said he would have to await comment on the suit until he had a copy to review, but added that he felt the village position was within constitutional bounds.

HE SAID the present situation differs significantly from a case in neighboring Mount Prospect on which the Illinois Supreme Court in 1961 ruled that donation requirements were illegal.

The Mount Prospect ordinance required that subdividers donate land for public use in exchange for a subdivision permit.

BEST IN STATE—The Arlington Heights Herald was named winner Friday of the Will Loomis Memorial Trophy, Illinois' highest distinction in editorial achievement, at an awards luncheon during fall convention of National Editorial Association and Illinois Press Association. Accepting trophy from Herbert Bassman, board chairman of Cook County Suburban Publishers Association, is Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, Inc. The Herald won 12 other press awards in the 1964 Illinois State Newspaper Contest. See story on inside page for details.

Referendum Path Cleared

Reservation of 14 sites in Arlington Heights for expansion of the village's park network was essentially wrapped up Monday by the village board after three alterations.

Assured at least by designation are two community park sites — one north of Palatine Road at Kennicott Avenue, and another north of Golf Road adjacent to Surrey Ridge subdivision and the park district's future cultural center site.

Also set for designation is a major park site on Nike base property at Central Road and Wilke Road.

Single change in major sites was a revision of the Surrey Ridge site to extend it west of presently owned property rather than north. The former park district proposal would have required major revision of a subdivision for which the preliminary plat was approved Monday.

The other 11 sites are to be neighborhood parks, and two of these sites were changed by the village board in the latest discussions.

A PROPOSED site in industrially planned area south of Algonquin Road near Wilke Road was changed to an area north of Algonquin near Wilke for which initial residential development proposals have been made.

The other change was in Park Manor subdivision, where a site had not originally been proposed by the park district. The village board persuaded park officials of the merits of a site, and Monday readjusted it to avoid condemnation of an existing house.

The board's hearing on site reservation was continued until Dec. 7 to allow time for formulation of legal descriptions of the changed properties.

Primary discussion in Monday's continued hearing centered around two sites proposed for industrial areas. One has been changed, but the other—in a triangle bounded by Algonquin, Golf and Arlington Heights roads—remains in the proposals.

PARK DISTRICT attorney Charles Bobinette asked that the site be reserved, just in case industrial development did not come about; but he added that sites in industrial areas would not be included in a coming land acquisition referendum.

Village Pres. John G. Woods and trustee Norval Stephens supported Bobinette's position, with the understanding that in case of industrial development the park district would relinquish all claim to the site.

But Trustee William Moore and Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson saw the site reservations as a possible cloud on the industrial land which could steer prospects away.

The discussion was not resolved, and could be the only hitch when the hearing is continued for final approval Dec. 7.

A REFERENDUM on acquisition of all of the reserved sites except those in industrial area and those portions already dedicated has been tentatively scheduled for January.

Bobinette said such a referendum would not mean that all sites would be acquired and developed as parks immediately, but that the district would at least be assured of having sites to keep pace with residential development.

Site reservations will be good for at least a year from the date of their passage, preventing subdivision of the land for other use.

At Least Temporarily

Trash Pickup at Curb Comes to End Tuesday

The great experiment begins Dec. 1 in Arlington Heights. On that day regular curbside pickup of refuse will become — at least temporarily — a thing of the past.

Instead, Laseke Disposal Co. will pick up residents' allotted two cans of refuse where they are stored or at the closest accessible point to the storage area if it is inaccessible.

The change stems from a village board decision Oct. 5 to allow a clause in present Laseke refuse contract to go into effect providing uniform service away from the curbs to all village residents.

The move was recommended by a citizens' committee appointed by Village Pres. John G. Woods to study the merits of leaving service as-is or changing it to get the cans off the curbs.

THAT recommendation was unanimous, but citizen support was not. A vocal group appeared at the Oct. 5 meeting to ask that service be left as it has been for years — offering a choice between curb-side or away-from-curb pickup.

The protesting residents objected to an increase in rates from the present $2.10 monthly charge for curb service to a $2.50 standard charge for new type. Service at the point of storage has been offered as an "extra" at $2.95 a month.

The citizens' committee and other supporting residents, on the other hand, reasoned that the uniform service would beautify the village by keeping cans off the street, would remove potential traffic safety hazards, and would prove a convenience to most residents at a reduced cost.

ACCORDING TO village Trustee Norval Stephens, tentative plans now call for a "card referendum" to determine citizen acceptance of the new pickup system sometime in the summer of 1965.

Submission of the change to a vote after a sufficient trial period was a part of the citizen committee's recommendation.

Stephens said the tentative time was selected because it would allow for experience with the pickup in "several kinds of weather." A questionnaire would probably be sent along with water bills, he added.

The only date for an actual referendum without setting up special election procedures would have been April, 1965, when village elections are held.

STEPHENS SAID the date would not have allowed enough trial time, and response on a referendum would probably have been lower than postal returns anyway.

If the new system fails to gain approval in a card vote, the Laseke Disposal Co. contract which expires at the end of 1966 would have to be renegotiated to change back to the present service system.

Renegotiation would mean that prices for service would be subject to change, or Laseke could refuse to negotiate and the uniform system of pickup would remain in force until the contract lapsed and a change could be made.

H. W. Laseke, head of the firm, said the service change coming Tuesday would involve increasing personnel and would mean more time spent in collection.

HE ADDED that the cost increase would offset the additional time and manpower, but that he hadn't really cared which way the village acted on the matter.

Under the new system, extra items above the two standard refuse cans picked up twice weekly must still be put at the curb and wrapped or placed in containers according to old standards.

Other than these items, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said there are to be no regular refuse cans at the curbs after Tuesday. He said an ordinance would perhaps have to be passed to keep them away.

Mystery Surrounds Suit Against Builder Donations

More than a bit of mystery surrounds a suit presumably filed two weeks ago which challenges the validity of an Arlington Heights requirement that developers donate 10 per cent of the land in a new subdivision for parks and schools.

Work for Official Anti-Bias Agency

A citizens committee to work for establishment of an official Human Relations Commission in Arlington Heights was formed Tuesday, Nov. 17, at a meeting in the Christian Church, 333 W. Thomas.

Plans for the committee's actions will be laid by a steering committee charged with reporting back to the full group no later than Feb. 1.

Some 60 persons attended the meeting at the invitation of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, which last year studied the feasibility of establishing a commission and has been actively backing its formation since March.

APPROVAL of formation of a citizens committee came at the end of a two-hour session in which participants heard and questioned Dr. Paul Mundy, chairman of the sociology department of Loyola University; Bill Williams, of the Illinois Human Relations Commission, and LWV members Mrs. George Sully, Mrs. H. Robert Powell, and Mrs. Russell Gardner, on the functions and local need for a Human Relations Commission.

Mrs. Gardner is president of the local league, and Mrs. Sully is chairman of the LWV committee on human relations. Mrs. Powell was chairman of the committee last year.

A human relations commission, Dr. Mundy told the group, has powers that are "consulatory and advisory." It is charged, he said, with "meeting the threat and potential danger to a community in the area of human feeling and law," in helping community residents "more generously and humanely and civilly deal with one another."

Helping a community weather the moving in of its first Negro family is far from being the only function of a village human relations commission, Dr. Mundy noted, but it is often the most dramatic.

THE ILLINOIS Human Relations Commission, Williams said, has helped "shepherd" the moves of 30 Negro families to the suburbs this year, the most recent being to Western Springs and Schaumburg.

In 28 of those communities plans to ease the tensions had been made by some group, Williams said, and the families moved in without major incident. Tension and bitterness and ill feeling were much stronger in the two "unprepared" communities, he said.

The Arlington Heights village board has rejected an initial bid by the League for establishment of an official commission.

After summer meetings, the board issued a policy statement against the communism form of human relations group, favoring a volunteer organization under the wing of the Arlington Heights Community Council.

League members at the time pledged to continue to work for establishment of a commission in spite of the board's stand,

The congregations of the Southminster Presbyterian Church and the Congregational United Church of Christ joined together this Thanksgiving eve (Wednesday) in a first united service of worship and praise.

The service took place at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Congregational church, 1001 Kirchoff Road, Arlington Heights.

The choir of the Congregational church provided music.

The sermon "On Meeting Our Obligations," was preached by the Rev. William Jones of Southminster. (A

Q. If for some reason, social or business, a family has had its name legally changed, how should friends and acquaintances be informed of this?

A. The quickest and simplest way is to mail out formal announcements: "Mr. and Mrs. John Simmonosky announce that by permission of the court they and their children have taken the family name of Simmons."

Doorbell Ringers Ready With United Fund Answers

How far does a United Fund dollar stretch and just what community service dwoes it help to buy?

This is the question answered by over 700 volunteer workers the past eight days as they rang doorbells all over Arlington Heights in the door-to-door solicitation for the village fund raising appeal, on behalf of 13 participating agencies.

To provide healthy recreation and character - building activities, for the youth, 45 cents of the dollar will go, unless specifically donated, for the Boy Scout Council of this area, the Girl Scout Council, the Campfire Girls, and the Bo-Gi club.

THE NORTHWEST suburban YMCA has turned in a request for 15 cents of that dollar to help finance service programs such as free classes for the handicapped, therapeutic convalescent services, free counseling and referral service for the "Hard to reach" youth and free memberships for underprivileged children, exchange students, and one-parent families.

Benefits are also provided for dependent golden agers, service men and women, police and clergy. Camper scholarships are available to the needy.

For the 10 cents given to the American Red Cross, the contributor pays for safety services such as instructor training for the Learn to Swim programs at local pools.

FIRST AID classes were held during the last year for almost 100 scouts, bus drivers, public service employes, high school students, ski patrol leaders, parents and interested citizens. Service to military families and nursing services are also available to residents.

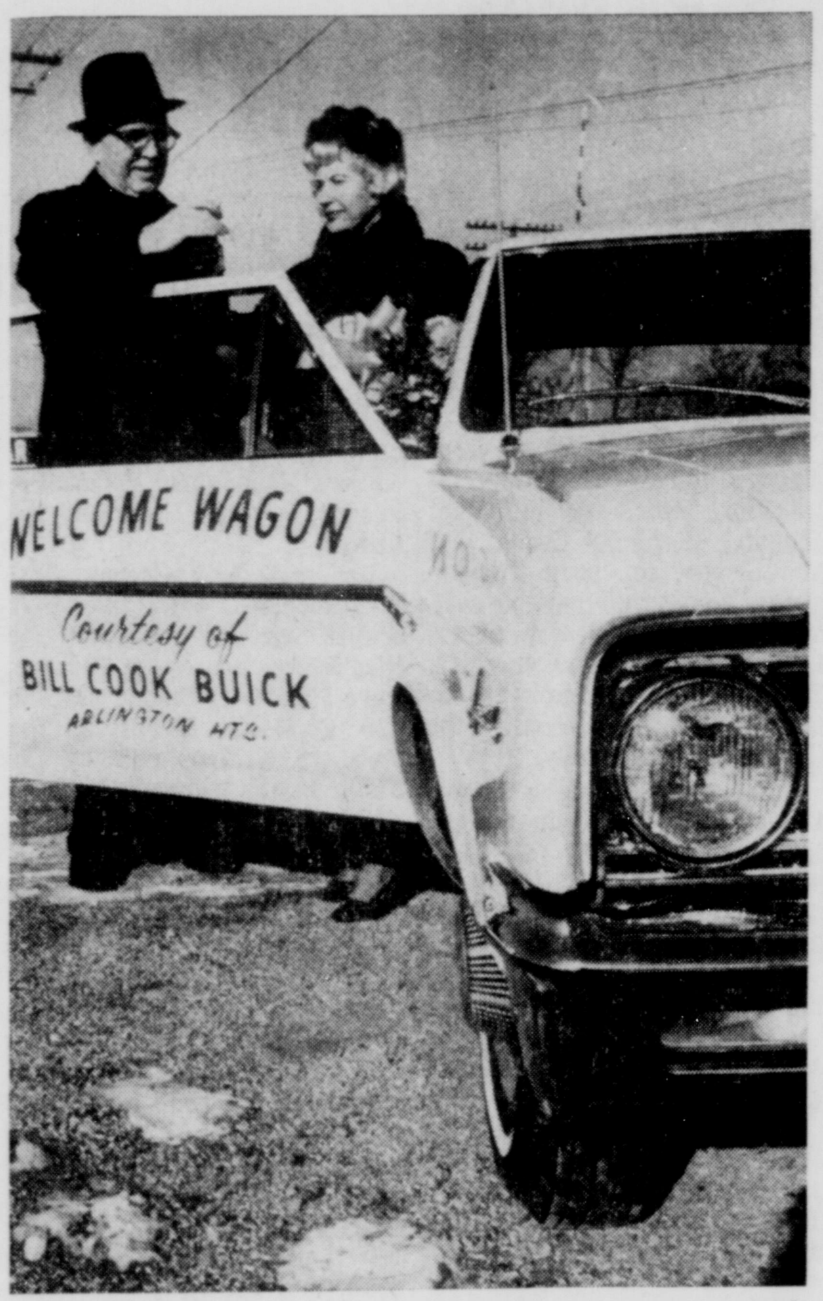
Through a recently stationed mobile emergency canteen at the Mount Prospect fire department, the Salvation Army's helping hand can be reached by the needy for a wide variety of social services.

For the disaster service, as well as any unmet welfare needs of the community, the Army asks 10 cents of the Fund dollar. A local volunteer "service unit" makes available to the distressed every Army program, from maternity care to help for the dependent golden agers.

THE CLEARBROOK School for Mentally Retarded children has requested eight cents of the dollar for aid in serving the 200 so handicapped children in the area. Another seven cents will aid in the mental health programs of the Northwest Mental Health Clinic and the Mental Health Society.

The Kidney Foundation of Illinois appealed for three cents of the dollar to help a local renal expert attend an international conference and bring back findings to the community; to help stock a film library for suburban educational use; to expand the free drug banks; to help in research projects.

And finally, a penny apiece is asked for by the Goodwill Industries and the USO to continue their work in the village of Arlington Heights. (A



THE KEYS TO A NEW Welcome Wagon car were presented Monday to Eileen Chapin, Welcome Wagon hostess, by Bill Cook, head of Bill Cook Buick in Arlington Heights. Mrs. Chapin has been a Welcome Wagon hostess for 10 years, greeting newcomers to Arlington Heights with her basket of gifts and giving them important information on the community and its facilities. "Through these years, I have welcomed people from almost all over the world and had many a rewarding experience," she said. (A

Park Manor Agreement Put on Dec. 7 Agenda

The Arlington Heights village board again delayed consideration Monday of an agreement which would serve as a basis for development of a major portion of Park Manor subdivision.

Developer George Wallach presented a revised agreement through his attorney, Tom Druth, at the last minute before Monday's special board meeting.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel, who had been negotiating with Druth on contents of the document, was unable to attend the meeting because of previous commitments in Evanston.

In addition, several trustees complained that they had not had time to review the document, and it was placed on the agenda of the next regular board meeting, Dec. 7.

Major points of contention are development standards for a large apartment project and rezoning of a commercial district for apartment use to increase the size of the project.

A village offer of rezoning in return for development of all the apartment area at present R-5 density standards was flatly refused by Wallach last week.

THE DEVELOPER is now able to develop his existing apartment property at the higher density which was allowed when the land was zoned in 1961.

But there was to be a two-year waiting period during which the commercial land would be placed on the market before it could be rezoned.

Wallach claims that two years has lapsed while special assessment improvement of the area was bogged down. The village stand is that the land is only suitable for development now that improvements are under way, and that the two-year period should start now.

Wallach's proposed apartment project would stretch from Roosevelt Avenue to Arthur Avenue and from Fairview Street to Davis Street — an area of about six square blocks in which he owns all but a few parcels of land. (A

Q. How does a mother refer to her daughter-in-law when speaking of her or introducing her to friends?

A. To casual friends, she may say, "My daughter - in - law." To good friends, she may say less formally, "Jack's wife." (A Bridge Tournament Scheduled at 'Y'

Northwest suburban duplicate bridge enthusiasts will participate in an unusual tournament tomorrow (Friday) night at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

An international charity game, featuring hands which will be played simultaneously throughout the nation, is slated for 8:15 p.m.

All proceeds of the game, held in connection with the charity game at the national tournament in Dallas, Tex., tomorrow night, will go to the American Contract Bridge League's charity program.

THE HANDS which will be played locally were mailed this week from the league headquarters and will be opened tomorrow night under Director Chester Rumpf's supervision.

Besides giving awards to local winners, the ACBL honors winners (on a percentage basis) at the regional and national level.

Following play, each participant will receive a booklet in which expert bridge players discuss the hands used in Friday's competition. While the hands are pre-dealt, they are not "fixed" to teach any particular lessons.

THE GAME IS open to the public, but Rumpf, an Arlington Heights resident and Life Master bridge player, urges players to be at the "Y" by 8:15 p.m. Late pairs may be turned away if the game has begun.

Partnerships can be arranged tomorrow night. (ACM-EG

Doorbell Ringers Ready With United Fund Answers

How far does a United Fund dollar stretch and just what community service dwoes it help to buy?

This is the question answered by over 700 volunteer workers the past eight days as they rang doorbells all over Arlington Heights in the door-to-door solicitation for the village fund raising appeal, on behalf of 13 participating agencies.

To provide healthy recreation and character - building activities, for the youth, 45 cents of the dollar will go, unless specifically donated, for the Boy Scout Council of this area, the Girl Scout Council, the Campfire Girls, and the Bo-Gi club.

THE NORTHWEST suburban YMCA has turned in a request for 15 cents of that dollar to help finance service programs such as free classes for the handicapped, therapeutic convalescent services, free counseling and referral service for the "Hard to reach" youth and free memberships for underprivileged children, exchange students, and one-parent families.

Benefits are also provided for dependent golden agers, service men and women, police and clergy. Camper scholarships are available to the needy.

For the 10 cents given to the American Red Cross, the contributor pays for safety services such as instructor training for the Learn to Swim programs at local pools.

FIRST AID classes were held during the last year for almost 100 scouts, bus drivers, public service employes, high school students, ski patrol leaders, parents and interested citizens. Service to military families and nursing services are also available to residents.

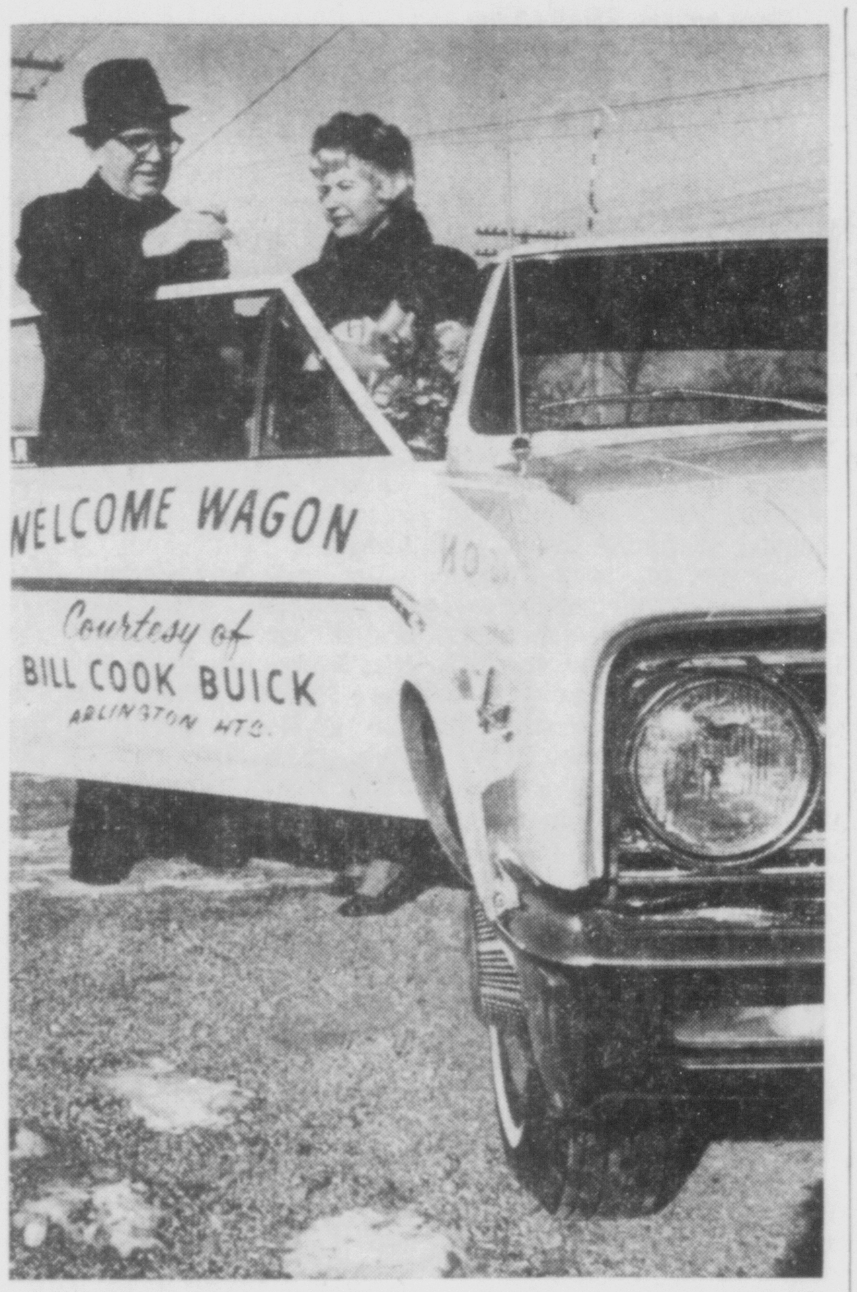
Through a recently stationed mobile emergency canteen at the Mount Prospect fire department, the Salvation Army's helping hand can be reached by the needy for a wide variety of social services.

For the disaster service, as well as any unmet welfare needs of the community, the Army asks 10 cents of the Fund dollar. A local volunteer "service unit" makes available to the distressed every Army program, from maternity care to help for the dependent golden agers.

THE CLEARBROOK School for Mentally Retarded children has requested eight cents of the dollar for aid in serving the 200 so handicapped children in the area. Another seven cents will aid in the mental health programs of the Northwest Mental Health Clinic and the Mental Health Society.

The Kidney Foundation of Illinois appealed for three cents of the dollar to help a local renal expert attend an international conference and bring back findings to the community; to help stock a film library for suburban educational use; to expand the free drug banks; to help in research projects.

And finally, a penny apiece is asked for by the Goodwill Industries and the USO to continue their work in the village of Arlington Heights. (A



THE KEYS TO A NEW Welcome Wagon car were presented Monday to Eileen Chapin, Welcome Wagon hostess, by Bill Cook, head of Bill Cook Buick in Arlington Heights. Mrs. Chapin has been a Welcome Wagon hostess for 10 years, greeting newcomers to Arlington Heights with her basket of gifts and giving them important information on the community and its facilities. "Through these years, I have welcomed people from almost all over the world and had many a rewarding experience," she said. (A

The Arlington Heights village board again delayed consideration Monday of an agreement which would serve as a basis for development of a major portion of Park Manor subdivision.

Developer George Wallach presented a revised agreement through his attorney, Tom Druth, at the last minute before Monday's special board meeting.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel, who had been negotiating with Druth on contents of the document, was unable to attend the meeting because of previous commitments in Evanston.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Thanksgiving vacation began Wednesday for some of the Terrace college students. Being their first long vacation, they eagerly looked forward to spending their free days in Arlington Heights with relatives and friends.

Arriving on Tuesday from Western Illinois University in Macomb was Marcia Cech, daughter of the Ed Cechs, 1402 N. Chicago, to spend Thanksgiving home with her parents, brothers, Davie anl Alan, sister, Linda, her grandmother, Mrs. Edward Cech of Cicero and La Grange Park friends, the George Stahnke family.

Home from Northern Illinois University in De Kalb for the four-day holiday are Ann Schmitt, 1321 N. Illinois, Jean Guderley, 1228 N. Yale, and Ken Petrucci, 1115 N. Wilke.

Ann will enjoy the day with her family and 12 relatives from the area who will gather at the Albert Schmitts' for the holiday dinner.

Ken will join his parents, the Bill Petruccis, sister, Roxanne, and Chicago relatives, the Max Ellisons, at a family gathering at home.

FIVE TERRACE couples gathered Saturday night for a farewell dinner for John and Margaret Noon, 1221 N. Chicago, who will soon move to Cleveland, Miss. Enjoying dinner at Adria's Restaurant in Lake Bluff were the Hassel Savards, William Ninnemans, Robert Petersons, Robert Rodens and the Noons.

Jim and Judy Cooney, 1237 N. Chicago, entertained at bridge Saturday night for the Karl Edwardses of the Terrace, Dave Hilgers of Skokie and the Jim Plants of Evanston. The men are all employed by the Philip Hunt Chemical Co.

Betty Kenney, 1301 N. Chicago, gave a baby shower Sunday for her sister-in-law, Bonnie Kenney of Des Plaines. Twenty relatives and friends from the area attended.

On Nov. 18, Maureen Coleman, daughter of the James Colemans, 1411 N. Clarendon, celebrated her sixth birthday at a family party. Present were her parents, sisters and brother, Colleen, Patricia, Kathleen, Margaret Mary and Michael, her grandfather, Michael Coleman, and aunt, Kathleen Coleman, both of Mount Prospect.

Dean Schafer, son of the Ken Schafers, 1231 N. Chicago, celebrated his seventh birthday on Friday evening with his parents, sister and brothers, Janae, Greg and Kevin, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gibbis of Arlington Heights.

RECENT TERRACE visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Blair from New Jersey. Mrs. Blair is the former Judy Whipple who with her family resided on Race Street until the fall of 1963. Herb and Judy stopped in De Kalb before coming to Arlington Heights as Judy attended Northern Illinois University last year. Ann Schmitt came to Arlington Heights with them. They were visitors in the Schmitt home.

Diane Peterson, 1210 N. Yale, will be enjoying two celebrations of her Nov. 19 birthday this week. On Monday, her inlaws, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Peterson of Chicago helped her celebrate. On Thanksgiving, Diane, her husband, Bob, and the children, Bobby and Kenny, will spend the day with her parents, the William Lichners of Chicago.

Friday evening guests of Al and Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive, were Jim and Gloria Ringel of Arlington Heights.

On Nov. 17, Don and Bev DeQuaker, 1325 N. Wilke, had a family party for Don's birthday. Included were Bev's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Plzak and her brothers, Rick and John, of Palatine. The DeQuaker children, Steve, Donna and Lori, were also a part of the celebration.

Margaret Mary, daughter of the James Colemans, was baptized Nov. 15 in St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church by the Rev. Francis C. Waldron. Sponsors were her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George McNichols of La Grange.

The Colemans entertained at dinner after the services for the sponsors and their son, Tommy, grandfather and aunt of Mount Prospect, her parents and her sisters and brother. (A

Arlington Greens

Thanksgiving turkeys and the Christmas dance were main order of business at the Arlington Greens Community Association meeting last week Wednesday at the Richarl Averill home on N. Hickory.

Holiday bird recipients this year are the George Olsons, Milton Walbergs, A. Kalkhoffs, Duane Yetters and the William Smits.

Before the meeting ended, final plans for the annual Christmas dance were completed. It will be Saturday, Dec. 5, at VFW Hall on Northwest Highway at 9 p.m. The Ken Jahnkes, Bill Smits, Dick Averills and the Angelo Pettenuzzos have tickets.

Men's bridge met in the A. J. Tomaso home on E. Clarendon Thursday evening. Top scorers for November were: Ed Henricks, 4390; Les Oliver, newcomer to the group replacing Pat Danna, 3950; and Jerry Kluball, 3390.

November women's bridge on the 12th was also held in the Tomaso home. Top scorers for the evening were: Joyce Hauskey, 4380; Jean Waffle, 4200, and Evelyn Jahnke, 3400. There is a vacancy in this group and ladies interested may call Mrs. Tomaso, CL 5-4102.

A SURPRISE baby shower was given for Mrs. Marge Bengal on Nov. 9 by Mrs. Marilyn Gardner. Haddow Court neighbors attending the Monday luncheon were Nancy Jenkins, Ann Kushner, Doris Pressney, Joyce Hauskey and Elizabeth Kasen. The following Monday, Mrs. Bengal hosted a luncheon in her home for the Haddow Court ladies.

Pine Court Canasta movel to Palatine for their November meeting on the 11th, hosted by Mrs. Dolly Jeskey. High scores were earned by Pine Court residents Sylvia Damiano and Lil Woehlck.

Hosting a cocktail party on the 14th, the Floyd Kingstons of N. Beverly Lane entertained their neighbors, the Don Schreiners, Jim Holtzes, Jack Parkins, George Robys, Ken Jennings and the Ken Jones of Itasca. Later that evening the couples attended a dance at the VFW.

New residents in the Greens are Walter and Marcia Schuch at 661 E. Clarendon. Former residents of Chicago's north side, they moved here in mid-October. Their children are John, 4, Elizabeth, 3, Robert, 2, and James, 4 weeks old. Mr. Schuch is employed by Motorola of Franklin Park, in the public relations department. (A

Register Now for Playschool

The Arlington Heights Park District announces the second session of Playschool will begin Dec. 8.

Mothers who do not have children enrolled at present may register their 3 to 5-year-olds at the Pioneer Park office, CL 3-0620.

Youngsters who were able to attend the first session of Playschool will be allowed enrollment on Monday, Nov. 30, pending vacancies.

THIS 10-WEEK session meets on a Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday schedule at three locations. Mrs. Francis Haynes, Mrs. Ida Mae Hamley and Demmaree Sunkel instruct the tiny tots at Hasbrook, Recreation and Pioneer Park Fieldhouses.

Mothers are expected to help one week during the session in this co-operative program. The system is set up alphabetically but may be arranged to suit the needs of the mothers.

The fee for the 10-week session is $10. (A

Re-Affirm Stand On Community Relations!

"It seems important that we, the undersigned clergy of Christian Churches in Arlington Heights, should re-affirm and re-state our understanding of the Christian Faith as it applies to social and community relations.

"We believe that God, our Father, has 'made of one blood all nations to dwell on the face of the earth,' and that in the eyes of our Creator, all men are equal whether they be Black or White, Yellow or Red, Male or Female.

"We further believe that our Lord Jesus Christ lived and died for all mankind, not for a particular race or a privileged few, and that His Holy Spirit dwells in each of us according to the proportion of our faith, not according to the color of our skin or the tongue which we speak.

"We, therefore, abhor and cannot condone any act, by any resident of our community, which has in the past or may in the future, discriminate against any person, on grounds of sex, race, creed, color, or economic stature."

Charles and Mary Vetter, 813 N. Patton, recently spent a weekend in Dayton, visiting their son, John and his family, which includes a 3-month-old grandson, Alen Montgomery. John is stationed at Wright Patterson AFB.

Mary Vetter's mother, Mrs. Mabel Montgomery arrived arrived from Glidden, Iowa, on Nov. 20 to spend a few weeks visiting her daughter.

Tom Broadfoot, son of William and Elaine Broadfoot, 936 N. Kaspar, celebrated his 13th birthday Nov. 15 with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. R. Broadfoot of Mount Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. W. Baning of River Grove, his parents and his brother and sisters, Jim, Carol Ann and Janet.

A BIRTHDAY celebration took place Nov. 15 in the C. A. Klippert home, 1003 N. Fernandez for 17-year-old Debbie. An aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Held and five girlfriends attended the evening party.

Nov. 15 there was occasion for a dual party in the home of Jon and Doris Kozokari, 916 N. Chicago. Their daughter, Leana, was 6 and Jon had received his American citizenship on Nov. 10. Guests were Boris Traikoff, Mr. and Mrs. Elieff and the Florian Woger family from Racine and Mrs. Maria Woger, who is on a visit from Yugoslavia.

Mr. Woger and Jon met on the boat when they were coming to this country and have remained close friends. He and his wife are Leana's godparents.

Terrence Platt, son of Richard and Ruth Platt, 806 N. Kennicott, had his 10th birthday party in two installments. On Nov. 11, he and four boyfriends attended a Scout sponsored spaghetti supper and on Nov. 18 they all came back to the Platt home for sodas and games. Also, his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Kisselbach, took him out for a birthday lunch.

JANET ANN, daughter of Jeanne and Lee Nelson, 935 N. Fernandez, was baptized Nov. 15 at Faith Lutheran Church. Sponsors were Mrs. Frances Johnson of Park Ridge and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy G. Nelson of Lincolnwood. Special guests at the church were the Harold Vetters. The Nelsons hosted a dinner party after the ceremony for the grandparent-sponsors and Dorothy Nelson, Janet's aunt.

Eight-year-old Carol Vetter celebrated her birthday with 12 friends in her home the afternoon of Nov. 21. Carol is the daughter of Jean and Harold Vetter, 931 N. Fernandez.

Donna, daughter of Howard and Ina Boyles, 801 N. Princeton, was 10 Nov. 19, but her party was delayed until Nov. 21, when her father returned Eleven girlfriends were present for an afternoon party and dinner in the Boyles home.

Debra Wiegel, 932 N. Kaspar, was hostess to Karen Wiegel, Sheryl Schneider, Carol Broadfoot, Rebecca Petersen, Julie Jensen, Sally Grabow and Debra Egan on Nov. 21. Debra. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wiegel Jr., was 7 Nov. 22.

Ronnie Lanzon, 814 N. Patton, accompanied Ruby Patterson, Ella May Steiner, Jean Grady, Mary Hogan and Muriel Cook to a fashion show sponsored by the Mount Prospect Junior League on Nov. 18.

FROM SHERWOOD

The house at 1105 N. Patton is longer the home of Warren and Genevieve Nelson. They moved Nov. 24 to Moraga, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Burfeind, 1130 N. Harvard, spent a recent weekend at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, to attend Dad's Day. Their son, William, is a senior majoring in psychology. Their older son, Raymond, a resident at Schaitz Memorial Hospital while doing graduate work in hospital administration, came from Waterloo, Iowa, to be with his family. They all attended the Iowa-Michigan football game. Bill is the drummer accompanist for the University of Iowa "Old Gold Singers," who were on the program at the Dad's Day luncheon.

Jackie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Miller, 1221 Clarendon, is be home from Western Illinois University in Macomb for the holiday weekend. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Thanksgiving vacation began Wednesday for some of the Terrace college students. Being their first long vacation, they eagerly looked forward to spending their free days in Arlington Heights with relatives and friends.

Arriving on Tuesday from Western Illinois University in Macomb was Marcia Cech, daughter of the Ed Cechs, 1402 N. Chicago, to spend Thanksgiving home with her parents, brothers, Davie anl Alan, sister, Linda, her grandmother, Mrs. Edward Cech of Cicero and La Grange Park friends, the George Stahnke family.

Home from Northern Illinois University in De Kalb for the four-day holiday are Ann Schmitt, 1321 N. Illinois, Jean Guderley, 1228 N. Yale, and Ken Petrucci, 1115 N. Wilke.

Ann will enjoy the day with her family and 12 relatives from the area who will gather at the Albert Schmitts' for the holiday dinner.

Ken will join his parents, the Bill Petruccis, sister, Roxanne, and Chicago relatives, the Max Ellisons, at a family gathering at home.

FIVE TERRACE couples gathered Saturday night for a farewell dinner for John and Margaret Noon, 1221 N. Chicago, who will soon move to Cleveland, Miss. Enjoying dinner at Adria's Restaurant in Lake Bluff were the Hassel Savards, William Ninnemans, Robert Petersons, Robert Rodens and the Noons.

Jim and Judy Cooney, 1237 N. Chicago, entertained at bridge Saturday night for the Karl Edwardses of the Terrace, Dave Hilgers of Skokie and the Jim Plants of Evanston. The men are all employed by the Philip Hunt Chemical Co.

Betty Kenney, 1301 N. Chicago, gave a baby shower Sunday for her sister-in-law, Bonnie Kenney of Des Plaines. Twenty relatives and friends from the area attended.

On Nov. 18, Maureen Coleman, daughter of the James Colemans, 1411 N. Clarendon, celebrated her sixth birthday at a family party. Present were her parents, sisters and brother, Colleen, Patricia, Kathleen, Margaret Mary and Michael, her grandfather, Michael Coleman, and aunt, Kathleen Coleman, both of Mount Prospect.

Dean Schafer, son of the Ken Schafers, 1231 N. Chicago, celebrated his seventh birthday on Friday evening with his parents, sister and brothers, Janae, Greg and Kevin, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gibbis of Arlington Heights.

RECENT TERRACE visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Blair from New Jersey. Mrs. Blair is the former Judy Whipple who with her family resided on Race Street until the fall of 1963. Herb and Judy stopped in De Kalb before coming to Arlington Heights as Judy attended Northern Illinois University last year. Ann Schmitt came to Arlington Heights with them. They were visitors in the Schmitt home.

Diane Peterson, 1210 N. Yale, will be enjoying two celebrations of her Nov. 19 birthday this week. On Monday, her inlaws, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Peterson of Chicago helped her celebrate. On Thanksgiving, Diane, her husband, Bob, and the children, Bobby and Kenny, will spend the day with her parents, the William Lichners of Chicago.

Friday evening guests of Al and Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive, were Jim and Gloria Ringel of Arlington Heights.

On Nov. 17, Don and Bev DeQuaker, 1325 N. Wilke, had a family party for Don's birthday. Included were Bev's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Plzak and her brothers, Rick and John, of Palatine. The DeQuaker children, Steve, Donna and Lori, were also a part of the celebration.

Margaret Mary, daughter of the James Colemans, was baptized Nov. 15 in St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church by the Rev. Francis C. Waldron. Sponsors were her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George McNichols of La Grange.

The Colemans entertained at dinner after the services for the sponsors and their son, Tommy, grandfather and aunt of Mount Prospect, her parents and her sisters and brother. (A

Arlington Greens

Thanksgiving turkeys and the Christmas dance were main order of business at the Arlington Greens Community Association meeting last week Wednesday at the Richarl Averill home on N. Hickory.

Holiday bird recipients this year are the George Olsons, Milton Walbergs, A. Kalkhoffs, Duane Yetters and the William Smits.

Before the meeting ended, final plans for the annual Christmas dance were completed. It will be Saturday, Dec. 5, at VFW Hall on Northwest Highway at 9 p.m. The Ken Jahnkes, Bill Smits, Dick Averills and the Angelo Pettenuzzos have tickets.

Men's bridge met in the A. J. Tomaso home on E. Clarendon Thursday evening. Top scorers for November were: Ed Henricks, 4390; Les Oliver, newcomer to the group replacing Pat Danna, 3950; and Jerry Kluball, 3390.

November women's bridge on the 12th was also held in the Tomaso home. Top scorers for the evening were: Joyce Hauskey, 4380; Jean Waffle, 4200, and Evelyn Jahnke, 3400. There is a vacancy in this group and ladies interested may call Mrs. Tomaso, CL 5-4102.

A SURPRISE baby shower was given for Mrs. Marge Bengal on Nov. 9 by Mrs. Marilyn Gardner. Haddow Court neighbors attending the Monday luncheon were Nancy Jenkins, Ann Kushner, Doris Pressney, Joyce Hauskey and Elizabeth Kasen. The following Monday, Mrs. Bengal hosted a luncheon in her home for the Haddow Court ladies.

Pine Court Canasta movel to Palatine for their November meeting on the 11th, hosted by Mrs. Dolly Jeskey. High scores were earned by Pine Court residents Sylvia Damiano and Lil Woehlck.

Hosting a cocktail party on the 14th, the Floyd Kingstons of N. Beverly Lane entertained their neighbors, the Don Schreiners, Jim Holtzes, Jack Parkins, George Robys, Ken Jennings and the Ken Jones of Itasca. Later that evening the couples attended a dance at the VFW.

New residents in the Greens are Walter and Marcia Schuch at 661 E. Clarendon. Former residents of Chicago's north side, they moved here in mid-October. Their children are John, 4, Elizabeth, 3, Robert, 2, and James, 4 weeks old. Mr. Schuch is employed by Motorola of Franklin Park, in the public relations department. (A

Register Now for Playschool

The Arlington Heights Park District announces the second session of Playschool will begin Dec. 8.

Mothers who do not have children enrolled at present may register their 3 to 5-year-olds at the Pioneer Park office, CL 3-0620.

Youngsters who were able to attend the first session of Playschool will be allowed enrollment on Monday, Nov. 30, pending vacancies.

THIS 10-WEEK session meets on a Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday schedule at three locations. Mrs. Francis Haynes, Mrs. Ida Mae Hamley and Demmaree Sunkel instruct the tiny tots at Hasbrook, Recreation and Pioneer Park Fieldhouses.

Mothers are expected to help one week during the session in this co-operative program. The system is set up alphabetically but may be arranged to suit the needs of the mothers.

The fee for the 10-week session is $10. (A

Schoolmen Likened To Biblical Joseph

School board members and school administrators were likened to Joseph of the Old Testament, this week.

Dr. Dean F. Berkley, director of field services for Indiana University School of Education, told delegates from Illinois school boards they were the Josephs on the Illinois scene.

Dr. Berkley was major speaker at the main banquet session at the 50th joint conference of the Illinois Association of School Boards and the Illinois Association of School Administrators Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Chicago.

Participating in the conference were school board members and school administrators from all districts in northwest Cook and north DuPage Counites.

DR. DEAN F. BERKLEY

THE SPEECH title, ". . . Who Knew Not Joseph" was taken from the Biblical reference in Exodus: "There arose in Egypt a new king who knew not Joseph." The adaptation, in the words of Dr. Berkley, is that a good product, association, idea, institution or organization must be sold all the time lest someone—"a new king"—should arise who didn't even know the Josephs on the Illinois scene made a contribution.

As Josephs, Dr. Berkley told school men, they must be willing to "care, share and dare."

ACCORDING to Dr. Berkley, they must care about:

—The concerns of the total school district and rise above vested interests of localized areas. School men must view school needs in terms of educational needs of children.

—Providing means to sustain creativity and individuality.

—The pressure to succumb to having others do our thinking and the urgent need for independent inquiry.

SCHOOL MEN should share willingly the talents, resources, energies and time of individuals. Other needs to share, Dr. Dr. Berkley said, are:

—A sense of evangelism—good news, needs, problems and concerns of schools.

—A concern for creating the climate for learning.

—A concern for communication.

—A sense of humor.

EDUCATORS AND school board members must "assume responsibility for translating some of the mumbo jumbo of educational jargon into language that makes sense to the laymen. Too many of the fuzzy ideas about education are the result of fuzzy words," Dr. Berkley added.

He stressed that a sense of humor is an "antibiotic against hate which can provide depth and stability in times of reversal. Dignity and humor are compatible and we must laugh a bit and joke a bit to balance up our reason."

THE CLIMAX of Dr. Berkley's presentation was his challenge to educators to "dare . . . to explore merits of new ideas . . . to serve . . . to assess how we best can produce the vice presidents in charge of tomorrow."

School leaders must "make wise use of inevitably fine resources rather than blind acceptance of these tools doing our job for us." (A-14

Schools Chided For Shortcomings

Most Illinois schools are saying "Let them eat cake" to students, less wealthy schools, minority groups and teachers.

In addition the state is saying "Let them eat cake" to school and property tax payers by not providing adequate state-level aid for local schools.

These were the views stated by Dean Rupert N. Evans of the University of Illinois College of Education before the 50th joint conference of the Illinois Association of School Boards and Illinois Association of School Administrators. Evans was main speaker before the two groups at the Monday general session of their three-day meet.

Evans said most school districts are saying of half of their students "Let them eat cake" just as Marie Antoinette used the phrase 150 years ago during the French Revolution.

WORST offenders, in Evans' view, are schools with inadequate breadth of programs. He charged some schools in Illinois offer absolutely no choice of programs if a student graduates with more than 18 units, as do most Illinois high school graduates.

At least as bad, and sometimes worse, Evans said, are schools that force teachers to teach classes for which they are not adequately prepared.

School boards who offer no solution to problems of de facto segregation say of minority groups, "Let them eat cake," Evans charged.

A few wealthy districts say the same thing of poorer districts in Illinois, he said.

Evans stressed that educators wished they had "cake" for all groups, but until this was possible, schoolmen "had better be realistic and recognize that bread comes before cake."

Modern Etiquette

Q. When writing a note to decline an invitation, should one make it formal?

A. This depends altogether upon the nature of the invitation itself. If it has been written formally, that is, in the third person, then your reply must be written in the same style. If the invitation is written informally, you reply in the same vein.

DR. DEAN F. BERKLEY

THE SPEECH title, ". . . Who Knew Not Joseph" was taken from the Biblical reference in Exodus: "There arose in Egypt a new king who knew not Joseph." The adaptation, in the words of Dr. Berkley, is that a good product, association, idea, institution or organization must be sold all the time lest someone—"a new king"—should arise who didn't even know the Josephs on the Illinois scene made a contribution.

As Josephs, Dr. Berkley told school men, they must be willing to "care, share and dare."

ACCORDING to Dr. Berkley, they must care about:

—The concerns of the total school district and rise above vested interests of localized areas. School men must view school needs in terms of educational needs of children.

—Providing means to sustain creativity and individuality.

—The pressure to succumb to having others do our thinking and the urgent need for independent inquiry.

SCHOOL MEN should share willingly the talents, resources, energies and time of individuals. Other needs to share, Dr. Dr. Berkley said, are:

—A sense of evangelism—good news, needs, problems and concerns of schools.

—A concern for creating the climate for learning.

—A concern for communication.

—A sense of humor.

EDUCATORS AND school board members must "assume responsibility for translating some of the mumbo jumbo of educational jargon into language that makes sense to the laymen. Too many of the fuzzy ideas about education are the result of fuzzy words," Dr. Berkley added.

He stressed that a sense of humor is an "antibiotic against hate which can provide depth and stability in times of reversal. Dignity and humor are compatible and we must laugh a bit and joke a bit to balance up cur reason."

THE CLIMAX of Dr. Berkley's presentation was his challenge to educators to "dare . . . to explore merits of new ideas . . . to serve . . . to assess how we best can produce the vice presidents in charge of tomorrow."

School leaders must "make wise use of inevitably fine resources rather than blind acceptance of these tools doing our job for us." (A-14

Schools Chided For Shortcomings

Most Illinois schools are saying "Let them eat cake" to students, less wealthy schools, minority groups and teachers.

In addition the state is saying "Let them eat cake" to school and property tax payers by not providing adequate state-level aid for local schools.

These were the views stated by Dean Rupert N. Evans of the University of Illinois College of Education before the 50th joint conference of the Illinois Association of School Boards and Illinois Association of School Administrators. Evans was main speaker before the two groups at the Monday general session of their three-day meet.

Evans said most school districts are saying of half of their students "Let them eat cake" just as Marie Antoinette used the phrase 150 years ago during the French Revolution.

WORST offenders, in Evans' view, are schools with inadequate breadth of programs. He charged some schools in Illinois offer absolutely no choice of programs if a student graduates with more than 18 units, as do most Illinois high school graduates.

At least as bad, and sometimes worse, Evans said, are schools that force teachers to teach classes for which they are not adequately prepared.

School boards who offer no solution to problems of de facto segregation say of minority groups, "Let them eat cake," Evans charged.

A few wealthy districts say the same thing of poorer districts in Illinois, he said.

Evans stressed that educators wished they had "cake" for all groups, but until this was possible, schoolmen "had better be realistic and recognize that bread comes before cake."

Q. When writing a note to decline an invitation, should one make it formal?

A. This depends altogether upon the nature of the invitation itself. If it has been written formally, that is, in the third person, then your reply must be written in the same style. If the invitation is written informally, you reply in the same vein.

Pupils Celebrate Thanksgiving With Projects

Learn Traditions In Stories, Crafts

Thanksgiving arrived a week early in Kensington School, Arlington Heights. Each grade level took time to learn, through participation, of the traditions of this national holiday.

First and second grades heard stories of the Pilgrim fathers and made up their own Thanksgiving stories as reading projects.

The social studies area focused on farm life, with turkeys playing an important role. Art work of paint and clay portrays Pilgrims and Indians; one class of six-year-olds created a life-sized turkey, using a student desk as the base.

KINDERGARTEN children made a tepee they could walk in and out of as they re-enacted the first Thanksgiving. Their songs have been accompanied by the authentic beat of tom-toms.

In the middle grades, children reported on such books as "The Landing of the Pilgrims," "The Thanksgiving Story" and "Pilgrim Thanksgiving." These reports, in turn, were used to motivate individual pupils to write original stories, some of which have been dramatized.

Artistic murals, the result of group efforts, were hung in the school corridor to be shared with others.

FIFTH GRADE classes wrote and produced their own plays on the first Thanksgiving. These productions were tied to the social studies course, which includes the historical period from the landing of the pilgrims to the expansion of the country westward.

According to Mrs. Kathryn McElroy, principal of Kensington, the Thanksgiving season continues to present an excellent opportunity for teaching the American heritage of freedom and tolerance. (A

Jack and Ginger Addis and their children, Jeffrey and Julie 1721 N. Patton Ave., are new residents from Indianapolis. They were transferred here by Bridgeport Brass Co., for which Jack is a salesman.

Jack and Ginger will have as guests for Thanksgiving weekend Jim and Donna Perin. Jim came to visit earlier, while on business, and will return today; meeting him will be his wife, Donna, from their home in Palm Bay, Fla.

On Nov. 15, George and Marilyn Ward, 1536 N. Kaspar, celebrated their anniversary by going out to dinner, while their sister-in-law, Jan Weaver of Hasbrook, took care of the children.

A welcome is extended to Walter and Carolyn Kretschmer and their son, John, 8, of 1726 N. Pat on Ave., who came from Forest Park. Walter is with Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America.

Robert and Sara Kohn and son, Andy, 2, are new residents at 1801 N. Patton Ave.. They were transferred from El Paso with E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., Inc.

HEATHER MORGAN, 1805 N. Kennicott Ave., gave a baby shower for Nancy Gibson. Guests were Sue Schultz, Betty Smith, Jean Conroy, Mary Beth Hogan, Freda Freddy, Betty Ohl, Carol Burkhart, Connie Nelson, Jan Budinger and Elaine Tappan.

The John R. Hogans, William F. Conroys and the Daniel E. Budingers went to Madison, Wis., over the weekend to visit former neighbors, the George Beltzs, who lived at 1840 N. Kaspar.

Arlene Schlexer, 1518 N. Walnut, was kept busy last week at Randhurst, distributing Diabetes test kits.

Bob and Jan Weaver, 1730 N. Ridge, attended Bob's reunion from Queen of All Saints School on Friday.

Lowell and Pat Lachelt had Mrs. Stevenson, Pat's mother here from Pennsylvania to help with and visit her new granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kelly served a Mexican dinner to three couples on Nov. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire, 803 Lynwood, entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Grant and Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley for dinner on Nov. 14.

A welcome back is extended to Jack and Pearl Warner, who moved out of state and are now back in Hasbrook. (A

Church Members Lend Hand at Farm

The second phase of the Congregational United Church of Christ's work aid project for Pleasant Valley Farm, Chicago City Missionary Society farm near Woodstock, was carried out Saturday, Nov. 21.

Members of the Congregational church drove to Pleasant Valley through the snow and spent the day working on library and stock barn projects.

A month ago, in warmer weather, 40 members of the local congregation made the trip to Pleasant Valley Farm. They brought boxes of books and toys for the farm's many inner-city visitors and stayed to organize the library, put up shelves to hold the books, and saw logs to be used for firewood at the farm this winter.

LUNCH WAS shared with some of the many Chicago inner-city families who visit the Chicago City Missionary Society Farm. In the summer tenement-dwelling youngsters attend camp at the farm, and during the rest of the year it is the scene of weekend family camping.

Often it is the only time the youngsters and their parents have a chance to "get back to nature." Many of the city kids who visit there have never ridden a horse or led a cow before.

The Pleasant Valley Farm work project was organized by the Congregational church's social action committee, headed by Kim Brown. Work project chairman was Morris Fonda. Assisting with the book and toy collection project was the Women's Fellowship, whose president is Mrs. Robert Staley.

Modern Etiquette

Q. When a guest at a large wedding reception is preparing to leave, should he seek out the principals of the wedding party in order to say good-bye and thank you?

A. At a large reception, this is not necessary.

Q. Is it proper to phone one's acknowledgment of a gift?

A. This is, of course, better than no acknowledgment at all. But still, a nice, personally written note of thanks seems to convey more interest and more sincere appreciation of the gift.

Q. Is it necessary for a host and hostess to accompany departing guests to their cars?

A. Not unless they really wish to do so. Otherwise, it is all right for them to speak their goodbyes at their door and then remain there until their guests are well on their way to their cars.

The board of education of High School District 214 will hold its second November meeting at the school district administration center, 799 Kensington (Foundry) Road, Mount Prospect.

The district operates Wheeling, Arlington, Prospect and Forest View High Schools.

Highlight of the agenda will be a presentation of science department spokesmen on the present science study format, the potential changes in curricula and the needs of the department.

Among the topics included on the meeting agenda are swimming pools for all district schools, football facilities at all schools and teachers' salaries for the 1965-66 school year. (A

Modern Etiquette

Q. When a guest at a large wedding reception is preparing to leave, should he seek out the principals of the wedding party in order to say good-bye and thank you?

A. At a large reception, this is not necessary.

Q. Is it proper to phone one's acknowledgment of a gift?

A. This is, of course, better than no acknowledgment at all. But still, a nice, personally written note of thanks seems to convey more interest and more sincere appreciation of the gift.

Q. Is it necessary for a host and hostess to accompany departing guests to their cars?

A. Not unless they really wish to do so. Otherwise, it is all right for them to speak their goodbyes at their door and then remain there until their guests are well on their way to their cars.

High-Rise Boundary Line Still Uncertain

Approval of boundaries for Arlington Heights' new B-5 high rise commercial zoning classification still hangs in the balance this week.

Two village trustees whose absence caused a split vote without solution when the central business district map came up Nov. 16 are still pondering their duty.

As the split stands, if either one of the two—Carl Mees and John White—vote in favor of the proposed map when it is brought up again at the next regular meeting, it will pass.

Center of controversy is a one-block hump on otherwise rectangular boundaries. The block, bounded by Eastman, Highland, St. James and Vail, includes property for which the only concrete high-rise, apartment-mommercial development proposal has been made.

"I am still reviewing," Mees said Monday. "I have looked at part of the area again, but not all of it—and I'm not of a firm opinion yet."

White had a similar reaction when quizzed on his coming vote. "I want to go back and take a look at where the 330-foot ring falls," he said.

A major consideration in negative votes on the map by trustees Norval Stephens and Bud Beacham had been the extension of a high-rise apartment zone in a ring 330 feet wide around the B-5 boundaries.

Stephens expressed a desire to remove the one-block lump, while Beacham wanted to go one step further and also remove a block between Campbell and Sigwalt, Vail and Highland, from the boundaries.

Both insisted the areas they wanted removed were not in keeping with the nature of the village's business core.

Other general boundaries of the district are State Road on the east, Sigwalt Street on the south, Highland Avenue and its extension on the west, and Eastman Street on the north..

Wrapping Up . . .

When it's time to wrap up her Christmas, consider gifts of robes and dusters.

The fashion selection to surprise her Yuletide ranges from elegant hostess gowns for at-home entertaining to robes and dusters for at-home relaxing.

Some hostess robes are so elegant they could almost double for formal evening gowns.

Variation Sought to Store Vans

The Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals will hear a petition Dec. 14 for a zoning variation to allow storage of moving vans and household goods on the east side of Dunton Avenue, north of Sigwalt Street.

The property, owned by auto dealer Nicholas M. Lattof, is presently devoted to that use—one which is not allowed under B-2 commercial zoning regulations.

A lease for the site was concluded with a moving company before zoning restrictions were investigated, and a variation would bring the operation back within legal bounds.

Hearing is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. in the municipal building.

Caucus to Hold Meeting Monday

General organizational meeting of the Arlington Heights Caucus will kick off the 1965 season of local political activity at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 30, in the Miner Junior High School cafeteria.

Both officers and a candidate recommendation committee will be picked at the meeting by citizens interested in construction of a slate for April, 1965, municipal elections.

Posts open in the election are four village trustees, village president, and village clerk.

Greenbrier Homeowners Oppose Apartment Plan

One request for apartment zoning at the north end of Greenbrier subdivision met stiff resident opposition last week before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, while a similar request for adjacent property warranted little objection.

The two parcels — each about a half acre — would join with yet another parcel of land zoned for apartments and owned by the same developer, Miller Builders.

Objections came from the Greenbrier Homeowners' Association on a parcel which fronts on Alleghany Drive just west of its intersection with Kennicott Avenue.

The plot is bordered on the west by a single-family home still owned by Miller Builders, on the north by the proposed apartment parcel which was recommended for annexation and R-5 zoning by the Plan Commission, and on the east by the presently zoned apartment section.

ACROSS Alleghany Drive are Greenbrier homes which brought on the objections.

The homeowners' case was presented by association president John Gebo, with support of about a dozen other residents.

Faced with the objections, Miller representative Fred Wilkins asked that the contested zoning proposal be continued to Dec. 2, and that a recommendation passed June 2 on the other parcel be delayed in its presentation to the village board until the other is settled.

Wilkins said he would meet with the homeowners before that time in an attempt to iron out differences on the proposed zoning.

IF ZONING of both parcels were granted, there would be 1.8 acres of land zoned for apartments at the northwest corner of Alleghany and Kennicott. Another 2.8 acres is already zoned across Kennicott.

Both of the parcels presently zoned for apartments adjoin commercially zoned land fronting on Rand Road, and were designed in the original Greenbrier subdivision plan to act as a buffer between commercial and single-family residential uses.

Trip-Tips

In the travel business there is such a repast as the "familiarization trip." Its purpose is to acquaint agents with services offered by a certain area as respects their clients.

Wayne Griffin

I'm just back from one sponsored by Delta Airlines to the St. Petersburg-Tampa-Clearwater area of Florida's west coast.

We fly non-stop on Delta's DC-8 jet. Luncheon is a selection of steak or lobster. I chose lobster and it was delicious. Then, Tampa airport where Hertz cars quickly whisk us to Clearwater and the Jack Tar Harrison Hotel to see the new pool and its cabana area. Real nice! Then to the Lagoon Hotel, (very modern) and on to the famous Tides Hotel on Redington Beach. All this, since leaving Chicago at 12:15 noon, Friday.

Saturday early we continue south along the beautiful coastline to the Gulf Winds Apartment Hotel for an inspection of their new and elegant offerings and from there to the 3 million dollar aquarium to watch the fishes watch us. Colonial Inn, with its many efficiency apartments, offers lunch on the beach. Next to the Coral Reef Hotel (brand new and oceanside), thence to the downtown Toffenetti Hotel and on to Sunken Gardens. Yes, bananas do grow upside down. We reach the Outrigger Hotel on Tampa Bay in time for a quick dip before dinner. It's now Saturday night.

After Sunday breakfast we move to a new spot called Causeway Inn. Temperature is 85 and the sun is high above. Lunch (turkey with trimmings) is hurried as we must Hertz to the airport for the return flight. An 880 jet this time and no sooner are we airborne than we are offered a "snack." Being of strong character (also full of turkey) I decline the snack.

We're at O'Hare on time, smooth landing, a suitcase full of folders and a fond memory of Florida's west coast. Rates are surprisingly low — and for a vacation for the family we have some great ideas.

Call us at CL 5-7010, or drop in at Wayne Griffin Travel, 104 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

Note in Pocket Leads to Overseas Friendship

Mother in Turkey Writes Her Thanks

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

An Arlington Heights woman borrowed a tradition of the sea.

Instead of putting a message in a bottle and tossing it out to sea, she tucked a note in a pocket of pants given to a charity clothes drive.

Mrs. Lowell Villars of 405 S. Walnut St. had forgotten her action of a year earlier when she received a letter from Istanbul, Turkey. A mother of three children was thanking "Lady Florence Villars" for her clothing and calling it "God's blessings."

She had found Mrs. Villars' note saying she hoped the receiver would enjoy the use of the slacks as much as she enjoyed sending them.

Filamen Palauogh wrote Mrs. Villars that her husband's work had been going badly and the family was in debt. "Your help has helped to save a family of eight from catastrophe," she said.

A friendship and correspondence began between the two women. Mrs. Villars consulted the Turkish embassy and asked if she could send the family clothes. The embassy advised that a draft would be better. Mrs. Villars found that a $10 check would amount to about $100 when converted to lira.

SINCE she sent the initial check, Mrs. Villars has sent the family money at Christmas and at the start of the school year.

"She never asked for help," declares Mrs. Villars. But the money from this suburban family has helped to pay bills and buy their children clothes.

The Turkish woman wrote her husband had his own tailor shop that was not doing well and unrest in the country did not help business. She helped supplement the family income with dressmaking. She and her husband had three children, 16, 13, and 9 years old as well as two aunts and a mother-in-law to support.

After finding out that Mrs. Palauogh did dressmaking, Mrs. Villars asked if she would make her a dress for which she would pay. She sent her measurements and decided on silk material and a shift design.

MRS. VILLARS now has a handmade party dress in a red, green, and white silk design with detail in slits in the skirt. Mrs. Palauogh has not told her how much she owes, Mrs. Villars said. But when she finds out, she also plans to suggest she might be interested in making dresses for some friends, earning money in this way.

The Turkish are very fashion conscious, according to Mrs. Palauogh.

The two women have exchanged information about their countries and way of life. Mrs. Palauogh invited Mrs. Villars and her daughter to visit them this summer in their suburban home by the sea. Mrs. Villars had to explain that her family was just a typical middle class family for whom such a trip would be too expensive.

Weather in Istanbul is similar to that in Arlington Heights, Mrs. Villars has found. However, Istanbul has had problems with earthquakes.

She also learned that clothes are handmade. The Turkish do not have frozen or canned food. Most people do not have television.

Mrs. Villars is now receiving her friend's letters written in English. Knowing the difficulty in translating the first Turkish letter, Mrs. Palauogh asks a friend to write the letters in English; as a result she is learning some English. For her part Mrs. Villars has taken up her rusty typing skills to make more legible letters.

THE VILLARS' daughter, Maria, tried out her French by writing to the family who can read French.

One international friendship of this type is enough for Mrs. Villars who does not plan to stick any more notes in the pants pockets when she gives to Our Lady of the Wayside's clothing drive in the next week.

She takes pride that the $21 million in clothing collected yearly in Catholic parishes goes overseas to deserving people.

Local VFW Pushes Script Competition

The week of Nov. 30 to Dec. 4 has been declared as Voice of Democracy Week by the chairman of the Voice of Democracy contest sponsored in this area by VFW Post 981.

The annual script writing contest of the VFW is open to students in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

Theme for this year's contest is "The Challenge of Citizenship." Local judging will be held at the VFW clubhouse, 811 N. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights Dec. 15.

WINNERS of the state contests will be entered in the national competition at Kansas City, Mo., and the national winners will be announced at the annual VFW Congressional banquet in Washington, D. C.

Rules are available from high school principals.

Chapel Choir For Youngsters Set at Grace

Dan Bergsma, chairman of the music and worship committee of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Euclid and Wolf Roads, reports a Chapel Choir was formed for children of the congregation of second through eighth grades.

Harold A. Klumpp, music director at Grace and a junior high school music instructor, is directing this group. Fifteen youngsters enrolled at the first rehearsal.

The choir will rehearse every Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. at the church.

Bleak or Sunny, It'll Be a Day for Thanks-giving

What a day to write a Thanksgiving column — it's cold and bleak outside — birds in a leafless bush seem indignant at the sudden change in weather — a neighbor's dog finds the ground a cold offense to his pampered feet. But a 3-year-old comes bouncing outside, laughing aloud with the first-snow joy of the very young. Dog forgets his cold feet and runs with Whee-I'm-Three — birds sing their discovery of the grain put out for them — the sun comes out. It's a thanks-giving kind of day after all!

Twenty-five years ago Nov. 23 was the Thanksgiving Day wedding date of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hansen, 15 W. Orchard. This year they hardly celebrated Nov. 23 at all, mainly because there were three celebrations of their silver wedding anniversary last week. By Monday the 23rd, they had been wined, dined, gifted and congratulated by almost everyone they knew.

Friday evening they were the happy victims of a surprise dinner party given by a neighborhood bridge group in the home of the Ed Tierneys, 315 W. Park. A gift from their multiple cohosts was a decorative bowl, the companion piece to a pair of candlesticks that was given them at a party a week ago Monday night. The Robert Paddocks, 502 S. Ridge, entertained the Hansens for the "candlestick" occasion to begin the festive week, and long-time Chicago friends climaxed the marathon celebrating Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dahl were hosts Saturday night when the anniversary couple received the best wishes of friends they've known since their Mr. and Mrs. day 25 years ago. A silvered money tree was the table centerpiece, and happy remember-when reminiscing was the conversation centerpiece.

SHARING most of the anniversary excitement was Mrs. Hansen's mother, Mrs. P. H. Schwemler of Los Altos, Calif., who Saturday ended a 5-week visit in her daughter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wembling of St. Louis enjoyed a pre-holiday weekend visit with Mrs. Wembling's brother and sister-in-law, the Carl Bomanzes, 709 S. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Musser 28 S. State Road, returned early last week from a warm and wonderful visit in Chattanooga with Mrs. Musser's parents, the A. J. Hitchcocks. They began their vacationing with a weekend in East Lansing, Mich., with their daughter and son-in-law, the John Kents, and son Philip; 'Way back then it was still summery, Chattanooga was even more weather-delightful and nobody gave winter a thought. Until early last week.

At this writing, out-of-town holiday visits are still in the hands of the weather man and all reports of guests arriving here are in the we-hopeful stage. The Mussers, among many others, are hoping for the arrival today of collegian children; theirs are recently-visited daughter, Molly, and her husband, John Kent and Philip, all students at Michigan State University.

Another home-for-Thanksgiving coed will be Pat McCormick, who arrived yesterday at 844 S. Vail for the holiday week. Pat attends Marquette University in Milwaukee.

MICHAEL KEPHART was 13 years old Sunday and chose a dinner-out celebration with the rest of the family at 801 S. Evergreen. He received early birthday best wishes from big brother, Mirrell, a weekend ago when the family visited Mirrell at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. They were accompanied by Miss Pat Cronin, who was escorted to weekend campus activities by Iowa U student Tom Benson, also of Arlington Heights. En route Iowa City the caravan stopped at DeKalb University to add another local collegian, Miss Sue Whibbs, to the Iowa-bound party.

The Edward Jacobs, 514 S. Ridge, were part of the Parent's Day weekend festivities at Western Illinois University in Macomb where they were hosted and toasted by their freshman daughter, Linda.

Homecoming, an exciting football game and the organizing of a parents' association were all part of a recent weekend at Buena Vista College in Storm Lake, Iowa, where John Box is a freshman student. Joining him for the traditional festivities and representing their Dad who couldn't be with them were John's brother and sister-in-law, the junior W. Lorne Boxes of Elk Grove Village, and their just-married sister and her husband, the John Nelsons of Mount Prospect.

MRS. ARTHUR Langerock and her mother, Mrs. Agnes Day, both of 414 N. Haddow, recently returned from a 10-day visit with relatives in California. Occasioning the trip was the illness of their brother and son, Glen Pike, whom they hospital-visited daily while staying in the Oakland home of another brother-son, Edwin Pike.

Mrs. Langerock also visited with her foster sister and family, the Shell Oppenheims in Whittier. Eleven years have gone by since they last saw each other, and a brand-new grandson in the Oppenheim family added further joy to the reunion.

Abe Lincoln and most of Illinois were guests Saturday night in the Robert Katovich home immediately after last curtain of the Arlington High School play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." The cast and crew with their adult advisors and directors numbered 115, and everyone came to the traditional play's-over-let's-relax party.

It was the second time around for Mr. and Mrs. Katovich, who hosted an after-the-play party last year when their daughter, Sue, starred in a school production; this year it was Kathy, a junior. Mrs. Katovich says there's another thespian at 728 N. Dunton who'll start high school next year and "we have a mighty big basement."

IT WAS in the spacious basement that Abe and friends relaxed Saturday night with tension-easing games, dancing, chatter and of course, food. There was a punch bowl, necessarily bottomless, to refresh the crowd throughout the party. Mr. and Mrs. Katovich know by now the necessary ingredients for a successful post-play party; they know, too, that high school play-ers make excellent guests.

In this they echoed their own sentiments of a year ago and the sentiments of all other local parent-hosts: the kids were courteous, considerate and most grateful for the chance to unwind after weeks of hectic preparation and three nights of footlight jitters.

Marguerite Dalton came home to 522 S. Dunton Tuesday night from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo to celebrate the holiday and spend the rest of the week with the family. At this writing, this is another we-hope item - Monday morning there was still six inches of snow in Kalamazoo and the weather man's prediction was full of "probables" and "ifs."

The weather was no deterrent to Claudia Hansen, Tulsa University freshman, home for the holiday week with the rest of the family at 1517 W. Fremont. Her brother, Jim, a pre-med student at Northwestern University arrives tonight for the family-all-together session.

MISS JULIE Housenecht, 510 Mayfair, was hostess at a surprise personal bridal shower Thursday for Miss Marion Sinclair, daughter of the Chester Sinclairs of Scarsdale, who will be married Nov. 28 to John Liebenow of Mount Prospect in South Church Community Baptist of Mount Prospect. Miss Housenecht will be maid of honor in the wedding party.

Miss Grace Beckway, daughter of the Leslie V. Beckways, 421 Bristol, was feted at two large receptions and bridal showers. The first was given by her aunt, Mrs. Robert Munsell of Edison Park, and the second by Miss Judy August, sister of the groom, shortly before her marriage Nov. 7, to Jerome Martin August, son of the senior Augusts of Oak Lawn.

The wedding took place in Our Lady of the Wayside Church at a nuptial mass at high noon, and was followed by a reception and luncheon for 130 guests at Itasca Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson, 415 E. Grove, recently took their three children, Neil, Cindy and Sherry, to Birmingham, Mich., where they lived before moving to Scarsdale, to visit former neighbors, the Peter Kitzens. They joined other neighbors and friends and attended the annual Birmingham dinner dance.

The John O'Berrys are busy getting settled in their new home in Scarsdale Estates. The O'Berrys, who formerly lived on S. Mitchell, moved to 741 Burton Nov. 3.

THE LOUIS Neckars, 516 E. Mayfair, entertained at a dinner party Saturday for 15 guests, which included staff managers of the Jefferson Park District of Prudential Insurance Co. and their wives.

The junior Edward O. McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons, will give an open house Nov. 29 for the latter's mother, Mrs. George W. Fraley, who is visiting here from St. Augustine, Fla., for two weeks. She will then leave for Bainbridge Island, Wash., to visit another daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Tom Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, .217 S. Windsor, went to Madison, Wis., over the weekend with the Louis Fishers of Inverness to attend the Wisconsin - Minnesota football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunlop, 1115 Mayfair, spent the weekend at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel, attending the Mid - western Society of American Travel Writers Convention. The convention began with a tour of Chicago, which was followed by a luncheon with European Travel Commissioners who are visiting here. Following an afternoon of business meetings, guests were served a dinner which featured wild turkey, sent in from the south from fellow writer-sportsmen. A festive champagne breakfast Sunday concluded the convention.

BOTH Scarsdale and Stonegate families are busy preparing for Thanksgiving and the out-of-town guests who have been arriving to spend the holidays here.

The Melvin Coobs, 401 S. Carlyle, will have his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs of Klemme, Iowa, and her brother and his family, the George Wamsleys of Elmhurst, for Thanksgiving dinner.

The Kenneth Auers, 202 S. Stratford, will have a large family gathering for Thanksgiving. Their daughter, Carol, will come home from Colorado State University and other guests will include Mrs. Auer's parents, the Herbert Fleischhauers of Chicago, her aunt and uncle, the C. Clarks of Barrington and Mr. Auer's aunt, Mrs. Martha Frederick of Chicago, who will stay on for a visit.

The David Kussows, and their young son, Kevin, arrived in Arlington Heights Saturday to spend the week with his parents, the Larry Kussows, 815 Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strathearn, 720 Bristol, will be hosts at Thanksgiving dinner for both their mothers, Mrs. Arthur Brown of Brookfield, Wis., and Mrs. Harry Pearce of Milwaukee. Adding sparkle to the holiday will be the Strathearns' daughter, Julie, who will be home from DePauw University.

Mrs. Dorothy Thornton and her daughter, Janet, will arrive in Arlington Heights Wednesday from Cincinnati, for a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Peter McQuillon, 760 S. Belmont.

The R. H. Martindells, 515 S. State, will have as their guest for Thanksgiving, the latter's mother, Mrs. L. I. Phillips, who arrived early this week from St. Paul and will stay through Sunday. The Martindells will attend the Green Bay Packer game the following Saturday with friends from Green Bay, the Dick Lefebres.

THE C. T. Dewars of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive in Arlington Heights Thursday to stay through the weekend with their daughter and family, the A. Bernie Woods, 721 E. Davis.

Sharing Thanksgiving Day with the John Gilberts, 407 E. Rockwell, will be friends from Kankakee, the Owen Moes and their two children, and the A. E. Winkles of Sycamore, and their three children.

The John Eakins of Minneapolis and their three children arrived in Arlington Heights Tuesday for a holiday visit with Mrs. Eakin's parents, the William G. Frankes, 126 S. Pine. For Thanksgiving dinner, the Frankes will also have as their guests, members of Mr. Franke's family, including his sister and brother-in-law, the E. P. O'Malleys of Chicago, and their daughter, Judy, and his brother and family, the Charles Frankes of Elk Grove and their three children, Jill, Jeff and Cathy.

The E. H. Cushings, 633 Bristol, as all parents with sons and daughters away at college, look forward to the forthcoming holiday they will share with their children. Their daughter, Marcey, is among many Arlington Heights studests attending Monmouth College, who will arrive home Wednesday.

SANTA'S WORKSHOP would probably look something like this scene on the Arlington Heights Over 50 Club's Production line for ceramic Santa Claus mugs which will be used for a Christmas party at which the local group will entertain the Norwood Park senior citizens' organization. Now-buy a new electric dryer and save up to $60

You'll get the $20 to $40 savings you normally expect when you buy a flameless electric dryer instead of gas—plus a special $20 cash discount from Commonwealth Edison. And once you buy a new flameless electric dryer, you'll find the savings don't end with the purchase price. Because there are few moving parts, electric dryers are more economical to maintain. With no pilot light, they cost nothing when not in use. An average family can dry the modern electric way for only $1.25 a month.* What's more, because there are no fumes, flames or products of combustion, things keep fresh and new looking longer—you'll save money on your clothes.

Bleak or Sunny, It'll Be a Day for Thanks-giving

What a day to write a Thanksgiving column — it's cold and bleak outside — birds in a leafless bush seem indignant at the sudden change in weather — a neighbor's dog finds the ground a cold offense to his pampered feet. But a 3-year-old comes bouncing outside, laughing aloud with the first-snow joy of the very young. Dog forgets his cold feet and runs with Whee-I'm-Three — birds sing their discovery of the grain put out for them — the sun comes out. It's a thanks-giving kind of day after all!

Twenty-five years ago Nov. 23 was the Thanksgiving Day wedding date of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hansen, 15 W. Orchard. This year they hardly celebrated Nov. 23 at all, mainly because there were three celebrations of their silver wedding anniversary last week. By Monday the 23rd, they had been wined, dined, gifted and congratulated by almost everyone they knew.

Friday evening they were the happy victims of a surprise dinner party given by a neighborhood bridge group in the home of the Ed Tierneys, 315 W. Park. A gift from their multiple cohosts was a decorative bowl, the companion piece to a pair of candlesticks that was given them at a party a week ago Monday night. The Robert Paddocks, 502 S. Ridge, entertained the Hansens for the "candlestick" occasion to begin the festive week, and long-time Chicago friends climaxed the marathon celebrating Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dahl were hosts Saturday night when the anniversary couple received the best wishes of friends they've known since their Mr. and Mrs. day 25 years ago. A silvered money tree was the table centerpiece, and happy remember-when reminiscing was the conversation centerpiece.

SHARING most of the anniversary excitement was Mrs. Hansen's mother, Mrs. P. H. Schwemler of Los Altos, Calif., who Saturday ended a 5-week visit in her daughter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wembling of St. Louis enjoyed a pre-holiday weekend visit with Mrs. Wembling's brother and sister-in-law, the Carl Bomanzes, 709 S. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Musser 28 S. State Road, returned early last week from a warm and wonderful visit in Chattanooga with Mrs. Musser's parents, the A. J. Hitchcocks. They began their vacationing with a weekend in East Lansing, Mich., with their daughter and son-in-law, the John Kents, and son Philip; 'Way back then it was still summery, Chattanooga was even more weather-delightful and nobody gave winter a thought. Until early last week.

At this writing, out-of-town holiday visits are still in the hands of the weather man and all reports of guests arriving here are in the we-hopeful stage. The Mussers, among many others, are hoping for the arrival today of collegian children; theirs are recently-visited daughter, Molly, and her husband, John Kent and Philip, all students at Michigan State University.

Another home-for-Thanksgiving coed will be Pat McCormick, who arrived yesterday at 844 S. Vail for the holiday week. Pat attends Marquette University in Milwaukee.

MICHAEL KEPHART was 13 years old Sunday and chose a dinner-out celebration with the rest of the family at 801 S. Evergreen. He received early birthday best wishes from big brother, Mirrell, a weekend ago when the family visited Mirrell at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. They were accompanied by Miss Pat Cronin, who was escorted to weekend campus activities by Iowa U student Tom Benson, also of Arlington Heights. En route Iowa City the caravan stopped at DeKalb University to add another local collegian, Miss Sue Whibbs, to the Iowa-bound party.

The Edward Jacobs, 514 S. Ridge, were part of the Parent's Day weekend festivities at Western Illinois University in Macomb where they were hosted and toasted by their freshman daughter, Linda.

Homecoming, an exciting football game and the organizing of a parents' association were all part of a recent weekend at Buena Vista College in Storm Lake, Iowa, where John Box is a freshman student. Joining him for the traditional festivities and representing their Dad who couldn't be with them were John's brother and sister-in-law, the junior W. Lorne Boxes of Elk Grove Village, and their just-married sister and her husband, the John Nelsons of Mount Prospect.

MRS. ARTHUR Langerock and her mother, Mrs. Agnes Day, both of 414 N. Haddow, recently returned from a 10-day visit with relatives in California. Occasioning the trip was the illness of their brother and son, Glen Pike, whom they hospital-visited daily while staying in the Oakland home of another brother-son, Edwin Pike.

Mrs. Langerock also visited with her foster sister and family, the Shell Oppenheims in Whittier. Eleven years have gone by since they last saw each other, and a brand-new grandson in the Oppenheim family added further joy to the reunion.

Abe Lincoln and most of Illinois were guests Saturday night in the Robert Katovich home immediately after last curtain of the Arlington High School play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." The cast and crew with their adult advisors and directors numbered 115, and everyone came to the traditional play's-over-let's-relax party.

It was the second time around for Mr. and Mrs. Katovich, who hosted an after-the-play party last year when their daughter, Sue, starred in a school production; this year it was Kathy, a junior. Mrs. Katovich says there's another thespian at 728 N. Dunton who'll start high school next year and "we have a mighty big basement."

IT WAS in the spacious basement that Abe and friends relaxed Saturday night with tension-easing games, dancing, chatter and of course, food. There was a punch bowl, necessarily bottomless, to refresh the crowd throughout the party. Mr. and Mrs. Katovich know by now the necessary ingredients for a successful post-play party; they know, too, that high school play-ers make excellent guests.

In this they echoed their own sentiments of a year ago and the sentiments of all other local parent-hosts: the kids were courteous, considerate and most grateful for the chance to unwind after weeks of hectic preparation and three nights of footlight jitters.

Marguerite Dalton came home to 522 S. Dunton Tuesday night from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo to celebrate the holiday and spend the rest of the week with the family. At this writing, this is another we-hope item - Monday morning there was still six inches of snow in Kalamazoo and the weather man's prediction was full of "probables" and "ifs."

The weather was no deterrent to Claudia Hansen, Tulsa University freshman, home for the holiday week with the rest of the family at 1517 W. Fremont. Her brother, Jim, a pre-med student at Northwestern University arrives tonight for the family-all-together session.

MISS JULIE Housenecht, 510 Mayfair, was hostess at a surprise personal bridal shower Thursday for Miss Marion Sinclair, daughter of the Chester Sinclairs of Scarsdale, who will be married Nov. 28 to John Liebenow of Mount Prospect in South Church Community Baptist of Mount Prospect. Miss Housenecht will be maid of honor in the wedding party.

Miss Grace Beckway, daughter of the Leslie V. Beckways, 421 Bristol, was feted at two large receptions and bridal showers. The first was given by her aunt, Mrs. Robert Munsell of Edison Park, and the second by Miss Judy August, sister of the groom, shortly before her marriage Nov. 7, to Jerome Martin August, son of the senior Augusts of Oak Lawn.

The wedding took place in Our Lady of the Wayside Church at a nuptial mass at high noon, and was followed by a reception and luncheon for 130 guests at Itasca Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson, 415 E. Grove, recently took their three children, Neil, Cindy and Sherry, to Birmingham, Mich., where they lived before moving to Scarsdale, to visit former neighbors, the Peter Kitzens. They joined other neighbors and friends and attended the annual Birmingham dinner dance.

The John O'Berrys are busy getting settled in their new home in Scarsdale Estates. The O'Berrys, who formerly lived on S. Mitchell, moved to 741 Burton Nov. 3.

THE LOUIS Neckars, 516 E. Mayfair, entertained at a dinner party Saturday for 15 guests, which included staff managers of the Jefferson Park District of Prudential Insurance Co. and their wives.

The junior Edward O. McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons, will give an open house Nov. 29 for the latter's mother, Mrs. George W. Fraley, who is visiting here from St. Augustine, Fla., for two weeks. She will then leave for Bainbridge Island, Wash., to visit another daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Tom Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, .217 S. Windsor, went to Madison, Wis., over the weekend with the Louis Fishers of Inverness to attend the Wisconsin - Minnesota football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunlop, 1115 Mayfair, spent the weekend at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel, attending the Mid - western Society of American Travel Writers Convention. The convention began with a tour of Chicago, which was followed by a luncheon with European Travel Commissioners who are visiting here. Following an afternoon of business meetings, guests were served a dinner which featured wild turkey, sent in from the south from fellow writer-sportsmen. A festive champagne breakfast Sunday concluded the convention.

BOTH Scarsdale and Stonegate families are busy preparing for Thanksgiving and the out-of-town guests who have been arriving to spend the holidays here.

The Melvin Coobs, 401 S. Carlyle, will have his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs of Klemme, Iowa, and her brother and his family, the George Wamsleys of Elmhurst, for Thanksgiving dinner.

The Kenneth Auers, 202 S. Stratford, will have a large family gathering for Thanksgiving. Their daughter, Carol, will come home from Colorado State University and other guests will include Mrs. Auer's parents, the Herbert Fleischhauers of Chicago, her aunt and uncle, the C. Clarks of Barrington and Mr. Auer's aunt, Mrs. Martha Frederick of Chicago, who will stay on for a visit.

The David Kussows, and their young son, Kevin, arrived in Arlington Heights Saturday to spend the week with his parents, the Larry Kussows, 815 Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strathearn, 720 Bristol, will be hosts at Thanksgiving dinner for both their mothers, Mrs. Arthur Brown of Brookfield, Wis., and Mrs. Harry Pearce of Milwaukee. Adding sparkle to the holiday will be the Strathearns' daughter, Julie, who will be home from DePauw University.

Mrs. Dorothy Thornton and her daughter, Janet, will arrive in Arlington Heights Wednesday from Cincinnati, for a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Peter McQuillon, 760 S. Belmont.

The R. H. Martindells, 515 S. State, will have as their guest for Thanksgiving, the latter's mother, Mrs. L. I. Phillips, who arrived early this week from St. Paul and will stay through Sunday. The Martindells will attend the Green Bay Packer game the following Saturday with friends from Green Bay, the Dick Lefebres.

THE C. T. Dewars of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive in Arlington Heights Thursday to stay through the weekend with their daughter and family, the A. Bernie Woods, 721 E. Davis.

Sharing Thanksgiving Day with the John Gilberts, 407 E. Rockwell, will be friends from Kankakee, the Owen Moes and their two children, and the A. E. Winkles of Sycamore, and their three children.

The John Eakins of Minneapolis and their three children arrived in Arlington Heights Tuesday for a holiday visit with Mrs. Eakin's parents, the William G. Frankes, 126 S. Pine. For Thanksgiving dinner, the Frankes will also have as their guests, members of Mr. Franke's family, including his sister and brother-in-law, the E. P. O'Malleys of Chicago, and their daughter, Judy, and his brother and family, the Charles Frankes of Elk Grove and their three children, Jill, Jeff and Cathy.

SUSIE SCOUT Says

Arlene R. Novy 392-4679

NORTH MOUNT PROSPECT

In the presence of their mothers Brownie Troop 141 held Investiture ceremonies for 13 new members Oct. 27. Each girl was introduced by a "big sister" who conducted her through the "Twist me and turn me" ceremony and presented her to leaders Mrs. Richard Lowry and Mrs. Arthur Strong. Sheryl Stenoien told the Brownie story and 13 third graders received one-year stars.

In an Investiture ceremony at Fairview School Nov. 12 nine girls became members of Brownie Troop 151. Each new Brownie answered a question based on the Brownie promise, entered the Brownie ring, was received by leader Mrs. Roy Riis who led her to "Twist and turn" and saw herself reflected in a mirror as a new Brownie. After the scouts received their pins 10 third graders received one-year stars. Together the scouts and leaders renewed their Brownie promise.

Fairview School's Brownie Troop 442 held its Investiture Nov. 13. An opening ceremony greeted mothers. Third graders presented the Brownie Story followed by investiture of 17 new scouts by leaders Mrs. Daniel Zminda and Mrs. Jess Cullison. One year pins were given to 9 third graders.

Junior Troop 370 took advantage of clear fall weather to enjoy an afternoon of compass work and games at Meadows Park Nov. 14. An ember cooked dinner was followed by a campfire, songfest and stories.

WHEELING — BUFFALO GROVE

Brownie Troop 594 held its investiture Nov. 16 with the girls' parents in attendance. Terri Babbini, Elizabeth Becht, Rebecca Becht, Susan Blackburn, Jeannette Dolinsky, Cynthia Harbert, Karen Irmiter, Janet Kilb, Catherine Koehler, Sylvia Newlin, Tina Rodgers, Carrol and Linda Johnson, Linda Stewart and Penelope Thill served brownies and punch.

Bonfire festivities were the highlight of the Camp Pine overnight enjoyed by Junior Troop 130. Early evening hours culminated in the traditional pinning ceremony as the young ladies officially became scouts. Following the disbursement of pins a lighter note prevailed with participation in a songfest and hot dog roast. Sunday activities included a hike in the woods and brief nature study discussion.

SENIORS

Six scouts from Troop 609 along with their leader, Mrs. Akio Kay, took a trip to the Bensenville Home for the Aged Nov. 6. The afternoon was spent playing games. The girls ran the games and provided prizes. After the games cider and doughnuts were served by Kathy Steffenson, Nancy Katagiri, Penny Leach, Sharon Kilkenny, Carol Nekimken and Anna Pahushy.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

Junior scouts of Troop 860, Clearmont School, under the leadership of Mrs. John Nardiello and Mrs. John Babb, have spent the past several weeks gathering materials to make 50 charm and beauty kits for the mentally retarded at Dixon State School. The kit consists of a decorated coffee can equipped with a washcloth, small comb, lipstick, nail polish, barrette or hair ribbon, cake of soap, face powder, emery board and piece of costume jewelry. These kits are used to enable the occupational therapist to teach young people good grooming before they go into the outside world for jobs.

Junior Scouts Sharon Johnson, Annette Serges, Nancy Kuksa and Carol Mello of Troop 879 posted the colors for the Clearmont School PTA meeting Nov. 12.

Cadette Troop 357 made 40 pairs of praying hands out of construction paper at their Nov. 17 meeting. The girls placed short thanksgiving prayers inside the hands. They were then given to the Bensenville Home to be used for Thanksgiving.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Brownies of Troop 929 enjoyed a noon cookout Nov. 14 in Deer Grove. After lunch, leaders Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. James Kornatz each led a team on a tracking game through the forest preserve.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

Nov. 11 six Junior troops had a Scouts Own honoring veterans. Each troop had its own color guard. This ceremony was held at Camp Pine at the traditional hour of 11 a.m. There was raising and lowering of the flag as well as taps. Troops and leaders participating were Mrs. Francois Palmatier of 172, Mrs. John Donavon of 43, Mrs. Richard Cook of 862, Mrs. William Walling of 118, Mrs. Richard Laney of 61 and Mrs. Tom Erbach of 940.

NORTHWEST ARLINGTON

Brownie Troop 227 recently toured the Arlington Municipal Building. Included in their inspection were the Water Department, Fire Department, jail, rifle range and court room. Coleaders Mrs. Donald Walsh and Mrs. John Kurtz accompanied the girls.

This troop invested nine girls Nov. 18. Mothers of the new Brownies were invited. Refreshments were in the hands of Mrs. Harold Vetter. (B9

SUSIE SCOUT Says

'Arlene R. Novy 392-4679

NORTH MOUNT PROSPECT

In the presence of their mothers Brownie Troop 141 held Investiture ceremonies for 13 new members Oct. 27. Each girl was introduced by a "big sister" who conducted her through the "Twist me and turn me" ceremony and presented her to leaders Mrs. Richard Lowry and Mrs. Arthur Strong. Sheryl Stenoien told the Brownie story and 13 third graders received one-year stars.

In an Investiture ceremony at Fairview School Nov. 12 nine girls became members of Brownie Troop 151. Each new Brownie answered a question based on the Brownie promise, entered the Brownie ring, was received by leader Mrs. Roy Riis who led her to "Twist and turn" and saw herself reflected in a mirror as a new Brownie. After the scouts received their pins 10 third graders received one-year stars. Together the scouts and leaders renewed their Brownie promise.

Fairview School's Brownie Troop 442 held its Investiture Nov. 13. An opening ceremony greeted mothers. Third graders presented the Brownie Story followed by investiture of 17 new scouts by leaders Mrs. Daniel Zminda and Mrs. Jess Cullison. One year pins were given to 9 third graders.

Junior Troop 370 took advantage of clear fall weather to enjoy an afternoon of compass work and games at Meadows Park Nov. 14. An ember cooked dinner was followed by a campfire, songfest and stories.

WHEELING — BUFFALO GROVE

Brownie Troop 594 held its investiture Nov. 16 with the girls' parents in attendance. Terri Babbini, Elizabeth Becht, Rebecca Becht, Susan Blackburn, Jeannette Dolinsky, Cynthia Harbert, Karen Irmiter, Janet Kilb, Catherine Koehler, Sylvia Newlin, Tina Rodgers, Carrol and Linda Johnson, Linda Stewart and Penelope Thill served brownies and punch.

Bonfire festivities were the highlight of the Camp Pine overnight enjoyed by Junior Troop 130. Early evening hours culminated in the traditional pinning ceremony as the young ladies officially became scouts. Following the disbursement of pins a lighter note prevailed with participation in a songfest and hot dog roast. Sunday activities included a hike in the woods and brief nature study discussion.

SENIORS

Six scouts from Troop 609 along with their leader, Mrs. Akio Kay, took a trip to the Bensenville Home for the Aged Nov. 6. The afternoon was spent playing games. The girls ran the games and provided prizes. After the games cider and doughnuts were served by Kathy Steffenson, Nancy Katagiri, Penny Leach, Sharon Kilkenny, Carol Nekimken and Anna Pahushy.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

Junior scouts of Troop 860, Clearmont School, under the leadership of Mrs. John Nardiello and Mrs. John Babb, have spent the past several weeks gathering materials to make 50 charm and beauty kits for the mentally retarded at Dixon State School. The kit consists of a decorated coffee can equipped with a washcloth, small comb, lipstick, nail polish, barrette or hair ribbon, cake of soap, face powder, emery board and piece of costume jewelry. These kits are used to enable the occupational therapist to teach young people good grooming before they go into the outside world for jobs.

Junior Scouts Sharon Johnson, Annette Serges, Nancy Kuksa and Carol Mello of Troop 879 posted the colors for the Clearmont School PTA meeting Nov. 12.

Cadette Troop 357 made 40 pairs of praying hands out of construction paper at their Nov. 17 meeting. The girls placed short thanksgiving prayers inside the hands. They were then given to the Bensenville Home to be used for Thanksgiving.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Brownies of Troop 929 enjoyed a noon cookout Nov. 14 in Deer Grove. After lunch, leaders Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. James Kornatz each led a team on a tracking game through the forest preserve.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

Nov. 11 six Junior troops had a Scouts Own honoring veterans. Each troop had its own color guard. This ceremony was held at Camp Pine at the traditional hour of 11 a.m. There was raising and lowering of the flag as well as taps. Troops and leaders participating were Mrs. Francois Palmatier of 172, Mrs. John Donavon of 43, Mrs. Richard Cook of 862, Mrs. William Walling of 118, Mrs. Richard Laney of 61 and Mrs. Tom Erbach of 940.

NORTHWEST ARLINGTON

Brownie Troop 227 recently toured the Arlington Municipal Building. Included in their inspection were the Water Department, Fire Department, jail, rifle range and court room. Coleaders Mrs. Donald Walsh and Mrs. John Kurtz accompanied the girls.

This troop invested nine girls Nov. 18. Mothers of the new Brownies were invited. Refreshments were in the hands of Mrs. Harold Vetter. (B9

Northwest Hospital to Mark 5th Anniversary

Banquet Wednesday To Hear Norm Ross

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

Northwest Community Hospital will mark five years of service to the northwest communities next Wednesday, Dec. 2.

During the first five years of hospital operation there have been more than 125,000 people who have used the hospital for emergency and in-patient treatment. Present conservative population estimate for the northwest Cook County area is about 160,000.

Use of the hospital emergency room has jumped from 5,807 patients in 1960, the first full year of operation, to a projected 11,460 for 1964.

Highlight of the anniversary celebration will be a Fifth Anniversary Recognition Banquet to be held at Old Orchard Country Club on Dec. 2. Honored at the banquet will be members of the Expanders Club—individuals and firms that have contributed $1,000 or more to the current campaign for funds.

Featured speaker at the banquet will be Norman Ross, commentator and columnist. Ross will discuss the current world situation in light of recent developments among the Communist nations.

Cocktails at 7 p. m. will open the anniversary fete, with dinner at 7:30 p. m. Music by the Aristocrats will be provided for dancing. Donations are $7.50 per person. Reservations open to all people of the community to the limit of capacity, can be made at CL 9-1000.

NORMAN ROSS

HIGHLIGHT of the current fund drive will be the groundbreaking before Christmas for the $4 million hospital addition. The hospital expansion program will double the capacity of the hospital in all areas.

Hospital Expansion Coordinator Nicholas M. Lattof, is a "veteran" in working to provide hospital facilities for the local area. Lattof joined the community effort in 1952—two years before the hospital had been granted incorporation by the state. Support for the construction of the original hospital came in continuing information campaigns in Paddock Publications, spearheaded by Stuart Padock Sr., former editor and publisher, and a member of the first hospital board of trustees.

The initial hospital fund campaign, launched in 1955, resulted in construction of the present hospital facility during 1958-59. Lattof served as chairman of the hospital board from 1956 through 1960. He now serves as vice chairman of the board in addition to his duties as hospital expansion coordinator.

PRESENT chairman of the hospital board is A. C. Buehler, chairman of the board of Victor Comptometer Corp., Chicago. Buehler, who has been chairman since 1960, has contributed $185,000 to the hospital in the original and present fund drives. Lattof has praised Buehler as an "unselfish man of vision," and has stressed that Buehler's leadership and contributions provided the challenge to others to give generously of time, talent and money to bring the hospital campaign to a successful conclusion.

The medical staff of the hospital has grown to 110 physicians in the five years of operation. In addition there is a waiting list of approved doctors who cannot be given staff membership until more hospital beds are available. The 110 present staff members include practitioners in almost every specialty and sub-specialty recognized by organized medicine. Many staff members have continued participation in teaching and research programs at Chicago medical schools and teaching hospitals.

A major "first" for the medical staff is the publication of a medical journal, started this year. The medical journal is the first published by a 100-bed hospital in the United States. There are only five similar journals published by Chicago-area hospitals.

A CONTINUOUS program of education is maintained by the medical staff for the physicians themselves and for other hospital personnel. Typical of the in-service training is the hospital Tumor Board which meets twice each month to assist attending physicians in the diagnosis and treatment of patients. This is done without cost to the patient.

During the first five years of operation, the hospital has established a School of X-ray Technology which is approved by the American Medical Association. The school, conducted by the hospital radiology department, graduates students from a two-year study program each year.

The school and the medical journal are the results of groundwork by Dr. Constantine Soter, hospital radiologist and president of the medical staff.

One of the high points in the first five years of hospital operation was the opening last summer of the new intensive care unit where critically ill patients and patients in the important post-surgery period receive constant care from teams of specially-trained physicians and nurses. Hospital spokesmen credit the new unit with the saving of many by providing the more-than-normal care and special equipment for northwest area patients.

PARTICIPATING in community programs, the hospital has provided special programs to instruct local police, fire and ambulance personnel on medical aspects of emergency care. Other community educational programs have included public lectures on cancer and the maintenance of a cancer registry for close surveillance of cancer patients.

One of the most successful hospital-community programs was the series of three Oral Polio Sundays sponsored by the hospital and medical staff in conjunction with local dentists and pharmacists, and aided by Jaycees and other volunteers in various communities. More than 235,000 "shots" of oral vaccine were dispensed in the three-phase program designed to give permanent immunity to polio.

Community support of the hospital has not stopped at the fund-contribution level. More than 250 adult and 125 teenage volunteers work at the hospital without compensation. These volunteers are found in all sections of the hospital in non-professional jobs.

Amateur Artist Likes Supplies

Amateur artists can always use plenty of new canvases, new paints and brushes or a new easel.

There are also plenty of books on painting that will help him to improve his style.

If you don't think that any of those ideas will appeal to him, why not frame one of his better paintings?

Check Hobby When Buying For a Man

A wonderful starting point for choosing a man's Christmas gift should, without question, be his hobby interests. These are the interests, outside of business, that are closest to his heart.

Many men like to work with their hands while others prefer intellectual pursuits. Photography, painting, stamp collecting, coin collecting, model building are just a few of the popular hobbies that offer a wide variety of Christmas gift ideas.

IN CHOOSING a hobby for your man, look first to his interests, his personality and even to the type of work he does for a living.

Perhaps he is interested in music. If this is the case he may be a prospective hi-fi stereo fan or collector of records of his favorite type of music—he may even like to learn to play a certain musical instrument.

For the camera fan, there is a vast variety of gift ideas, both for his camera, or for his darkroom, if he is that far advanced.

BUILDING THINGS is another favorite with the men. Whether he is a beginner or has already gotten into using raw materials there are many gifts for him. Building model planes, boats, small engines are good hobbies for any man that likes to use his hands. (SS

1964 Illinois Press Competition

Paddock Receives Top Newspaper Award

Honors Earned In 12 Classes

The Will Loomis Memorial Trophy — Illinois' highest distinction for editorial achievement — was awarded Friday to Paddock Publications, Inc.

In addition to the Loomis Trophy, top press honor for non-daily newspapers, Paddock Publications won 12 other major awards in the 1964 Illinois State Newspaper Contest. These included seven first place, one second place, one third place, and three honorable mention awards.

Announcement of the winners was made at a special awards luncheon during the fall convention of the National Editorial Association and the Illinois Press Association in the Pick-Congress Hotel, Chicago.

IN THE state-wide competition, Paddock received:

—first place for best local editorial;

—first place for best editorial page;

—first place for best use of illustrative material;

—first place for best sports coverage;

—first place for advertising excellence;

—first place for classified advertising pages;

—first place for best promotion-of-newspaper;

—second place for general excellence;

—third place for best original column;

—honorable mention for community service;

—honorable mention for best women's pages; and —honorable mention for best feature story.

IN ALL CONTESTS except general excellence, Paddock competed with daily as well as larger circulation weekly newspapers. The general excellence award was made in Division C—weekly, semi-weekly, and tri-weekly newspapers with circulation over 5,000.

The 1964 contest drew a record total of 912 entries from 130 weekly and daily newspapers throughout Illinois. The 185 awards were shared by 74 newspapers.

Accepting the awards for Paddock Publications were Stuart R. Paddock Jr., vice president, and Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of the 15 suburban newspapers.

All awards, including the Loomis Trophy, were made to the Arlington Heights Herald, parent paper of the Paddock group. By contest rules, all newspapers under the same ownership must be entered in the circulation class of the group's largest paper.

ESTABLISHED IN 1949 by the Cook County Suburban Publishers Association in memory of the former publisher of the LaGrange Citizen, the Loomis Trophy is awarded each year to the outstanding weekly or semi-weekly newspaper for editorial excellence.

The winner is determined on the basis of points scored in strictly editorial classes of the state newspaper contest. These include general excellence, editorial writing, editorial page, original column writing, use of illustrative material (photography), community service, photojournalism, news writing, women's pages, sports coverage, and feature writing.

This was the first time the Loomis Trophy was won by Paddock; runner-up for the 1964 honor was the Hinsdale Doings.

This week's honors bring to 118 the total number of major press awards won by Paddock Publications since 1955. These include 10 for feature writing, 15 for general excellence, 11 for editorial page, 16 for photography, 27 for community service, and five for women's pages.

JUDGES FOR the state contest were practicing newspapermen and journalism professors from leading universities. Their comments and a breakdown of awards follows:

General excellence — "This is a tremendous newspaper, not only in volume but in excellence of production. General and area news coverage is very fine. Sports department is well-done and unusually complete. Women's pages are highly attractive. Editorial page is enhanced by three personal columns written by staffers. Community interest shows in attention to schools and other civic areas. From the reader's standpoint, every desire seems satisfied by this newspaper."

WILL LOOMIS MEMORIAL Trophy, top press honor for Illinois' newspapers, was presented Friday to Paddock Publications, Inc. by Herbert Bassman (right), board chairman of Cook County Suburban Publishers, sponsor of the Illinois Press Association's state-wide award. Accepting trophy at awards luncheon during the IPA-National Editorial Association fall convention in Chicago were (left) Stuart R. Paddock Jr., vice president, and Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, Inc. (A-15

Best local editorial ("Suburbs Have Stake in City's Destiny," by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor) — "This editorial deals with a vital problem for suburban areas in an enlightening manner. It is well-written, analytical and above all it fulfills the paramount role of an editorial: it sheds light on a matter of vital concern."

Best editorial page— "Good columns rotated among staff members, adequate space given to timely and regional issue editorials, and The Fence Post importantly features an unusual variety and quantity of letters to the editor, attesting to civic leadership role performed by paper."

Best original column (By Bob Cummins) — "Appealing to the universal funntybone!

Best use of illustrative material (number of pictures used, reader interest, relevancy to news stories, editing and technical excellence, make-up and press work)—" "The top stories illustrated with pictures obviously pre-planned. Some of the best picture usage came with spontaneous, believable pictures. All-in-all, the paper is making good use of pictures."

Community service ("The Hidden City" series by Dick Hoffmann, staff writer, and Larry H. Cameron, chief photographer) — "This entry is in a class all its own and defies placement . . . another superb example of reporting and interpretative writing of 'news behind the news' and the conditions existing in the black ghetto of Chicago. Excellent photographs . . . a masterpiece in itself."

Best sports coverage— "Seven consecutive pages of sports, employing excellent makeup, good pictures and fine writing under a number of different bylines . . . Bob Frisk's 'Kicking It Around' is a good local column with apparent high readership and adds spice to the paper's coverage."

Best feature story ("I Want to Be Useful," by Charles E. Hayes for 1964 Commencement Issue).

Best women's pages—"Content. . . is complete and generally well-prepared. The section is outstanding in the volume and variety of material it provides the reader."

Advertising excellence — "Advertising throughout this BIG newspaper is superior in every respect. Large and small ads show the mark of skilled craftsmen in the shop and expert handling in the front office. Advertising is truly a 'part of the picture'; each page has an uncrowded look; each ad-message stands out, yet does not clash with news."

Best classified pages— "This classified section easily places first in the competition. The pages are attractive and easy to read . . . the columns show evidence of extremely high community acceptance."

Best promotion-of-newspaper. (This special award recognized the most effective promotion of a newspaper, either a single event or promotion series. Judging was for only promotion efforts to enhance the newspaper and its personnel in the eyes of its readers and advertisers.)

Families Leave Worries Behind

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

Camping and hiking are becoming increasingly popular among suburbanites looking for something that can be done in a family unit.

Yes, even in winter with snow piled high and a snap in the air.

What's caused the increase in the ranks of people returning to nature? Some say it's because it's a low-cost vacation. Others say it's an excellent way to get rid of job tensions.

Whatever the causes, though, the National Camping and Hiking Association (NCHA) is showing a strong increase in its membership.

The Wheel-Go Chapter of Palatine, for instance, was organized three years ago with five families and has since multiplied its memberships seven times, according to James D. Ralph, one of the founders and a member of its board of directors.

The Des Plaines Valley Chapter of the NCHA also started out small in September, 1958, and now hash 50 families on its membership rolls.

On the state level, William T. Morrison of Des Plaines organized the first chapter on Chicago's south side in the spring of 1958. The Illinois State Association of the NCHA now boasts 55 chapters with 2,300 families.

"Families camping is one of the few recreational enterprises where the entire family can cooperate," says Morrison, the present secretary of the state association. "A lot of people join to get their children into the outdoors so they're conversant with nature."

MORRISON who took his first camping trip in 1908 when he was 15, has held a multitude of posts in the NCHA, including a first vice presidency in the national organization for two years and a regional directorship.

He and his wife, Jean, in fact, are so active in camping circles that they often get mail simply addressed "Mr. and Mrs. NCHA" at their Des Plaines home.

"Too many children spend too much time indoors," said Morrison, "especially after the evening meal. Some parents are trying to do something about that by camping and hiking."

"Another thing, some people think their children have more of a chance to learn housekeeping by camping," he continued. "Weve been commended a number of times by state park custodians for the way we leave their grounds.

This feeling that family living is enhanced among campers is shared by Ralph. "It's good family recreation," he said. "One of the things we've always said is that you never find any delinquents in the campgrounds."

"Anything you've got you can lay on the table and it's there when you get back," Ralph added.

The state organization, however, is concerned about its teenagers, some of whom Morrison feels are turning away from the outdoors. To compensate, Morrison's pushing for the establishment of teenage chapters in Illinois and has already formed six such groups.

"We let them make their own programs," he explained. "Some have bowling parties. Others have dances. We're also advocating inter-chapter activities, such as competition in figure-skating and bowling."

HE WENT on to add he didn't feel these non-camping activities among teenage chapters would lead them further away from camping and hiking.

"Camping is what ties the chapters together," he explained. "We use these other things to cement their interest. Besides, these other things are just their winter programs."

The emphasis on camping shifts more towards other pursuits in the winter among the adults also when most chapters schedule monthly hikes to maintain a relationship with the outdoors.

Some chapters in the state, however, have winter camping units. Among these are units in Aurora, Rockford, Sterling and Rock Falls, said Morrison.

Other chapters gather together "once or twice a month" for a group-hike that normally lasts an hour-and-a-half in a nearby forest preserve during the indoor season from September until April, he added.

The attractions of camping for the suburbanite also have an economic base, some feel. Ralph calls camping "a low-cost vacation" and attributes that to a prime reason for its increasing popularity.

"A middle-income family in most cases couldn't otherwise afford to go out to California," he explained. "The biggest expense, though, for campers who travel is gas. It's quite a bit cheaper that way to travel and see the country."

Others, though, see camping's attraction in its release from everyday tensions. Robert Kempe of Bensenville, the president of the Des Plaines Chapter, speaks fondly of returning "to primitive surroundings" to escape briefly from modern society's strains.

KEMPE, HOWEVER, also sees a value in camp-outs held by chapters, along with the state and national organization, periodically in establishing better relationships with others.

Each chapter has eight to 10 planned camp-outs each summer, while the state association holds three a year, according to Morrison.

"Once you discover how friendly other people are on these camp-outs, you're truly amazed," said Kempe. "Some people have met their next-door neighbors at home for the first time at a camp-out and have become life-long friends.'"

Realcoa Plat for 45 Acres Okayed

Preliminary plat approval was granted Monday by the Arlington Heights Village Board on the Realcoa subdivision after a week's delay caused when reservation of a park site was proposed which would have eaten away half the subdivision.

The proposed subdivision is located on approximately 45 acres west of Arlington Heights Road in a strip between Cedar Street and Surrey Ridge subdivision now under development.

DEVELOPMENT firm is Realty Company of America, represented Monday by attorney John Bickley who said his client intends to "cooperate with the village board in all respects.'

But as the preliminary plat of subdivision was approved Monday it remained unchanged from a proposal which had failed to receive the recommendation of the village's plan commission because the developer refused to cut the number of lots in the subdivision to bring several slightly undersized lots up to present zoning standards.

The failure was mentioned at the village board's first consideration of the matter Nov. 16, but no mention was made when an alternate park plan was adopted last Monday to allow development of the subdivision as proposed.

THOUGH ALL lots as approved apparently meet village requirements in total area, frontages are a few feet narrow on several.

Only adjustments made in the subdivision plat over the week's time lapse between hearings were moving of some streets a few feet to match up with Surrey Ridge to the south.

A final plat on the subdivision must still come before the plan commission and village board before development may begin.

Asks Students Write Scripts On Citizenship

Voice of Democracy Week, beginning Nov. 30 and extending through Dec. 4, was officially proclaimed in Arlington Heights Monday by Village Pres. John G. Woods.

In his proclamation, Woods urged every area high school student to participate in the script writing contest sponsored annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Scripts for radio and television delivery by competition winners are to deal this year with "The Challenge of Citizenship."

Bethel Lutheran Church of Palatine will hold its annual Advent Round Table Sing at the Winston Park School Cafetorium next Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

This event marks the beginning of the special Advent services to be held by Bethel congregation.

At the Advent Round Table Sing, the families of the church will gather about tables decorated with simple Christmas themes.

The four choirs of the church under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd White will lead the congregation in the singing of many Advent and Christmas hymns.

THE PASTOR, the Rev. J. L. Olson, will lead in the narration of the service entitled, "God Has Chosen the Simple Things of This World." Accompanying the narration will be several tableaus depicting the pre-Christmas events of Scripture.

Serving of the wassail as well as Christmas breads and cookies will follow the program. Members of the confirmation classes will assist in serving.

Preparation and all arrangements for this event are being made by the Choir Mothers of the congregation.

The community is invited to attend.

General excellence — "This is a tremendous newspaper, not only in volume but in excellence of production. General and area news coverage is very fine. Sports department is well-done and unusually complete. Women's pages are highly attractive. Editorial page is enhanced by three personal columns written by staffers. Community interest shows in attention to schools and other civic areas. From the reader's standpoint, every desire seems satisfied by this newspaper."

Best local editorial ("Suburbs Have Stake in City's Destiny," by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor) — "This editorial deals with a vital problem for suburban areas in an enlightening manner. It is well-written, analytical and above all it fulfills the paramount role of an editorial: it sheds light on a matter of vital concern."

Best editorial page— "Good columns rotated among staff members, adequate space given to timely and regional issue editorials, and The Fence Post importantly features an unusual variety and quantity of letters to the editor, attesting to civic leadership role performed by paper."

Best original column (By Bob Cummins) — "Appealing to the universal funntybone!

Best use of illustrative material (number of pictures used, reader interest, relevancy to news stories, editing and technical excellence, make-up and press work)—" "The top stories illustrated with pictures obviously pre-planned. Some of the best picture usage came with spontaneous, believable pictures. All-in-all, the paper is making good use of pictures."

Community service ("The Hidden City" series by Dick Hoffmann, staff writer, and Larry H. Cameron, chief photographer) — "This entry is in a class all its own and defies placement . . . another superb example of reporting and interpretative writing of 'news behind the news' and the conditions existing in the black ghetto of Chicago. Excellent photographs . . . a masterpiece in itself."

Best sports coverage— "Seven consecutive pages of sports, employing excellent makeup, good pictures and fine writing under a number of different bylines . . . Bob Frisk's 'Kicking It Around' is a good local column with apparent high readership and adds spice to the paper's coverage."

Best feature story ("I Want to Be Useful," by Charles E. Hayes for 1964 Commencement Issue).

Best women's pages—"Content. . . is complete and generally well-prepared. The section is outstanding in the volume and variety of material it provides the reader."

Advertising excellence — "Advertising throughout this BIG newspaper is superior in every respect. Large and small ads show the mark of skilled craftsmen in the shop and expert handling in the front office. Advertising is truly a 'part of the picture'; each page has an uncrowded look; each ad-message stands out, yet does not clash with news."

Best classified pages— "This classified section easily places first in the competition. The pages are attractive and easy to read . . . the columns show evidence of extremely high community acceptance."

Best promotion-of-newspaper. (This special award recognized the most effective promotion of a newspaper, either a single event or promotion series. Judging was for only promotion efforts to enhance the newspaper and its personnel in the eyes of its readers and advertisers.)

Illinois daily newspapers receiving awards in the same classes as Paddock were Champaign-Urbana Courier, Mattoon Daily Journal-Gazette, Champaign-Urbana News-Gazette, LaSalle Daily News-Tribune, Harrisburg Daily Register, Edwardsville Daily Intelligencer, Rock Island Argus, and the Illinois State Journal-Register, Springfield. Families Leave Worries Behind

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

Camping and hiking are becoming increasingly popular among suburbanites looking for something that can be done in a family unit.

Yes, even in winter with snow piled high and a snap in the air.

What's caused the increase in the ranks of people returning to nature? Some say it's because it's a low-cost vacation. Others say it's an excellent way to get rid of job tensions.

Whatever the causes, though, the National Camping and Hiking Association (NCHA) is showing a strong increase in its membership.

The Wheel-Go Chapter of Palatine, for instance, was organized three years ago with five families and has since multiplied its memberships seven times, according to James D. Ralph, one of the founders and a member of its board of directors.

The Des Plaines Valley Chapter of the NCHA also started out small in September, 1958, and now hash 50 families on its membership rolls.

On the state level, William T. Morrison of Des Plaines organized the first chapter on Chicago's south side in the spring of 1958. The Illinois State Association of the NCHA now boasts 55 chapters with 2,300 families.

"Families camping is one of the few recreational enterprises where the entire family can cooperate," says Morrison, the present secretary of the state association. "A lot of people join to get their children into the outdoors so they're conversant with nature."

MORRISON who took his first camping trip in 1908 when he was 15, has held a multitude of posts in the NCHA, including a first vice presidency in the national organization for two years and a regional directorship.

He and his wife, Jean, in fact, are so active in camping circles that they often get mail simply addressed "Mr. and Mrs. NCHA" at their Des Plaines home.

"Too many chidren spend too much time indoors," said Morrison, "especially after the evening meal. Some parents are trying to do something about that by camping and hiking."

"Another thing, some people think their children have more of a chance to learn housekeeping by camping," he continued. "Weve been commended a number of times by state park custodians for the way we leave their grounds.

This feeling that family living is enhanced among campers is shared by Ralph. "It's good family recreation," he said. "One of the things we've always said is that you never find any delinquents in the campgrounds."

"Anything you've got you can lay on the table and it's there when you get back," Ralph added.

The state organization, however, is concerned about its teenagers, some of whom Morrison feels are turning away from the outdoors. To compensate, Morrison's pushing for the establishment of teenage chapters in Illinois and has already formed six such groups.

"We let them make their own programs," he explained. "Some have bowling parties. Others have dances. We're also advocating inter-chapter activities, such as competition in figure-skating and bowling."

HE WENT on to add he didn't feel these non-camping activities among teenage chapters would lead them further away from camping and hiking.

"Camping is what ties the chapters together," he explained. "We use these other things to cement their interest. Besides, these other things are just their winter programs."

The emphasis on camping shifts more towards other pursuits in the winter among the adults also when most chapters schedule monthly hikes to maintain a relationship with the outdoors.

Some chapters in the state, however, have winter camping units. Among these are units in Aurora, Rockford, Sterling and Rock Falls, said Morrison.

Other chapters gather together "once or twice a month" for a group-hike that normally lasts an hour-and-a-half in a nearby forest preserve during the indoor season from September until April, he added.

The attractions of camping for the suburbanite also have an economic base, some feel. Ralph calls camping "a low-cost vacation" and attributes that to a prime reason for its increasing popularity.

"A middle-income family in most cases couldn't otherwise afford to go out to California," he explained. "The biggest expense, though, for campers who travel is gas. It's quite a bit cheaper that way to travel and see the country."

Others, though, see camping's attraction in its release from everyday tensions. Robert Kempe of Bensenville, the president of the Des Plaines Chapter, speaks fondly of returning "to primitive surroundings" to escape briefly from modern society's strains.

KEMPE, HOWEVER, also sees a value in camp-outs held by chapters, along with the state and national organization, periodically in establishing better relationships with others.

Each chapter has eight to 10 planned camp-outs each summer, while the state association holds three a year, according to Morrison.

"Once you discover how friendly other people are on these camp-outs, you're truly amazed," said Kempe. "Some people have met their next-door neighbors at home for the first time at a camp-out and have become life-long friends.'"

Realcoa Plat for 45 Acres Okayed

Preliminary plat approval was granted Monday by the Arlington Heights Village Board on the Realcoa subdivision after a week's delay caused when reservation of a park site was proposed which would have eaten away half the subdivision.

The proposed subdivision is located on approximately 45 acres west of Arlington Heights Road in a strip between Cedar Street and Surrey Ridge subdivision now under development.

DEVELOPMENT firm is Realty Company of America, represented Monday by attorney John Bickley who said his client intends to "cooperate with the village board in all respects.'

But as the preliminary plat of subdivision was approved Monday it remained unchanged from a proposal which had failed to receive the recommendation of the village's plan commission because the developer refused to cut the number of lots in the subdivision to bring several slightly undersized lots up to present zoning standards.

The failure was mentioned at the village board's first consideration of the matter Nov. 16, but no mention was made when an alternate park plan was adopted last Monday to allow development of the subdivision as proposed.

THOUGH ALL lots as approved apparently meet village requirements in total area, frontages are a few feet narrow on several.

Only adjustments made in the subdivision plat over the week's time lapse between hearings were moving of some streets a few feet to match up with Surrey Ridge to the south.

A final plat on the subdivision must still come before the plan commission and village board before development may begin.

Asks Students Write Scripts On Citizenship

Voice of Democracy Week, beginning Nov. 30 and extending through Dec. 4, was officially proclaimed in Arlington Heights Monday by Village Pres. John G. Woods.

In his proclamation, Woods urged every area high school student to participate in the script writing contest sponsored annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Scripts for radio and television delivery by competition winners are to deal this year with "The Challenge of Citizenship."

Advent Round Table Sing Wednesday

FOUR BETHEL LUTHERAN Church of Palatine youngsters practice for the church's Advent Round Table Sing. They are, from left, Pam Branklin, Lucia Stanfield, Randy Kramer and Diane Williams. (P

Bethel Lutheran Church of Palatine will hold its annual Advent Round Table Sing at the Winston Park School Cafetorium next Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

This event marks the beginning of the special Advent services to be held by Bethel congregation.

At the Advent Round Table Sing, the families of the church will gather about tables decorated with simple Christmas themes.

The four choirs of the church under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd White will lead the congregation in the singing of many Advent and Christmas hymns.

THE PASTOR, the Rev. J. L. Olson, will lead in the narration of the service entitled, "God Has Chosen the Simple Things of This World." Accompanying the narration will be several tableaus depicting the pre-Christmas events of Scripture.

Serving of the wassail as well as Christmas breads and cookies will follow the program. Members of the confirmation classes will assist in serving.

Preparation and all arrangements for this event are being made by the Choir Mothers of the congregation.

The community is invited to attend.

'Christmas Around the World' To Open Saturday at Museum

Beginning Saturday, Nov. 28, and continuing through New Year's Day, the 23rd annual festival and Christmas tree display, dramatizing customs of "Christmas Around the World," will be featured at the Museum of Science and Industry, 57th Street and the lake front.

Expected to continue its history of constantly new, record-breaking crowds of spectators, the project, which has attained wide recognition as one of the most picturesque Christmas season programs staged anywhere in the country, will this year highlight the Yuletide traditions of 23 different countries.

Among them is the Duchy of Luxembourg, whose sons and daughters will be publicly reenacting their native Yuletide custom for the first time in Chicago.

WHILE THE giant Christmas trees and creches decorated according to the age-old customs of the nationalities they represent will go on public display in the Museum's central rotunda Saturday, the pageants and other dramatic portrayals of their various native Yuletide traditions will not begin until a week later.

These stage programs in the museum's 1,000-seat theatre will be given during the Monday through Friday at 2 and 8 p.m. daily; and on Saturdays and Sundays at 2, 3:30, 5, 7 and 8:30 p.m.

The afternoon programs will be largely musical in nature. The evening programs will tell by means of pageantry, liturgical music, folk songs and dancing the story of the wealth of Christmas lore to which the United States has fallen heir.

PRESENTED by scores of educational, religious, civic and fraternal organizations from all over the Chicago area, the festival portrays the back-ground of national heritages brought to the United States by immigrants from other countries, emphasizing how the various old-world cultures have been blended into our American customs.

Between the museum's regular closing hour and the evening program hour, portions of the main exhibit floors will remain open to visitors. In the dining rooms, between 5 and 8 p.m., Christmas dinners featuring the national dishes of the groups represented by the day's programs will be served.

THE DATES and hours when the Christmas customs of various countries will be individually featured in stage presentations follow:

Saturday, Dec. 5, Czechoslovakia, 2, 3:30, 5 p.m.; Denmark, 7; Latvia, 8.

Sunday, Dec. 6, Sweden.

Monday, Dec. 7, China, 2 p.m.; Armenia, 8 p.m.

Tuesday, Dec. 8, Italy.

Wednesday, Dec. 9, Germany.

Thursday, Dec. 10, Croatia, 2 p.m.; Great Britain, 8.

Friday, Dec. 11, France.

Saturday, Dec. 12, Mexico.

Sunday, Dec. 13, Poland.

Monday, Dec. 14, Netherlands.

Tuesday Dec. 15, Luxembourg, 2 p.m.; Slovenia, 8.

Wednesday, Dec. 16, Ireland.

Thursday, Dec. 17, Ukraine.

Friday, Dec. 18, Lithuania.

Saturday, Dec. 19, Norway, 2, 3:30 p.m.; Estonia, 5; Japan, 7, 8:30.

Sunday, Dec. 20, United States.

The Christmas trees and creches at the Museum will remain on public display through New Year's Day.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

SWINGIN' SQUARES

Swingin' Squares, one of the oldest square dance clubs in Arlington Heights, has disbanded. A few Swingers have struggled to keep the 1953-born club together, but several things combined to make it a losing battle. Some charter members have moved away, others have had to drop from the dance scene altogether, newcomers tend to join new clubs—and the remaining "old faithfuls" could not rally enough help to keep things swingin'.

Veteran dancers will remember the grandly successful Jamborees sponsored annually by Swingin' Squares—the pot luck supper dances, summer picnics, Christmas grab bags, "Old Timers" nights. The club will be missed, of course, but there'll always be a part of it still swingin' in every other club that enjoys success because Swingin' Squares paved the way 11 years ago.

TEEN PROMENADERS

A public and heart-felt "Thank you" goes to the Swingin' Squares from their high school friends who have benefited materially and in spirit by the generosity of the former club. The final official act of the Swingin' Squares was to "bequeath" the teens the $15 balance in their treasury, their 72-cup percolator and the use of the Recreation Park Field House for the Promenaders Dec. 18 reunion party.

The adult club's constant encouragement during the teen's early struggles will no doubt prove to be its most lasting bequest to the youngsters.

Several Promenaders attended the Illinois Square Dance Callers Association dance in Aurora Nov. 7 and the Chicagoland Square Dance Festival in McCormick Place Nov. 15. They report, "Both of these dances provided a day full of fun as we thrilled to all the wonderful callers there."

Promenaders welcome all teens interested in square dancing or learning to dance, and offer full information about their club via Sandy Parker, FL 8-5117.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

Dancers who are still able to waddle around after their Thanksgiving feast are invited to join Arlington Squares Friday night in South Junior High School, 314 S. Highland, Arlington Heights. Lenny Roos will square sets at 8:30, following a half-hour round dance work shop led by Dot and Jerry Daniels. It's a well-known fact (among Square dancers, anyway) that the best way to wear off Thanksgiving-gained poundage is at a dance the night after Thanksgiving. Y'all come!

One unexpected survivor of the holiday feast was the turkey given away at the club's last dance. It was such a beautiful bird, all-white and regal-looking, that nobody had the heart to kill it!

Among guests at the last dance, besides one smart gobbler, were the Berkeley Bandits alias The Midwesterners who stole their hosts' banner. The Little Squares of Niles were there, too, retrieving their club pennant, and now the cupboard is bare for the Arlington Squares.

There was a fine turnout for the round dance workshop and, as one dancer said, "The Danielses sorted out our left feet from our right and soon had us putting the best foot forward, all happily dancing."

Further informaton about Arlington Squares may be obtained by calling the Vollands, CL-5-4183.

PALATINE SQUARES

Stuffed turkey-eaters who prefer Saturday dancing for the slim-and-trim routine are invited to dance it off with the Palatine club, squaring up at 8:30 in Pleasant Hill School. Saturday night is also one of three final chances to get tickets for the club's famed New Year's Eve party dance.

Round dance leaders, Dot and Jerry Daniels, will do some more teaching between Jim Stewart's calls, and what Stewart doesn't whittle off the waistline, the rounders will. Everyone's determined to learn more about round dancing; some enthusiasts are getting together between dances for a little practice session now and then.

"Personals" included with the current club report include one good-news item and one not so good. Palatiners will be happy to hear that the outlook is excellent for June Bischoff who underwent brain surgery in Billings Hospital last week. Her failing eyesight seems to be greatly improved and her many friends are just as greatly cheered by the news.

Not so happy news interrupted the Gene Lambeaus' enjoyment of the Chicagoland Square Dance Festival in McCormick Place a week ago Sunday. Somebody called them at the dance to announce that their house was afire! Their children were safe and unharmed by the blaze, however, and the Lambeau Thanksgiving will no doubt have a deeper, meaning than ever before, despite a badly damaged

Local Officials Endorse Gas Tax Safeguards

Even Though They Grumble at Delays

by TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Municipalities may gamble from time to time about the "red tape" involved in getting motor fuel tax funds from the state for local street construction and repair.

But though it may inconvenience them at times, northwest municipal officials and engineers generally endorsed the state system for approving local road projects. Only major criticism was that highway department personnel could be speedier in their work.

Considering that nearly every community has had to temporarily postpone at least one street project because state approval wasn't forthcoming when expected—plus the public tendency to criticize any red tape—the endorsement of the MFT procedure would seem rather surprising.

Although it makes his work harder Engineer Thomas Moody of Murray and Moody of Arlington Heights said, "If I were to write a law today to protect the state (MFT) funds, I don't know how I could improve upon it (the pesent law)."

OF THE PAPERWORK involved, Herbert Dierking, longtime Bensenville village clerk, said, "I don't thnk it is too much to ask." Rather, the state highway people have been "very helpful" to the village, he said.

"I don't appreciate the paperwork," Richard A. Jenisch, Addison village administrator said. But he added that he hasn't experienced any undue delays in getting state approval for MFT fund expenditures. "We have found them (state highway officials) quite cooperative," he said.

Officials of Palatine, Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Des Plaines expressed the same sentiments.

"When spending taxpayers' money, I guess it is better to go too slow than too fast," Wheeling Trustee Edwin Smith said.

A PERCENTAGE of the motor fuel tax funds (gas taxes) collected by the state are available to municipalities for street construction, with the amount based on population.

But plan for the improvement must be approved by the state before actual work is started, in order to obtain MFT funds.

Since practically all municipal street construction is paid for entirely or in part with MFT funds, all such projects hinge upon state approval.

John J. Noel, mayor of Mundelein and a member of the executive committee of the Illinois Municipal League, said he feels that MFT procedures should be streamlined, and that a "department of urban roads" should be created within the state highway department in order to expedite municipal work.

(However, neither state highway officials or the executive office of the municipal league knew anything of any proposals to change the present procedures.)

DELAYS IN getting state approval for their construction plans usually is the fault of the municipality more than the state, according to George Wildeson, engineer in charge of local roads and streets for the Cook County district of the state highway department.

Too many municipalities don't "plan ahead," he said. Result is that every spring street construction plans come pouring in to the state highway department for approval, many of which should have been submitted the previous fall or winter.

"We (village governments) drag our feet as much as they (state officials)" in expediting street plans, Wheeling Trustee Smith said in agreement with Wildeson.

THERE ARE two major steps in the plan approval procedure, Wildeson explained. First the municipality submits a summary of the street work it wants to do, which is reviewed by the district highway department office and then forwarded to the state headquarters with a recommendation for disposition.

If the general outline of the project is acceptable to the state the second step for the municipality is to have detailed plans and specifications prepared. These are then reviewed by the state, and approved, disapproved, or returned for corrections or changes.

Each step takes about a minimum of two weeks, Wildeson said, and maybe a "month or so." The time involved in the second step also depends upon the magnitude and complexity of the project.

Where extensive delay may occur is when the plans have to be returned to the municipality for corrections or changes. The plans have to be re-submitted for approval after the changes are made.

OTHER MAJOR time delays is when the amount of work on hand is more than the highway department has manpower to expedite.

As long as the state director of public works is charged with the responsibility for giving his approval to projects for which MFT funds are to be spent, "you're going to have red tape," Wildeson said. "I can't conceive of just approving" whatever a municipality requests.

In Wisconsin, however, the state checks on MFT fund expenditures of municipalities after they have been made rather than before.

The percentage due to municipalities is automatically turned over to them after collection by the State of Wisconsin and the municipalities submit an annual report to the state on how these funds have been spent, it was noted by Mount Prospect Village Manager Harold Appleby.

ONE MAJOR suggestion for improvement of the present Illinois MFT procedures was made by Myer Engler, an associate of Consoer Townsend and Associates of Chicago, and a specialist in MFT fund procedures.

MFT funds may be used for either "arterial" or "non-arterial" streets, he said—except that storm sewers from non-arterial streets can't be paid for with MFT funds. And storm sewers are necessary for practically all streets, he said.

He suggested that the two classifications of streets be dropped entirely, or at least add storm sewers to permitted non-arterial street work.

VA Will Request Income Information

More than 98,000 Illinois disabled veterans or the widows and parents of deceased veterans will be seeing colors when they open their pension checks about Nov. 30.

Inside will be not only the familiar green check but also an income questionnaire card with a stripe of a different color.

This card must be filled out and returned to the Veterans Administration by Jan. 31 or, under the law, Februrary pension checks must be suspended.

JOHN B. NASER, VA regional manager for Illinois, urged pensioners to get the cards back as soon as possible and not lay them aside until the last minute. Each year this results in several thousand delayed checks which have to be suspended by VA until the cards are returned.

Naser pointed out that this year VA needs all the extra time possible to process the income information due to a number of complicated changes under a new pension law.

Local Officials Endorse Gas Tax Safeguards

Even Though They Grumble at Delays

by TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Municipalities may gamble from time to time about the "red tape" involved in getting motor fuel tax funds from the state for local street construction and repair.

But though it may inconvenience them at times, northwest municipal officials and engineers generally endorsed the state system for approving local road projects. Only major criticism was that highway department personnel could be speedier in their work.

Considering that nearly every community has had to temporarily postpone at least one street project because state approval wasn't forthcoming when expected—plus the public tendency to criticize any red tape—the endorsement of the MFT procedure would seem rather surprising.

Although it makes his work harder Engineer Thomas Moody of Murray and Moody of Arlington Heights said, "If I were to write a law today to protect the state (MFT) funds, I don't know how I could improve upon it (the pesent law)."

OF THE PAPERWORK involved, Herbert Dierking, longtime Bensenville village clerk, said, "I don't thnk it is too much to ask." Rather, the state highway people have been "very helpful" to the village, he said.

"I don't appreciate the paperwork," Richard A. Jenisch, Addison village administrator said. But he added that he hasn't experienced any undue delays in getting state approval for MFT fund expenditures. "We have found them (state highway officials) quite cooperative," he said.

Officials of Palatine, Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Des Plaines expressed the same sentiments.

"When spending taxpayers' money, I guess it is better to go too slow than too fast," Wheeling Trustee Edwin Smith said.

A PERCENTAGE of the motor fuel tax funds (gas taxes) collected by the state are available to municipalities for street construction, with the amount based on population.

But plan for the improvement must be approved by the state before actual work is started, in order to obtain MFT funds.

Since practically all municipal street construction is paid for entirely or in part with MFT funds, all such projects hinge upon state approval.

John J. Noel, mayor of Mundelein and a member of the executive committee of the Illinois Municipal League, said he feels that MFT procedures should be streamlined, and that a "department of urban roads" should be created within the state highway department in order to expedite municipal work.

(However, neither state highway officials or the executive office of the municipal league knew anything of any proposals to change the present procedures.)

DELAYS IN getting state approval for their construction plans usually is the fault of the municipality more than the state, according to George Wildeson, engineer in charge of local roads and streets for the Cook County district of the state highway department.

Too many municipalities don't "plan ahead," he said. Result is that every spring street construction plans come pouring in to the state highway department for approval, many of which should have been submitted the previous fall or winter.

"We (village governments) drag our feet as much as they (state officials)" in expediting street plans, Wheeling Trustee Smith said in agreement with Wildeson.

THERE ARE two major steps in the plan approval procedure, Wildeson explained. First the municipality submits a summary of the street work it wants to do, which is reviewed by the district highway department office and then forwarded to the state headquarters with a recommendation for disposition.

If the general outline of the project is acceptable to the state the second step for the municipality is to have detailed plans and specifications prepared. These are then reviewed by the state, and approved, disapproved, or returned for corrections or changes.

Each step takes about a minimum of two weeks, Wildeson said, and maybe a "month or so." The time involved in the second step also depends upon the magnitude and complexity of the project.

Where extensive delay may occur is when the plans have to be returned to the municipality for corrections or changes. The plans have to be re-submitted for approval after the changes are made.

OTHER MAJOR time delays is when the amount of work on hand is more than the highway department has manpower to expedite.

As long as the state director of public works is charged with the responsibility for giving his approval to projects for which MFT funds are to be spent, "you're going to have red tape," Wildeson said. "I can't conceive of just approving" whatever a municipality requests.

In Wisconsin, however, the state checks on MFT fund expenditures of municipalities after they have been made rather than before.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

The afternoon party at the Emil Straub home, 521 S. Phelps, on Tuesday of last week had a year-old guest of honor, and four one-year old guests. The singled-candled cake for Paul Gregory Straub was shared with Brian Runge, Stevie Schultz, Grant Smith and Blake Mathison, who literally "dug in" under the amused eyes of their mothers who were enjoying cake and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Post, 2105 E. Park, marked their 15th wedding anniversary Nov. 19 quietly at home.

Sunday was a different story in the Post household. Since it was Karen's ninth birthday, she occupied the chair of honor at a gala family dinner, surrounded by her parents, brothers and sisters, Bob, Steve, Jimmy, Peachy and Nancy, and a special guest, Grandma Post of Evanston.

Mrs. Edward McMullen, 413 S. Prindle, a recent patient in Holy Family Hospital following minor surgery, is home and receiving best wishes for a speedy recovery.

BARBARA JENKO, 440 S. Prindle, celebrated her 14th birthday Nov. 18 by inviting Anitra Lindquist, Marcia Longrie, Carlene Schmidt, Greta Hermanson, Margi Knutsen, Sandy Kunz and Cindy Rapp for a chicken dinner that evening. Dessert was a decorated birthday cake. After dinner, the girls enjoyed several hours of "sock-hopping" and listening to Barbara's records.

Barbara's parents, Frank and Betty, were dinner hosts recently to the Ken Johnson family, longtime friends who have just been transferred to Milwaukee from Minneapolis, where the Jenkos first met them. Frank Jenko and Ken Johnson were Army buddies and the two families are happy to be living so much closer again.

Although Scott Moller, son of the James Mollers, 416 S. Prindle, was only 3 Saturday, the event rated two parties. The first on Saturday was lunch served to Konni Knutsen, Frankie Gryzik, Dean Briscoe, Alan Cerva, Michael McNulty and Scott's sister and brother, Julie and Keith.

Sunday the birthday boy was feted at a family dinner for his grandparents, the Frank Mollers of McHenry, aunt, uncle and cousin, the Merel Marine family, and Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Spaude of Brookfield. Mrs. Spaude is Scott's godmother.

JANA LYNN HOLT, 12 Nov. 17, received the best wishes of her family at a birthday dinner that evening. Guests included her grandparents, the Oscar Holts of Chicago and the Gust Berthels of Park Ridge, as well as a host of aunts, uncles and cousins.

Jana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Holt, 421 S. Prindle.

Kristi Knutsen, 9-year-old daughter of the Ken Knutsens, 432 S. Prindle, was wished a happy birthday Nov. 20 at an evening family party. Included were her parents, sisters, Margi, Karen and Konni, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Huber, and Uncle Jack Huber of Chicago.

The many friends and neighbors of the Al May family, while happy for the Mays, were sad to see them move from their home at 509 S. Prindle on Saturday. They will live in another part of Arlington Heights until their new home in Hawthorn Woods is ready. (A

Tween, Teen Charmer Course Signup Open

Registration is now open for a "Tween and Teen Charmer" advanced course, offered by the Arlington Heights Park District. The course begins Dec. 2 and extends through Jan. 20.

Any interested girl in the sixth through ninth grades may enroll in the advanced course, as the beginning course is not a prerequisite.

Emphasis in the beginning charm class now in progress is on basic skin and hair care, visual poise, social graces, posture exercises, and the basic wardrobe.

LECTURES, discussions, and individual guidance for the second level course offer a progressive step towards better grooming.

Facts about good grooming and personal care are presented in a movie to supplement one of the regular discussions. The film is shown in the advanced class only.

Another feature of the advanced Tween and Teen Charmer class is the style show which ends the six-week course.

MRS. MARY Monti and Mrs. Ruth Platt conduct the course at Pioneer Park fieldhouse on Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Christian Science Service to be Held

Thanksgiving Day services will be held in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 401 S. Evergreen St., Arlington Heights at 11 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

One feature of the service will be a period when individual Christian Scientists stand up voluntarily to express their thanks to God in their own words.

The sermon on Thanksgiving —as in all Christian Science services—will consist of readings from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. There will also be hymns and a period of prayer.

THE TEXT for the day is from Psalms 22: "All the ends of the world shall remember and turn unto the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before thee."

A related passage to be read from "Science and Health" includes these lines: "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established" (p. 467:9-13) (A

Some are like boxes.

Volkswagens are designed from the inside out.

The VW Sedan looks like a beetle because it couldn't look like anything else. Not with the engine in back, the luggage compartment in front, and room for four comfortable people in between.

The engine is in the rear for a reason: it gives the rear wheels better traction on steep hills, in mud and snow.

With the engine in back, the luggage compartment moves up front. It takes only a fraction of the space most hoods do.

That leaves plenty of stretch-out room for people in the middle. Room for extra baggage, too.

The VW Station Wagon looks like a box. Because no other shape holds so much in so compact a space.

It can carry eight adults, plus their luggage.

With the center seats removed, it will take a full-sized baby carriage. An upright piano. Or, with the sun-roof open, an 8-foot cabinet.

Interestingly, the VW Station Wagon is only 9" longer than the VW Sedan. Almost as easy to park.

Which could you use? A beetle? Or a box? They both have this in common. Every inch counts.

Raps Omission of Telephone Tax Cut

Thr administration's announced plans to seek cuts in excise taxes on certain luxury items leaves telephone customers still paying 10 per cent on their monthly bills, an Illinois Bell Telephone spokesman commented this week.

Hale Nelson, vice president of Illinois Bell Telephone, expressed disappointment that telephone usage is not included in the proposal to ask Congress to reduce or eliminate taxes on such items as toilet articles and cosmetics, jewelry, furs and leather goods.

Nelson commented: "With all the discussion about excise tax cuts, I am astonished that it is proposed to cut seldom bought luxury items like furs and handbags and to leave off the recommended list a necessity like telephone service. The telephone user has been paying this tax every month, every year, for more than 20 years as a 'temporary wartime' tax.

"IT WAS originally put on to discourage telephone usage during the war. A telephone customer is now paying an average of about $22 per year in federal excise taxes and unless action is taken at the next Congress, he will continue to do so. All emergency excise taxes on utility users, except the tax on telephone service, have been repealed."

In their testimony before congressional committees asking repeal, telephone companies have pointed out that phone service today is a necessity rather than a luxury and that the tax falls most heavily on the low income user. It also increases the cost of doing business for every company in the land, they testified.

Since the tax is levied directly against the individual consumer, its elimination would mean that full savings would go to him, Nelson said.

Unemployment Claims Show Seasonal Rise

State Director of Labor John E. Cullerton last week reported a rise in the number of individuals claiming benefits under the Illinois unemployment compensation program during the week ended Nov. 14.

He attributed the increase to seasonal changes in employment particularly in Downstate areas. He added that, despite the week's increase, the level was decidedly below the mid-November level for any year since 1955.

Claims for Illinois unemployment compensation were filed by 52,797 persons throughout the State in the week ended Nov. 14. There were 3.1 per cent more than in the preceding week (51,202), but 27 per cent fewer than in the corresponding week in 1963 (72,041).

Included in the state-wide total were 9,308 individuals who filed their first claims following a layoff. This was 2.7 per cent more than the 9,060 in the preceding week, although 22 per cent fewer than the 11,988 in the same week one year ago.

THERE WERE 28,111 claimants in Cook and DuPage Counties. Their number was 1.2 per cent above the preceding week's figure (27,790), but 33 per cent below the comparable week last year (42,230).

The total for Cook and DuPage Counties included 4,055 persons who filed their first claims following a layoff. This was 2.5 per cent fewer than the 4,158 in the preceding week and 38 per cent fewer than the 6,528 in the same week in 1963.

Suburbanite Emergency Protection Personal Accident Policy

ISSUED EXCLUSIVELY TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS AND THEIR FAMILY HOUSEHOLD MEMBERS

- The farmer is constantly exposed to accident hazards while working around the barns and in the field with mechanized equipment such as the automobile, truck, tractor, planter, cultivator, picker, sheller, combine, conveyer, pumps and tools. Care of fowl and animals often results in the farmer being bitten, kicked, gored or trampled.
- The entire family should have this protection—man, woman and children.
- Policy will help pay those expenses resulting from bodily injury—whether simple or serious—when accidents strike at home, while traveling, at work, on the farm, at school, or at play.
- Subject to its provisions, the policy includes indemnity for: Loss of Life, from $500 to $10,000; Loss of Limb, $250 to $10,000; Loss of Sight, $175 to $10,000; Total Disability, up to $500, pro-rated on a daily basis; First Aid, up to $5 for non-disabling injury; Ambulance, up to $10 for this service; Hospital, up to $200, pro-rated on a daily basis; X-Ray, up to $10 for injury examination.
- Issued without medical examination.
- No age limits (Specific Loss and Total Disability Indemnities are reduced fifty per cent (50%) when insured is or becomes age 70 or over).
- Pays in addition to other personal accident insurance carried.
- Pays on work accidents that are covered by State Compensation Laws.
- Specific Loss Indemnities increase in value ten per cent (10%) each year during first 5 years of consecutive renewal.
- The policy is issued by Old Republic Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Illinois. Protection begins at NOON on the actual date of issuance of the policy.

Mrs. John Nitz, S. Elk Grove Road, gave a personal bridal shower Oct. 28 for her niece, Marjorie Ann Newlands of Chicago.

On Nov. 7, Mr. and Mrs. Nitz, Linda and Jackie and Mr. A. Nitz, also of Elk Grove Road, attended the wedding of Miss Newlands to Dr. Robert P. Moffett, Lt, USN, in Chicago, the wedding breakfast at Elliott's Pine Log and the evening reception and dinner at the Oak Park Arms.

Mrs. Wade Mulheran, mother of Mary Hilgeman, S. Busse Road, left Wednesday from O'Hare for her home in Phoenix, after a month's visit with the Hilgemans and relatives in Lombard and Chicago.

CONGRATULATIONS are being received by Chris Hilgeman, who has been taking flying lessons. He soloed and received his wings this past week. He is now working for his private license.

Mrs. Don Larson, W. Algonquin Road, and Mrs. Otto Gorgius, S. Busse Road, and members of their sewing club enjoyed a day out for their Nov. 4 meeting instead of a luncheon at the home of a member. They went to Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles to see "Love Out of Town," starring Linda Darnell and John Conte.

COLONIAL HEIGHTS

Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Treder, 1703 Martha Lane, celebrated his fifth birthday Nov. 11 with a party for Scott Swanson, Kurt Long, Corey Rucci, Mary K., Greg and Terry Hilgeman, Carol Surganty, Donald Slome and his brother, Bruce.

Thursday, Mrs. Wade Gale, 1717 Estates Drive, and Mary Ann Thalman of Des Plaines, took a drive to Addison, later having lunch in this area at the Waterfall Restaurant.

Nov. 12, the Dom Cipriani family, 1722 Estates Drive, attended a dual birthday party for their nephews, David and Chris Cipriani in Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. Tom Kelly, 1721 Estates Drive, had their daughter, Victoria Ann, christened at St. Raymond Church in Mount Prospect on Nov. 1. Godparents were her uncle, Michael Kelly of Chicago, and cousin, Rosalind Carso of Franklin Park. Dinner for 30 relatives and friends followed at the Kelly home.

Janet Ann, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Dryer, 1720 Myrtle Drive, was christened Nov. 15 at St. Raymond's. Her godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mugnolo of Chicago. The christening was followed by a family dinner at the Dreyer home.

LAKE BRIARWOOD

The Lake Briarwood Property Owners Association held the annual election of officers Tuesday night at Forest View Elementary School. Officers for the coming year are: Roy Jorgensen, president; Gordon Dunker, vice president; Mel Lawrence, treasurer; the office of secretary was left open. New board members are Jack Foster, Jake Grosch, Peg Teske, Robert Taylor, Gordon Lord, Winnie Powell and Ed Thuy.

Roger Bardwell, E. Briarwood Drive, spent Tuesday in St. Louis, studying new school construction.

Thursday, Mrs. Roy Jorgensen and her mother, Mrs. Anna Schar, both of E. Briarwood Drive, spent the day visiting Mrs. Jorgensen's daughter, Judy Lubecke at her new home in Woodland Heights.

ELK RIDGE VILLA

Mr. and Mrs. John Heinz, Robert Drive, celebrated the recent christening of Steven at St. Zachary Church in Des Plaines at a dinner for the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Churney of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. J. Heinz of Park Ridge. Mrs. Churney and Mr. Heinz are also the baby's godparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mallian, Robert Drive, spent last weekend on a flying trip to New York City. While Bill attended the Graphic Arts Technical Foundation Seminar at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Beverly shopped. Saturday evening they attended the play, "What Makes Sammy Run" starring Steve Lawrence at the 54th Street Theatre.

Sunday they enjoyed sightseeing; going to Staten Island, the Statue of Liberty and the United Nations and Empire State Buildings, returning home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Floody, Robert Drive, celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary at the Flame Restaurant in Lombard on Saturday with friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. Aiello of Elmhurst.

COLONIAL HEIGHTS

Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Treder, 1703 Martha Lane, celebrated his fifth birthday Nov. 11 with a party for Scott Swanson, Kurt Long, Corey Rucci, Mary K., Greg and Terry Hilgeman, Carol Surganty, Donald Slome and his brother, Bruce.

Thursday, Mrs. Wade Gale, 1717 Estates Drive, and Mary Ann Thalman of Des Plaines, took a drive to Addison, later having lunch in this area at the Waterfall Restaurant.

Nov. 12, the Dom Cipriani family, 1722 Estates Drive, attended a dual birthday party for their nephews, David and Chris Cipriani in Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. Tom Kelly, 1721 Estates Drive, had their daughter, Victoria Ann, christened at St. Raymond Church in Mount Prospect on Nov. 1. Godparents were her uncle, Michael Kelly of Chicago, and cousin, Rosalind Carso of Franklin Park. Dinner for 30 relatives and friends followed at the Kelly home.

Janet Ann, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Dryer, 1720 Myrtle Drive, was christened Nov. 15 at St. Raymond's. Her godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mugnolo of Chicago. The christening was followed by a family dinner at the Dreyer home.

LAKE BRIARWOOD

The Lake Briarwood Property Owners Association held the annual election of officers Tuesday night at Forest View Elementary School. Officers for the coming year are: Roy Jorgensen, president; Gordon Dunker, vice president; Mel Lawrence, treasurer; the office of secretary was left open. New board members are Jack Foster, Jake Grosch, Peg Teske, Robert Taylor, Gordon Lord, Winnie Powell and Ed Thuy.

Roger Bardwell, E. Briarwood Drive, spent Tuesday in St. Louis, studying new school construction.

Thursday, Mrs. Roy Jorgensen and her mother, Mrs. Anna Schar, both of E. Briarwood Drive, spent the day visiting Mrs. Jorgensen's daughter, Judy Lubecke at her new home in Woodland Heights.

ELK RIDGE VILLA

Mr. and Mrs. John Heinz, Robert Drive, celebrated the recent christening of Steven at St. Zachary Church in Des Plaines at a dinner for the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Churney of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. J. Heinz of Park Ridge. Mrs. Churney and Mr. Heinz are also the baby's godparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mallian, Robert Drive, spent last weekend on a flying trip to New York City. While Bill attended the Graphic Arts Technical Foundation Seminar at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Beverly shopped. Saturday evening they attended the play, "What Makes Sammy Run" starring Steve Lawrence at the 54th Street Theatre.

Sunday they enjoyed sightseeing; going to Staten Island, the Statue of Liberty and the United Nations and Empire State Buildings, returning home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Floody, Robert Drive, celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary at the Flame Restaurant in Lombard on Saturday with friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. Aiello of Elmhurst.

State Studies Dangerous Corners Near Forest View

The state traffic bureau has sent field engineers to study the need for traffic control or warning signals on Highways 58 and 62 near Forest View High School after receiving copies of bus drivers' danger protests first aired in the Nov. 12 Herald.

The Herald article sent to the state bureau described the danger of intersections where Goebbert Road, on which the high school is located in Arlington Heights, meets both highways.

The situation was brought to light by drivers of the Cook County School Bus Co., which serves the high school. They complained of being required to face hazards daily in attempting to turn in and out of Goebbert Road at heavy traffic times.

There are no warning signals or traffic control of any sort at Goebbert's intersection with either Golf Road (Highway 58) of Algonquin Road (Highway 62).

MOST DIFFICULT time is the morning run (about 7:30 a.m.) which coincides with rush hour traffic to Chicago.

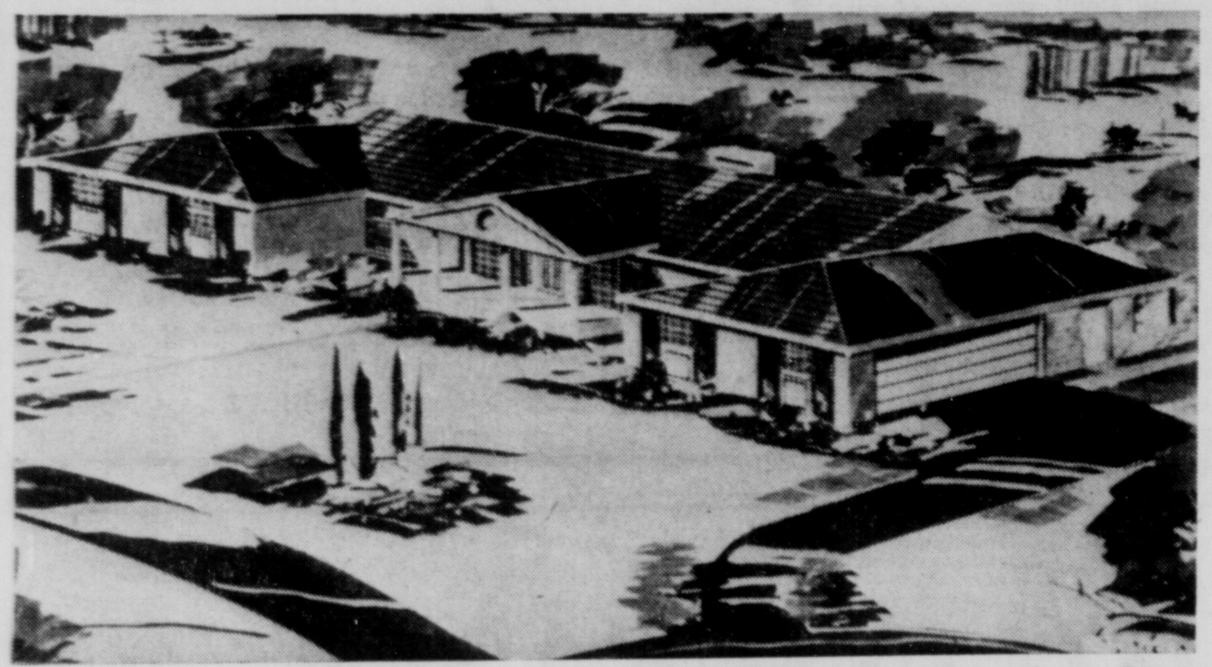
After publication of the bus drivers' complaint, High School District 214 also mailed a communication to the traffic bureau asking that the possibility of some control at the two corners be investigated.

In addition to bus traffic, autos of both students and teachers must buck the morning and afternoon traffic tides on the busy highways, and many pedestrian students use the intersections as crossing points.

An official of the traffic bureau said it would be at least a week or two before reports of the field engineers would be received.

The engineers were to talk to school officials and survey the area around the high school.

Varied Home Designs Offered at Long Grove



THIS COLONIAL ranch home with shuttered, multi-pane windows and columned front porch is only one of many distinctive and original homes featured in the Long Grove Country Club Estates on Route 53 in the century-old village of Long Grove.

Almost unlimited variety of custom home building is immediately evident in Long Grove Country Club Estates, located on Illinois Route 53 in the 100-year-old Village of Long Grove, about two miles west of Route 83.

The homes now built, or under construction include ranches, colonials and multi-levels. All are custom originals, the products of a number of different designers. All homes exhibit individuality with much of the styling and planning being the personal concepts of the owners.

R. J. ANDERSON, developer of the all-residential community, says, "Our idea is to provide just the right site for exactly the kind of home a family may have been planning for years. Here, we give them plenty of room—a picturesque setting—and we help, when needed, in designing a home they can really call their own from the ground up."

Typical of the imaginative designs in Long Grove Country Club Estates is the colonial ranch home to be seen at the [illegible] of Shiloh Drive and Sheridan Court. The home's [illegible] exterior is accented by shuttered, multi-paned windows, and a wide, columned front porch. Special feature is a big enclosed porch at the rear, which overlooks Yankee Lake and the golf course.

A little further along Shiloh Drive is an eye-catching three-level home. Sweeping use of space is employed with an unusual imbalance of the home's three wings adding interest. With two large terraces at the rear on different levels looking out over the lake, this design invites outdoor family living.

On the other side of the fairway, on Cumberland Circle is the rambling ranch home of developer Bob Anderson. In exterior concept, it employs large windows and wall space. Comfort and plenty of room keynote inside planning. On this hillside location, the convenient basement entrance is an integral part of this design.

FARTHER SOUTH, along Lexington Drive and overlooking Sentinel Lake, is a gracious traditional ranch. The enclosed front entry court, with arched "basket handle" gateway catches the visitor's attention. Planned for plenty of room and comfortable living, there are both a large service porch and an enclosed porch at a rear corner.

Long Grove Country Club Estates may be visited daily from 10 a.m. till dusk. 10BB

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS COUNTY DEPARTMENT, COUNTY DIVISION

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT TO PAY THE COST OF CURBING, GRADING, PAVING AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING GEORGE STREET AND OTHER STREETS IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS SPECIAL ASSESSMENT NO. 155

Final Special Assessment Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons interested that the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights has heretofore filed in said Court, in said cause, a certificate of the cost of said improvement and the amount estimated by the Board to be required to pay the accruing interest upon Improvement Bonds issued to anticipate the collection of the assessments, and also showing that the improvement has been constructed in substantial conformity to the requirements of the original ordinance therefor.

THE HEARING to consider and determine whether or not the facts as stated in said certificate are true will be held in said Court on the 21st day of December, A.D., 1964, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. or as soon thereafter as the business of the Court will permit.

ALL PERSONS desiring may file objections in said Court before said day and may appear at the hearing and make their defense.

DATED: This 26th day of November, A.D., 1964.

Auto Insurance Claims Reach $1/4 Billion

Premium Increases, Coverage Reviewed

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

The Illinois Insurance Information Service has reported automobile insurance claims in the state now approach a quarter of a billion dollars a year — having jumped nearly 5 per cent in 1963.

This cost averages almost $25 for each man, woman and child, and yet represents only part of what traffic accidents are costing per capita.

Who pays? Who should pay? Individual car owners, of course, pay widely varying premiums for insurance coverage. The theory is that each owner should pay according to the likelihood of his having claims.

BUT IF car owners have been confused in the past over insurance rates, they haven't seen anything yet.

Nearly every one of the 400 companies writing auto insurance in Illinois either already has established rate changes or expects to have them approved in the near future by the state insurance department.

Insurance companies have devised a series of new classifications: by type of car, by place of residence, by number of miles driven annually, by age, sex and marital status of all persons operating the car, and by a number of other considerations.

"The companies," one Arlington Heights insurance agent explained, "are trying to be more equitable. But they also are making more confusion."

This agent, who is studying a new 75-page booklet to explain the growing number of classifications, said about the only way the individual policyholder can get the picture as it concerns him is to sit down with his own agent.

PREMIUMS for some auto owners actually will decrease.

The average increase for the state, however, is about 6 to 9 per cent, according to Robert Icks, of the Illinois Bureau of Casualty Insurers.

Some of the biggest increases are coming in the already hard-to-insure group of unmarried males under age 25. Insurers now are splitting this age group. For example, 17-year-olds may pay a different rate from 20-year-olds.

AN ATTEMPT is being made to recognize that some young unmarried men are careful drivers, although as a group they are a menace on the road.

Drivers under 25 last year were at the wheel in 6 million accidents, of which 17,000 were fatal. Nearly 10,000 males between 15 and 24 were killed in traffic.

Some insurance companies have devised psychological tests in an effort to pick the young drivers who are good risks. Most now give a premium reduction for young drivers who have had driver training.

One factor behind the current reclassification of drivers is the widespread use of electronic computers in producing detailed information about the accident and claim records of many types of car owners.

Insurance company executives make two claims. One is that they as much as any one else hate to see auto insurance rates go up. The other is that the auto insurance business has been marginal at best and many companies have been operating at a loss.

WHO IS AT fault for increased auto insurance rates? Besides young males, those getting part of the blame include auto manufacturers who design cars with more and more expensive replacement parts, politicians who create loopholes for chronic traffic law violators to get their driving licenses restored, lawyers who specialize in traffic injury law suits, doctors who are willing to falsify medical reports.

But a spokesman for the Insurance Information Service says much of the blame must fall on drivers of average backgrounds who make false or exaggerated claims against the company, often with the willing cooperation of garage operators.

How fast insurance rates are going up is debated. Icks says that discounting inflation, insurance rates have changed little, considering the added coverage. An Arlington Heights agent, Victor Beisler, notes an upward trend in insurance costs just from the difference in replacement parts — the old flat windshield against the new wrap-around, for example.

BEISLER says the average suburban driver also is increasing the amount of his coverage. Few drivers, except those who are forced into getting insurance, are satisfied with the old personal injury liability limits of $5,000 for each person and $10,000 for each accident. The average suburban car owner now wants limits between $50,-$200,000.

One popular misconception about traffic accidents is that much of the costs comes from deaths.

Fatal accidents may get the headlines, but auto insurance companies pay out only 3 per cent of their claims on fatalities.

Another 51 per cent of the claims is on nonfatal injuries (at least 1,600,000 persons are injured in auto accidents annually, according to the National Safety Council). And 46 per cent of the claims is for property damage.

THE INSURANCE Information Service refers to a "$4-billion a year injury industry" arising from motor vehicle accidents. The service reports insurance companies settle more than 90 per cent of the injury claims without any court action. In addition, it says that in Cook County just over 50 per cent of the jury cases has been decided in favor of the insurance companies.

A chief target of insurance industry criticism is the National Assn. of Claimants' Compensation Attorneys (NACCA).

THIS ORGANIZATION with a claimed membership of 15,000 attorneys, specializes in helping claimants obtain large judgments in personal injury law suits.

A NACCA spokesman recently criticised the insurance industry for promoting the concept that damages should be limited to medical and hospital bills and loss of earnings. He said a person injured in a car accident is entitled to payment for pain and suffering. Some juries persuaded by NACCA arguments have awarded five and six figure judgments.

Will auto insurance rates continue to go up?

Some trends are unfavorable, others favorable.

More young drivers are going to be on the highways. There now are 19 million licensed drivers under age 25 in the United States. By 1970 there may be 36 million.

IN ILLINOIS the past 10 years the number of registered motor vehicles increased by 33 per cent, the number of drivers by 19 per cent, the number of miles driven by 34 per cent.

In the same period the number of accidents more than doubled and the number of injuries increased by two-thirds.

Yet on the brighter side, the number of deaths fell slightly.

And the deaths per 100 million miles of vehicle travel dropped from 7.0 to 5.1.

Northwest Expansion

Low Bid Okayed by Hospital Trustees

Bids for construction of the $4 million expansion program at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, are "within the expected range" according to architect Raymond Garbe.

The successful bidding insures start of construction of the hospital addition before Christmas.

Bids for the new construction were opened Thursday.

Low bidder in a field of six was W. E. O'Neill Construction Co., Chicago. The base bid was $2,825,000, or $2,842,500 for various required additional features.

Highest base bid was $3,099,-880. This was a spread of 9.7 per cent — within the expected range, Garbe said.

The low bid was approved at a special meeting of the hospital board of trustees Monday night.

BEFORE A contract can be signed, approval of the bid and the bidder must be received from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health Service, and the State of Illinois Bureau of Hospitals. This is expected "without problem" in about 10 days, Garbe explained.

The bid includes the new construction, remodeling of sections of the present hospital structure and the installation of all permanent equipment. It also includes site work to grounds and parking areas.

Furnishings and special equipment are expected to bring the total cost of the hospital expansion to more than $3.5 million according to Alan Campbell, hospital administrator.

FIRST PHASE of the construction, slated for completion in about a year, will be the addition of a new nursing unit for 120 beds. This will bring the total beds in the hospital to 225. In this unit will be a new elevator bank, enlarged kitchen and cafeteria, and increased area for the hospital pharmacy. As part of the renovation the present nursing unit will be air conditioned, in keeping with the new addition.

Included in the expansion program will be greatly enlarged facilities for the emergency room and outpatient service. Other areas marked for major enlargement are the surgery, x-ray and radiology department and hospuital laboratory. The laboratory will include a special blood-bank section. Another new section will be devoted to physical therapy. The office area also is slated for enlargement.

The O'Neill Construction firm has had previous experience in hospital building, according to Garbe. Bidding was restricted to firms with previous experience, high reputation, sound financial status and large enough to handle a major construction project.

ONE OF the best known projects built by the firm is the Veterans Administration Research Hospital adjacent to the Northwestern University Chicago campus.

The firm must submit proof of performance and payment bonds and insurance coverage before start of construction.

Construction time on the Northwest Community Hospital addition is set for 820 days before start of penalty for the contractor. Garbe stressed it was hoped the construction could be completed earlier.

(B-10

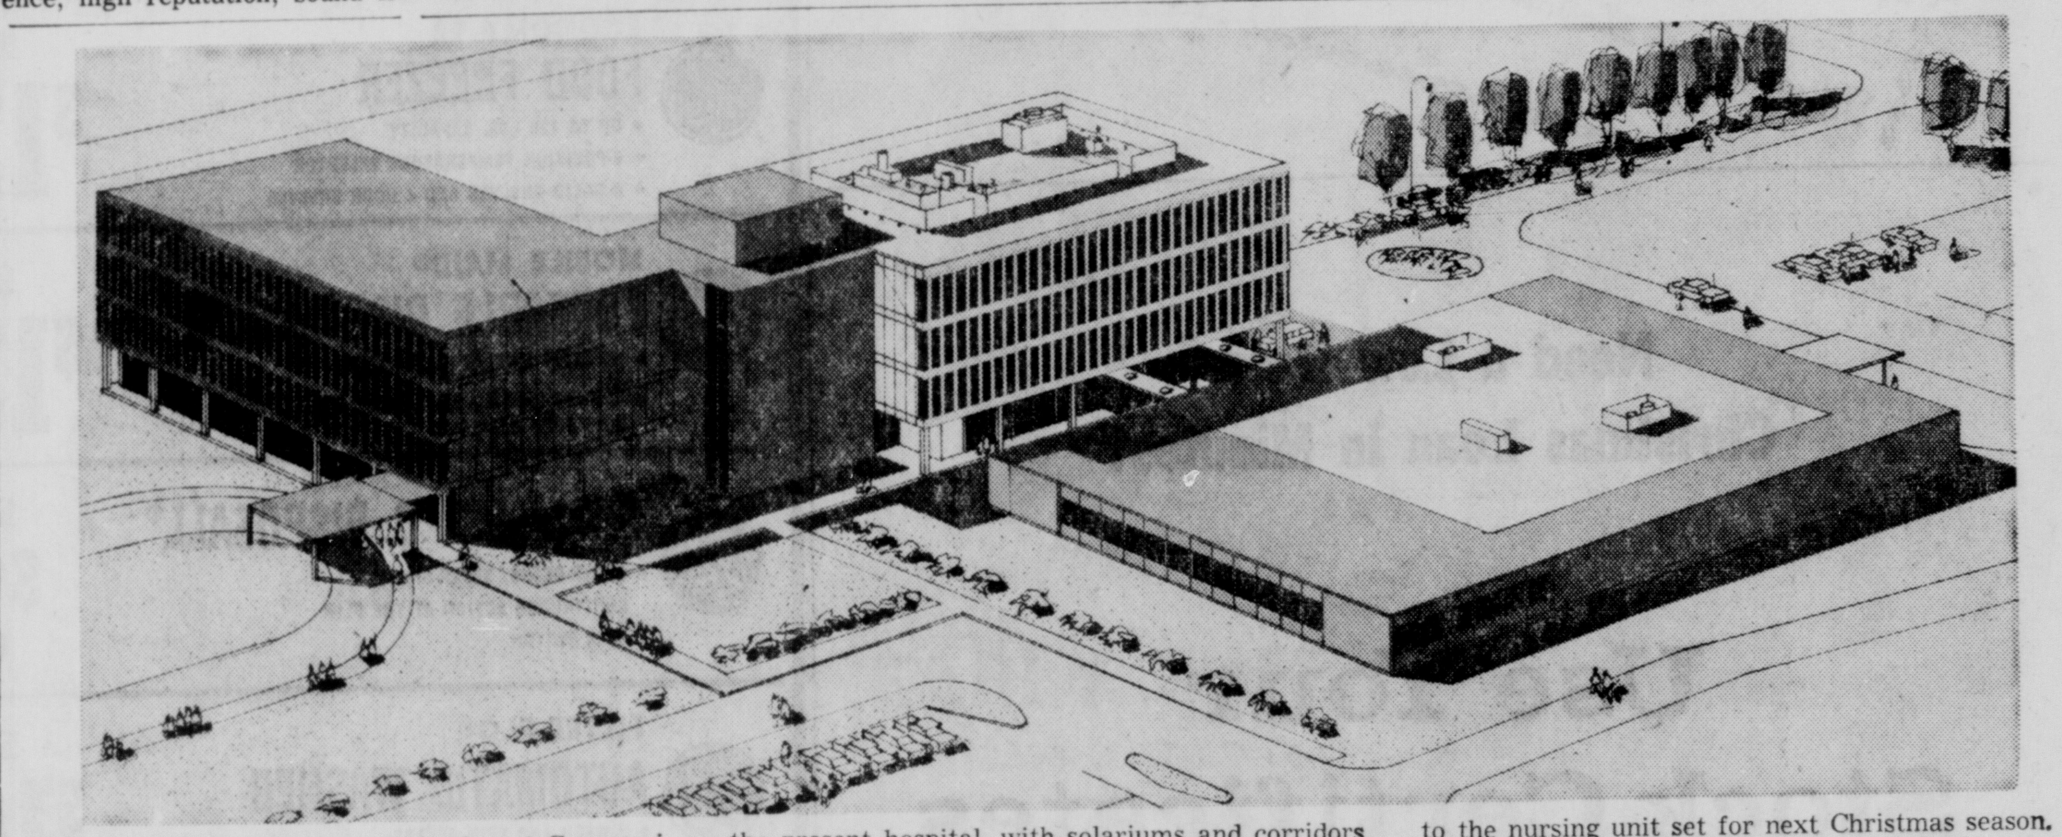
A LITTLE MORE THAN five years ago this was the way Northwest Community Hospital appeared. Next Wednesday the hospital will mark its first five years of operation. More than 125,000 patients have used the facilities of the hospital in that period. Emergency room use has more than doubled from the Dec. 2, 1959 opening to the present. In the period since the hospital was first planned, population of the hospital service area has risen from about 40,000 to an estimated 165,000.

(B10



ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of Northwest Community Hospital at the completion of the $4 million expansion program shows how the facility will double in capacity. The present 110 bed capacity will be doubled, and all major facilities of the hospital will be enlarged. Crowding is common at the present hospital, with solariums and corridors used for over-flow patients. Last year on 344 days the hospital turned away at least one non-emergency patient for lack of bed space. Groundbreaking for the new addition is expected before Christmas, with completion of the main 100-bed addition to the nursing unit set for next Christmas season. Award of construction work, based on low bid, came this week in time for the fifth anniversary celebration set for Wednesday, Dec. 2.

Touch-Tone Slated For Wheeling Area

Touch-Tone calling will come to Wheeling, Half Day, Buffalo Grove, Prairie View and Aptakisic Dec. 4, according to Art Wiederin, Illinois Bell Telephone manager.

Touch-Tone is the new way of calling in which buttons are used instead of a dial.

The service will be offered to customers in those communities whose telephone numbers begin with LE 7, NE 4, 537 and 634.

Phone users ordering the new service will no longer have to wind up the dial for each digit, then wait for it to spin back.

"MOST PEOPLE will be able to tap out a number in less than half the time it takes them to dial," Wiederin said.

Touch-Tone will be offered on an optional basis at one-time and monthly charges. The cost for Touch-Tone residence service is the same no matter how many phones are installed, and color comes free, the manager pointed out.

Auto Insurance Claims Reach $1/4 Billion

Premium Increases, Coverage Reviewed

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

The Illinois Insurance Information Service has reported automobile insurance claims in the state now approach a quarter of a billion dollars a year — having jumped nearly 5 per cent in 1963.

This cost averages almost $25 for each man, woman and child, and yet represents only part of what traffic accidents are costing per capita.

Who pays? Who should pay? Individual car owners, of course, pay widely varying premiums for insurance coverage. The theory is that each owner should pay according to the likelihood of his having claims.

BUT IF car owners have been confused in the past over insurance rates, they haven't seen anything yet.

Nearly every one of the 400 companies writing auto insurance in Illinois either already has established rate changes or expects to have them approved in the near future by the state insurance department.

Insurance companies have devised a series of new classifications: by type of car, by place of residence, by number of miles driven annually, by age, sex and marital status of all persons operating the car, and by a number of other considerations.

"The companies," one Arlington Heights insurance agent explained, "are trying to be more equitable. But they also are making more confusion."

This agent, who is studying a new 75-page booklet to explain the growing number of classifications, said about the only way the individual policyholder can get the picture as it concerns him is to sit down with his own agent.

PREMIUMS for some auto owners actually will decrease.

The average increase for the state, however, is about 6 to 9 per cent, according to Robert Icks, of the Illinois Bureau of Casualty Insurers.

Some of the biggest increases are coming in the already hard-to-insure group of unmarried males under age 25. Insurers now are splitting this age group. For example, 17-year-olds may pay a different rate from 20-year-olds.

AN ATTEMPT is being made to recognize that some young unmarried men are careful drivers, although as a group they are a menace on the road.

Drivers under 25 last year were at the wheel in 6 million accidents, of which 17,000 were fatal. Nearly 10,000 males between 15 and 24 were killed in traffic.

Some insurance companies have devised psychological tests in an effort to pick the young drivers who are good risks. Most now give a premium reduction for young drivers who have had driver training.

One factor behind the current reclassification of drivers is the widespread use of electronic computers in producing detailed information about the accident and claim records of many types of car owners.

Insurance company executives make two claims. One is that they as much as any one else hate to see auto insurance rates go up. The other is that the auto insurance business has been marginal at best and many companies have been operating at a loss.

WHO IS AT fault for increased auto insurance rates? Besides young males, those getting part of the blame include auto manufacturers who design cars with more and more expensive replacement parts, politicians who create loopholes for chronic traffic law violators to get their driving licenses restored, lawyers who specialize in traffic injury law suits, doctors who are willing to falsify medical reports.

But a spokesman for the Insurance Information Service says much of the blame must fall on drivers of average backgrounds who make false or exaggerated claims against the company, often with the willing cooperation of garage operators.

How fast insurance rates are going up is debated. Icks says that discounting inflation, insurance rates have changed little, considering the added coverage. An Arlington Heights agent, Victor Beisler, notes an upward trend in insurance costs just from the difference in replacement parts — the old flat windshield against the new wrap-around, for example.

BEISLER says the average suburban driver also is increasing the amount of his coverage. Few drivers, except those who are forced into getting insurance, are satisfied with the old personal injury liability limits of $5,000 for each person and $10,000 for each accident. The average suburban car owner now wants limits between $50,-$200,000.

One popular misconception about traffic accidents is that much of the costs comes from deaths.

Fatal accidents may get the headlines, but auto insurance companies pay out only 3 per cent of their claims on fatalities.

Another 51 per cent of the claims is on nonfatal injuries (at least 1,600,000 persons are injured in auto accidents annually, according to the National Safety Council). And 46 per cent of the claims is for property damage.

THE INSURANCE Information Service refers to a "$4-billion a year injury industry" arising from motor vehicle accidents. The service reports insurance companies settle more than 90 per cent of the injury claims without any court action. In addition, it says that in Cook County just over 50 per cent of the jury cases has been decided in favor of the insurance companies.

A chief target of insurance industry criticism is the National Assn. of Claimants' Compensation Attorneys (NACCA).

THIS ORGANIZATION with a claimed membership of 15,000 attorneys, specializes in helping claimants obtain large judgments in personal injury law suits.

A NACCA spokesman recently criticised the insurance industry for promoting the concept that damages should be limited to medical and hospital bills and loss of earnings. He said a person injured in a car accident is entitled to payment for pain and suffering. Some juries persuaded by NACCA arguments have awarded five and six figure judgments.

Will auto insurance rates continue to go up?

Some trends are unfavorable, others favorable.

More young drivers are going to be on the highways. There now are 19 million licensed drivers under age 25 in the United States. By 1970 there may be 36 million.

IN ILLINOIS the past 10 years the number of registered motor vehicles increased by 33 per cent, the number of drivers by 19 per cent, the number of miles driven by 34 per cent.

In the same period the number of accidents more than doubled and the number of injuries increased by two-thirds.

Yet on the brighter side, the number of deaths fell slightly.

And the deaths per 100 million miles of vehicle travel dropped from 7.0 to 5.1.

Bids for construction of the $4 million expansion program at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, are "within the expected range" according to architect Raymond Garbe.

The successful bidding insures start of construction of the hospital addition before Christmas.

Bids for the new construction were opened Thursday.

Low bidder in a field of six was W. E. O'Neill Construction Co., Chicago. The base bid was $2,825,000, or $2,842,500 for various required additional features.

Highest base bid was $3,099,-880. This was a spread of 9.7 per cent — within the expected range, Garbe said.

The low bid was approved at a special meeting of the hospital board of trustees Monday night.

BEFORE A contract can be signed, approval of the bid and the bidder must be received from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health Service, and the State of Illinois Bureau of Hospitals. This is expected "without problem" in about 10 days, Garbe explained.

The bid includes the new construction, remodeling of sections of the present hospital structure and the installation of all permanent equipment. It also includes site work to grounds and parking areas.

Furnishings and special equipment are expected to bring the total cost of the hospital expansion to more than $3.5 million according to Alan Campbell, hospital administrator.

FIRST PHASE of the construction, slated for completion in about a year, will be the addition of a new nursing unit for 120 beds. This will bring the total beds in the hospital to 225. In this unit will be a new elevator bank, enlarged kitchen and cafeteria, and increased area for the hospital pharmacy. As part of the renovation the present nursing unit will be air conditioned, in keeping with the new addition.

Included in the expansion program will be greatly enlarged facilities for the emergency room and outpatient service. Other areas marked for major enlargement are the surgery, x-ray and radiology department and hospuital laboratory. The laboratory will include a special blood-bank section. Another new section will be devoted to physical therapy. The office area also is slated for enlargement.

The O'Neill Construction firm has had previous experience in hospital building, according to Garbe. Bidding was restricted to firms with previous experience, high reputation, sound financial status and large enough to handle a major construction project.

ONE OF the best known projects built by the firm is the Veterans Administration Research Hospital adjacent to the Northwestern University Chicago campus.

The firm must submit proof of performance and payment bonds and insurance coverage before start of construction.

Construction time on the Northwest Community Hospital addition is set for 820 days before start of penalty for the contractor. Garbe stressed it was hoped the construction could be completed earlier.

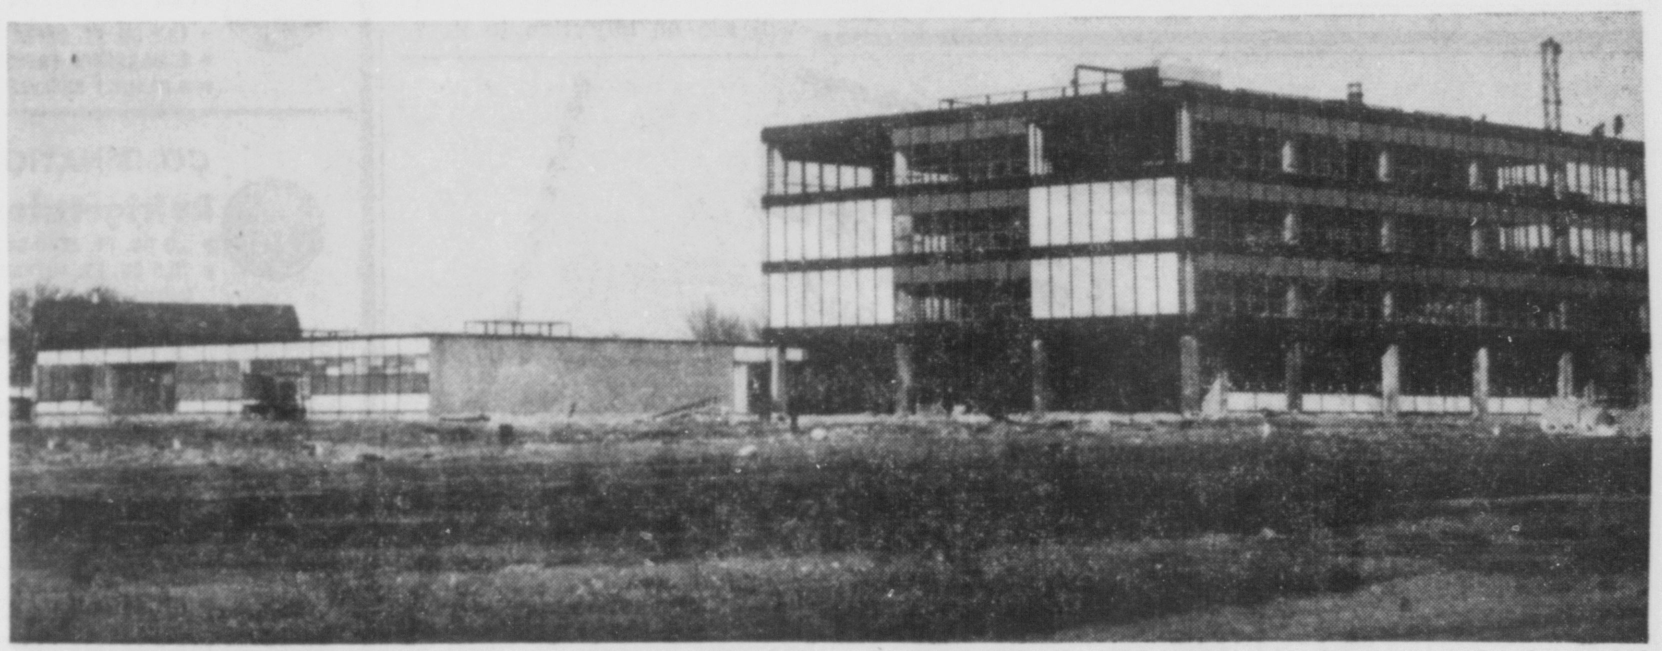
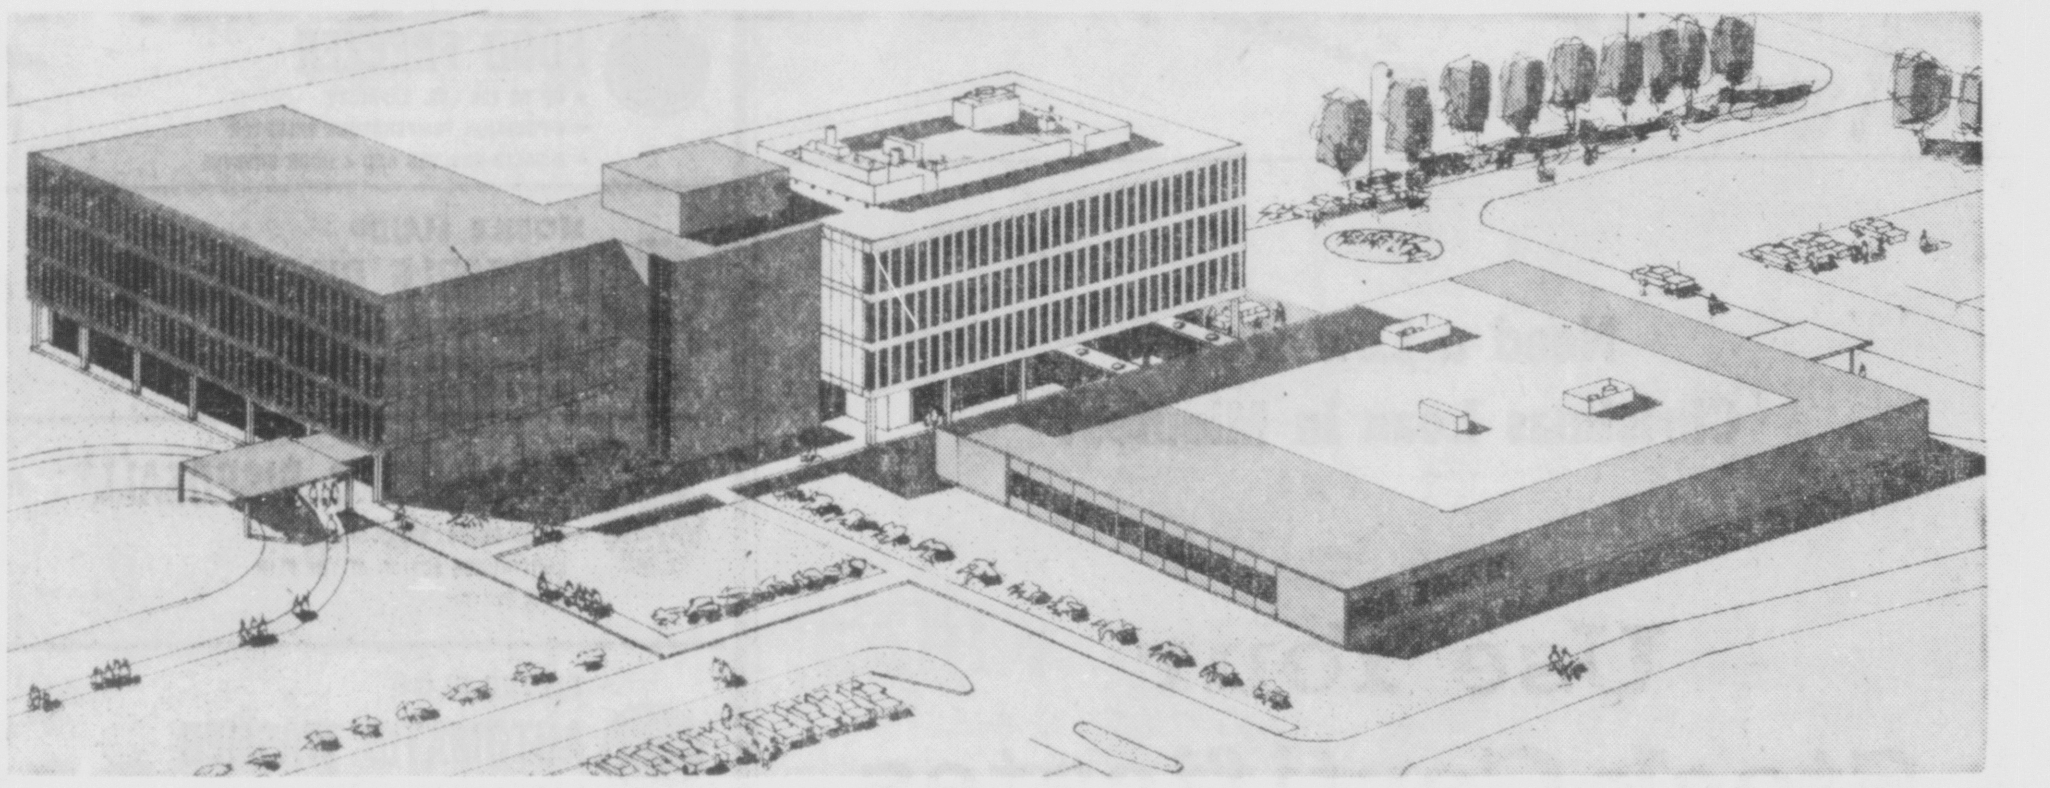
OPENING BIDS for construction of the $3.5 million addition to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, is architect Raymond Garbe (second from right). On hand for the bid opening were, from left, Alan Campbell, hospital administrator; Daniel Jacobs and Harold F. Stamps, hospital and medical construction engineers for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Wayne Meierhans, chief architect of the Illinois Bureau of Hospitals; Nicholas Lattof, chairman of the hospital expansion program; Harold Rose, chairman of the hospital board committee on building; and John Sheptak, chief engineer for the hospital. (B-10



A LITTLE MORE THAN five years ago this was the way Northwest Community Hospital appeared. Next Wednesday the hospital will mark its first five years of operation. More than 125,000 patients have used the facilities of the hospital in that period. Emergency room use has more than doubled from the Dec. 2, 1959 opening to the present. In the period since the hospital was first planned, population of the hospital service area has risen from about 40,000 to an estimated 165,000. (B10



ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of Northwest Community Hospital at the completion of the $4 million expansion program shows how the facility will double in capacity. The present 110 bed capacity will be doubled, and all major facilities of the hospital will be enlarged. Crowding is common at the present hospital, with solariums and corridors used for over-flow patients. Last year on 344 days the hospital turned away at least one non-emergency patient for lack of bed space. Groundbreaking for the new addition is expected before Christmas, with completion of the main 100-bed addition to the nursing unit set for next Christmas season. Award of construction work, based on low bid, came this week in time for the fifth anniversary celebration set for Wednesday, Dec. 2. (B10

Navy Recruits

Five young persons residing in the northwest suburbs recently enlisted in the U.S. Navy at the Navy recruiting station in Des Plaines. Four of the enlistees were men, and one was a woman.

The male recruits are Paul L. Lehmann Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Lehmann of 2902 S. Court; Glenn R. Farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis G. Farmer of 2254 Algonquin Pkwy., and William T. Bouchard, son of Jean H. Bouchard, 2603 Flicker Lane, all of Rolling Meadows, and Michael L. Anderson, 255 George Road, Wheeling. All are taking recruit training at Great Lakes.

Eunice L. Rankhorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred P. Rankhorn of 125 S. Greeley, Palatine, is getting her training at the WAVE training station, Bainbridge, Md. 10WUS

Touch-Tone Slated For Wheeling Area

Touch-Tone calling will come to Wheeling, Half Day, Buffalo Grove, Prairie View and Aptakisic Dec. 4, according to Art Wiederin, Illinois Bell Telephone manager.

Touch-Tone is the new way of calling in which buttons are used instead of a dial.

The service will be offered to customers in those communities whose telephone numbers begin with LE 7, NE 4, 537 and 634.

Phone users ordering the new service will no longer have to wind up the dial for each digit, then wait for it to spin back.

"MOST PEOPLE will be able to tap out a number in less than half the time it takes them to dial," Wiederin said.

Touch-Tone will be offered on an optional basis at one-time and monthly charges. The cost for Touch-Tone residence service is the same no matter how many phones are installed, and color comes free, the manager pointed out.

Traditional Objections Heard On 8-Acre Apartment Plan

The traditional objections to apartments were made Friday when Cook County Zoning Board heard a request for R-5 zoning for eight acres on Busse Road south of Algonquin Road in Elk Grove Township.

The session lasted more than five hours.

Milton Soloman, a Skokie attorney, said he wanted to delop the site for 146 apartments. These would include 110 one-bedroom units and 36 two-bedroom units in a project similar to one at 1400 S. Busse Road.

ATTY. JACK Siegal representing Arlington Heights will file an objection to the apartments adjacent to Lake Briarwood.

Mount Prospect objected and was represented by Atty. Ed Hofert.

Elk Grove Village has asked for time to file an objection.

Soloman said the apartment project would have a swimming pool. He estimated cost of the project at $1,200,000 to $1,400,000 with individual units costing $8,500 to $9,500.

It is planned as a two-story brick building with exterior balcony and entrances.

WATER AND sewer facilities for the property came under long questioning by Siegel and Hofert. Soloman said Utility Sewer and Water Co., owned by Builder Salvatore DiMucci has "adequate sewer and water facilities to serve the project." The sewer and water would be south of Algonquin Road west of Busse Road.

Soloman said he would build a retention point if it is required. His attorney introduced a map showing the drainage in the area and his property on high ground.

The objecting attorneys pointed out the plan did not meet county building requirements since it showed more than one building on a zoning lot. Architect Robert Babbin of Chicago said a canopy roof would be used to join the buildings to meet the county requirements.

THE PLANS meet the Mount Prospect requirements and are easily adaptable to the county, according to Soloman. He said the apartment project had been discussed with Mount Prospect. Hofert stated he knew of no such discussion.

Mount Prospect's planning consultant, Rolf Campbell of Tec-Search and Associates, objected to the apartment project on the basis the area had enough apartments and was better developed as industrial than as apartments.

There is industrially zoned land across the street, he said.

Richard Manke, a real estate man of Arlington Heights, testified apartments would not produce a school problem. The eight-acre property is in Elk Grove School District 59 which will file an objection to it.

MANKE PRODUCED figures from a survey of apartments in the area showing that such apartments would produce only .11 students per unit. The Urban Land Institute studies show one-bedroom apartments would produce 1.5 child per unit, he said.

He also testified the apartments would produce enough assessed valuation for each child. Siegel objected to the validity of all of Manke's figures.

Hofert also questioned Soloman on financing for this project, pointing out Mount Prospect's concern since two apartment projects are vacant because of financing problems.

Soloman said he would sign a legally binding agreement specifying the number of apartment units and the mix of one or two bedrooms he planned.

Inside Randhurst

Holiday Activity Is Never Dull at Center

By BEVERLY TUTTLE

I started out on my usual Saturday morning shopping trip at Randhurst last weekend; it turned out to be "out of this world."

I was driving along Randhurst's perimeter road thinking about my "I must get list" and minding my own business, when I came across several hundred people gathered around an area, that had been roped off, waiting for a helicopter to descend.

WELL, THE helicopter landed and it was filled with several unusual occupants. One was Mal Bellairs of WBBM Radio, but it was that other fellow who really puzzled me! I thought for sure he was from another planet, but I couldn't be sure! He looked like a human fly with large glassy eyes, unusual antennas, rippled wings, grasping claws, warped skin and a fly-shaped face. He was "out of this world!"

As a matter of fact, he really was, he was a "Selenite," a creature who lives in the moon, as I was later told. These fine, handsome gentlemen (even the one with the antennas) then started passing out balloons promoting the movie picture, "First Men In the Moon."

I can never say anything unusual happens to me! Did you ever get trampled by a live reindeer? What about chase one through the Randhurst mall? I must say those reindeer are really getting anxious to pull Santa's sleigh. Just a few last minute details and the 1964 Randhurst Christmas Parade will be "Ready to roll."

LOOKING INTO the Promotion Room I can see Mrs. Claus pressing Santa's new red suit, the pixies are checking last minute details, Cinderella is hemming her beautiful gown, the white ponies are being curried, reindeer are getting brushed, their shiny harnesses are being hooked together, name plates are being polished, band instruments are being tuned, and the pumpkin coach is getting greased and oiled.

Just TWO more days and the parade will begin! We certainly hope the boys and girls, and mothers and fathers too, will come out to Randhurst to see the real Santa Claus drawn by his own reindeer Friday, Nov. 27, at 9 a.m. The parade will begin at the east side of Randhurst at the Truck Tunnel, proceed along the perimeter road past the Randhurst Water Tower, and through the Apple Lot between Montgomery Ward and Wieboldt's. Santa Claus will then enter the Randhurst mall at the Apple Arcade (between Le Petit Cafe and Baskin's) and proceed up to his throne at approximately 10 a.m.

Anyone notice a slight change on the Randhurst mall lately? It has suddenly become a living Christmas Paradise with its old-fashioned decorations, beautiful garlands, decorated Christmas trees, twinkling lights, lighted gold sphere under the dome, glittering planters, and the popular animated doll houses.

The doll houses have been a favorite of mine each Christmas at Randhurst. The Randhurst Doll Houses tell the dolls' Christmas story.

"School's out and the dolls hurry over to the Country Store to buy goodies for their Christmas dinner. Another window shows them in the Ladies Fancy Goods Store for their very special gifts and gay trimmings as fancy hats, ruffles, aprons, etc.

"The dolls than participate in the annual Nativity Pageant in their church and then go home. Here we see them in the kitchen preparing the roast turkey, steaming plum pudding, homemade bread, and gingerbread cookies. After a busy day the children hang their stockings by the chimney with care and gather around to try to make the night hurry by.

"WILL THEY EVER go to sleep? Off to bed, but what's this, someone is sneaking downstairs to see Santa. Oh, what delights, what surprises! What wonderful new toys! One can almost hear the happy shouts. The presents are now open, and you can now almost hear the children sing joyous songs, the beautiful Christmas carols, in their Music Room. Then the solemn moment in the exciting day. . .reverent thanks are returned for the many blessings as the children are gathered around the table praying."

Anyone hear rumors that Santa Claus was at Randhurst a little early this year? He made a stop at the First National Bank of Mount Prospect to personally deposit 50,000 "Santa Bucks."

These "Santa Bucks" will then be distributed to the Randhurst stores and services who will give the "Bucks" to the children visiting their store starting Friday, Nov. 27. Be sure to ask for your "Santa Buck," which will entitle free admission to Santa's Village in Dundee.

Paddock Cartoonist's Work Is Included in New Book

Art Henrikson, editorial cartoonist for Paddock Publications, Inc. 15 suburban newspapers, has one of his cartoons included in the recently-published book, "Best Cartoons of the Year 1964."

Edited by Lawrence Lariar and published by Crown Publishers, Inc. of New York, the book is a collection of gag cartoons by 71 artists. It represents a cross-section of cartoonists' views of the world in 1964.

Henrikson's cartoon originally appeared inthe Journal of Data Management. Other work of his has appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, TV Guide, Better Homes & Gardens, and more than 140 other magazines.

LISTED IN "Who's Who in the Midwest," his work has been exhibited at the Chicago Art Institute, the White House, in major cities throughout the nation, and in the Medical Caricature Exhibit at the International Medical Sessions, Verona, Italy, where he was awarded a medal for his contribution.

His cartoons are in permanent collections in the Archives of American Art, Detroit, and the Library of Congress. One of his original caricatures of President Kennedy was presented to the late Chief Executive.

Winner of two Freedoms Foudation George Washington Honor Medals, the suburban artist is among the political cartoonists featured in another new book, "Today's Cartoon."

Henrikson has been editorial cartoonist for Paddock newspapers since 1957. He is also editorial cartoonist for the Rockford Newspapers, Inc., and his Illinois Cartoon Service is a syndication of a weekly editorial cartoon covering Illinois politics and government problems.

TELEVISION has also claimed his drawing talents. Besides "Coming Attractions" slides for NBC in Chicago, Henrikson created the "Tommy Tint" cartoon character to promote the NBC network's conversion to color TV.

Member of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, he is a graduate of Northwestern University and studied cartooning at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts.

A World War II veteran of the Army Air Force Medical Corps, Henrikson lives in Des Plaines with his wife and children.

Too Cautious Driver Expressway Hazard

The president of the Chicago Motor Club, Gerald W. Cavanaugh, points out that when even one vehicle drives as much as five miles per hour slower than the traffic pace, this slow car necessitates at least 10 otherwise unnecessary lane changes per mile of faster moving vehicles seeking to pass the blockading car or truck.

He added that the Chicago area expressway accident record last year revealed that 80.9 per cent of all accidents were rear-end collisions or caused by overtaking. The majority of these accidents came about, he said, as a result of an attempt to pass a slow-moving vehicle driving in the wrong expressway lane.

CAVANAGH noted that most of our traffic safety education has been geared to alert us to the dangers of speed. He agreed that excessive speed is a serious traffic hazard, but stressed that it should not blind us to the fact that the too cautious driver — the one who refuses to maintain the minimum speed on an expressway — is also a major contributory factor toward our highway death and accident rate.

"The trucker or motorist who is not willing to observe an expressway's minimum speed law should confine his driving to arterial streets where the traffic pace will be more to his liking. He will be doing all motorists a big favor."

KICKIN' IT AROUND

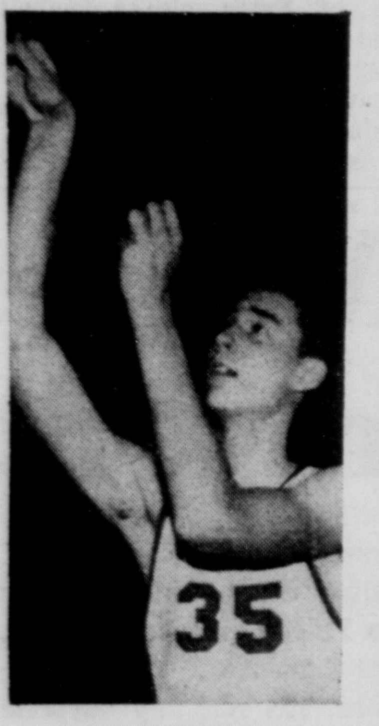
BY BOB FRISK

BALANCE IS A WORD USED WITH frequency these days by basketball buffs examining the eight entries in the West Suburban Conference. Several observers give the nod to LaGrange in any title talk, but a battle to the wire is expected.

"All eight teams have a crack at the crown," says Riverside-Brookfield's head man Ron Nikcevich. "The race looks like a toss-up."

Nikcevich, who guided the Bulldogs to a share of the title in the 1962-63 campaign and second place deadlock last winter, joins other West Suburban coaches in admitting that LaGrange looks strong "on the basis of returning strength" but still sees an interesting race.

"It's just the opposite from last year," Nikcevich points out, "when Riverside and York were heavy pre-season favorites."



TOM KONDLA
. . . At Minnesota

Last year's West Suburban title scramble shows just how wrong the so-called experts can be at times. While everyone was arguing about the relative merits of Riverside and York, Bernie Brady's Maine East Blue Demons breezed to an impressive 13-1 record, two-game bulge over the Bulldogs and Dukes, and the conference flag.

Pre-season favorites in the West Suburban have often found themselves on the outside looking in by late February so LaGrange's head coach Art Sandusky dismisses any title fanfare with a "wait and see" attitude.

"We could have a pretty good team if one of the big juniors comes through," Sandusky admits.

The Lions' hardwood mentor is working with juniors and seniors who collected two conference titles on a frosh-soph level. The current group of seniors at LaGrange posted a snappy 14-0 record in league play as sophs. The juniors were 11-3 and tied Downers Grove for the championship.

Sandusky has seven lettermen back from a club that struggled to a 4-10 loop standard and 6-15 overall mark in 1963-64. Dennis DePaola, the 6-foot-2 all-league end in football, registered 191 points in 14 conference outings as a junior and is expected to be a key man in the Lion attack this winter.

Other monogram winners back are Jim Vopat (5-10), John Wintermute (6-0), Craig Schaefer (6-2), Chris Huson (6-2), Don Holton (5-8), and Paul Maley (6-3). Schaefer came on strong in the final stages of the campaign, whipping in 84 points in the last six conference games.

Bolstering the lettermen are four juniors who played key roles on the frosh-soph champs: Tom Cisar (6-5), Bill Van Dyke (6-4), Dick Martin (6-0), and Dave Smith (6-2).

Riverside-Brookfield shared second place with York in 1963-64 but graduation stripped Nikcevich of two all-league performers (one an All-Stater) and his entire starting five. It's a building year for Ron, but he sees promise in the Bulldog aggregation.

Replacing All-Stater Tommy Kondla, now a frosh stickout at the University of Minnesota, is Nikcevich's biggest problem. Kondla scored 346 points in 14 league games. There is some size available in 6-foot-5 Phil Kweton and 6-foot-6 Al Buresch, but it's too early to tell if they'll be able to handle the pivot. They won't make Riverside fans forget Kondla.

There are two returning monogram winners at R-B in Joel Klecka (6-3½) and Fred Flick (5-11), but that represents only 28 points in West Suburban action.

York's Dick Campbell is also faced with rebuilding his varsity entry. He lost the five boys who guided the Dukes to a share of second place. Forwards Paul Suckow (6-3), the football quarterback, and Ron McBride (6-1) are the returning lettermen.

At this stage of the drills Campbell feels his other starters will come from guards Bill Koenig (6-0), a transfer from Immaculate Conception who was ineligible last year, Ned Reese (5-11), Jim Paddock (6-0), and Ron Kornfeind (5-11); and centers Tom Fisher (6-1) and junior Larry Saunders (6-5).

It's been a long time since Campbell headed into a cage campaign with so little idea on what to expect from his entry, but you can be sure Dick will come up with a representative club. He's one of the most respected coaches in the division.

Downers Grove finished fourth last winter with a 9-5 record and although hit hard by graduation, the Trojans should be among the leaders again this time around.

John Howat (6-2) is the only returning letterman at Downers, and he only scored 25 points in league play. But head coach Lloyd Wasmer has several promising candidates from which to select his starting five.

Steve Mester (6-2 guard) and Al Monfils (6-6 center) are two seniors who could see extensive service. "Monfils has grown three inches from last year," Wasmer says, "and has learned

Paddock Publications, Inc. was presented a first place award for "Best Sports Coverage" Friday in the 1964 Illinois State Newspaper Contest.

Announcement of the award was made at a special luncheon during the fall convention of the National Editorial Association and the Illinois Press Association in the Pick-Congress Hotel, Chicago.

Paddock Publications was competing in Division B for weekly and daily newspapers with circulation over 3,500

Judges for the state contest were practicing newspapermen and journalism professors from leading universities. Their comments were as follows in the sports division:

"Seven consecutive pages of sports, employing excellent make-up, good pictures and fine writing under a number of different bylines . . . Bob Frisk's 'Kickin It Around' is a good local column with apparent high readership and adds spice to the paper's coverage."

See separate story for list of Paddock winners in other divisions of the contest.

Popp Leads Knight Quintet

St. Viator Cagers to Battle I. C. Friday in Tourney Game

By BOB FRISK

Larry Nomellini's major problem as he prepares St. Viator High School for its season basketball opener is how to stop a 6-foot-3, 200-pound scoring whiz who doesn't know what it's like to have a bad night.

Nomellini will unveil his varsity Lions Friday evening at Immaculate Conception in the 1964-65 lidlifter, and the host Knights boast one of the state's most talented hardwood performers.

Jay Popp was the second leading scorer in the Suburban Catholic Conference last winter with a healthy 20.5 per game average, and he also pulled down 12 rebounds in each outing.

ST. VIATOR fans will remember Popp as the youngster who rifled in 32 points as I.C. belted the Lions, 74-59, in the 1963-64 season opener.

Popp is back this year and up to his old tricks. He collected 12 baskets and seven free throws last Friday in a losing cause as St. Joseph of Westchester dumped the Knights, 64-59, in a game decided at the free throw line.

St. Viator and Immaculate Conception will get together at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the second game of the I.C. Thanksgiving tourney. St. Procopius and St. Joseph will tangle in the opener at 7 p.m.

THE TWO LOSERS will collide at 7 p.m. Saturday for third place with the winners meeting at 8:30 p.m.

St. Viator's Nomellini, the new head coach at the Arlington Heights school, has been encouraged by the progress of the Lion workouts but admits I.C. will have an advantage with that one game already on the record.

Nomellini's strategy is simple. "We've just got to stop Popp," he says. The execution of this strategy is what's vital.

"They're tough on the boards,' Larry admitted after watching the Knights in the opener. "But we've got some size too. It should be interesting."

NOMELLINI plans to open with a rangy front-line of 6-foot-5 Paul Pomplun and 6-foot-3 Paul Dumke at forwards and 6-foot-3 Charley Grandt at center. Grandt was recently selected captain by a vote af his teammates.

Mike Hogan (6-0) and John Erfort (6-1) should get the first call at the guard slots with John Loughman (5-9) available as the sixth man. Emille Bataille (6-2) is the top reserve under the basket.

Forest View Battles Proviso West, Elgin After Win in Opener

by MICHAEL HESS

The new basketball season must seem like one, big surprise package to the folks at Forest View. And most of the surprises have been pleasant.

The Falcons' fans must be hoping that this trend continues against Proviso West tonight (Wednesday) and Elgin on Saturday.

The FV 74-64 win over Palatine in the season's initial match held a bundle of surprises, not the least of which was the final point spread in a battle which had been rated a toss-up.

BUT THERE were other surprises as well: junior forward Jim Baumgardt's school records of 33 points and 23 rebounds; the school home record of 74 points scored; the 14 points from junior guard Bryon Borgardt in his first varsity game; a 67 per cent shooting average from the foul line, a good mark for early in the season; and unexpected bench strength showed in the subbing efforts of Bill Widenski, Bob O'Keefe and Jeff Grismer.

All these factors were most welcome to Falcons' coach Ken Arneson. The only marr on this bright picture was the generally lackluster play of junior forward Pat Dunnigan.

Pat, who was expected to lead the Forest View offense, collected only one field goal and seven foul shots for a slim total of nine points. Coach Arneson pointed out that Dunnigan had been sick earlier in the week, was not fully recovered and so his performance was nothing to worry about.

AGAINST THIS week's competition, the Falcons' coach will stay with his winners and will start the same five who opened against Palatine.

Proviso West will be the second to try that victory combination. The Panthers will come to Forest View with a team which coach Joe Hartley says has good balance, no individual standouts and lots of hustle.

Hartley's Panthers, who were 9 and 14 a year ago and last in the Des Plaines Valley Conference, will open with a line-up dominated by underclassmen.

KEN GENOVESI, Garry Davis and Mike Koc are juniors who will start. Genovesi, a letterman, and Davis are top rebounders and Davis counted ten points in the Panthers' first game victory over Carl Sandburg. Seniors Paul Zeman, who registered 12 points in the opening game, and Larry Hallaert, a playmaking letterman, round out the first five.

Foremost among the Proviso West reserves are sophomore forward Jack Mageria, who at 6-1 is a top rebounder, and 5-11

Cards Launch Cage Season

Palatine Seeks Rebound After Opening Reversal

by BOB FRISK

It's Thanksgiving Eve and the talk around town concerns the 'Sleigh Bells' trophy. You know basketball season has arrived.

A backyard scuffle that is greeted with enthusiasm by basketball buffs in these parts every year unfolds once again tonight (Wednesday) as Palatine and Arlington tangle in William Fremd gymnasium.

For Palatine High School there have been more profitable hardwood ventures than this 'Sleigh Bells' tussle each year with neighboring Arlington.

Palatine hasn't seen the trophy for ten years that is symbolic of basketball supremacy between the two schools.

THERE WAS A TIME when Pirate quintets made more noise than Arlington in this cage headliner, but the 'Sleigh Bells' has been a part of the Cardinal trophy case for ten seasons.

Arlington sees no reason why the trophy should be moved. Palatine disagrees. Something's gotta give.

This Thanksgiving Eve bout ushers in the 1964-65 season for Ted Wissen's Cardinals of Arlington High School. Bud Mueller's Palatine aggregation kicked off the slate last Friday with a 74-64 loss to Forest View.

"WE'VE BEEN looking okay in practice, but you just can't tell until you have actual game conditions," says Wissen who is starting his second year as the Cardinal cage boss.

"That third quarter killed us against Forest View, but there were some bright spots even in defeat," says Mueller who is in his rookie campaign with the Palatine entry.

Size favors Arlington as Wissen will trot out one of the tallest alignments in the state. Ted plans to go with Bob Conner (6-5) and Ralph Morrisett (6-5) at the forward slots and Charley Lloyd (6-7) at center.

CONNER AND Lloyd were regulars last season and Morrisett showed to advantage at times when he was inserted into the alignment in the latter stages of the campaign.

Complementing these rangy front-liners will be two promising sophomore guards, Dave Lockwood (6-0) and Steve Allen (6-2). Lockwood and Allen were the big scorers as Arlington's frosh rolled to 19 straight victories last winter.

"They haven't looked too bad," Wissen said in evaluating the two sophs. "But remember they're only sophomores. They'll make mistakes."

At this stage of the season letterman guard Mike Frase (5-10), forward-center Bruce Hubbard (6-4) and forward Rich Hoppe (6-0) are the leading reserves.

FRASE DID start some games for Wissen as a junior while Hoppe played with Al Allen's jayvees. Hubbard operated on the frosh-soph team.

Arlington toppled Palatine in the 'Sleigh Bells' feature last winter, 50-38, with forward Paul Splittorff dialing 28 points in a brilliant display of marksmanship. Actually, that battle last November developed into a scoring duel between Arlington's Splittorff and Palatine's Bill Petersen (20 points) and both boys will be missing from the scene tonight.

Palatine's Mueller can't match Arlington's size with senior center Craig Gaare the tallest at 6-3. Gaare, who authored a 10.7 ppg last winter, was checked with only four points against Forest View and fouled out, but Mueller is hoping his workhorse center will bounce back against Arlington.

"IN THE FIRST half we worked the fast break well and handled the ball okay," Mueller pointed out, "but we really hit a slump in that third quarter. We did score 51 points in our three good quarters."

Mueller plans to open with an alignment of Bob Wirsing (6-1) and Mike Danforth (6-2) at forwards, Gaare (6-3) at center, and Randy McWilliams (6-0) and either Rich Haggard (5-10) or John Warder (5-11) at the guards.

Cards to Host Willowbrook

Arlington High School gets a look at its second Des Plaines Valley opponent of the young season Saturday when Willowbrook of Villa Park comes to town.

The contest will serve as the Cardinals' first home game of the 1964-65 season although Ted Wissen's outfit will launch the campaign tonight (Wednesday) only a few miles west in Palatine.

The bout with Willowbrook is Arlington's final non-conference tuneup before moving into the important West Suburban schedule on Friday, Dec. 4, against Riverside-Brookfield.

Saturday's preliminary game will get under way at 7 p.m. with the main event set for approximately 8:30 p.m.

WILLOWBROOK'S Jim Toman, who saw his Warriors whip Arlington 56-53 last winter, will put the smaller outfit on the floor Saturday, but the veteran coach does boast some promising performers.

Frank Cassell, a 6-foot-2 junior who was carried on the varsity roster last season, looks like the best bet at center with Rich Rogers (6-1) and Dave Cullum (6-1) at the forwards and Bob Carpenter (6-1) and Mike Day (5-11) at guards.

Carpenter and Day are up from the jayvees although Bob did work with the varsity at tourney time.

ROGERS IS the only returning letterman at Willowbrook, and Toman lost a brilliant backcourt operation in 5-foot-10 Johnny Lundquist, a member of Paddock Publications' All-Area team. Lundquist only scored nine points but was still a stickout in the Brooks' conquest of Arlington in the 1963-64 campaign.

The Warriors won't be coming into Saturday's outing cold. They have another non-league game with Downers Grove slated for Friday evening at home.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

BY BOB FRISK

BALANCE IS A WORD USED WITH frequency these days by basketball buffs examining the eight entries in the West Suburban Conference. Several observers give the nod to LaGrange in any title talk, but a battle to the wire is expected.

"All eight teams have a crack at the crown," says Riverside-Brookfield's head man Ron Nikcevich. "The race looks like a toss-up."

Nikcevich, who guided the Bulldogs to a share of the title in the 1962-63 campaign and second place deadlock last winter, joins other West Suburban coaches in admitting that LaGrange looks strong "on the basis of returning strength" but still sees an interesting race.

"It's just the opposite from last year," Nikcevich points out, "when Riverside and York were heavy pre-season favorites."

TOM KONDLA
. . . At Minnesota

Last year's West Suburban title scramble shows just how wrong the so-called experts can be at times. While everyone was arguing about the relative merits of Riverside and York, Bernie Brady's Maine East Blue Demons breezed to an impressive 13-1 record, two-game bulge over the Bulldogs and Dukes, and the conference flag.

Pre-season favorites in the West Suburban have often found themselves on the outside looking in by late February so LaGrange's head coach Art Sandusky dismisses any title fanfare with a "wait and see" attitude.

"We could have a pretty good team if one of the big juniors comes through," Sandusky admits.

The Lions' hardwood mentor is working with juniors and seniors who collected two conference titles on a frosh-soph level. The current group of seniors at LaGrange posted a snappy 14-0 record in league play as sophs. The juniors were 11-3 and tied Downers Grove for the championship.

Sandusky has seven lettermen back from a club that struggled to a 4-10 loop standard and 6-15 overall mark in 1963-64. Dennis DePaola, the 6-foot-2 all-league end in football, registered 191 points in 14 conference outings as a junior and is expected to be a key man in the Lion attack this winter.

Other monogram winners back are Jim Vopat (5-10), John Wintermute (6-0), Craig Schaefer (6-2), Chris Huson (6-2), Don Holton (5-8), and Paul Maley (6-3). Schaefer came on strong in the final stages of the campaign, whipping in 84 points in the last six conference games.

Bolstering the lettermen are four juniors who played key roles on the frosh-soph champs: Tom Cisar (6-5), Bill Van Dyke (6-4), Dick Martin (6-0), and Dave Smith (6-2).

Riverside-Brookfield shared second place with York in 1963-64 but graduation stripped Nikcevich of two all-league performers (one an All-Stater) and his entire starting five. It's a building year for Ron, but he sees promise in the Bulldog aggregation.

Replacing All-Stater Tommy Kondla, now a frosh stickout at the University of Minnesota, is Nikcevich's biggest problem. Kondla scored 346 points in 14 league games. There is some size available in 6-foot-5 Phil Kweton and 6-foot-6 Al Buresch, but it's too early to tell if they'll be able to handle the pivot. They won't make Riverside fans forget Kondla.

There are two returning monogram winners at R-B in Joel Klecka (6-3½) and Fred Flick (5-11), but that represents only 28 points in West Suburban action.

York's Dick Campbell is also faced with rebuilding his varsity entry. He lost the five boys who guided the Dukes to a share of second place. Forwards Paul Suckow (6-3), the football quarterback, and Ron McBride (6-1) are the returning lettermen.

At this stage of the drills Campbell feels his other starters will come from guards Bill Koenig (6-0), a transfer from Immaculate Conception who was ineligible last year, Ned Reese (5-11), Jim Paddock (6-0), and Ron Kornfeind (5-11); and centers Tom Fisher (6-1) and junior Larry Saunders (6-5).

It's been a long time since Campbell headed into a cage campaign with so little idea on what to expect from his entry, but you can be sure Dick will come up with a representative club. He's one of the most respected coaches in the division.

Downers Grove finished fourth last winter with a 9-5 record and although hit hard by graduation, the Trojans should be among the leaders again this time around.

John Howat (6-2) is the only returning letterman at Downers, and he only scored 25 points in league play. But head coach Lloyd Wasmer has several promising candidates from which to select his starting five.

Steve Mester (6-2 guard) and Al Monfils (6-6 center) are two seniors who could see extensive service. "Monfils has grown three inches from last year," Wasmer says, "and has learned

Paddock Publications, Inc. was presented a first place award for "Best Sports Coverage" Friday in the 1964 Illinois State Newspaper Contest.

Announcement of the award was made at a special luncheon during the fall convention of the National Editorial Association and the Illinois Press Association in the Pick-Congress Hotel, Chicago.

Paddock Publications was competing in Division B for weekly and daily newspapers with circulation over 3,500

Judges tor the state contest were practicing newspapermen and journalism professors from leading universities. Their comments were as follows in the sports division:

"Seven consecutive pages of sports, employing excellent make-up, good pictures and fine writing under a number of different bylines . . . Bob Frisk's 'Kickin It Around' is a good local column with apparent high readership and adds spice to the paper's coverage."

Popp Leads Knight Quintet

St. Viator Cagers to Battle I. C. Friday in Tourney Game

By BOB FRISK

Larry Nomellini's major problem as he prepares St. Viator High School for its season basketball opener is how to stop a 6-foot-3, 200-pound scoring whiz who doesn't know what it's like to have a bad night.

Nomellini will unveil his varsity Lions Friday evening at Immaculate Conception in the 1964-65 lidlifter, and the host Knights boast one of the state's most talented hardwood performers.

Jay Popp was the second leading scorer in the Suburban Catholic Conference last winter with a healthy 20.5 per game average, and he also pulled down 12 rebounds in each outing.

ST. VIATOR fans will remember Popp as the youngster who rifled in 32 points as I.C. belted the Lions, 74-59, in the 1963-64 season opener.

Popp is back this year and up to his old tricks. He collected 12 baskets and seven free throws last Friday in a losing cause as St. Joseph of Westchester dumped the Knights, 64-59, in a game decided at the free throw line.

Cards to Host Willowbrook

Arlington High School gets a look at its second Des Plaines Valley opponent of the young season Saturday when Willowbrook of Villa Park comes to town.

The contest will serve as the Cardinals' first home game of the 1964-65 season although Ted Wissen's outfit will launch the campaign tonight (Wednesday) only a few miles west in Palatine.

The bout with Willowbrook is Arlington's final non-conference tuneup before moving into the important West Suburban schedule on Friday, Dec. 4, against Riverside-Brookfield.

Prospect to Travel Tonight, Entertain Proviso E. Saturday

by MICHAEL HESS

A known and an unknown quantity comprise this week's basketball schedule for Prospect.

Tonight (Wednesday) the Knights travel to play St. Charles, a team which could be tough, but will probably not be, and on Saturday Prospect hosts always tough Proviso East.

Against each opponent, the Knights' new varsity coach Warren Collier will send the same starting lineup which squeaked past Libertyville 59-57 last Saturday.

IN APPRAISING that victory in the season's initial contest, Coach Collier found some pleasant surprises and a few disappointments.

On the plus side, said the coach, "The biggest surprise was that we won even with all the injuries we've had. The whole team played surprisingly well but our defense was the main factor in our winning."

Individual plusses found by Collier were the rebounding of forward Rick Mader and center John MacKay, the all-around play of guard Steve Kerr and the very adequate job turned in by sophomore sub Tom Lundstedt.

ON THE DEBIT side were the performances of Wayne Kuklinski and Greg Kowal. "Kuklinski," according to Collier, "did not play the game he's capable of playing." Klu did score a vital field goal late in the game.

Starting forward Kowal was also below par. But then he had only been to four practices since it was thought that he had a slight fracture in his foot. However, the fracture proved to be only a bone bruise and Kowal will start tonight despite the still painful injury.

Steve Johnson, who was scheduled to open at forward for the Knights, came down with blood poisoning last Friday, missed last Saturday's contest and is a definite question mark for this week's action.

Another question mark is tonight's opponent, the St. Charles Saints.

LACKING BOTH height and experience the Saints' coach Ron Johnson concedes that he'd be happy to finish as well as last season. St. Charles was 11 and 13 one year ago and closed at the third spot in the Little Seven.

Leading the Saints in their first game of the season will be senior center Dave Nelson. Nelson is the only returning letterman for StC and, if anyone, coach Johnson tabs him as the team's playmaker. The 6-2 center saw very little varsity action last season and only started one game.

Two seniors fill out the Saints' forward wall. Jim Gaffy and Steve Schmidt, neither of whom has played on the varsity before, will start at the forward positions.

JOHNSON HAS had a hard time picking his starting guards but the back court pair will definitely be underclassmen. Right now the choice is between juniors Bob Kranhanbuhl, Bob Linder and Terry Burke.

Given a chance to break in on the Saints' starters are Jeff Lock, a 6-1 junior forward, and Gar Brown, a senior center who, at 6-5, is the tallest member of Johnson's short team.

Concerning St. Charles, Knights' coach Collier could only comment, "I don't know what to expect." Against Proviso East though, Collier knew just what to anticipate. "They'll be tough, they always are. They have one of the best boys in the area in their guard, Al Nuness and I can remember their leading us by 17 points at half time last year."

St. Charles, Ron Johnson; Prospect, Warren Collier.

That half time score last season was 37-20 and the Pirates coasted to a 70-57 victory.

PROVISO HAS lost four of the five starters from that team which had a 20 and 3 record and captured the Suburban League Championship. But Nuness is back and he averaged 12 points a game last year at forward.

This year Al teams up with fellow senior Mike Green at guard. Both are expected to be playmakers for the Pirates and both are lettermen.

The other letterman for Proviso is senior forward Ronald Gwin. Gwin and center Ed Howard both jump well and will probably grab the majority of PE's rebounds. Loren Pratt, a senior, will be the Pirates' fifth starter.

PROVISO'S coach, Tom Millikin, is counting on Joe Watts, a 6-0 junior, to fill in when needed up front and as seventh man Millikin has his eye on Richard Robinson. Robinson is a 5-10 senior guard.

Said Millikin, "We have a great deal of respect for Prospect and they showed some excellent shooting in their first game." On his own squad Millikin commented, "I don't expect that we'll look good this early. We've been making a lot of fundamental errors, a lot of floor mistakes and we have to eliminate these.

"On defense we'll be man to man all the way and we'll try to force Prospect to make mistakes which we hope to take advantage of. On offense we'd like to fast break a bit, but we'll just have to see how we work out."

PROSPECT coach Collier feels that a lack of conditioning hurt his team in their opener and that they'll have to be in better condition to score more.

Concluded Collier, "We'll concentrate on getting everyone in condition and we'll add some patterns to our offense. Our job right now is to improve our offense and get more points."

junior forward John Urleson.

"If we keep hustling the way we have been we can improve this year," said coach Hartley. "We have a good chance to finish at least at .500 when the season's over."

FALCONS' COACH Arneson estimated the Panthers this way: "They're short but very agressive and have many good ball handlers on the club. They shoot well and should be tough even though we'll have a height advantage."

Forest View will have no height advantage over Saturday's Elgin opponents.

The hosting Maroons will be captained by senior Mike Wimpleberg who is the only returning Elgin letterman. Mike averaged 12 points per game last season to aid the Maroons achieve a 19-9 record. Wimpleberg averaged eight rebounds a game in that winning season.

The Elgin floor leader will be senior Ken Kouxdal and seniors Chris Smith and George Nevins combine to form a classy back court duo for the Maroons.

Cats Split With Morton

Wheeling and Morton East split underclass wrestling decisions in the opener at Wheeling last Friday evening.

The Mustangs copped the sophomore match 27-19 while the Frosh battle went to Wheeling 35-21.

The Cat sophs won five bouts. Ryan Sarti and Dan Gribbon won on pins while Phil Reed, Glen Follett and Rich Haddock took decisions.

The Wheeling frosh rallied from a 13-0 deficit with seven pins. Wildcats pinners were Jerry Westhouse, Matt Porzell, Tom Russell, Joe Meyer, Pat McGuire, Mike Alsud and Ron Frediani.

what to do. He could be a real sleeper."

Juniors who could play key roles on the Trojan varsity are Bud Bocker (6-5), Bob Perkins (5-7), Dick Lane (6-1) and Joe Radosevich (5-11). Jim Duffy (5-10) and Barry Minehart (5-8) are seniors who should help.

Rick Howat, a 6-foot sophomore, also figures in the Downers plans for the coming year. "He's the best shot on the team," Wasmer says.

Hinsdale topped the second division in 1963-64 with a 5-9 record, but head coach Jack Stickels has an inexperienced bunch this year. Bob Koch, a 6-foot-5 senior who scored only six points in a reserve role, is the only lettermen, but he's been looking good.

Other Red Devil candidates are Roger Bain (6-2), Pete Shutack (6-2), Steve St. John (6-0), Scott Pfeutze (5-8), Pete Malin (5-8), and sophomore Parker Wellington (6-4).

Most coaches feel Arlington, a 2-12 league entry last winter, will make the most improved showing, but it's too early to tell how the Cardinals will stack up. There are still some questions to answer.

Coach Ted Wissen does have good size available (six boys at 6-foot-4 or better) but needs some steady play in the backcourt. Finding the right combination at those guard slots was a major headache for Wissen in his first year as the Cards' basketball boss.

Bob Conner (6-5), Chuck Lloyd (6-7), Ralph Morrisett (6-5), and Mike Frase (5-10) are the returning lettermen. Conner tossed in 166 points in West Suburban play as a junior, finishing 13th in the individual ranking. LaGrange's DePaola (ninth with 191) and Maine East's Larry Wiseburn (10th with 175) were the only other juniors able to crack the top 20 in scoring.

Wiseburn, a fine guard who earned all-league honors, has transferred to Maine South, and his loss is just one of many problems for new Maine East coach Bruce Brothers.

Brothers, former Quincy High School and University of Illinois star, took the Maine East job when Bernie Brady switched to Maine South, and Bruce may be faced with a long season. He doesn't have any lettermen and the top prospects are Jerry Welk (6-1), a jayvee last winter, and Brian Nelson (6-2), a transfer.

"This team has possibilities of developing, but it's going to take time," Brothers says. "We should have fair height and a lot of desire."

Glenbard West finished in the league cellar in 1963-64 with a 1-13 mark but should be no push-over this winter. New coach Gary Williams, who guided an Iowa high school team to 73 victories in 81 games, is equipped with three lettermen and a promising transfer.

Mike Martin (5-8), the brilliant all-conference halfback in football, Frank Ourada (5-10), and Jon Hawkinson (6-4) are the returning monogram winners, and John Hartwell is the transfer. Hartwell came to Glenbard from Louisville, Ky. and has moved into a starting position.

Immaculate Conception is an experienced crew with six lettermen, and impressive number any hard wood entry.

"WE HAVE the experience but we're not very tall," says head coach Jim Flemming. "And our outside shooting is a question-mark."

Popp and 6-foot-3 Rick Klein combind for 41 points in the opener with Klein chipping in 10. They form an effective 1-2 scoring punch.

Popp, Klein, forward Bob Shields (6-1), guards Gene Purcell (5-8) and Terry Tyrell (5-8) and forward Jeff Sand (6-1) are the returning monogram winners. Purcell collected 11 markers against St. Joseph.

Flemming has elevated a sophomore, guard Jimmy Morgan, to varsity status, but Morgan collected only one basket before fouling out the Friday.

Cats Host Conant Tonight, Entertain Hawks On Saturday

by TOM TULLY

Mike Owens was describing the practice he intended to run an hour later on Monday afternoon. "We are going to talk last week's game (Rich Central) over, and then I'm going to tell them we just have four things to work on: ball handling, blocking, offense and defense."

Owens' young Wheeling Wildcats can use work in all of these areas, but Mike's crack was in jest. "Actually," he said, "We were quite pleased with the kids at Rich. They did some things we didn't expect to see for another month."

In other respects, Monday was a day of good news for Owens. He learned, first of all, that he has a new ball player. John Ferguson, a 6-1 junior transfer from Thornton of Harvey, is now attending Wheeling. "I saw him in a phys ed class today" the coach said, "and he doesn't look bad. He won't become eligible until Dec. 18, but when we get him, he'll help us."

THE SECOND BIT of good tidings regards Conant, the first of this week's two opponents. Larry Powell, 6-6½ Cougar center, who scored 43 points in two games last weekend, will sit out tonight's (Wednesday) battle for disciplinary reasons.

Lest the day be perfect, Owens could reflect on Saturday's home opponent, Maine South. The Hawks, a new school that doesn't play like one, got off to a good start last week with wins over Glenbrook South and Niles North. Bernie Brady's club figures to give Owens a few things to think about the rest of the week.

First, however, is Conant and the Cougar visit this evening marks the Cats first appearance in their beautiful new gym. It should be an interesting match since Cougar mentor Rol Berg is (or was until Powell was excused for the week) in the same boat that Owens occupies.

Both schools are in their first year of operation and both lack a senior class. The difference is that Wheeling is attacking a Mid-Suburban varsity schedule. Conant is carrying a primarily jayvee slate. The Cougars will enter the MSC next fall. Tonight's game, and a later rematch, are the only varsity games on their card.

THE COUGARS dropped a pair of jayvee encounters last week, falling to Dundee 52-41 and Barrington 57-51. Powell was the big gun. Twenty seven of his points came against Barrington and the big junior pulled down 29 rebounds in the two games.

Without him, Berg will look to John Glasshoff to provide the scoring punch. Glasshoff had 15 at Dundee. The Cougars are suddenly a small club. Dave Sander, just a shade over 6-0, is the tallest starter.

Although there are seniors at Maine South, the Hawks success in sports to date must be considered surprising. The football team finished second in the Des Plaines Valley and the cage crew is off to a fine start with a 56-53 win over Glenbrook and a 77-42 victory over Niles North.

Larry Wiseburn and Bill DeBartolo have been the big guns for Brady. Wiseburn, an All West Suburban guard as a Maine East junior, has 46 points in two games. DeBartelo has 36. All five Hawk regulars were members of the East squad last year, but Wiseburn is the only letterman. Brady labels him one of the finest guards he has coached and Bernie moves to South after a nine year tenure at East that brought two WSC titles and only one finish out of the first division. He labels this Hawk club as one with good possibilities. "We have good speed and better than average shooters. Our big deficit is height. DeBartolo is the tallest at 6-2½."

Four Lettermen on Cardinal Mat Squad

Julius Fliehler, Arlington High School's varsity wrestling coach, labels the 1964-65 varsity aggregation a definite question mark at this stage of the season.

"Only time will tell," he admits.

"We've had the boys for about two weeks, and there are still a lot of questions to be answered. They're working hard though with the emphasis on conditioning."

Fliehler will send his varsity wrestlers into action for the first time Friday afternoon with a non-conference bout against neighboring Forest View. The meet will be held at 1 p.m. in the Cardinal gymnasium.

ONLY FOUR lettermen greeted Fliehler and his staff at the outset of drills. Graduation took several talented grapplers, including state tourney entries Bob Conti and Bill Anderson.

Monogram winners returning for another season are Ray Herda, Scott Brown, Doug Duss and Chuck Hood.

Herda, a senior, is the best bet at 95 pounds, and Brown, only a junior but a mat letterman for two seasons, should get the first call at 103. Herda worked at 103 last season with Brown at 95.

SENIOR TERRY Munk and junior Steve Hedberg are the now at 112 pounds with junior Bruce Conti and senior Ken Neal battling at 120. Duss looks like the top choice at 127 where he operated in the 1963-64 campaign.

Two juniors, Chip Douglas and Dave Peters, are bidding for the 133-pound slot, with the 138-pound division a real toss-up.

At 138 Fliehler is still undecided among senior Hart Schluntz, juniors Pete Smeed and Dave Dooding, and promising sophomore Brad Somers. Somers is the only soph currently listed among the top varsity candidates although Fliehler admists he has a "promising sophomore group this year."

The 145-pound bracket should belong to one of three juniors: Don Lindmark, the football center, Kirk Wolter, or Jim Auld.

SENIOR LETTERMAN Hood, an all-conference performer in football, will open at 154 pounds with seniors Doug Chidley and John Stevens and junior Lyle Bemis battling at 165.

Ron Thompson, the football tackle, and Rick McInnes are the top prospects at 180 with junior Mark Frase at heavyweight. Frase, also a football and baseball letterman, saw some varsity service in this heavyweight spot last winter but didn't letter.

JULIUS FLIEHLER

Assisting Fliehler with the Arlington wrestling program are Bill Meyers, Merrit Paxton, and John Fish.

Arlington posted an 8-8 record in dual meets last winter on a varsity level. The Cards were 3-4 in West Suburban Conference action.

Falcon Matmen Hope To Improve Standard

"Everyone says that Forest View is weak but I don't agree." This was wrestling coach Hal Henson's view as he prepared to send his Falcon grapplers against Arlington in the year's first meet tomorrow.

Considering the past record, it's not any surprise that an outsider might paste an "easy" label on the Falcons. Last year Henson's matmen won only four out of twelve dual meets. Only five of that losing group have returned.

Though they showed a poor meet record last season, the Forest View wrestlers did do well in tournament action. They finished third in the Prospect Holiday Tournament and grabbed a tie for third at the District. Three of the Falcons advanced to the sectional but none moved on to Champaign.

ONLY ONE letterman, Omar Aviles, is among the five returnees from '64. A partial explanation for this dirth of emblem holders is that coach Henson believes a letter should really be won and not just handed out simply for showing up. As a result, the Falcons' coach has given only seven wrestling letters since Forest View opened.

Always tough Arlington, which last year beat Forest View 25-16, will greet the Falcons this year with a junior-dominated squad. Just four lettermen from a Cardinals' team which finished 8 and 7 in dual meets a year ago will face the Falcons tomorrow at 1 p.m.

"I'm well pleased with the way things have been going in practice," concluded Henson. "The boys have been doing well and I feel we'll be an improved squad this year."

Seeking to keep that promise of improvement is the Falcons' starting line-up for tomorrow's match:

95 pounds — Tom Bohac. There is a chance that Tom, only a sophomore, will be pressured from his starter's position by Jim Veltri. Veltri is a junior.

103 pounds — Omar Aviles. Aviles is the only letterman on the team but he's a good one. Last year Omar, only a sophomore then, was second in the district meet and fourth in the sectional. He is definitely the top prosepct among the FV matmen.

112 pounds — Dave Knudsen. Dave is a junior in his first year of varsity competition.

120 pounds — Terry Hayden. Hayden, on the varsity one year ago, may have trouble staying there because of the presence of Randy Haydel. Randy has a knee injury but he missed a varsity letter by only one point and coach Henson says he has improved a lot over last year.

127 pounds — Jim Kubic. A junior, Jim is another nonletterwinning varsityman who has returned to try again.

133 pounds — Dean Jacobsen. Jacobsen is a senior.

138 pounds — Bob Coon. Bob has won a letter, but that was as a football fullback. This is his initial start for the varsity over others.

148 pounds — Larry Gebhardt. Gebhardt, a senior, did well last year in lower level action and earned this step up for his first shot at the varsity.

154 pounds — Pete Phillips. While only a junior, Pete is in his third year as a varsity wrestler. Now Pete has only one more chance for an emblem.

165 pounds — Mike Colovos. Colovos is in his second varsity year. He had to rush to the mats after wrapping up a much improved season at guard on the football team. If Mike can improve as much in wrestling, he'll be a sure winner.

180 pounds — Fred Prete. Fred is the heaviest of five juniors on the etam.

Heavyweight — John Bantner. John is a 6-4 senior who weighs in at around 250 pounds. He was the Falcons' football tackle.

Preparing future varsity wrestlers are the underclass coaches Maury Levy, junior varsity, Bob Walther, sophomore, and Dave Theesfeld, freshmen.

"Warder came off the bench and did a good job against Forest View," Mueller praised. "All in all, I was pleased with the kids who came in as reserves. Wiley (Dave, 6-3) also did a fine job. They'll be pushing for starting jobs with performances like that."

Mueller called Wirsing's play Friday "outstanding." Bob collected 22 points, pulled down 12 rebounds, and had four assists.

Prospect JVs Fall In Opener

The Prospect junior varsity basketball team lost a heartbreaker to Libertyville 50-48 in the season's first game last Saturday.

Prospect held a 35-33 lead going into the final period and the junior Knights were tied with the Wildcats at 41-41 with just 3:39 showing on the clock. Then a six point splurge by the visitors Mike Jordon moved Libertyville ahead 47-41.

The Knights came roaring back however, scoring five points in 15 seconds and finally tying the score at 48 all with 1:34 left. Only two more points were scored and they decided the game. Joedon flipped in a short field goal with only 23 seconds left and Libertyville had won.

High man for the Knights was Ray Kleinhuzen with 12 points. With nine apiece, Bill Dax and Dan Agard were the next highest scorers for Prospect. Jordon and Mike Nutting led the winners with 16 and 15 points respectively.

The Prospect JV's play their next game against Proviso East on Saturday. The game is at home and begins at 7:00 p.m.

Prospect to Travel Tonight, Entertain Proviso E. Saturday

by MICHAEL HESS

A known and an unknown quantity comprise this week's basketball schedule for Prospect.

Tonight (Wednesday) the Knights travel to play St. Charles, a team which could be tough, but will probably not be, and on Saturday Prospect hosts always tough Proviso East.

Against each opponent, the Knights' new varsity coach Warren Collier will send the same starting lineup which squeaked past Libertyville 59-57 last Saturday.

IN APPRAISING that victory in the season's initial contest, Coach Collier found some pleasant surprises and a few disappointments.

On the plus side, said the coach, "The biggest surprise was that we won even with all the injuries we've had. The whole team played surprisingly well but our defense was the main factor in our winning."

Individual plusses found by Collier were the rebounding of forward Rick Mader and center John MacKay, the all-around play of guard Steve Kerr and the very adequate job turned in by sophomore sub Tom Lundstedt.

ON THE DEBIT side were the performances of Wayne Kuklinski and Greg Kowal. "Kuklinski," according to Collier, "did not play the game he's capable of playing." Klu did score a vital field goal late in the game.

Starting forward Kowal was also below par. But then he had only been to four practices since it was thought that he had a slight fracture in his foot. However, the fracture proved to be only a bone bruise and Kowal will start tonight despite the still painful injury.

Steve Johnson, who was scheduled to open at forward for the Knights, came down with blood poisoning last Friday, missed last Saturday's contest and is a definite question mark for this week's action.

Another question mark is tonight's opponent, the St. Charles Saints.

LACKING BOTH height and experience the Saints' coach Ron Johnson concedes that he'd be happy to finish as well as last season. St. Charles was 11 and 13 one year ago and closed at the third spot in the Little Seven.

Leading the Saints in their first game of the season will be senior center Dave Nelson. Nelson is the only returning letterman for StC and, if anyone, coach Johnson tabs him as the team's playmaker. The 6-2 center saw very little varsity action last season and only started one game.

Two seniors fill out the Saints' forward wall. Jim Gaffy and Steve Schmidt, neither of whom has played on the varsity before, will start at the forward positions.

JOHNSON HAS had a hard time picking his starting guards but the back court pair will definitely be underclassmen. Right now the choice is between juniors Bob Kranhanbuhl, Bob Linder and Terry Burke.

Given a chance to break in on the Saints' starters are Jeff Lock, a 6-1 junior forward, and Gar Brown, a senior center who, at 6-5, is the tallest member of Johnson's short team.

Concerning St. Charles, Knights' coach Collier could only comment, "I don't know what to expect." Against Proviso East though, Collier knew just what to anticipate. "They'll be tough, they always are. They have one of the best boys in the area in their guard, Al Nuness and I can remember their leading us by 17 points at half time last year."

At St. Charles

St. Charles			Prospect
6-1	Gaffney	F	Kowal	6-2
6-1	Schmidt	F	Mader	6-3
6-2	Nelson	C	MacKay	6-3
5-7	Kranhanbuhl	G	Kerr	5-11
5-10	Linder or	G	Phillips	5-11
6-0	Burke

TIME:
Wednesday Sophomore preliminary at 6:30 p.m.; varsity at 8:00 p.m.
St. Charles, Ron Johnson; Prospect, Warren Collier.

That half time score last season was 37-20 and the Pirates coasted to a 70-57 victory.

PROVISO HAS lost four of the five starters from that team which had a 20 and 3 record and captured the Suburban League Championship. But Nuness is back and he averaged 12 points a game last year at forward.

This year Al teams up with fellow senior Mike Green at guard. Both are expected to be playmakers for the Pirates and both are lettermen.

The other letterman for Proviso is senior forward Ronald Gwin. Gwin and center Ed Howard both jump well and will probably grab the majority of PE's rebounds. Loren Pratt, a senior, will be the Pirates' fifth starter.

PROVISO'S coach, Tom Millikin, is counting on Joe Watts, a 6-0 junior, to fill in when needed up front and as seventh man Millikin has his eye on Richard Robinson. Robinson is a 5-10 senior guard.

Said Millikin, "We have a great deal of respect for Prospect and they showed some excellent shooting in their first game." On his own squad Millikin commented, "I don't expect that we'll look good this early. We've been making a lot of fundamental errors, a lot of floor mistakes and we have to eliminate these.

"On defense we'll be man to man all the way and we'll try to force Prospect to make mistakes which we hope to take advantage of. On offense we'd like to fast break a bit, but we'll just have to see how we work out."

PROSPECT coach Collier feels that a lack of conditioning hurt his team in their opener and that they'll have to be in better condition to score more.

Concluded Collier, "We'll concentrate on getting everyone in condition and we'll add some patterns to our offense. Our job right now is to improve our offense and get more points."

Falcon Cagers

junior forward John Urleson.

"If we keep hustling the way we have been we can improve this year," said coach Hartley. "We have a good chance to finish at least at .500 when the season's over."

FALCONS' COACH Arneson estimated the Panthers this way: "They're short but very agressive and have many good ball handlers on the club. They shoot well and should be tough even though we'll have a height advantage."

Forest View will have no height advantage over Saturday's Elgin opponents.

The hosting Maroons will be captained by senior Mike Wimpleberg who is the only returning Elgin letterman. Mike averaged 12 points per game last season to aid the Maroons achieve a 19-9 record. Wimpleberg averaged eight rebounds a game in that winning season.

The Elgin floor leader will be senior Ken Kouxdal and seniors Chris Smith and George Nevins combine to form a classy back court duo for the Maroons.

Cats Split With Morton

Wheeling and Morton East split underclass wrestling decisions in the opener at Wheeling last Friday evening.

The Mustangs copped the sophomore match 27-19 while the Frosh battle went to Wheeling 35-21.

The Cat sophs won five bouts. Ryan Sarti and Dan Gribbon won on pins while Phil Reed, Glen Follett and Rich Haddock took decisions.

The Wheeling frosh rallied from a 13-0 deficit with seven pins. Wildcats pinners were Jerry Westhouse, Matt Porzell, Tom Russell, Joe Meyer, Pat McGuire, Mike Alsud and Ron Frediani.

what to do. He could be a real sleeper."

Juniors who could play key roles on the Trojan varsity are Bud Bocker (6-5), Bob Perkins (5-7), Dick Lane (6-1) and Joe Radosevich (5-11). Jim Duffy (5-10) and Barry Minehart (5-8) are seniors who should help.

Rick Howat, a 6-foot sophomore, also figures in the Downers plans for the coming year. "He's the best shot on the team," Wasmer says.

Hinsdale topped the second division in 1963-64 with a 5-9 record, but head coach Jack Stickels has an inexperienced bunch this year. Bob Koch, a 6-foot-5 senior who scored only six points in a reserve role, is the only lettermen, but he's been looking good.

Other Red Devil candidates are Roger Bain (6-2), Pete Shutack (6-2), Steve St. John (6-0), Scott Pfeutze (5-8), Pete Malin (5-8), and sophomore Parker Wellington (6-4).

Most coaches feel Arlington, a 2-12 league entry last winter, will make the most improved showing, but it's too early to tell how the Cardinals will stack up. There are still some questions to answer.

Coach Ted Wissen does have good size available (six boys at 6-foot-4 or better) but needs some steady play in the backcourt. Finding the right combination at those guard slots was a major headache for Wissen in his first year as the Cards' basketball boss.

Bob Conner (6-5), Chuck Lloyd (6-7), Ralph Morrisett (6-5), and Mike Frase (5-10) are the returning lettermen. Conner tossed in 166 points in West Suburban play as a junior, finishing 13th in the individual ranking. LaGrange's DePaola (ninth with 191) and Maine East's Larry Wiseburn (10th with 175) were the only other juniors able to crack the top 20 in scoring.

Wiseburn, a fine guard who earned all-league honors, has transferred to Maine South, and his loss is just one of many problems for new Maine East coach Bruce Brothers.

Brothers, former Quincy High School and University of Illinois star, took the Maine East job when Bernie Brady switched to Maine South, and Bruce may be faced with a long season. He doesn't have any lettermen and the top prospects are Jerry Welk (6-1), a jayvee last winter, and Brian Nelson (6-2), a transfer.

"This team has possibilities of developing, but it's going to take time," Brothers says. "We should have fair height and a lot of desire."

Glenbard West finished in the league cellar in 1963-64 with a 1-13 mark but should be no push-over this winter. New coach Gary Williams, who guided an Iowa high school team to 73 victories in 81 games, is equipped with three lettermen and a promising transfer.

Mike Martin (5-8), the brilliant all-conference halfback in football, Frank Ourada (5-10), and Jon Hawkinson (6-4) are the returning monogram winners, and John Hartwell is the transfer. Hartwell came to Glenbard from Louisville, Ky. and has moved into a starting position.

Immaculate Conception is an experienced crew with six lettermen, and impressive number any hard wood entry.

"WE HAVE the experience but we're not very tall," says head coach Jim Flemming. "And our outside shooting is a question-mark."

Popp and 6-foot-3 Rick Klein combind for 41 points in the opener with Klein chipping in 10. They form an effective 1-2 scoring punch.

Popp, Klein, forward Bob Shields (6-1), guards Gene Purcell (5-8) and Terry Tyrell (5-8) and forward Jeff Sand (6-1) are the returning monogram winners. Purcell collected 11 markers against St. Joseph.

Flemming has elevated a sophomore, guard Jimmy Morgan, to varsity status, but Morgan collected only one basket before fouling out the Friday.

Cats Host Conant Tonight, Entertain Hawks On Saturday

by TOM TULLY

Mike Owens was describing the practice he intended to run an hour later on Monday afternoon. "We are going to talk last week's game (Rich Central) over, and then I'm going to tell them we just have four things to work on: ball handling, blocking, offense and defense."

Owens' young Wheeling Wildcats can use work in all of these areas, but Mike's crack was in jest. "Actually," he said, "We were quite pleased with the kids at Rich. They did some things we didn't expect to see for another month."

In other respects, Monday was a day of good news for Owens. He learned, first of all, that he has a new ball player. John Ferguson, a 6-1 junior transfer from Thornton of Harvey, is now attending Wheeling. "I saw him in a phys ed class today" the coach said, "and he doesn't look bad. He won't become eligible until Dec. 18, but when we get him, he'll help us."

THE SECOND BIT of good tidings regards Conant, the first of this week's two opponents. Larry Powell, 6-6½ Cougar center, who scored 43 points in two games last weekend, will sit out tonight's (Wednesday) battle for disciplinary reasons.

Lest the day be perfect, Owens could reflect on Saturday's home opponent, Maine South. The Hawks, a new school that doesn't play like one, got off to a good start last week with wins over Glenbrook South and Niles North. Bernie Brady's club figures to give Owens a few things to think about the rest of the week.

First, however, is Conant and the Cougar visit this evening marks the Cats first appearance in their beautiful new gym. It should be an interesting match since Cougar mentor Rol Berg is (or was until Powell was excused for the week) in the same boat that Owens occupies.

Both schools are in their first year of operation and both lack a senior class. The difference is that Wheeling is attacking a Mid-Suburban varsity schedule. Conant is carrying a primarily jayvee slate. The Cougars will enter the MSC next fall. Tonight's game, and a later rematch, are the only varsity games on their card.

THE COUGARS dropped a pair of jayvee encounters last week, falling to Dundee 52-41 and Barrington 57-51. Powell was the big gun. Twenty seven of his points came against Barrington and the big junior pulled down 29 rebounds in the two games.

Without him, Berg will look to John Glasshoff to provide the scoring punch. Glasshoff had 15 at Dundee. The Cougars are suddenly a small club. Dave Sander, just a shade over 6-0, is the tallest starter.

Although there are seniors at Maine South, the Hawks success in sports to date must be considered surprising. The football team finished second in the Des Plaines Valley and the cage crew is off to a fine start with a 56-53 win over Glenbrook and a 77-42 victory over Niles North.

Larry Wiseburn and Bill DeBartolo have been the big guns for Brady. Wiseburn, an All West Suburban guard as a Maine East junior, has 46 points in two games. DeBartelo has 36. All five Hawk regulars were members of the East squad last year, but Wiseburn is the only letterman. Brady labels him one of the finest guards he has coached and Bernie moves to South after a nine year tenure at East that brought two WSC titles and only one finish out of the first division. He labels this Hawk club as one with good possibilities. "We have good speed and better than average shooters. Our big deficit is height. DeBartolo is the tallest at 6-2½."

Four Lettermen on Cardinal Mat Squad

Julius Fliehler, Arlington High School's varsity wrestling coach, labels the 1964-65 varsity aggregation a definite question mark at this stage of the season.

"Only time will tell," he admits.

"We've had the boys for about two weeks, and there are still a lot of questions to be answered. They're working hard though with the emphasis on conditioning."

JULIUS FLJEHLER

Fliehler will send his varsity wrestlers into action for the first time Friday afternoon with a non-conference bout against neighboring Forest View. The meet will be held at 1 p.m. in the Cardinal gymnasium.

ONLY FOUR lettermen greeted Fliehler and his staff at the outset of drills. Graduation took several talented grapplers, including state tourney entries Bob Conti and Bill Anderson.

Monogram winners returning for another season are Ray Herda, Scott Brown, Doug Duss and Chuck Hood.

Herda, a senior, is the best bet at 95 pounds, and Brown, only a junior but a mat letterman for two seasons, should get the first call at 103. Herda worked at 103 last season with Brown at 95.

SENIOR TERRY Munk and junior Steve Hedberg are the now at 112 pounds with junior Bruce Conti and senior Ken Neal battling at 120. Duss looks like the top choice at 127 where he operated in the 1963-64 campaign.

Two juniors, Chip Douglas and Dave Peters, are bidding for the 133-pound slot, with the 138-pound division a real toss-up.

At 138 Fliehler is still undecided among senior Hart Schluntz, juniors Pete Smeed and Dave Dooding, and promising sophomore Brad Somers. Somers is the only soph currently listed among the top varsity candidates although Fliehler admists he has a "promising sophomore group this year."

The 145-pound bracket should belong to one of three juniors: Don Lindmark, the football center, Kirk Wolter, or Jim Auld.

SENIOR LETTERMAN Hood, an all-conference performer in football, will open at 154 pounds with seniors Doug Chidley and John Stevens and junior Lyle Bemis battling at 165.

Ron Thompson, the football tackle, and Rick McInnes are the top prospects at 180 with junior Mark Frase at heavyweight. Frase, also a football and baseball letterman, saw some varsity service in this heavyweight spot last winter but didn't letter.

Assisting Fliehler with the Arlington wrestling program are Bill Meyers, Merrit Paxton, and John Fish.

Arlington posted an 8-8 record in dual meets last winter on a varsity level. The Cards were 3-4 in West Suburban Conference action.

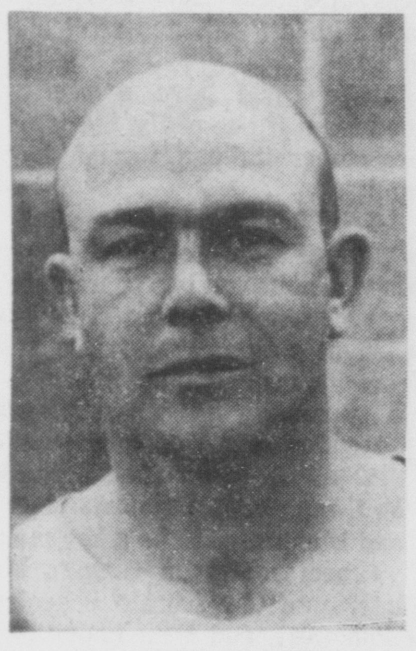
Falcon Matmen Hope To Improve Standard

"Everyone says that Forest View is weak but I don't agree." This was wrestling coach Hal Henson's view as he prepared to send his Falcon grapplers against Arlington in the year's first meet tomorrow.

Considering the past record, it's not any surprise that an outsider might paste an "easy" label on the Falcons. Last year Henson's matmen won only four out of twelve dual meets. Only five of that losing group have returned.



HAL HENSON

Though they showed a poor meet record last season, the Forest View wrestlers did do well in tournament action. They finished third in the Prospect Holiday Tournament and grabbed a tie for third at the District. Three of the Falcons advanced to the sectional but none moved on to Champaign.

ONLY ONE letterman, Omar Aviles, is among the five returnees from '64. A partial explanation for this dirth of emblem holders is that coach Henson believes a letter should really be won and not just handed out simply for showing up. As a result, the Falcons' coach has given only seven wrestling letters since Forest View opened.

Always tough Arlington, which last year beat Forest View 25-16, will greet the Falcons this year with a junior-dominated squad. Just four lettermen from a Cardinals' team which finished 8 and 7 in dual meets a year ago will face the Falcons tomorrow at 1 p.m.

"I'm well pleased with the way things have been going in practice," concluded Henson. "The boys have been doing well and I feel we'll be an improved squad this year."

Seeking to keep that promise of improvement is the Falcons' starting line-up for tomorrow's match:

95 pounds — Tom Bohac. There is a chance that Tom, only a sophomore, will be pressured from his starter's position by Jim Veltri. Veltri is a junior.

103 pounds — Omar Aviles. Aviles is the only letterman on the team but he's a good one. Last year Omar, only a sophomore then, was second in the district meet and fourth in the sectional. He is definitely the top prosepct among the FV matmen.

112 pounds — Dave Knudsen. Dave is a junior in his first year of varsity competition.

120 pounds — Terry Hayden. Hayden, on the varsity one year ago, may have trouble staying there because of the presence of Randy Haydel. Randy has a knee injury but he missed a varsity letter by only one point and coach Henson says he has improved a lot over last year.

127 pounds — Jim Kubic. A junior, Jim is another nonletterwinning varsityman who has returned to try again.

133 pounds — Dean Jacobsen. Jacobsen is a senior.

138 pounds — Bob Coon. Bob has won a letter, but that was as a football fullback. This is his initial start for the varsity over others.

148 pounds — Larry Gebhardt. Gebhardt, a senior, did well last year in lower level action and earned this step up for his first shot at the varsity.

154 pounds — Pete Phillips. While only a junior, Pete is in his third year as a varsity wrestler. Now Pete has only one more chance for an emblem.

165 pounds — Mike Colovos. Colovos is in his second varsity year. He had to rush to the mats after wrapping up a much improved season at guard on the football team. If Mike can improve as much in wrestling, he'll be a sure winner.

180 pounds — Fred Prete. Fred is the heaviest of five juniors on the etam.

Heavyweight — John Bantner. John is a 6-4 senior who weighs in at around 250 pounds. He was the Falcons' football tackle.

Preparing future varsity wrestlers are the underclass coaches Maury Levy, junior varsity, Bob Walther, sophomore, and Dave Theesfeld, freshmen.

Seeking 'Bells'

(Cont. from Preceding Page)

"Warder came off the bench and did a good job against Forest View," Mueller praised. "All in all, I was pleased with the kids who came in as reserves. Wiley (Dave, 6-3) also did a fine job. They'll be pushing for starting jobs with performances like that."

Mueller called Wirsing's play Friday "outstanding." Bob collected 22 points, pulled down 12 rebounds, and had four assists.

Prospect JVs Fall In Opener

The Prospect junior varsity basketball team lost a heartbreaker to Libertyville 50-48 in the season's first game last Saturday.

Prospect held a 35-33 lead going into the final period and the junior Knights were tied with the Wildcats at 41-41 with just 3:39 showing on the clock. Then a six point splurge by the visitors Mike Jordon moved Libertyville ahead 47-41.

The Knights came roaring back however, scoring five points in 15 seconds and finally tying the score at 48 all with 1:34 left. Only two more points were scored and they decided the game. Joedon flipped in a short field goal with only 23 seconds left and Libertyville had won.

High man for the Knights was Ray Kleinhuzen with 12 points. With nine apiece, Bill Dax and Dan Agard were the next highest scorers for Prospect. Jordon and Mike Nutting led the winners with 16 and 15 points respectively.

The Prospect JV's play their next game against Proviso East on Saturday. The game is at home and begins at 7:00 p.m.

St. Viator High Hosts Swim Relays Saturday

Five Schools in Tank Headliner

If you're a swimming fan, there's only one place to go Saturday afternoon.

St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights will host four other area entries at the St. Viator Invitational Relays.

The host Lions, Arlington, Forest View, Notre Dame of Niles, and Prospect will send swimmers to the St. Viator pool in the tank spectacular that kicks off the 1964-65 season.

Competition will get under way at 2 p.m. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students, and fans should enter by the south door of the school.

There will be no individual events in the Invitational, only relays. There will be unlimited participation in the ten events.

Here's the way the area squads look:

ST. VIATOR

Host coach Charley Mondi is set on his alignment for the Invitational and will enter full squads in each of the ten events.

Mondi will go with Jim Cron-Bob Lehrke, Dennis Wittry, Jim Moran, and Tom O'Gara in the frosh freestyle relay and Jim Cronin, Bob Brown, Bill Richardson, and Harry Frossard in the soph freestyle event.

In the open freestyle relay the Lion entry will consist of Hugh Zito, Rick Withrow, Jim Collins, and Reynolds Tague. Tom O'Gara, Bob Madden, John Lyons, and Bob Lehrke will vie in the frosh medley.

Mondi will go wth Jim Cronin, Rick Kalinowski, Harry Frossard, and Bob Brown in the soph medley and Mike Gibler, Jim Spears, Joe Herrity, and Reynolds Tague in the open Medley.

O'Gara, Norm Zeller, Tim Wallace, and Gibler will represent St. Viator in the open backstroke relay with Ralph Elwart, Rick Withrow, Joe Herrity, and either Phil Cutler or Tom Pilot in the open butterfly.

Jim Spears, Rick Kalinowski, Jeff Clery, and Mike Shanley will be in the open breaststroke relay. Rounding out the St. Viator alignment will be Jim Geocaris, Kevin Shead, Hugh Zito, Jim Collins, and Withrow in the 400 freestyle relay with one boy to be dropped from that list.

FOREST VIEW

Forest View's Keith North is working with three lettermen and 55 swimmers over-all. "We are short on depth," he admits, "and that won't help us in this relay meet."

North says that senior Bill Reising, a standout letterman, Ed Boddy, Nolan, and possibly John Buczek will vie in the freestyle relay with Ward Sears, a promising transfer from Des Moines, Iowa, Bob Prucha, soph, Mike Bodozian, and Peter Loy in the backstroke event.

Buczek, sixth in the conference in the individual medley last winter, junior Bob Glaser, Sears, and Boddy are the butterfly entries with Dave Leuck, Bill Hughes, Keith Kutch and Craig Brown in the breaststroke relay.

A combination of these boys is planned in the other events.

ARLINGTON

Arlington coach John Gardner is working with five lettermen in soph Paul Hembd, Greg Inman, John Malmquist, Greg Stafford, and Dick Tucker. All except Malmquist will be in action Saturday as there is no diving event.

Although Gardner didn't have a definite alignment for the Invitational, he did indicate how the squad will stack up this season for duels. Most of the boys mentioned will be competing in Saturday's headliner.

Tucker and Dick Robinson are the best bets in the 50 yard freestyle with Tucker and Dick Fine in the 100. Stafford and Phil Neas are the leading 200 candidates.

In the 400 freestyle Stafford and junior Don Johns are the top boys. Hembd is the leader in the butterfly, and Inman is No. 1 in the backstroke. Greg owns the school record in his specialty.

Paul Michaels, Laird Olson, Bill Sayre, and Russ Larson are battling for the breaststroke positions with Inman in the individual medley.

PROSPECT

The top swimmers at the Foundry Road layout, according to head man Don Barrett, are Bob Angstadt, freestyler who broke three school records last year; Mike Donovan, freestyler with two school records last winter; Larry Salerno, freestyler and a letterman; Bob Walkley, breaststroke specialist and probably the squad's most improved tanker; Hugh Wesler, butterfly man and letterman; and Jim Smith, senior in the breaststroke, another letterman.

Freestyler Bill Enszer, a junior, has shown improvement and could be among the leaders for the Knights.

Named at Tackle

Zadel 2nd Team All-American

Bill Zadel of Mount Prospect, a Prospect High School graduate and senior at the United States Military Academy, was named to a second team post at tackle on the American Football Coaches Association All-America selections announced in the Nov. 28 issue of TV Guide.

Zadel, who played center at Prospect, was the only member of a service academy named to the first three teams. He will be on national television Saturday as Army battles Navy.

The American Football Coaches Association All-America team is celebrating its Diamond Jubilee with the announcement of this 75th post - season honor squad.

Named to the first team were ends Jack Snow of Notre Dame, Larry Elkins of Bayler, tackles Larry Kramer of Nebraska and Ralph Neely of Oklahoma, guard Rick Redman of Washington and Glenn Resller of Penn State, center Dick Butkus of Illinois, quarterbacks Bob Berry of Oregon and Craig Morton of California, halfbacks Gale Sayers of Kansas and Larry Dupree of Florida, and fullback Tom Nowatzke of Indiana.

On the second team were ends Biletnikoff of Florida State and Bob Hadrick of Purdue, tackles Harry Schuh of Memphis State and Zadel of Army, guards Tom Nobis of Texas and Dwight Kell of Ohio State, center Bill Curry of Georgia Tech, quarterback John Huarte of Notre Dame, halfbacks Ken Willard of North Carolina and Rodger Bird of Kentucky, and fullback Tucker Frederickson of Auburn.

Baumgardt Hits 33, Grabs 23 Boards As Falcons Top Pirates

by TOM TULLY

The clock on the wall at Forest View High School read 10:47 when the buzzer at the scorer's table finally called a truce to the war on the basketball floor last Friday evening.

The host Falcons got a 74-64 decision over visiting Palatine in what was billed as the opening cage attraction of the season. Actually, it was closer to a 'survival of the fittest' endurance test.

The one thing the match did decide, was who was the fittest. That honor unquestionably goes to Falcon center Jim Baumgardt. The husky 6-3 junior pivot wouldn't place in a style show, but no one in the house could fault him for lack of desire or muscle.

Forest View was a winner because of superior foul shooting and board control and Baumgardt was the top Bird in both departments. In addition he picked up the slack on an evening when Falcon ace Pat Dunnigan was as cold as the weather. Matter of fact, he tore up the school record book with a 33 point performance. To match his fine offensive show, Jim limited Palatine's top returning scorer, Craig Gaare, to one bucket and a pair of foul shots.

For the evening, Baumgardt had nine goals in 20 attempts and 15 of 19 foul shots. His total of 33 erased the former school and fieldhouse records of 31, established by Joe Mueller two years ago. Baumgardt not only put the ball in the basket at a record cracking pace, he also shattered a mark taking it off the rim. His 23 rebounds broke the old record of 20 set by Dick Anderson. The entire Falcon squad got into the act too. The 74 points topped by one the former Forest View standard set last season against Lisle.

Records aside, it was an impressive debut for Baumgardt, who missed half of last season with a back injury and spent the rest of the campaign with the sophomore squad.

Good as Baumgardt's performance was, it took a back seat to the hatcheting job turned in by both teams. Nine players—five Pirates and four Falcons—were whistled to the sidelines as the whistles blew 64 times. Forest View, deadly from the line, cashed 34 of 51 from the line. Palatine hit on just 28 of 46.

Palatine's running game and Forest View mistakes dominated the early action. After the Birds gained an early 3-0 advantage, the Pirates used four Falcon turnovers to build a 10-3 lead. It was 12-5 a minute later when Baumgardt put in a rebound and a hook to lead the hosts to within 15-12 at the quarter.

Palatine regained the momentum and had a 23-14 lead with 4:12 remaining in the half. At this point, Forest View began to control the boards, particularly their own and moved within 31-28 at halftime. The home club had a 13-7 edge in rebounds in the second quarter and five of them were off the offensive metal.

Three things happened in the third quarter and at its conclusion, it was a happy Ken Arneson that greeted his team. Perhaps most important was the Pirate fast break. In the first half it riddled the Falcon defense for a half dozen easy goals. In the third frame it went to pieces. Bad passes cost the visitors numerous shots. Secondly, Forest View hit 12 of 16 foul shots and finally, they notched eight of 17 shots from the field. Palatine went to the bench at the end of the period gasping from a 28 point Falcon salvo. The Birds led 58-44. Baumgardt lead the assault with five buckets and two pitches from the line.

From the Pirate point of view it got worse before it got better. It was 61-44 and then 63-49 before the visitors in Red made a bid. Five foul shots and a goal by John Warder off a steal by Randy McWilliams, cut the gap to 63-56.

With 3:42 remaining, the issue was still in doubt, but Baumgardt and lanky Steve Jacobsen failed to co-operate. Baumgardt canned five foul shots and Jake four as the Falcons went down to the buzzer without really being in trouble in the final stages.

Arneson was quite elated with the Falcon scoring punch. Another junior, guard Byron Borgardt support Baumgardt with 14 points, six coming on three circus drives down the middle. Dunnigan had nine and Jacobsen eight.

Palatine mentor Bud Mueller was naturally disappointed. He felt his club lost its poise in the third period, but was encouraged by fourth period comeback.

Slender forward Bob Wirsing had the biggest night of his career for the Pirates, hitting on seven goals and eight foul shots for 22. His principal assistance came from the bench. Warder, a spare guard, had ten and rookie forward Don Willy chipped in with nine.

Frosh, Soph Entries Open Cage Campaign

Prospect's two freshmen squads and the Knights' sophs won three games from Maine East last Saturday while Palatine's freshmen were swamping Forest View's first year men in two contests.

The Prospect Freshman A five took two overtime periods to beat Maine East 50 to 48 while the Knights sophomores were winning 58-44.

The underclass Pirates beat the Falcons on the A level 70 to 61 and on the B level 46 to 25.

Prospect's sophomores will play their next game tonight (Wednesday) against St. Charles on the opponent's court while the Prospect freshmen have to wait until December fifth and Wheeling for their next game.

Forest View's freshmen will battle New Trier this Saturday in their second contest.

Falcon Sophs Rip Palatine

The Forest View sophomores galloped away from Palatine 52-39 last Saturday in the season opener for both clubs.

The Falcon sophs, who have set a goal of keeping every opponent under 40 points, achieved that goal in their first game. Dennis Lynch led the sophs defense in holding down Palatine.

Bill Ford, with 15 points, Howard Brasch, with 12, Frank Calvello, with 11, and Bob Arnold, with 9 points, were the top offensemen in the balanced Falcons attack.

Bob Hoffman was high man for the Pirates with 10 points.

Mustangs Rout Wildcats

Wheeling found that first trip to the varsity wrestling mats a trying one last Friday evening. Visiting Morton East won eleven of twelve bouts and crushed the Cats 43-5.

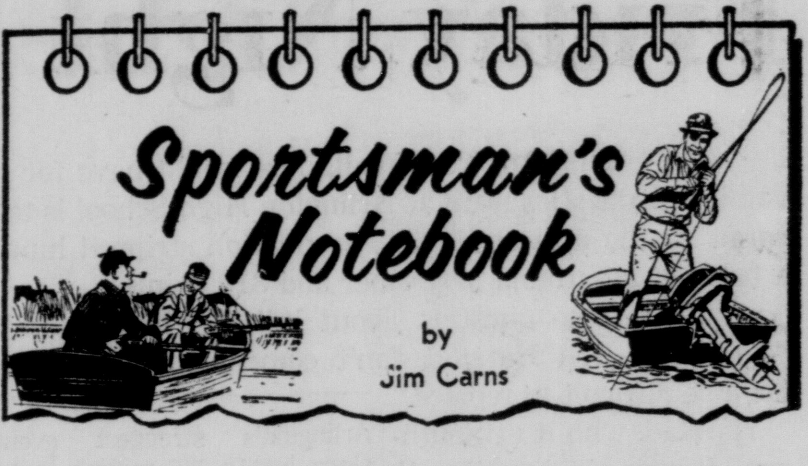
The only Wheeling winner was 154 pounder Ray Pace. Pace pinned Creekmur of Morton in 2:40.

Before and after Pace it was all Mustangs. In the opener, King stopped Rick Basch 5-0. Bernatowicz beat Karl Meisenheimer 10-4 at 103. Patun blanked Jerry Hawkinson 9-0 at 112 and Tuvek turned in the first pin of the match when he stopped Dave Eaton in 1:12 at 120.

At 127 Zmurhal beat Dick Ritter 8-1. Popovich blanked Alan Eisenstein 3-0 at 133 and Soenksen blanked Mike Fluegel 10-0 in the next bout. Nowenictski pinned Bob Cermak in :30 at 145. After Pace's victory, Krat ochril edged Larry Knaack 2-1 on riding time. Morton won the next two bouts on pins. Gregor finished Ted Armstron in 4:58 at 180 and Scuderi stopped Frank Abborino in 1:25 in the heavyweight clash.

Correction

Last week's edition contained an incorrect list of the Prospect varsity cross country letter winners. Those who received varsity cross country letters include only: Gus Filantres, Scott Hein, Jack Pollard, Ed Schneider, George Schneider, Steve Stock, Bill Wallrich and Gary York.



A superficial count would probably indicate that most hunters are men, and that most men when they go hunting tend to go with other men.

But the problems thereby created—namely hunting widows and hunting orphans—may soon be solved (if any man is ever able to solve a woman or his children.)

The solution, as set forth by the lodge proprietors, is Shagbark, a hunting lodge and controlled hunting area near Alden, which now offers a myriad of diversions for the family and promises a lot more for the future.

"So what?" an ardent sportsman might say. "I want game and good sport, and my family really doesn't mind those lonesome weekends. Well . . . not much, anyway."

This could well be the place to make everybody happy. There was no shortage of either game or good sport last Thursday when members of the area press were treated to a sample of Shagbark hospitality.

The hunting area includes more than 600 acres of almost every imaginable type of game cover, and is slated to grow with the lease of another 400 acre parcel.

Released mallard ducks and pheasants provide the action, and guides with some pretty acceptable bird dogs are on hand to provide assistance.

A lodge building provides a lot more than a place to get warm, with dining facilities, a room for the youngsters, an open fireplace, and a balcony lounge for "the last shot."

Outdoors, both the hunter's family, and the hunter on occasion, might want to enjoy horseback riding, archery at the target butt and in the field, skiing on slopes or behind a motorized "ski-doo," or just a walk in the woods.

For warmer weather there is "Ye Olde Swimming Hole," and in or out of hunting season there is fishing in small lakes stocked with trout, bass and panfish.

When things freeze up, there is ice fishing, skating, tobogganing on a good-sized slide, and sleigh riding.

Well, in short, there is more than hunting to attract both the hunter and his family—and to clear up any doubt—there is no rule against women and youngsters in the field.

In fact, courses are offered to teach the younger set the art and mechanics of using firearms in the field.

It's all done on a membership basis, and when the cost of birds is figured in it becomes a bargain second only to hunting for free on public land or a friend's farm for those first few days of the season when birds are plentiful.

The lodge's governor, Bob Tansill, is frank to admit that he is losing money on the price of released birds—$3 apiece for pheasants in groups of 20.

As if present facilities were not adequate, Tansill glowingly describes plans for the future which include a 22 acre lake, surrounding marsh, more hunting land, more family activities, and members' cottages.

That's for next year. Further in the future are a golf course, social and meeting rooms, indoor pool, tennis courts and even more lakes and land.

It is a sound plan—all based on the premise that the hunter would rather take the family along than face the agonizing battle of creating a weekend widow.

Another fairly good premise is that the average hunter, while seeking the wilderness and the sport of his forefathers, would like to be able to think of comfort only a few minutes' walk away.

Those who don't mind the thought of comfort in connection with hunting may further whet their appetites by calling Shagbark, 815-648-4431, or by getting out to see the place, four miles west of Hebron on Rt. 173 in McHenry County.

St. Viator High Hosts Swim Relays Saturday

Five Schools in Tank Headliner

If you're a swimming fan, there's only one place to go Saturday afternoon.

St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights will host four other area entries at the St. Viator Invitational Relays.

The host Lions, Arlington, Forest View, Notre Dame of Niles, and Prospect will send swimmers to the St. Viator pool in the tank spectacular that kicks off the 1964-65 season.

Competition will get under way at 2 p.m. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students, and fans should enter by the south door of the school.

There will be no individual events in the Invitational, only relays. There will be unlimited participation in the ten events.

Here's the way the area squads look:

ST. VIATOR

Host coach Charley Mondi is set on his alignment for the Invitational and will enter full squads in each of the ten events.

Mondi will go with Jim Cron- Bob Lehrke, Dennis Wittry, Jim Moran, and Tom O'Gara in the frosh freestyle relay and Jim Cronin, Bob Brown, Bill Richardson, and Harry Frossard in the soph freestyle event.

In the open freestyle relay the Lion entry will consist of Hugh Zito, Rick Withrow, Jim Collins, and Reynolds Tague. Tom O'Gara, Bob Madden, John Lyons, and Bob Lehrke will vie in the frosh medley.

Mondi will go wth Jim Cronin, Rick Kalinowski, Harry Frossard, and Bob Brown in the soph medley and Mike Gibler, Jim Spears, Joe Herrity, and Reynolds Tague in the open Medley.

O'Gara, Norm Zeller, Tim Wallace, and Gibler will represent St. Viator in the open backstroke relay with Ralph Elwart, Rick Withrow, Joe Herrity, and either Phil Cutler or Tom Pilot in the open butterfly.

Jim Spears, Rick Kalinowski, Jeff Clery, and Mike Shanley will be in the open breaststroke relay. Rounding out the St. Viator alignment will be Jim Geocaris, Kevin Shead, Hugh Zito, Jim Collins, and Withrow in the 400 freestyle relay with one boy to be dropped from that list.

FOREST VIEW

Forest View's Keith North is working with three lettermen and 55 swimmers over-all. "We are short on depth," he admits, "and that won't help us in this relay meet."

North says that senior Bill Reising, a standout letterman, Ed Boddy, Nolan, and possibly John Buczek will vie in the freestyle relay with Ward Sears, a promising transfer from Des Moines, Iowa, Bob Prucha, soph, Mike Bodozian, and Peter Loy in the backstroke event.

Buczek, sixth in the conference in the individual medley last winter, junior Bob Glaser, Sears, and Boddy are the butterfly entries with Dave Leuck, Bill Hughes, Keith Kutch and Craig Brown in the breaststroke relay.

A combination of these boys is planned in the other events.

ARLINGTON

Arlington coach John Gardner is working with five lettermen in soph Paul Hembd, Greg Inman, John Malmquist, Greg Stafford, and Dick Tucker. All except Malmquist will be in action Saturday as there is no diving event.

Although Gardner didn't have a definite alignment for the Invitational, he did indicate how the squad will stack up this season for duels. Most of the boys mentioned will be competing in Saturday's headliner.

Tucker and Dick Robinson are the best bets in the 50 yard freestyle with Tucker and Dick Fine in the 100. Stafford and Phil Neas are the leading 200 candidates.

In the 400 freestyle Stafford and junior Don Johns are the top boys. Hembd is the leader in the butterfly, and Inman is No. 1 in the backstroke. Greg owns the school record in his specialty.

Paul Michaels, Laird Olson, Bill Sayre, and Russ Larson are battling for the breaststroke positions with Inman in the individual medley.

PROSPECT

The top swimmers at the Foundry Road layout, according to head man Don Barrett, are Bob Angstadt, freestyler who broke three school records last year; Mike Donovan, freestyler with two school records last winter; Larry Salerno, freestyler and a letterman; Bob Walkley, breaststroke specialist and probably the squad's most improved tanker; Hugh Wesler, butterfly man and letterman; and Jim Smith, senior in the breaststroke, another letterman.

Freestyler Bill Enszer, a junior, has shown improvement and could be among the leaders for the Knights.

Named at Tackle

Zadel 2nd Team All-American

Bill Zadel of Mount Prospect, a Prospect High School graduate and senior at the United States Military Academy, was named to a second team post at tackle on the American Football Coaches Association All-America selections announced in the Nov. 28 issue of TV Guide.

Zadel, who played center at Prospect, was the only member of a service academy named to the first three teams. He will be on national television Saturday as Army battles Navy.

The American Football Coaches Association All-America team is celebrating its Diamond Jubilee with the announcement of this 75th post - season honor squad.

Named to the first team were ends Jack Snow of Notre Dame, Larry Elkins of Bayler, tackles Larry Kramer of Nebraska and Ralph Neely of Oklahoma, guard Rick Redman of Washington and Glenn Resller of Penn State, center Dick Butkus of Illinois, quarterbacks Bob Berry of Oregon and Craig Morton of California, halfbacks Gale Sayers of Kansas and Larry Dupree of Florida, and fullback Tom Nowatzke of Indiana.

On the second team were ends Biletnikoff of Florida State and Bob Hadrick of Purdue, tackles Harry Schuh of Memphis State and Zadel of Army, guards Tom Nobis of Texas and Dwight Kell of Ohio State, center Bill Curry of Georgia Tech, quarterback John Huarte of Notre Dame, halfbacks Ken Willard of North Carolina and Rodger Bird of Kentucky, and fullback Tucker Frederickson of Auburn.

THIS TELLS THE STORY of wild opener at Forest View last Friday evening. Baumgardt Hits 33, Grabs 23 Boards As Falcons Top Pirates

by TOM TULLY

The clock on the wall at Forest View High School read 10:47 when the buzzer at the scorer's table finally called a truce to the war on the basketball floor last Friday evening.

The host Falcons got a 74-64 decision over visiting Palatine in what was billed as the opening cage attraction of the season. Actually, it was closer to a 'survival of the fittest' endurance test.

The one thing the match did decide, was who was the fittest. That honor unquestionably goes to Falcon center Jim Baumgardt. The husky 6-3 junior pivot wouldn't place in a style show, but no one in the house could fault him for lack of desire or muscle.

Forest View was a winner because of superior foul shooting and board control and Baumgardt was the top Bird in both departments. In addition he picked up the slack on an evening when Falcon ace Pat Dunnigan was as cold as the weather. Matter of fact, he tore up the school record book with a 33 point performance. To match his fine offensive show, Jim limited Palatine's top returning scorer, Craig Gaare, to one bucket and a pair of foul shots.

For the evening, Baumgardt had nine goals in 20 attempts and 15 of 19 foul shots. His total of 33 erased the former school and fieldhouse records of 31, established by Joe Mueller two years ago. Baumgardt not only put the ball in the basket at a record cracking pace, he also shattered a mark taking it off the rim. His 23 rebounds broke the old record of 20 set by Dick Anderson. The entire Falcon squad got into the act too. The 74 points topped by one the former Forest View standard set last season against Lisle.

Records aside, it was an impressive debut for Baumgardt, who missed half of last season with a back injury and spent the rest of the campaign with the sophomore squad.

Good as Baumgardt's performance was, it took a back seat to the hatcheting job turned in by both teams. Nine players—five Pirates and four Falcons—were whistled to the sidelines as the whistles blew 64 times. Forest View, deadly from the line, cashed 34 of 51 from the line. Palatine hit on just 28 of 46.

Palatine's running game and Forest View mistakes dominated the early action. After the Birds gained an early 3-0 advantage, the Pirates used four Falcon turnovers to build a 10-3 lead. It was 12-5 a minute later when Baumgardt put in a rebound and a hook to lead the hosts to within 15-12 at the quarter.

Palatine regained the momentum and had a 23-14 lead with 4:12 remaining in the half. At this point, Forest View began to control the boards, particularly their own and moved within 31-28 at halftime. The home club had a 13-7 edge in rebounds in the second quarter and five of them were off the offensive metal.

Three things happened in the third quarter and at its conclusion, it was a happy Ken Arneson that greeted his team. Perhaps most important was the Pirate fast break. In the first half it riddled the Falcon defense for a half dozen easy goals. In the third frame it went to pieces. Bad passes cost the visitors numerous shots. Secondly, Forest View hit 12 of 16 foul shots and finally, they notched eight of 17 shots from the field. Palatine went to the bench at the end of the period gasping from a 28 point Falcon salvo. The Birds led 58-44. Baumgardt lead the assault with five buckets and two pitches from the line.

From the Pirate point of view it got worse before it got better. It was 61-44 and then 63-49 before the visitors in Red made a bid. Five foul shots and a goal by John Warder off a steal by Randy McWilliams, cut the gap to 63-56.

With 3:42 remaining, the issue was still in doubt, but Baumgardt and lanky Steve Jacobsen failed to co-operate. Baumgardt canned five foul shots and Jake four as the Falcons went down to the buzzer without really being in trouble in the final stages.

Arneson was quite elated with the Falcon scoring punch. Another junior, guard Byron Borgardt support Baumgardt with 14 points, six coming on three circus drives down the middle. Dunnigan had nine and Jacobsen eight.

Palatine mentor Bud Mueller was naturally disappointed. He felt his club lost its poise in the third period, but was encouraged by fourth period comeback.

Slender forward Bob Wirsing had the biggest night of his career for the Pirates, hitting on seven goals and eight foul shots for 22. His principal assistance came from the bench. Warder, a spare guard, had ten and rookie forward Don Wi[illegible] chipped in with nine.

Frosh, Soph Entries Open Cage Campaign

Prospect's two freshmen squads and the Knights' sophs won three games from Maine East last Saturday while Palatine's freshmen were swamping Forest View's first year men in two contests.

The Prospect Freshman A five took two overtime periods to beat Maine East 50 to 48 while the Knights sophomores were winning 58-44.

The underclass Pirates beat the Falcons on the A level 70 to 61 and on the B level 46 to 25.

Prospect's sophomores will play their next game tonight (Wednesday) against St. Charles on the opponent's court while the Prospect freshmen have to wait until December fifth and Wheeling for their next game.

Forest View's freshmen will battle New Trier this Saturday in their second contest.

Falcon Sophs Rip Palatine

The Forest View sophomores galloped away from Palatine 52-39 last Saturday in the season opener for both clubs.

The Falcon sophs, who have set a goal of keeping every opponent under 40 points, achieved that goal in their first game. Dennis Lynch led the sophs defense in holding down Palatine.

Bill Ford, with 15 points, Howard Brasch, with 12, Frank Calvello, with 11, and Bob Arnold, with 9 points, were the top offensemen in the balanced Falcons attack.

Bob Hoffman was high man for the Pirates with 10 points.

Mustangs Rout Wildcats

Wheeling found that first trip to the varsity wrestling mats a trying one last Friday evening. Visiting Morton East won eleven of twelve bouts and crushed the Cats 43-5.

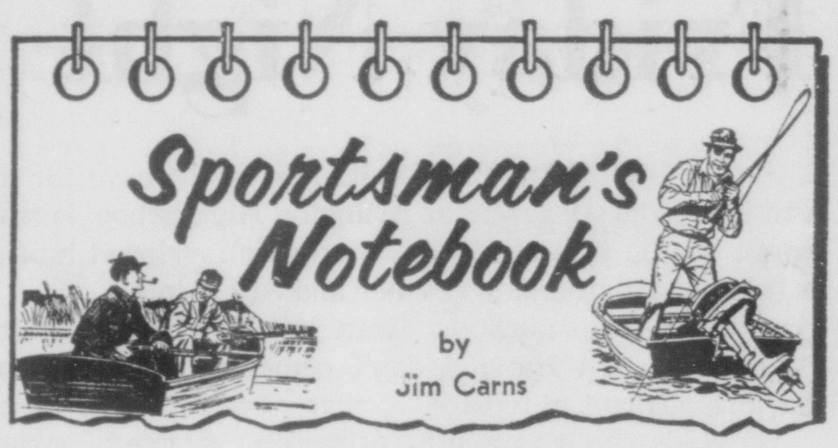
The only Wheeling winner was 154 pounder Ray Pace. Pace pinned Creekmur of Morton in 2:40.

Before and after Pace it was all Mustangs. In the opener, King stopped Rick Basch 5-0. Bernatowicz beat Karl Meisenheimer 10-4 at 103. Patun blanked Jerry Hawkinson 9-0 at 112 and Tuvek turned in the first pin of the match when he stopped Dave Eaton in 1:12 at 120.

At 127 Zmurhal beat Dick Ritter 8-1. Popovich blanked Alan Eisenstein 3-0 at 133 and Soenksen blanked Mike Fluegel 10-0 in the next bout. Nowenictski pinned Bob Cermak in :30 at 145. After Pace's victory, Krat ochril edged Larry Knaack 2-1 on riding time. Morton won the next two bouts on pins. Gregor finished Ted Armstron in 4:58 at 180 and Scuderi stopped Frank Abborino in 1:25 in the heavyweight clash.

Correction

Last week's edition contained an incorrect list of the Prospect varsity cross country letter winners. Those who received varsity cross country letters include only: Gus Filantres, Scott Hein, Jack Pollard, Ed Schneider, George Schneider, Steve Stock, Bill Wallrich and Gary York.



A superficial count would probably indicate that most hunters are men, and that most men when they go hunting tend to go with other men.

But the problems thereby created—namely hunting widows and hunting orphans—may soon be solved (if any man is ever able to solve a woman or his children.)

The solution, as set forth by the lodge proprietors, is Shagbark, a hunting lodge and controlled hunting area near Alden, which now offers a myriad of diversions for the family and promises a lot more for the future.

"So what?" an ardent sportsman might say. "I want game and good sport, and my family really doesn't mind those lonesome weekends. Well . . . not much, anyway."

This could well be the place to make everybody happy. There was no shortage of either game or good sport last Thursday when members of the area press were treated to a sample of Shagbark hospitality.

The hunting area includes more than 600 acres of almost every imaginable type of game cover, and is slated to grow with the lease of another 400 acre parcel.

Released mallard ducks and pheasants provide the action, and guides with some pretty acceptable bird dogs are on hand to provide assistance.

A lodge building provides a lot more than a place to get warm, with dining facilities, a room for the youngsters, an open fireplace, and a balcony lounge for "the last shot."

Outdoors, both the hunter's family, and the hunter on occasion, might want to enjoy horseback riding, archery at the target butt and in the field, skiing on slopes or behind a motorized "ski-doo," or just a walk in the woods.

For warmer weather there is "Ye Olde Swimming Hole," and in or out of hunting season there is fishing in small lakes stocked with trout, bass and panfish.

When things freeze up, there is ice fishing, skating, tobogganing on a good-sized slide, and sleigh riding.

Well, in short, there is more than hunting to attract both the hunter and his family—and to clear up any doubt—there is no rule against women and youngsters in the field.

In fact, courses are offered to teach the younger set the art and mechanics of using firearms in the field.

It's all done on a membership basis, and when the cost of birds is figured in it becomes a bargain second only to hunting for free on public land or a friend's farm for those first few days of the season when birds are plentiful.

The lodge's governor, Bob Tansill, is frank to admit that he is losing money on the price of released birds—$3 apiece for pheasants in groups of 20.

As if present facilities were not adequate, Tansill glowingly describes plans for the future which include a 22 acre lake, surrounding marsh, more hunting land, more family activities, and members' cottages.

That's for next year. Further in the future are a golf course, social and meeting rooms, indoor pool, tennis courts and even more lakes and land.

It is a sound plan—all based on the premise that the hunter would rather take the family along than face the agonizing battle of creating a weekend widow.

Another fairly good premise is that the average hunter, while seeking the wilderness and the sport of his forefathers, would like to be able to think of comfort only a few minutes' walk away.

Those who don't mind the thought of comfort in connection with hunting may further whet their appetites by calling Shagbark, 815-648-4431, or by getting out to see the place, four miles west of Hebron on Rt. 173 in McHenry County.

Cards Open Gym Season Friday Night

Any enthusiasm Tom Walthouse might have for his varsity gymnastics team at Arlington High School is tempered by the awareness that graduation stripped him of a brilliant all-around performer and 310 points.

"There's no question about it," Walthouse admits. "Boys like Ron Harstad don't come along very often. He'll be difficult to replace."

Harstad, who is at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale on an athletic scholarship, finished second in the state all-around and third on the parallel bars as a Cardinal senior. He consistently paced the Card scoring in duals.

"Ron was a team leader in all respects," Walthouse praised.

ALTHOUGH Walthouse, starting his third year as Arlington's head man, lost Harstad and several other key performers, he does have six lettermen back for the 1964-65 campaign.

TOM WALTHOUSE

Arlington will kick off its schedule Friday evening at seven o'clock with a home meet against neighboring Palatine. Competition will be held in the gymnasium.

Returning monogram winners are versatile Gary Holveck, Reid Olson, Conley Stewart, John Ungaro, Jim Johannesen, and Bert Schmitt.

HOLVECK, STATE champion on the trampoline, teams with Stewart and junior Tom Reising to make the tramp one of Arlington's strongest events. Gary had a 175 routine in topping all Illinois schoolboys in the state finals.

Tumbling is a definite question-mark. Graduation and the transfer of soph stickout Jerry Fontecchio to Wheeling have created the problems. Junior Bob Weber looks like the best bet right now.

Ungaro, senior Joel Rutlidge, and junior Steve Levan are the leading side horse candidates, and Johannesen, Holveck, and possibly Olson or Schmitt are available on the high bar.

Olson, state champ on the still rings as a soph who finished seventh last winter, has been handicapped by a wrist injury and is a question-mark for the season opener.

Holveck and Olson are the top prospects on the rings with the third slot still a toss-up.

A promising sophomore has Walthouse smiling these days as he considers the parallel bars event. Tom Dunn is the soph and he's a good one. Joining Dunn in this event are Johannesen and either Schmitt or Olson.

"There are many 'ifs' on this team," Walthouse admitted. "We'll just have to wait and see if the boys come around. They're working hard and are heading in the right direction."

Arlington copped district honors in the 1963-64 season and finished fourth in the state finals.

Rich Central Bumps Cats

Like a floundering swimmer, the Wheeling basketball team went down for good on the third trip beneath the surface at Olympic Fields last Saturday evening.

Rich Central captured a 67-49 victory in a battle of attacks and counter attacks that opened the season for both clubs.

Dick Dhabalt's Olympians waved goodbye for good when they outscored the Wildcats 13-2 in the final moments after the 'Cats had shaved a 20 point deficit to seven. It was the winners third such surge of the evening.

THE FIRST came in the opening minutes when Rich jumped off to a 14-1 advantage behind the hot shooting of Tom Moore and Phil Cavitt. Scott Bischoff's foul toss of the only Wheeling answer at this point.

At this point Wildcat guard Mark Newman got hot and drilled five goals from the outside as the Cats closed to 17-11 at the quarter. Wheeing got as close as 21-17 before the Olympians moved back out to 25-17. The Cats came back again, this time shaving the margin to 29-25. At this point they owned the ball and less than a minute remained in the half. They couldn't get the bucket however and Rich tallied twice to carry a 33-25 lead into the dressing room. Moore had 14 and Cavitt ten a this point.

It looked like a rout in the third stanza as Central increased its lead steadily to a fat 54-35 at the end of the quarter. Wheeing had one more shot. The Cats scored the first twelve points of the final period to creep within seven, but Rich wasn't buying and turned it on in the stretch.

Moore captured game honors with 18 and Cavitt chipped in with 14 for the winners. Mike Logan was also in double figures with 11.

Newman paced Wheeling with eight goals for 16. Bischoff had eleven and guard Horst Schneeweis tallied eight.

Phillips, Kerr Star As Prospect Rallies For 59-57 Cage Win

by MICHAEL HESS

Wow!! If Prospect's first game set a pattern for the rest, what a basketball season it's going to be.

The Knights came from behind in their initial contest last Saturday to pull out a last minute 59-57 victory over Libertyville:

The winners' final margin was provided by guard Bill Phillips who popped in two foul shots with just three seconds left in the game. To that point the score in this heart stopper had been tied ten times and fourteen times the roaring crowd had seen the lead change hands.

THIS WAS A contest which was won and lost at the foul line. There were 55 fouls called in this loosely played opener and five players were whistled out while three others were only one foul short of removal. As things turned out, the missed and counted foul tosses made all the difference, especially during the final minutes of action.

The last quarter began with Prospect, under coach Warren Collier, leading by one at 42-41. The game then developed into a personal duel between Libertyville's Mike Dahl and Ron Pfenning and the Knights' guard Steve Kerr. These three did all the scoring for their teams until the Wildcats had pulled ahead 53-49.

However, the 5-11 Kerr, who registered 11 points in the final eight minutes, sank a pair of fields goals to tie the score with just 3:36 left. Seconds later John MacKay, Prospect's center, put his team ahead with a score from about five feet away. But Pfenning grabbed a one point lead for Libertyville on a slick three point play. Only 2:52 showed on the clock.

TWO MINUTES OF frantic, scoreless action followed as each side muffed opportunities to pull away. Dahl, who missfired on 12 of 15 charity throws for coach Larry Leon's Wildcats couldn't connect on three in these late moments. Prospect's sophomore forward Tom Lundstedt also missed a pair. From the floor, Dahl, Pfenning, Kerr, Phillips and Lundstedt missed a total of 11 shots as the pressure and lack of conditioning in this early game began to show.

Finally, with 50 seconds left, guard Wayne Kuklinski gave the Knights a one point, 57-56 lead when he grabbed a jump ball and drove from mid-court to sink the go-ahead tally. That basket was the only one by Kuklinski in ten attempts.

When Dahl was fouled by Lundstedt with 18 seconds remaining, he had a chance to put the Wildcats ahead. But, in a one and one situation, Mike could only tie the score by sinking the first. Prospect took the ball out of bounds but didn't get a shot away until Kuklinski missed on a jumper from twenty feet. Libertyville got the rebound.

RON KOKALBAS, of the visitors, took the ball and charged into Phillips. The foul on Kokalbas put him out and Prospect took over with nine seconds left. After the pass in, Phillips took the ball and raced in close, went up for a shot, was hacked, and stepped to the foul line for his winning tosses just three seconds from the final buzzer.

The first half of the game brought some hot and cold stretches for both teams. The Knights built a 14-7 opening period margin by sinking five of eleven field goal attempts and four of ofur foul shots. In the second quarter the Wildcats shot on amazing 67 per cent to pull to a 27-23 intermission lead. The Prospect five came on strong after the break but only led by one going into that final quarter.

Kerr, who shot 70 per cent from the floor, and Phillips, with nine for nine from the foul line, led Prospect scorers with 19 and 15 points respectively. Pfenning and Dahl led Libertyville with the same 19 and 15 point totals. Rick Van Orden added 12 points to the Wildcats' losing total.

On the boards, Rick Mader was top man for the Knights with nine rebounds. Phillips and MacKay each had six. Pfenning and Dahl led the Wildcats' rebounders.

Overall, Prospect managed a shooting percentage of 41 while the losers weren't far behind at 39 percent. The big difference came at the foul line where Prospect shot over 58 percent while Libertyville could only register 21 of 42.

Rabbit Hunting Season Open Ends Jan. 31

Rabbit hunters in southern and west-central Illinois will not see as many cottontails as they did last year but hunting will be good, according to the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Rabbit season began at sunrise, Tuesday, Nov. 24, and ends at sunset, Jan. 31, 1965. Hunting hours will be from sunrise until sunset with the daily bag limit five rabbits and the possession limit ten, except on the first day of the season when both limits will be five rabbits.

Although there has been a decrease in rabbit numbers from last year, the best hunting in Illinois is still in counties along the Mississippi from Hancock County, south and from Madison, Montgomery, Shelby, Cumberland, and Clark Counties, south.

The rabbit population is higher than it was last year in Stephenson, Winnebago, Boone, McHenry, Lake, Ogle, Lee, and Bureau Counties, but it is not as high as in southern Illinois. Rabbits are as numerous in central and east-central Illinois as they were in 1963.

Falcons Improved Grid Mark to 4-4; Dunnigan Standout

by MICHAEL HESS

For Forest View, it's all over! Football '64 is finished.

Looking back, the Falcons' fans must view the past football year with a feeling of pride and a little dismay.

Forest View did better its 1963 mark of 2 and 6 by compiling a 4-4 record this year. But a trio of resounding defeats in the last four games reversed what had been a promising 3 and 1 start.

According to coach Bob Scott, credit for this season's improvement should go to the team members: "The players dedicated themselves to making a better record this year. They took the challenge made to them before the first game and began a tradition at Forest View, a tradition of improvement. Because of what they did we seem to be snowballing, snowballing slowly. We won't turn into a flash-in-the-pan, quick winner, but we did improve this year and we'll keep trying to improve next year."

THIS YEAR'S step up in the football ranks started with a one point, 7-6 win over Palatine. The second game was played under miserable weather conditions but the outcome was a very unmiserable 25-0 triumph over Glenbrook North. Then came Deerfield.

"I take full responsibility for that first loss," said Scott. "In practice I prepared the boys for passing and they used a running game." Deerfield ran up a 25-0 victory.

After a 21-7 win over Wheeling, the first half of the season ended with FV occupying second place in the Mid-Suburban League. The schedule said that the fifth game must be against Maine West and that game started Forest View's downfall.

IN THE FIRST two quarters, the Falcons played unbeaten Maine right off the field and scored the first TD allowed by the Warriors this year. But two key injuries opened the gates and MW built to a 35-7 victory. Maine faded from title contention after that but Forest View faded faster, losing 39-6 to Glenbrook South and 41-0 to Prospect. A 21-0 shutout of weak Niles North was the last Falcon victory.

A look beyond these final scores will show that, while Forest View closed with a .500 record, the Falcons as a team held a slight edge over their opponents in most statistical departments. In first downs, total yards, yards rushing, fumbles, fumbles lost, penalties and yards penalized Scott's men led the other teams. Only on the scoreboard and in the air did FV do a less competant job than the enemy.

Forest View was outscored by 66 points, nine points per game, during this season. The opening two periods were especially damaging to the Falcons' cause as the opposition made 51 points in quarter one and 41 points in quarter two or 63 points more in the first half than the Falcons.

OPPONENTS GAINED ten yards more per game on aerials than the Falcons did and opponent ball hawks grabbed seven more interceptions. Perhaps these figures may serve as an indication of the main area in which improvement can come next year. In present day gridiron tactics, any team which seeks a winning record must have solid passing and pass defenses.

Another area for improvement is indicated by individual statistics. Here the figures reveal that halfback Pat Dunnigan carried the burden of Forest View's offense. This junior scored 36 points, three times as many as anyone else, rushed for 592 yards, more than the rest of the team combined, and, toward the end, he even began passing. He was also a leading pass receiver and defensive demon.

Pat, an All-Conference selection, voted the Falcons Most Valuable Player, and brilliant performer in every facet of the game, needed some help from other members of his team. If next season is like this one, an opponent will be able to stop the entire team by stopping Dunnigan. This happened in the Prospect game and the final score indicated just how dangerous such a situation can be.

HELP FOR Dunnigan may be forthcoming however. Quarterback Steve Mueller, who passed 328 yards and scored 12 points, will return in '65 as will Charles Boesenberg whom coach Scott labels as one of the finest place kickers in the area. Also coming back will be halfback Tom Coskey, who in 20 attempts gained 49 yards running this year, and ends Jim Baumgardt and Jim Rennhack.

To join these players from this year's junior varsity will be outstanding prospects Bob Arnold, a quarterback, defensive specialists, Bob Walters and Pete Phillips, and Mike Severns, a tough lineman.

Not returning next season are many whose absence will certainly not improve the Forest View outlook. All-League guard and punter, John Edie, who was voted Team Captain, will be missing. In fact this year's entire middle line will be gone: Bill Grunwald, the burly tackle and All MSL honorable mention; Steve Carponelli, who was a pleasant surprise at tackle after spending his junior year at end; Mike Colovos, guard, voted the Falcons' most improved player, and Al Inzerello, one of the best centers around, will all graduate in June.

BOB SCOTT

FROM THE backfield will go fullback Bob Coon, whose 183 yards rushing were second only to Dunnigan, and Bob Kohn, a halfback who gained 107 yards. John MacRae, a defenseman who occasionally stepped in on offense, and fullback Chester Lowiec, who had eight points and 70 yards gained this season, are hard to replace subs who won't play again.

One interesting idea put forth by coach Scott as a possibiliy for next year is to switch the positions of Dunnigan and Mueller. Shifted to quarterback, Dunnigan could then use both his running and passing abilities to their fullest, especially on the pass-run option play. Mueller, possibly a better runner than passer, would take over at halfback or even fullback. Anyway, this switch is something which Scott and his staff will consider.

"Next year's will be the first team which has spent four years at Forest View," said the coach. "We'll have more depth and a good group to build from." Concluded Scott, "Maybe we're just one year away."

If Forest View is one year away from producing a front runner on the gridiron, and all indications say they are, then 1965 will be a year for all Falcons football fans to anticipate eagerly.

Cards Open Gym Season Friday Night

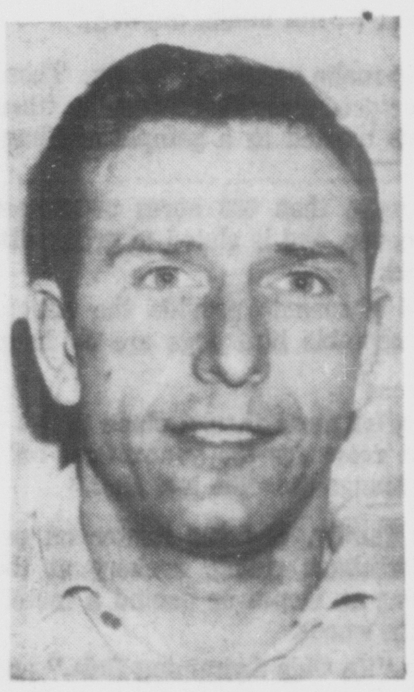
Any enthusiasm Tom Walthouse might have for his varsity gymnastics team at Arlington High School is tempered by the awareness that graduation stripped him of a brilliant all-around performer and 310 points.

"There's no question about it," Walthouse admits. "Boys like Ron Harstad don't come along very often. He'll be difficult to replace."

Harstad, who is at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale on an athletic scholarship, finished second in the state all-around and third on the parallel bars as a Cardinal senior. He consistently paced the Card scoring in duals.

"Ron was a team leader in all respects," Walthouse praised.

ALTHOUGH Walthouse, starting his third year as Arlington's head man, lost Harstad and several other key performers, he does have six lettermen back for the 1964-65 campaign.



TOM WALTHOUSE

Arlington will kick off its schedule Friday evening at seven o'clock with a home meet against neighboring Palatine. Competition will be held in the gymnasium.

Returning monogram winners are versatile Gary Holveck, Reid Olson, Conley Stewart, John Ungaro, Jim Johannesen, and Bert Schmitt.

HOLVECK, STATE champion on the trampoline, teams with Stewart and junior Tom Reising to make the tramp one of Arlington's strongest events. Gary had a 175 routine in topping all Illinois schoolboys in the state finals.

Tumbling is a definite question-mark. Graduation and the transfer of soph stickout Jerry Fontecchio to Wheeling have created the problems. Junior Bob Weber looks like the best bet right now.

Ungaro, senior Joel Rutlidge, and junior Steve Levan are the leading side horse candidates, and Johannesen, Holveck, and possibly Olson or Schmitt are available on the high bar.

Olson, state champ on the still rings as a soph who finished seventh last winter, has been handicapped by a wrist injury and is a question-mark for the season opener.

Holveck and Olson are the top prospects on the rings with the third slot still a toss-up.

A promising sophomore has Walthouse smiling these days as he considers the parallel bars event. Tom Dunn is the soph and he's a good one. Joining Dunn in this event are Johannesen and either Schmitt or Olson.

"There are many 'ifs' on this team," Walthouse admitted. "We'll just have to wait and see if the boys come around. They're working hard and are heading in the right direction."

Arlington copped district honors in the 1963-64 season and finished fourth in the state finals.

Rich Central Bumps Cats

Like a floundering swimmer, the Wheeling basketball team went down for good on the third trip beneath the surface at Olympic Fields last Saturday evening.

Rich Central captured a 67-49 victory in a battle of attacks and counter attacks that opened the season for both clubs.

Dick Dhabalt's Olympians waved goodbye for good when they outscored the Wildcats 13-2 in the final moments after the 'Cats had shaved a 20 point deficit to seven. It was the winners third such surge of the evening.

THE FIRST came in the opening minutes when Rich jumped off to a 14-1 advantage behind the hot shooting of Tom Moore and Phil Cavitt. Scott Bischoff's foul toss of the only Wheeling answer at this point.

At this point Wildcat guard Mark Newman got hot and drilled five goals from the outside as the Cats closed to 17-11 at the quarter. Moore captured game honors with 18 and Cavitt chipped in with 14 for the winners. Mike Logan was also in double figures with 11.

Newman paced Wheeling with eight goals for 16. Bischoff had eleven and guard Horst Schneeweis tallied eight.

Falcons Improved Grid Mark to 4-4; Dunnigan Standout

by MICHAEL HESS

For Forest View, it's all over! Football '64 is finished.

Looking back, the Falcons' fans must view the past football year with a feeling of pride and a little dismay.

Forest View did better its 1963 mark of 2 and 6 by compiling a 4-4 record this year. But a trio of resounding defeats in the last four games reversed what had been a promising 3 and 1 start.

THIS YEAR'S step up in the football ranks started with a one point, 7-6 win over Palatine. The second game was played under miserable weather conditions but the outcome was a very unmiserable 25-0 triumph over Glenbrook North. Then came Deerfield.

"I take full responsibility for that first loss," said Scott. "In practice I prepared the boys for passing and they used a running game." Deerfield ran up a 25-0 victory.

After a 21-7 win over Wheeling, the first half of the season ended with FV occupying second place in the Mid-Suburban League. The schedule said that the fifth game must be against Maine West and that game started Forest View's downfall.

IN THE FIRST two quarters, the Falcons played unbeaten Maine right off the field and scored the first TD allowed by the Warriors this year. But two key injuries opened the gates and MW built to a 35-7 victory. Maine faded from title contention after that but Forest View faded faster, losing 39-6 to Glenbrook South and 41-0 to Prospect. A 21-0 shutout of weak Niles North was the last Falcon victory.

A look beyond these final scores will show that, while Forest View closed with a .500 record, the Falcons as a team held a slight edge over their opponents in most statistical departments. In first downs, total yards, yards rushing, fumbles, fumbles lost, penalties and yards penalized Scott's men led the other teams. Only on the scoreboard and in the air did FV do a less competant job than the enemy.

Forest View was outscored by 66 points, nine points per game, during this season. The opening two periods were especially damaging to the Falcons' cause as the opposition made 51 points in quarter one and 41 points in quarter two or 63 points more in the first half than the Falcons.

OPPONENTS GAINED ten yards more per game on aerials than the Falcons did and opponent ball hawks grabbed seven more interceptions. Perhaps these figures may serve as an indication of the main area in which improvement can come next year. In present day gridiron tactics, any team which seeks a winning record must have solid passing and pass defenses.

Another area for improvement is indicated by individual statistics. Here the figures reveal that halfback Pat Dunnigan carried the burden of Forest View's offense. This junior scored 36 points, three times as many as anyone else, rushed for 592 yards, more than the rest of the team combined, and, toward the end, he even began passing. He was also a leading pass receiver and defensive demon.

Pat, an All-Conference selection, voted the Falcons Most Valuable Player, and brilliant performer in every facet of the game, needed some help from other members of his team. If next season is like this one, an opponent will be able to stop the entire team by stopping Dunnigan. This happened in the Prospect game and the final score indicated just how dangerous such a situation can be.

HELP FOR Dunnigan may be forthcoming however. Quarterback Steve Mueller, who passed 328 yards and scored 12 points, will return in '65 as will Charles Boesenberg whom coach Scott labels as one of the finest place kickers in the area. Also coming back will be halfback Tom Coskey, who in 20 attempts gained 49 yards running this year, and ends Jim Baumgardt and Jim Rennhack.

To join these players from this year's junior varsity will be outstanding prospects Bob Arnold, a quarterback, defensive specialists, Bob Walters and Pete Phillips, and Mike Severns, a tough lineman.

Not returning next season are many whose absence will certainly not improve the Forest View outlook. All-League guard and punter, John Edie, who was voted Team Captain, will be missing. In fact this year's entire middle line will be gone: Bill Grunwald, the burly tackle and All MSL honorable mention; Steve Carponelli, who was a pleasant surprise at tackle after spending his junior year at end; Mike Colovos, guard, voted the Falcons' most improved player, and Al Inzerello, one of the best centers around, will all graduate in June.

BOB SCOTT

FROM THE backfield will go fullback Bob Coon, whose 183 yards rushing were second only to Dunnigan, and Bob Kohn, a halfback who gained 107 yards. John MacRae, a defenseman who occasionally stepped in on offense, and fullback Chester Lowiec, who had eight points and 70 yards gained this season, are hard to replace subs who won't play again.

One interesting idea put forth by coach Scott as a possibiliy for next year is to switch the positions of Dunnigan and Mueller. Shifted to quarterback, Dunnigan could then use both his running and passing abilities to their fullest, especially on the pass-run option play. Mueller, possibly a better runner than passer, would take over at halfback or even fullback. Anyway, this switch is something which Scott and his staff will consider.

"Next year's will be the first team which has spent four years at Forest View," said the coach. "We'll have more depth and a good group to build from." Concluded Scott, "Maybe we're just one year away."

If Forest View is one year away from producing a front runner on the gridiron, and all indications say they are, then 1965 will be a year for all Falcons football fans to anticipate eagerly.

Owens Moves Up

Race Tightens In Gals' Play

There's a race again in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Steve's Restaurant is still on top in the highly regarded gal's division, but their lead has been cut to two and one-half points.

Owens Plastics, a red-hot entry in recent weeks, blitzed Country Lanes Saturday for four points to climb within striking distance of pace-setting Steve's. The leaders lost two and one-half markers to River Rand.

BARB SHERMAN fashioned a 536 series and Rose Kraft collected a 528 to lead Owens to its impressive conquest of Country Lanes. Nancy Dietz was high for the losers with a 506.

But the big news came when River Rand, a fourth place outfit, turned back Steve's Restaurant with a so-so 2343 team series. Steve's had a 2562 the previous week but garnered only a 2338 Saturday.

Gloria Lucchesi's 513 was tops for River Rand, and Bonnie Kuhn posted a 537 for Steve's. Bonnie started slowly with a 144 but bagged a big 210 in the second game and closed at 183.

BILL COOK BUICK and Morton Pontiac battled to a 2-2 deadlock in the concluding action Saturday.

Harriet Fuchs of Hoffman Estates, bowling for Cook Buick, took individual honors for the evening with her 554 series. She finished with a 202 after posting games of 183 and 169.

Joan Lindahl was the only Morton bowler able to eclipse 500. Joan had games of 174, 165, and 191 for a 530. A team series of 2443 pins, 32 better than Cook Buick, gave the Pontiacs their second point.

The standings:

Steve's Restaurant	31½
Owens Plastics	29
Morton Pontiac	23
River Rand	15½

Banner Week

Dick Hoffman, who rolls for The Brass Rail Restaurant in the Paddock Classic Traveling League, enjoyed a big week in bowling with four 600 series in the space of seven days.

Hoffman fashioned 653 and 619 efforts at Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, a 604 at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, and 648 at Island Lake.

Zikes Wins All-Events In Caracas

Les Zikes Jr., a Palatine resident who manages Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, captured the all-events crown in the Inter-American Bowling Chamiionships in Caracas, Venezuela.

Zikes put together a 26-game total of 5217 and was the only contestant to average 200 in the four-day event. He was instrumental in leading the United States to four championships.

Joe Foster of Pontiac, Mich., finished second to Zikes in the all-events with 5146 and Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., was third with 5064.

Zikes fashioned games of 243 and 223 in his final eight-game block en route to the championship.

FV Jayvees Top Pirates

The Forest View Jayvees hit 27 of 34 foul shots and outscored Palatine 19-8 in the third quarter to dump the Pirates 51-41 last Friday evening.

Jim Buckholtz paced the Falcons with 15, followed by Jim Rennhack with eleven. Paul Kozlicki earned a trip to the Palatine varsity with 27 points.

Spartan Record

Michigan State end Gene Washington set a Spartan single-game pass catching record when he caught nine passes for 150 yards in the Notre Dame game in 1964.

Pioneers Top Railers To Regain Lead In Traveling League

Pioneer Lanes and Concourse Sports Chalet continued their game of musical chairs for the league lead and the rest of the circuit played catch-up in Saturday evening's play in the Paddock Classic Traveling league.

Pioneer edged The Brass Rail Restaurant 4-3 to hopscotch the Sports into first place. The Sports dropped a point off the pace when they dropped a 5-2 decision to Country Lanes.

Early leader Bill Cook Buick moved back into third place and just seven points off the lead with a 5-2 win over Casares Pro Bowl and Morton Pontiac nudged by Jeffery Lanes 4-3 to complete the closest night of competition this season.

THE PIONEER-Railer match at River Rand was typical of tight battles throughout the league. The second game ended in a tie and the third was decided by twelve pins. Pioneer's winning total spread was just 59 pins. Warren Barr led the Pioneers with a 579, nudging Brass Rail leader Dick Hoffman by one pin for match honors.

Sports Chalet ran into a hot Country Lanes quintet enjoying its best night of the season. The winners dropped 1062 pins in the third game and 2997 overall, both team highs for the season. The 1062 topped the registered team high for the league this season, but won't count because it was accomplished on the home lanes. Herm Simonis closed with a pair of 223's to finish with a 630 and match honors. Brother Joe and teammate Herb Lohman checked in with 615 and 602. Joe, fifth in the individual race, had his high game of the season, a 240.

The Bill Cook crew also did its highest scoring of the campaign with a 1032 and a 2968. The action took place at Casares, so the 1032 goes down as third on the prize list. Part timer, Gene Koshinski had a big 646 to pace team, match and league for the evening. Teammate Al Haase had a 633, including a 258, top figure on an opponents lane this winter. Norb Leja dropped 608 pins for the winners. Tony Donushi had a 628 for Casares.

In the match at Beverly Lanes, the Pontiacs got the nod despite losing total pins. It was a losing scoring match. Ed Duff, off the winning Pontiacs had the top series, a 576.

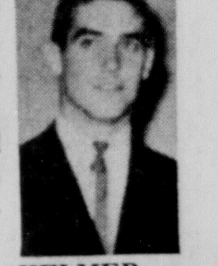
Helmer on Star Squad

John Helmer, 6-foot-1, 185-pound junior tackle and end, was the only St. Viator High School player named to the Chicagoland Prep League all-conference football team released last week by the coaches.

Helmer, who played offensive tackle and defensive end, was named as a defensive lineman.



HELMER

"John did a great job for us all season," head coach Joe Gliwa praised, "and will be one of our mainstays next year. He is a team leader and was named our co-captain."

Helmer was named Lineman of the Week by Chicago's American after his performance in St. Viator's victory over St. Mel.

St. Patrick, undefeated Chicagoland Prep champion, led the balloting with seven offensive and six defensive berths.

Named to first team positions on offense were Jerry Shea and Ken Rylko of St. Pat's and Bob Baumgartner of DeLaSalle at ends; Joe Lenhardt of Holy Cross, Dan Farrell of St. Patrick, and Mike Moran of DeLaSalle at tackles; Frank Wagner of DeLaSalle and Kevin McHugh and Len Dempsey of St. Patrick at guards; and Tom Kindt of Holy Cross and Don Erwin of St. George at center.

Honored in the offensive backfield were John Lynch and Steve Kurtovich of DeLaSalle, Sal Cirrincione and Tom Quinn of St. Patrick, George Lio of Holy Cross, Bill Schaeffer and Dennis White of St. Mel.

In the line on defense were St. Viator's Helmer, Dan Farrell and Ken Rylko of St. Patrick, Frank Wagner and Joe Worlin of DeLaSalle, Rich Stachion of Holy Cross, and Dan Huber of St. Mel.

Linebackers honored were Bob Baumgartner of DeLaSalle, Sal Cirrincione and Tom Gartner of St. Patrick, and Tom Kindt of Holy Cross. Secondary all-stars are Tom Grapenthien and Jim Kuffel of St. Patrick, Dennis White of St. Mel, and Steve Kurtovich of DeLaSalle.

Prep Teammates

Mike Jacobson, Tom Mikkola and Sandy McAndrew, who compose an all-sophomore line on Michigan State's hockey team, were teammates all through high school at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Elgin's Nephew

Art Baylor, a member of Michigan State's 1964-65 freshman basketball team, is a nephew of Elgin Baylor, former University of Seattle and now Los Angeles Lakers star.

AUDREY COX, 829 North Dunton, Arlington Heights, is a member of the Midwest women's field hockey team that will play at the Philadelphia Cricket Club Thanksgiving Day and Saturday. Audrey earned her berth on the Midwest entry as a representative of the North Shore Hockey Club. She is playing first team right wing for the Midwest. Audrey, who started her field hockey at Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pa., earned honorable mention on the 1956 All-America team and is shooting for an All-America berth (the top 25 players) this season. She is married and the mother of two girls. (Staff Photo)

Owens Moves Up

Race Tightens In Gals' Play

There's a race again in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Steve's Restaurant is still on top in the highly regarded gal's division, but their lead has been cut to two and one-half points.

Owens Plastics, a red-hot entry in recent weeks, blitzed Country Lanes Saturday for four points to climb within striking distance of pace-setting Steve's. The leaders lost two and one-half markers to River Rand.

BARB SHERMAN fashioned a 536 series and Rose Kraft collected a 528 to lead Owens to its impressive conquest of Country Lanes. Nancy Dietz was high for the losers with a 506.

But the big news came when River Rand, a fourth place outfit, turned back Steve's Restaurant with a so-so 2343 team series. Steve's had a 2562 the previous week but garnered only a 2338 Saturday.

Gloria Lucchesi's 513 was tops for River Rand, and Bonnie Kuhn posted a 537 for Steve's. Bonnie started slowly with a 144 but bagged a big 210 in the second game and closed at 183.

BILL COOK BUICK and Morton Pontiac battled to a 2-2 deadlock in the concluding action Saturday.

Harriet Fuchs of Hoffman Estates, bowling for Cook Buick, took individual honors for the evening with her 554 series. She finished with a 202 after posting games of 183 and 169.

Joan Lindahl was the only Morton bowler able to eclipse 500. Joan had games of 174, 165, and 191 for a 530. A team series of 2443 pins, 32 better than Cook Buick, gave the Pontiacs their second point.

The standings:

Steve's Restaurant	31½
Owens Plastics	29
Morton Pontiac	23
River Rand	15½
Country Lanes	11
Bill Cook Buick	10

Banner Week

Dick Hoffman, who rolls for The Brass Rail Restaurant in the Paddock Classic Traveling League, enjoyed a big week in bowling with four 600 series in the space of seven days.

Hoffman fashioned 653 and 619 efforts at Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, a 604 at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, and 648 at Island Lake.

Zikes Wins All-Events In Caracas

Les Zikes Jr., a Palatine resident who manages Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, captured the all-events crown in the Inter-American Bowling Championships in Caracas, Venezuela.

Zikes put together a 26-game total of 5217 and was the only contestant to average 200 in the four-day event. He was instrumental in leading the United States to four championships.

Joe Foster of Pontiac, Mich., finished second to Zikes in the all-events with 5146 and Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., was third with 5064.

Zikes fashioned games of 243 and 223 in his final eight-game block en route to the championship.

FV Jayvees Top Pirates

The Forest View Jayvees hit 27 of 34 foul shots and outscored Palatine 19-8 in the third quarter to dump the Pirates 51-41 last Friday evening.

Jim Buckholtz paced the Falcons with 15, followed by Jim Rennhack with eleven. Paul Kozlicki earned a trip to the Palatine varsity with 27 points.

Spartan Record

Michigan State end Gene Washington set a Spartan single-game pass catching record when he caught nine passes for 150 yards in the Notre Dame game in 1964.

AUDREY COX, 829 North Dunton, Arlington Heights, is a member of the Midwest women's field hockey team that will play at the Philadelphia Cricket Club Thanksgiving Day and Saturday. Pioneers Top Railers To Regain Lead In Traveling League

Pioneer Lanes and Concourse Sports Chalet continued their game of musical chairs for the league lead and the rest of the circuit played catch-up in Saturday evening's play in the Paddock Classic Traveling league.

Pioneer edged The Brass Rail Restaurant 4-3 to hopscotch the Sports into first place. The Sports dropped a point off the pace when they dropped a 5-2 decision to Country Lanes.

Early leader Bill Cook Buick moved back into third place and just seven points off the lead with a 5-2 win over Casares Pro Bowl and Morton Pontiac nudged by Jeffery Lanes 4-3 to complete the closest night of competition this season.

THE PIONEER-Railer match at River Rand was typical of tight battles throughout the league. The second game ended in a tie and the third was decided by twelve pins. Pioneer's winning total spread was just 59 pins. Warren Barr led the Pioneers with a 579, nudging Brass Rail leader Dick Hoffman by one pin for match honors.

Sports Chalet ran into a hot Country Lanes quintet enjoying its best night of the season. The winners dropped 1062 pins in the third game and 2997 overall, both team highs for the season. The 1062 topped the registered team high for the league this season, but won't count because it was accomplished on the home lanes. Herm Simonis closed with a pair of 223's to finish with a 630 and match honors. Brother Joe and teammate Herb Lohman checked in with 615 and 602. Joe, fifth in the individual race, had his high game of the season, a 240.

The Bill Cook crew also did its highest scoring of the campaign with a 1032 and a 2968. The action took place at Casares, so the 1032 goes down as third on the prize list. Part timer Gene Koshinski had a big 646 to pace team, match and league for the evening. Teammate Al Haase had a 633, including a 258, top figure on an opponents lane this winter. Norb Leja dropped 608 pins for the winners. Tony Donushi had a 628 for Casares.

In the match at Beverly Lanes, the Pontiacs got the nod despite losing total pins. It was a losing scoring match. Ed Duff, off the winning Pontiacs had the top series, a 576.

Helmer on Star Squad

John Helmer, 6-foot-1, 185-pound junior tackle and end, was the only St. Viator High School player named to the Chicagoland Prep League all-conference football team released last week by the coaches.

Helmer, who played offensive tackle and defensive end, was named as a defensive lineman.

"John did a great job for us all season," head coach Joe Gliwa praised, "and will be one of our mainstays next year. He is a team leader and was named our co-captain."

HELMER

Helmer was named Lineman of the Week by Chicago's American after his performance in St. Viator's victory over St. Mel.

St. Patrick, undefeated Chicagoland Prep champion, led the balloting with seven offensive and six defensive berths.

Named to first team positions on offense were Jerry Shea and Ken Rylko of St. Pat's and Bob Baumgartner of DeLaSalle at ends; Joe Lenhardt of Holy Cross, Dan Farrell of St. Patrick, and Mike Moran of DeLaSalle at tackles; Frank Wagner of DeLaSalle and Kevin McHugh and Len Dempsey of St. Patrick at guards; and Tom Kindt of Holy Cross and Don Erwin of St. George at center.

Honored in the offensive backfield were John Lynch and Steve Kurtovich of DeLaSalle, Sal Cirrincione and Tom Quinn of St. Patrick, George Lio of Holy Cross, Bill Schaeffer and Dennis White of St. Mel.

In the line on defense were St. Viator's Helmer, Dan Farrell and Ken Rylko of St. Patrick, Frank Wagner and Joe Worlin of DeLaSalle, Rich Stachion of Holy Cross, and Dan Huber of St. Mel.

Linebackers honored were Bob Baumgartner of DeLaSalle, Sal Cirrincione and Tom Gartner of St. Patrick, and Tom Kindt of Holy Cross. Secondary all-stars are Tom Grapenthien and Jim Kuffel of St. Patrick, Dennis White of St. Mel, and Steve Kurtovich of DeLaSalle.

Prep Teammates

Mike Jacobson, Tom Mikkola and Sandy McAndrew, who compose an all-sophomore line on Michigan State's hockey team, were teammates all through high school at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Elgin's Nephew

Art Baylor, a member of Michigan State's 1964-65 freshman basketball team, is a nephew of Elgin Baylor, former University of Seattle and now Los Angeles Lakers star.

Band Is Family Fun for Some

Playing in a band is family fun for a number of northwest suburban residents, according to a poll of membership of the Rolling Meadows Concert Band, now in rehearsal for two performances Dec. 6.

Arlington Heights, which supplies 21 musicians for the 60-member band, has two combinations of father and two daughters and another of father and son.

Among the eight Palatine members there are two brothers, and two of Wheeling's three members are sisters. A father and his two daughters are among the six musicians who come from Mount Prospect.

THE AREA representation of the organization also includes three players from Elk Grove Village and one from Barrington.

The Dec. 6 concerts follow a successful season of producing summer concerts in the Rolling Meadows parks and at Septemberfest in the shopping center, Grove Estates and performances at the Lutheran Home in Arlington Heights, PTA meetings and parades. Largest audience was at the Rolling Meadows Fourth of July celebration, attended by an estimated crowd of 10,000.

While the organization's aim is primarily to enjoy playing music, there is a serious motive. This involves raising funds for music, rental of rehearsal quarters and instruments.

Tickets are now on sale by band members for the two performances of the Dec. 6 holiday musicale, which will be given in Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows at 4 and 7 p.m., under the direction of George Yingst. (B9

Yule Tea to Honor 244 Area Authors

Area residents are invited to meet Chicagoland authors who had books published during the past year at a Christmas tea Thursday, Dec. 3, at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Chicago Public Library, Randolph Street and Michigan Avenue.

Two hundred and forty-four Chicago area writers had books published in the last 12 months. This tea in their honor has been planned by the Friends of the Chicago Public Library.

AMONG THE honored guests will be:

Dr. Martin E. Marty of 79 Evergreen, Elk Grove, author of "Church Unity and Church Missions" and "Varieties of Unbelief," and co-editor of "The Religious Press in America," and "Religion and Social Conflict."

Mrs. Vicki Soltz of 607 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, co-author of "Children: The Challenge."

Dr. Marty has been pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove. He is associate professor in the University of Chicago Divinity School.

Mrs. Soltz, a registered nurse and mother, first came to the attention of Dr. Rudolf Dreikurs, her co-author, through a series of newspaper articles she wrote concerning Chicago's Community Child Guidance Centers. She has been a leader of several of his study groups.

'Messiah' Set Dec. 6

The Elk Grove Community Chorus will present "The Messiah" Sunday, Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. at Ridge School, Ridge Avenue, Elk Grove Village.

Orchestration will be provided by the Arlington Heights Symphony under Mel Kasen's direction.

The chorus will be under Gerald Buckler's direction.

Last year's program attracted such a large audience, the chorus decided to make the "Messiah" an annual program.

No tickets are necessary. A small donation will be asked.

Democrats in Suburbia Flex Their Muscles

DuPAGE DEMOCRATS — Bud Loftus (center) Addison Township candidate for states attorney this year, discusses the future of his party with Ed Phebus, a precinct committeeman. Such party faithfuls as these three produced a strong Democratic vote in north DuPage County. (A-15

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer
(First of two articles)

The Democratic Party of this northwest suburban area has for a century been a phantom party.

But this election year it definitely ceased being a phantom. It became a party with muscle and a future in northwest suburbia.

True the Democratic Party is still a fledgling compared to the Republican Party which has dominated this area since the Civil War.

As one Democrat put it, this and the next few years are years of opportunity for the Democratic Party.

This election year Democrats closed the usual three and four and five-to-one voting margin which Republican candidates used to enjoy.

FROM A SURVEY of the votes in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Hanover, Addison and Bloomingdale townships, a margin of only two-to-one or less for the GOP appeared this year.

"The Republicans will respect us more now," said Elk Grove Township Committeeman Chester Chesney.

Chesney and other Democrats are quick to admit they have a long road to travel before the Republicans are really shaken from their winning position.

A major question is whether or not President Johnson actually created a one-time winning fluke for Democrats in this area.

Without a doubt, voters were more strongly Democratic this year in northwest suburbia as a reaction against Sen Barry Goldwater.

However, as Chesney and other Democrats commented, the Democratic tickets generally did much better this year than any other year.

But Loftus, Addison Township, defeated candidate for DuPage state's attorney, said a good indication was the straight ticket voting in North DuPage County.

Where GOP victory margins used to be as much as 8-to-1, Loftus said, this year the Democrats held the GOP down to 1.8-to1 margin in north DuPage.

Ed Phebus. the Bloomingdale Township chairman, agrees wholeheartedly with Loftus. Both men feel confident that north DuPage County Republicans must from now on run a little scared.

AS A MATTER of fact, North DuPage County was a strong seat of new Democratic strength.

Northwest suburban Democratic strength is not a blanket strength throughout the entire area. Rather its strength is one of pockets dotting the northwest community.

Generally these pockets of strength exist in the somewhat lower-income areas.

Democratic strength poked deeply into GOP margins this year from such places as Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, and Addison village.

In Hanover Township, the Democrats carried for Johnson. This was the first time a Presidential candidate won in the township's history.

Wheeling - Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows also carried for Johnson.

From these pockets of strength, which represents collectively a large proportion of northwest suburbia, the Democrats hope to build and eventually invade the GOP strongholds of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Schaumburg village and central DuPage County.

If the Democrats achieve any inroads, it will be because of a lot of salesmanship and door-to-door campaigning.

James Cullen Sr., Hanover Township committeeman, said, "We had a large Democratic surge in every precinct. Hanover Park and Streamwood have given us a lot of strength.

"Residents of these communities are all coming out from Chicago. And for the most part they are Democrats. We're keeping them Democrats."

THIS WAS Cullen's first campaign and he was working with green precinct captains.

"We just used good common hard work and salesmanship to produce a victory," Cullen said. "The whole township was covered door-to-ddoor."

Chesney's tactics were much the same as Cullen's. He organized a good team of precinct captains and then went hunting where the Democratic ducts were likely to be. Such an area was the trailer camps and they were thoroughly covered.

Phebus said the Democrats must build a suburban image.

"Our kind of politics," he said, "can't be the same as for Chicago Democrats or Chicago Republicans."

Democrats like Phebus stress idealism in politics and hope to get away from patronage politics if possible.

However, patronage does give a party sustaining power through lean years and years when no hot elections take place.

Loftus looks for some patronage to come DuPage County Democrats' way now that Paul Powell will be the secretary of state. In DuPage County politics, the GOP holds all of the patronage and uses it effectively.

CHESNEY has 15 patronage jobs in Elk Grove Township. He feels it is a definite asset though it should not be a principal means of keeping a Democratic organization together.

Democratic leaders are in agreement it is now "acceptable to be a Democrat. It is no longer socially a handicap."

Ten years ago, when a Democrat moved to suburbia, he found himself enveloped by what seemed like a totally Republican world. It was the opposite side of the story of what used to be the case in Chicago.

Before a person knew it, he leaned toward the GOP because that was what all of his friends were.

Now, Democratic leaders say enough Democrats exist in suburbia and the feeling of "aloneness" is disappearing.

Suburban voting strength is beginning to equal that of Chicago. Ten or 20 years ago, not enough people lived in the suburbs to ever really challenge Chicago Democratic strength.

This has changed. As the GOP realizes it cannot take suburbia for granted, the Democrats realize they must gain strength or begin losing their power in the state.

(Next week some immediate Democratic plans and philosophical views will be discussed. Also some internal problews will be reported.

Democrats in Suburbia Flex Their Muscles

Days as 'Phantom Party' Seem Over

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer
(First of two articles)

The Democratic Party of this northwest suburban area has for a century been a phantom party.

But this election year it definitely ceased being a phantom. It became a party with muscle and a future in northwest suburbia.

True the Democratic Party is still a fledgling compared to the Republican Party which has dominated this area since the Civil War.

As one Democrat put it, this and the next few years are years of opportunity for the Democratic Party.

This election year Democrats closed the usual three and four and five-to-one voting margin which Republican candidates used to enjoy.

FROM A SURVEY of the votes in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Hanover, Addison and Bloomingdale townships, a margin of only two-to-one or less for the GOP appeared this year.

"The Republicans will respect us more now," said Elk Grove Township Committeeman Chester Chesney.

Chesney and other Democrats are quick to admit they have a long road to travel before the Republicans are really shaken from their winning position.

A major question is whether or not President Johnson actually created a one-time winning fluke for Democrats in this area.

Without a doubt, voters were more strongly Democratic this year in northwest suburbia as a reaction against Sen Barry Goldwater.

However, as Chesney and other Democrats commented, the Democratic tickets generally did much better this year than any other year.

But Loftus, Addison Township, defeated candidate for DuPage state's attorney, said a good indication was the straight ticket voting in North DuPage County.

Where GOP victory margins used to be as much as 8-to-1, Loftus said, this year the Democrats held the GOP down to 1.8-to1 margin in north DuPage.

Ed Phebus. the Bloomingdale Township chairman, agrees wholeheartedly with Loftus. Both men feel confident that north DuPage County Republicans must from now on run a little scared.

AS A MATTER of fact, North DuPage County was a strong seat of new Democratic strength.

Northwest suburban Democratic strength is not a blanket strength throughout the entire area. Rather its strength is one of pockets dotting the northwest community.

Generally these pockets of strength exist in the somewhat lower-income areas.

Democratic strength poked deeply into GOP margins this year from such places as Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, and Addison village.

In Hanover Township, the Democrats carried for Johnson. This was the first time a Presidential candidate won in the township's history.

Wheeling - Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows also carried for Johnson.

From these pockets of strength, which represents collectively a large proportion of northwest suburbia, the Democrats hope to build and eventually invade the GOP strongholds of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Schaumburg village and central DuPage County.

If the Democrats achieve any inroads, it will be because of a lot of salesmanship and door-to-door campaigning.

James Cullen Sr., Hanover Township committeeman, said, "We had a large Democratic surge in every precinct. Hanover Park and Streamwood have given us a lot of strength.

"Residents of these communities are all coming out from Chicago. And for the most part they are Democrats. We're keeping them Democrats."

THIS WAS Cullen's first campaign and he was working with green precinct captains.

"We just used good common hard work and salesmanship to produce a victory," Cullen said. "The whole township was covered door-to-ddoor."

Chesney's tactics were much the same as Cullen's. He organized a good team of precinct captains and then went hunting where the Democratic ducts were likely to be. Such an area was the trailer camps and they were thoroughly covered.

Phebus said the Democrats must build a suburban image.

"Our kind of politics," he said, "can't be the same as for Chicago Democrats or Chicago Republicans."

Democrats like Phebus stress idealism in politics and hope to get away from patronage politics if possible.

However, patronage does give a party sustaining power through lean years and years when no hot elections take place.

Loftus looks for some patronage to come DuPage County Democrats' way now that Paul Powell will be the secretary of state. In DuPage County politics, the GOP holds all of the patronage and uses it effectively.

CHESNEY has 15 patronage jobs in Elk Grove Township. He feels it is a definite asset though it should not be a principal means of keeping a Democratic organization together.

Democratic leaders are in agreement it is now "acceptable to be a Democrat. It is no longer socially a handicap."

Ten years ago, when a Democrat moved to suburbia, he found himself enveloped by what seemed like a totally Republican world. It was the opposite side of the story of what used to be the case in Chicago.

Before a person knew it, he leaned toward the GOP because that was what all of his friends were.

Now, Democratic leaders say enough Democrats exist in suburbia and the feeling of "aloneness" is disappearing.

Suburban voting strength is beginning to equal that of Chicago. Ten or 20 years ago, not enough people lived in the suburbs to ever really challenge Chicago Democratic strength.

This has changed. As the GOP realizes it cannot take suburbia for granted, the Democrats realize they must gain strength or begin losing their power in the state.

(Next week some immediate Democratic plans and philosophical views will be discussed. Also some internal problews will be reported.

National Title to Missouri Homemaker

28 Finalists Join Third Conference

by PAT ADAM
Staff Writer

Representing 13 states from California to New Jersey, 28 suburban homemakers assembled in the ornate Gold Coast Room of Chicago's Drake Hotel last week to express their views on family life, suburbia, today's food merchandising and the suburban press.

The occasion was the third annual Suburban Homemakers Conference sponsored by the Suburban Press Foundation.

Attention focused on the women selected by suburban newspapers in 28 communities as representatives of their finest homemakers.

ONE OF THEM, Mrs. James E. Sharon of Manchester, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, went home with the title of 1964 Suburban Homemaker of the Year and a prize of $5,000 given by the American Dairy Association.

As Thursday's session opened, Paul Averill, publisher of the Birmingham, Mich., Eccentric and current president of the Suburban Press Foundation, told the homemakers and social agency, industry and government representatives: "Homemaking is an attitude, a set of values and characteristics that will determine the philosophy of tomorrow's citizens."

The 28 homemakers, mothers of a total of 123 choildren, then were introduced individually, and each told what arrangements she had made to permit her attendance at the homemaking parley.

THE REST OF the Thursday morning session was devoted to an exchange between the homemakers and a panel of experts that included Mrs. Rhoda Pritzker of the Association for Family Living, Mrs. Marianne Scott of Paddock Publications, Frank Neu of the American Dairy Association and James E. Etzel of the Water Research Institute.

Each panel member spoke briefly on his or her particular concern with homemaking and suburban life, then posed questions to the homemakers.

While many of the women said they were following the pattern of family life set by their own parents, most felt they have closer communication with their children than they had with their parents.

SUBURBIA tends to insulate children from many of life's realities, they agreed, and they felt part of their role as mothers was to help children to know, understand and meet anxieties when they reach adulthood.

The homemakers were opposed to mothers working outside the home, except in cases of economic necessity, if the job any way subtracts from security of the home.

Neu told the women the majority of persons in the food industry are honest and desirous of satisfying their wants. The homemaker's community activities are made possible partly because of today's packaged and convenience foods, he pointed out.

Generally the women seemed pleased and satisfied with what is offered, although Mrs. Gerald W. Gustus of North Little Rock, Ark., second runner-up in the homemaker contest, confessed she doesn't own a can opener because she processes her own foods and would appreciate a "pop top" coffee can.

ONE HOMEMAKER said she wished the dairy industry would lower the price of sour cream and would like to have the contents given in cup measurements. Another thought it would be helpful to have the calorie count included on the label.

A woman from Ohio wanted recipes for large groups. Those on food packages are mostly for families, she commented.

A St. Charles homemaker appreciated the new compact cereal packages but said she thought ease of opening packaged foods could be improved.

The remedy for teenage girls who don't eat an adequate breakfast, said one mother of teenage daughters, is to set a good example by getting up and having a hearty breakfast waiting.

"THE suburban press is just in the infancy of it potential," Mrs. Scott informed her audience.

She wanted to know what the homemakers like and dislike about their particular newspapers. Expressing general satisfaction with the suburban press as they know it, the women asked for more editorials. They said they used their local papers for all their shopping.

One woman said she would be lost at election time without her newspaper's guidance and information on candidates and issues. Another said many community projects never could have succeeded without her paper's support.

The women were against printing the names of juvenile offenders in news of a first offense but felt knowledge that their name would appear in print for later offenses might act as a deterent to juvenile misbehavior.

IN CONTRAST, they thought news of driver license revocations, divorces and suicides serve no worthwhile purpose.

Etzel explained that the water supply will be treated only to meet minimum requirements, and since industry and agriculture are the biggest users, they have the biggest say in what those requirements are.

The home user's concern for taste, appearance and odor can be met through a home water conditioner, he said.

THE homemakers were somewhat startled when the University of Indiana professor drew his interpretation of how tomorrow's home will be supplied with water. He envisioned a self-sufficient unit for each home with water supply tank in the attic and filtering equipment in the basement.

One woman was alarmed about consequences if the attic tank should spring a leak. Etzel assured her the design is such that no leaks could occur.

At Thursday's luncheon Shelbey T. Grey, deputy director of the Bureau of Education and Voluntary Compliance of the Food and Drug Administration, reminded his listeners that homemaking started in the cave dwelling days of early man.

His agency proceeds on the assumption that an informed homemaker needs the least protection by the government and is best able to assume his or her responsibility as a citizen in our increasingly complex society. The FDA assures her that foods and drugs are safe, honestly packaged and adequately labeled if dangerous.

AN afternoon forum on fashions for the woman and the home included a talk on make-up and clothes by a Montgomery Ward fashion consultant, Mrs. Carolyn Egan; a demonstration of a holiday meal by Helen Wolcott of the Pillsbury Co., and a visual display of home decorating colors and fabrics by Margaret Hutchinson of Martin-Senour Co.

Announcement of the winner and runners-up was made Friday morning. Just ahead of Mrs. Gustus, Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Cherry Hill, N. Y., was first runner-up.

In a talk following the ceremony, Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, challenged the homemakers to return to their home towns and make sure each community in the country eventually has a homemaker service for those families threatened with breakdown by the illness, death or inability of the mother to fulfill her role.

Winners Give Time To Many Interests

The woman who received the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year Award of $5,000 Friday considers her home, her children and her husband as the pivotal points of her world, but her activities, interests and community endeavors are many and varied.

She is Mrs. James E. Sharon of Manchester, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

PEOPLE OF all ages, races and cultures have been a consuming interest of Mrs. Sharon's since her graduation from Iowa State University at Ames with a B. S. in sociology and psychology.

Following two years as a YMCA director she traveled to Europe where she participated in the Experiment in International Living program. In the 14 years since her marriage she has opened her home to students and guests from a dozen foreign countries and feels that her three children have gained immeasurably in international understanding through these visits.

Mrs. Sharon's current activities include serving as a Girl Scout leader, as an active member of the United Church Women of St. Louis and of the League of Women Voters. She was a delegate to the recent second annual Methodist Conference on Human Relations in Chicago.

NAMED AS SECOND and third runners-up for the national award were Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Cherry Hill, N. J., and Mrs. Gerald W. Gustus of North Little Rock, Ark.

A tall, patrician blonde, Mrs. Kelly might be mistaken for a photographer's model, which she occasionally is. However, as the mother of six children under the age of seven, she does not frequently accept modeling assignments. Two of her children are three years old, but they are not twins. One is an adopted Korean child.

Mrs. Kelly's voice training at the Philadelphia Musical Academy now stands her in good stead as she sings for church and charitable affairs, although she lists singing as an avocation only.

MRS. GERALD W. Gustus, third place winner, has put in many hours of volunteer work with the Red Cross, which has enabled her to save the lives of two children by mouth-to- of two children by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Her three sons, two of whom are now grown, had outstanding educational records and extra-curricular honors as well, despite the fact that the family has lived in 11 states because of Gustus' work with the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

One son became, at age 12, the youngest Eagle Scout in the nation. Another graduated from high school at the age of 15.

Mrs. Gustus believes that a woman's home and family are her first reponsibility but that "women need worthwhile outside activities to balance their lives and to make them broader and more understanding mothers and wives."

Meeting Important For Mrs. Marunde

by HESTER KLINE
Staff Writer

A hundred thousand tiny white lights dance and sparkle in the trees along Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," a loquacious cab driver informed the Howard Marundes of Addison, as he chauffered them from the Drake Hotel to the Allerton House one night last week.

Lory Marunde's bright eyes picked up and multiplied the myriad gleams of the holiday decorations as she relished her assignment to represent the northwest suburbs at the National Suburban Homemakers Conference, where emphasis was placed on the new image of the homemaker in today's world. "This is important to me," she spoke simply of the national conference.

She had been named from among 83 nominees as Paddock Publications' Suburban Homemaker of the Year at ceremonies in Arlington Heights the preceding week.

MEMBERS OF the Addison Woman's Club, confident they had nominated a winner long before choice of the local judges was even revealed, planned efficiently to "adopt" the five Marunde children so Lory and Howard could attend the national conference. But the two grandmothers and a great-grandmother cared for the youngsters; the clubwomen revised their plans and a delegation attended the national conference.

All of Addison was excited because Lory was chosen a finalist. Newsstand sales of the Addison Register zoomed. The Marunde phone was so busy one friend sent a telegram saying she decided to let Western Union try to get the line for a while!

Then there was the shared fun of accompanying Lory on shopping trips, to spend some of the dozens of gift certificates from merchants to outfit her for the trip downtown.

LORY'S BIG EYES grew even bigger as she told how grandly she was greeted in each store she visited.

Howard's boss was grand, too. He gave Howard released time to attend the important functions at the national conference.

It was sort of a second honeymoon. Lory and Howie hadn't been away alone together since their first child was born 10 years ago, and never had been to the quietly elegant Drake.

Warm and friendly, Lory quickly made the acquaintance of other finalists from across the nation, chatting easily and exchanging ideas.

THROUGHOUT the three-day conference, she was intent on absorbing every detail, every word, every idea, yet she never became intense. She enjoyed it all — the formal panel discussions, speeches and demonstrations and the informal moments in the hospitality room of the Suburban Press Foundation, sponsor of the national search for the Suburban Homemaker of the Year; the hearty early morning breakfasts across the table from Howie in the Raleigh Room and the gala evenings with him at her elbow, dining in the Colony Room of the Allerton followed by the Cloud Theater performance in the Tip Top Tap Wednesday and Kungsholm with its famed puppet theater Thursday.

The schedule was arduous, scarcely giving Lory time to choose which corsage of the many showered upon her she would wear to the next event, and other finalists teased her gleefully about the array of flowers.

She was the envy of others, too, as she joyfully accepted their compliments on the lovely gifts she had received as the Northwest Suburban Homemaker.

SUBURBAN PRESS FOUNDATION
ADVANCING FAMILY & COMMUNITY LIFE

THE WORLD of the suburban homemaker has expanded from the narrow confines of the home to the broader aspect of the community, said Mrs. Rebecca Sharon of Manchester, Mo., acclaimed National Suburban Homemaker of the Year last Friday.

Listening pensively at the colorful award luncheon in the Gold Coast Room of the Drake Hotel was Mrs. Lory Marunde of Addison, second from right, finalist representing the northwest suburban area served by Paddock Publications.

Good Harvest For Research

For most people the very mention of Thanksgiving calls up memories of kitchens fragrant with the cooking of savory foods and pantries crowded with good things to eat. It's a day of happy family reunions and a table laden with a meal that might fortify you for a week.

Research by University of Illinois scientists has done much to create a more bountiful harvest and add to the eating pleasures of Thanksgiving Day as well as every other day of the year.

THE SUCCULENT golden brown turkey waiting to be carved is a tradition going back to the Plymouth colony, where a plentiful corn harvest followed a dreadful first winter, bringing new hope to the colonists and prompting them to give thanks with a harvest festival.

The tradition of turkey at Thanksgiving is the same, but the bird itself is a far cry from the one brought down with a shot from a Pilgrim's blunderbuss or brought to the feast by a friendly Indian.

Breeding and nutrition have developed a family-sized bird with shorter legs, a larger body and a broader, plumper breast. Marketed at a young and tender age, it needs less roasting time than the mature Thanksgiving bird Grandmother prepared after patiently fattening it for weeks.

UNIVERSITY of Illinois animal scientists, working with the energy utilization of feeds, have determined the factors that contribute to the rapid growth and early fattening of poultry, making this early marketing possible.

If a casserole of corn or succotash is part of your menu, as they were at the Plymouth feast, it may be made from one of the 19 white sweet corn varieties out of 20 of the yellow sweet corn variety in five that was developed through work by University of Illinois horticulturists.

Other foods became traditional at Thanksgiving dinner as farm produce became more diversified and could be stored by the farmer in the cellar or by his wife on her preserve shelves.

THE WHIPPED potatoes waiting for savory giblet gravy are particularly abundant because Illinois horticulturists have helped potato producers increase the yield six times over by developing the proper use of DDT in controlling leafhoppers. Research has also made it possible to increase the starch content of potatoes 9 to 13 per cent.

Sweet onions, firm, translucent and swimming in cream, often appear on Thanksgiving tables. University of Illinois researchers, primarily through the use of hybrids, have increased onion production from 400 to 1,000 bags per acre.

The smooth, spicy pumpkin pie waiting on the sideboard may be made of a pumpkin variety improved by the work of University horticulturists.

Using a "genetic bridge" technique, they have produced the necessary characteristics to make mildew-resistant pumpkin varieties. Work is now in progress on bush-type pumpkins that will need less growing space than the common vine types.

THUS RESEARCH continues so that the harvest next year may be greater and the table set to celebrate this bounty may be better than ever before.

Sweet potatoes, which are often a part of Thanksgiving feasts, may soon be Illinois-grown. Trails are under way near East St. Louis now to check varieties adapted to Louisiana to see whether they can be successfully grown in this state.

ILLINOIS' bountiful harvest is the product of many things— the deep, black soil, the industry of farmers, and the never-ending guest of University of Illinois researchers for the hidden answers to ways to make agriculture better.

Good Old Days; Steamboat Trip Was 50 Cents

Those who sigh for the low prices of the good old days can heave an extra sigh for this one:

There was a time when you could travel from St. Paul to Chicago for 50 cents. This included a steamboat berth from St. Paul to East Dubuque and train fare from there to Chicago, plus all meals en route.

The time was 1860 and the reason for the bargain fare was a rate war between the Mississippi River steamboat lines. Travel over this route became so popular that one of the newspapers of the day reported "gentlemen loafers were taking up their abode on the boats to save hotel expenses."

The story of the rate wars is in an article in the current issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Danforth Foundation Hunts for Teachers

A plan has been launched to find college and secondary teachers among the women of the country, including housewives.

The Danforth Foundation, which sponsors one of the nation's leading scholarship programs for college students, has asked 38 institutions to help bring women into the teaching ranks.

Scholarships of up to $3,000 plus tuition and fees are offered as the program begins for the 1965-66 school year.

The graduate fellowships for women program is open to any woman with a bachelor's degree who is not now teaching or pursuing graduate work.

THE STIPEND may be used in virtually any way which will help the grant winner complete herd study plan — including baby sitting fees, books or compensation for houhehold help in some cases.

Interested women can get complete information from Prof. Alvin R. Rolfs at Purdue University, La Fayette, Ind.

Those selected will be nominated by the Purdue Graduate School dean, and fellowships will be awarded by the Danforth Foundation.

Deadline for nominations is Feb. 15, Rolfs said, and fellowships will be awarded by May 10.

Holiday Records Available Free At Red Cross

The annual "Voices from Home" program of the Mid-America Chapter, American Red Cross, once again gives residents the opportunity to send free holiday greetings to loved ones in military service and away from home at Christmas.

The recording program opened Nov. 23 and will continue through Dec. 14 at the Red Cross office, 615 Davis St., Evanston.

Visiting foreign students also may send a record home.

The records should be made and mailed before Dec. 15 in order to reach service folks overseas before Christmas. For a recording appointment, call Red Cross at UNiversity 4-9000.

New Kinds of Foods

More than half of the 7,000 items available in the average food store didn't exist 10 years ago, declares Associated Food Retailers of Illinois. The nation's food manufacturers introduce about 500 new items every year.

Winners Give Time To Many Interests

The woman who received the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year Award of $5,000 Friday considers her home, her children and her husband as the pivotal points of her world, but her activities, interests and community endeavors are many and varied.

She is Mrs. James E. Sharon of Manchester, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

PEOPLE OF all ages, races and cultures have been a consuming interest of Mrs. Sharon's since her graduation from Iowa State University at Ames with a B. S. in sociology and psychology.

Following two years as a YMCA director she traveled to Europe where she participated in the Experiment in International Living program. In the 14 years since her marriage she has opened her home to students and guests from a dozen foreign countries and feels that her three children have gained immeasurably in international understanding through these visits.

Mrs. Sharon's current activities include serving as a Girl Scout leader, as an active member of the United Church Women of St. Louis and of the League of Women Voters. She was a delegate to the recent second annual Methodist Conference on Human Relations in Chicago.

NAMED AS SECOND and third runners-up for the national award were Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Cherry Hill, N. J., and Mrs. Gerald W. Gustus of North Little Rock, Ark.

A tall, patrician blonde, Mrs. Kelly might be mistaken for a photographer's model, which she occasionally is. However, as the mother of six children under the age of seven, she does not frequently accept modeling assignments. Two of her children are three years old, but they are not twins. One is an adopted Korean child.

Mrs. Kelly's voice training at the Philadelphia Musical Academy now stands her in good stead as she sings for church and charitable affairs, although she lists singing as an avocation only.

MRS. GERALD W. Gustus, third place winner, has put in many hours of volunteer work with the Red Cross, which has enabled her to save the lives of two children by mouth-to-of two children by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Her three sons, two of whom are now grown, had outstanding educational records and extra-curricular honors as well, despite the fact that the family has lived in 11 states because of Gustus' work with the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

One son became, at age 12, the youngest Eagle Scout in the nation. Another graduated from high school at the age of 15.

Mrs. Gustus believes that a woman's home and family are her first reponsibility but that "women need worthwhile outside activities to balance their lives and to make them broader and more understanding mothers and wives."

Meeting Important For Mrs. Marunde

by HESTER KLINE
Staff Writer

A hundred thousand tiny white lights dance and sparkle in the trees along Chicago's "Magnificent Mile," a loquacious cab driver informed the Howard Marundes of Addison, as he chauffered them from the Drake Hotel to the Allerton House one night last week.

Lory Marunde's bright eyes picked up and multiplied the myriad gleams of the holiday decorations as she relished her assignment to represent the northwest suburbs at the National Suburban Homemakers Conference, where emphasis was placed on the new image of the homemaker in today's world. "This is important to me," she spoke simply of the national conference.

She had been named from among 83 nominees as Paddock Publications' Suburban Homemaker of the Year at ceremonies in Arlington Heights the preceding week.

MEMBERS OF the Addison Woman's Club, confident they had nominated a winner long before choice of the local judges was even revealed, planned efficiently to "adopt" the five Marunde children so Lory and Howard could attend the national conference. But the two grandmothers and a great-grandmother cared for the youngsters; the clubwomen revised their plans and a delegation attended the national conference.

All of Addison was excited because Lory was chosen a finalist. Newsstand sales of the Addison Register zoomed. The Marunde phone was so busy one friend sent a telegram saying she decided to let Western Union try to get the line for a while!

Then there was the shared fun of accompanying Lory on shopping trips, to spend some of the dozens of gift certificates from merchants to outfit her for the trip downtown.

LORY'S BIG EYES grew even bigger as she told how grandly she was greeted in each store she visited.

Howard's boss was grand, too. He gave Howard released time to attend the important functions at the national conference.

It was sort of a second honeymoon. Lory and Howie hadn't been away alone together since their first child was born 10 years ago, and never had been to the quietly elegant Drake.

Warm and friendly, Lory quickly made the acquaintance of other finalists from across the nation, chatting easily and exchanging ideas.

THROUGHOUT the three-day conference, she was intent on absorbing every detail, every word, every idea, yet she never became intense. She enjoyed it all — the formal panel discussions, speeches and demonstrations and the informal moments in the hospitality room of the Suburban Press Foundation, sponsor of the national search for the Suburban Homemaker of the Year; the hearty early morning breakfasts across the table from Howie in the Raleigh Room and the gala evenings with him at her elbow, dining in the Colony Room of the Allerton followed by the Cloud Theater performance in the Tip Top Tap Wednesday and Kungsholm with its famed puppet theater Thursday.

The schedule was arduous, scarcely giving Lory time to choose which corsage of the many showered upon her she would wear to the next event, and other finalists teased her gleefully about the array of flowers.

She was the envy of others, too, as she joyfully accepted their compliments on the lovely gifts she had received as the Northwest Suburban Homemaker.

COMMUNITY LIFE

THE WORLD of the suburban homemaker has expanded from the narrow confines of the home to the broader aspect of the community, said Mrs. Rebecca Sharon of Manchester, Mo., acclaimed National Suburban Homemaker of the Year last Friday.

Listening pensively at the colorful award luncheon in the Gold Coast Room of the Drake Hotel was Mrs. Lory Marunde of Addison, second from right, finalist representing the northwest suburban area served by Paddock Publications.

Good Harvest For Research

For most people the very mention of Thanksgiving calls up memories of kitchens fragrant with the cooking of savory foods and pantries crowded with good things to eat. It's a day of happy family reunions and a table laden with a meal that might fortify you for a week.

Research by University of Illinois scientists has done much to create a more bountiful harvest and add to the eating pleasures of Thanksgiving Day as well as every other day of the year.

THE SUCCULENT golden brown turkey waiting to be carved is a tradition going back to the Plymouth colony, where a plentiful corn harvest followed a dreadful first winter, bringing new hope to the colonists and prompting them to give thanks with a harvest festival.

The tradition of turkey at Thanksgiving is the same, but the bird itself is a far cry from the one brought down with a shot from a Pilgrim's blunderbuss or brought to the feast by a friendly Indian.

Breeding and nutrition have developed a family-sized bird with shorter legs, a larger body and a broader, plumper breast. Marketed at a young and tender age, it needs less roasting time than the mature Thanksgiving bird Grandmother prepared after patiently fattening it for weeks.

UNIVERSITY of Illinois animal scientists, working with the energy utilization of feeds, have determined the factors that contribute to the rapid growth and early fattening of poultry, making this early marketing possible.

If a casserole of corn or succotash is part of your menu, as they were at the Plymouth feast, it may be made from one of the 19 white sweet corn varieties out of 20 of the yellow sweet corn variety in five that was developed through work by University of Illinois horticulturists.

Other foods became traditional at Thanksgiving dinner as farm produce became more diversified and could be stored by the farmer in the cellar or by his wife on her preserve shelves.

THE WHIPPED potatoes waiting for savory giblet gravy are particularly abundant because Illinois horticulturists have helped potato producers increase the yield six times over by developing the proper use of DDT in controlling leafhoppers. Research has also made it possible to increase the starch content of potatoes 9 to 13 per cent.

Sweet onions, firm, translucent and swimming in cream, often appear on Thanksgiving tables. University of Illinois researchers, primarily through the use of hybrids, have increased onion production from 400 to 1,000 bags per acre.

The smooth, spicy pumpkin pie waiting on the sideboard may be made of a pumpkin variety improved by the work of University horticulturists.

Using a "genetic bridge" technique, they have produced the necessary characteristics to make mildew-resistant pumpkin varieties. Work is now in progress on bush-type pumpkins that will need less growing space than the common vine types.

THUS RESEARCH continues so that the harvest next year may be greater and the table set to celebrate this bounty may be better than ever before.

Sweet potatoes, which are often a part of Thanksgiving feasts, may soon be Illinois-grown. Trails are under way near East St. Louis now to check varieties adapted to Louisiana to see whether they can be successfully grown in this state.

ILLINOIS' bountiful harvest is the product of many things— the deep, black soil, the industry of farmers, and the never-ending guest of University of Illinois researchers for the hidden answers to ways to make agriculture better.

Good Old Days; Steamboat Trip Was 50 Cents

Those who sigh for the low prices of the good old days can heave an extra sigh for this one:

There was a time when you could travel from St. Paul to Chicago for 50 cents. This included a steamboat berth from St. Paul to East Dubuque and train fare from there to Chicago, plus all meals en route.

The time was 1860 and the reason for the bargain fare was a rate war between the Mississippi River steamboat lines. Travel over this route became so popular that one of the newspapers of the day reported "gentlemen loafers were taking up their abode on the boats to save hotel expenses."

The story of the rate wars is in an article in the current issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Danforth Foundation Hunts for Teachers

A plan has been launched to find college and secondary teachers among the women of the country, including housewives.

The Danforth Foundation, which sponsors one of the nation's leading scholarship programs for college students, has asked 38 institutions to help bring women into the teaching ranks.

Scholarships of up to $3,000 plus tuition and fees are offered as the program begins for the 1965-66 school year.

The graduate fellowships for women program is open to any woman with a bachelor's degree who is not now teaching or pursuing graduate work.

THE STIPEND may be used in virtually any way which will help the grant winner complete herd study plan — including baby sitting fees, books or compensation for houhehold help in some cases.

Interested women can get complete information from Prof. Alvin R. Rolfs at Purdue University, La Fayette, Ind.

Those selected will be nominated by the Purdue Graduate School dean, and fellowships will be awarded by the Danforth Foundation.

Deadline for nominations is Feb. 15, Rolfs said, and fellowships will be awarded by May 10.

Holiday Records Available Free At Red Cross

The annual "Voices from Home" program of the Mid-America Chapter, American Red Cross, once again gives residents the opportunity to send free holiday greetings to loved ones in military service and away from home at Christmas.

The recording program opened Nov. 23 and will continue through Dec. 14 at the Red Cross office, 615 Davis St., Evanston.

Visiting foreign students also may send a record home.

The records should be made and mailed before Dec. 15 in order to reach service folks overseas before Christmas. For a recording appointment, call Red Cross at UNiversity 4-9000.

New Kinds of Foods

More than half of the 7,000 items available in the average food store didn't exist 10 years ago, declares Associated Food Retailers of Illinois. The nation's food manufacturers introduce about 500 new items every year.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Pro Football Supper Will Make Dad Cheer

By DOLORES HAUGH

"Yea, Team" and look who is yelling it. It's Father. Yes, the pro football season is in full swing, so make your "father" happy and some of his fellow cheerers, too, with a Hot Off the Grid(dle) Iron Sunday supper.

INVITATIONS

Cut tiny television sets from brown construction paper. Cut out the screens and paste to solid back, leaving the sides open. Cut white paper to fit so that it may be drawn through the two brown sheets so that different information appears on the TV screen.

Place a tab on the right that instructs the recipient to "Pull" When he does, the screen will change if you print Time, Place and Occasion on the strip of white paper. Fold unseen part behind TV.

PREPARATIONS

First find out when the game will appear on TV and plan your meal accordingly. A pancake supper is one that is simple and fun.

Be sure your ingredients are ready to toss together just before the last quarter and then start making the cakes, keeping them hot in the oven so that the meal may be served as soon as the game is over.

DECORATIONS

Plan the table in bright colors and use a striped tablecloth. Red and white check may also be used. Use mugs for coffee and white china. Place a wooden lazy susan in the center of the table with pitchers of all shapes and sizes, filled with different kinds of syrups, honey and jars of jelly and jam. Tuck bright yellow straw flowers between the pitchers and jars.

Melt butter and serve it with a pastery brush for quick butterings. Place brown, granulated and confectionery sugar in bright red dishes.

For place cards, have gold footballs mark each place. Set the silverware a little differently by placing the knife across the top of the plate (which has been warmed) and the spoon and fork touching the knife to form a kind of goal post effect.

Fold the solid red napkins in the form of pennants, and cut white paper initials of the chosen team on them. These may be placed around the base of the lazy susan as the guests use the napkins.

MENU

Start the meal with spiced hot pineapple juice with a stick cinnamon stirrer. The pancakes may be both plain and buckwheat, corn or nut, but have a variety by adding different flavorings to them. Have platters of hot baked ham, crisp bacon and tiny pork sausages. Serve the pork sausages rolled up in a pancake and secured with a piece of bacon, for a real meat-eater's delight.

Serve lots of hot coffee, a bright smile and lots of mulling over of "good" plays and you will serve yourself up a party that is really Hot Off the Grid(dle) Iron. No matter who plays—you'll win. So Go, Girl, Go, and you are sure to make points with this party.

P.S. IF YOU need entertainment, play games based on the ball game such as naming the numbers of the players, who scored the field goal, etc. For prizes award earmuffs and tie them with paper to match your table topped with tiny gold footballs. Show them you know the score!

Thanksgiving Denotes Time to Give Thought

by BETTY AINSLIE

The time of the gobbler is upon us. This, the first of the holiday season's special days, is a thoroughly American holiday, the one in which we should remember with thanks the many things we take for granted every day.

Now that is what we should do, of course; but most of us are so busy out gathering the fixings for that traditional meal that we often forget that more than food makes up a real Thanksgiving.

WHEN THE big day arrives and the family is together for a few hours, the main questions seem to be, "What do pou want for Christmas?" Suddenly this Christmas gift-buying has engulfed Thanksgiving.

Many of us these days have purchased a number of our gifts — at least the ingredients for the packages to be mailed out of town are bought. And it only takes a meeting of the family clan on a day like Thanksgiving to get a final check on size and color.

Children in school still color the fat turkey and cut our pilgrims to decorate the windows, and they hear again the story of the first Thanksgiving—just how this national holiday originated in New England.

DO YOU remember the story? I all started with a day set aside by Gov. Bradford in 1623 for fasting and prayer as the people were living in the midst of a drought; the sorrow was changed to thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers.

Gradually the custom prevailed of having a thanksgiving annually after the harvest.

Finally, in 1817, New York adopted a day as Thanksgiving and the idea spread through many of the other states. But it wasn't until 1864 that President Lincoln appointed a day of Thanksgiving; President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed a Thanksgiving the fourth Thursday of November.

Now, as our families get together for good food and talk, let's try to take a few minutes to remember why we have this day.

ONE FAMILY which has established a deeper meaning to this holiday is the M. W. Prellberg family of Arlington Heights. A letter described last Thanksgiving.

"I did not have time to think ahead as to just what our little observance would be," Mrs. Prellberg wrote. "But as we sat around the table I asked my husband to read 'A Prayer of Thanks' by Harold Blake Walker, and my son read Governor Bradford's 'One Small Candle' which was on the front page of the morning paper, and then I read my granddaughter's Thanksgiving testimonial which she had pasted inside a card she had colored and made.

'I am Thankful for:
My home,
My food,
For my brother, and sister, our church, for animals, for our clotheing, for our bed, for other people, for light, for teeth, and Uncals and Ants and Grandmamas and Grandpas and Coisns, freinds, for trees, and flowers, and wachs, and crops, and turkeys and Pilgrims, and everything.
The end.
from Bonnie.' "

I TRUST Bonnie won't mind her note appearing now when she is a whole year older than when it was written, but the charm and earnestness of the words written for grandma tell so easily the simple, everyday things that need a "thank you."

A child will express simple thanks for the objects close at hand, the familiar which he knows.

So along with the bird, the cranberry sauce, the mashed potatoes, gravy, baked squash, dressing, waldorf salad and pumpkin pie, let's not forget to say a special "thanks" for our daily bread. (S

A Victorian pink tea will follow the program, "Me and Mama," at the Dec. 2 meeting of Arlington Heights Woman's Club at Recreation Park fieldhouse. Fifteen models, adults and children, will assist Mrs. W. W. McIlwain of Glencoe in a showing of a private collection of gowns and clothing dating from the 1800's.

Mrs. McIlwain selects models from available talent and rehearses them in posture, walking, turing and in showing every interesting aspect of a particular costume. The program has been presented for many national conventions where the continuity of style has been narrated by Walt Hadley accompanied at the organ by his wife, Dardanelle.

THE HADLEYS live the typical American suburban life in Mount Prospect since Walt has returned to the non-music business world. Dardanelle was Aunt Dodie of WGN-TV's Lunchtime Little Theater, and both took part in "At Home with the Hadleys," a radio show from their own home several years ago.

They now do a similar show on WNWC for Northwest Suburban YMCA. There are two boys in the family, Skip, 12, and Brian, 9.

Victorian antiques will accent the pink tea tables at Wednesday's meeting. Mrs. Donald Barker and Mrs. John Galandak will be hostesses.

Complications Told For Diabetes Victims

If you're among the five million Americans who have diabetes, your physician probably has told you your disease is due to inadequate manufacture of insulin in your body.

This vital substance breaks down complex sugars so they can be utilized by the body and converted into energy necessary to maintain our vital processes, advises the Illinois State Medical Society.

FAILURE to utilize this sugar results in increased blood sugar levels, setting off a chain reaction of chemical mishaps in the blood and urine that results in the classic symptoms of diabetes — excessive thirst, increased urination, hunger, weakness, weight loss and dryness of skin.

Failure to control these symptoms with adequate injections of insulin and proper diet can result in diabetic coma, and even death.

To stay well, diabetic patients must adhere to a strict diet — and take their insulin faithfully.

WHAT ELSE does the diabetic have to watch for? Among the many complications of diabetes are:

Vascular disease — Hardening of the arteries appears in most diabetics who have the disease for 15 years or more. Resulting decreased blood supply to the feet can cause cold feet, numbness, local infection, ulceration and gangrene.

Diabetic neuritis — Early symptoms of this complication are tingling and numbness of the hands and feet, followed by constant, aching pain which usually is worse at night.

Infection of the skin — This complication is so frequent that many doctors treating patients with recurrent boils and carbuncles test them to see if they are diabetic.

Tuberculosis — This disease is twice as common in diabetics as it is in non-diabetics.

IN ADDITION, obese diabetics often have a far more difficult time managing their condition than diabetics of slender build. A recent study demonstrated how one group of obese diabetics previously requiring large doses of insulin remained perfectly healthy with no insulin at all following reduction of weight.

Still another problem in diabetes is pregnancy. In diabetic mothers, the incidence of toxemia, defective infants and fatal deaths remain high.

The listing of these complications is not intended to frighten or discourage the diabetic, but rather to demonstrate the importance of constant vigil and regular physical examination for all diabetics.

The greatest threat to a diabetic is not the disease process itself, but carelessness. If the diabetic sees his physician regularly, guards his general health, and follows the diet and insulin dosage prescribed, he can lead a constructive, enjoyable life. (S

The program has been presented for many national conventions where the continuity of style has been narrated by Walt Hadley accompanied at the organ by his wife, Dardanelle.

THE HADLEYS live the typical American suburban life in Mount Prospect since Walt has returned to the non-music business world. Dardanelle was Aunt Dodie of WGN-TV's Lunchtime Little Theater, and both took part in "At Home with the Hadleys," a radio show from their own home several years ago.

They now do a similar show on WNWC for Northwest Suburban YMCA. There are two boys in the family, Skip, 12, and Brian, 9.

Victorian antiques will accent the pink tea tables at Wednesday's meeting. Mrs. Donald Barker and Mrs. John Galandak will be hostesses.

Thanksgiving Denotes Time to Give Thought

by BETTY AINSLIE

The time of the gobbler is upon us. This, the first of the holiday season's special days, is a thoroughly American holiday, the one in which we should remember with thanks the many things we take for granted every day.

Now that is what we should do, of course; but most of us are so busy out gathering the fixings for that traditional meal that we often forget that more than food makes up a real Thanksgiving.

WHEN THE big day arrives and the family is together for a few hours, the main questions seem to be, "What do pou want for Christmas?" Suddenly this Christmas gift-buying has engulfed Thanksgiving.

Many of us these days have purchased a number of our gifts — at least the ingredients for the packages to be mailed out of town are bought. And it only takes a meeting of the family clan on a day like Thanksgiving to get a final check on size and color.

Children in school still color the fat turkey and cut our pilgrims to decorate the windows, and they hear again the story of the first Thanksgiving—just how this national holiday originated in New England.

DO YOU remember the story? I all started with a day set aside by Gov. Bradford in 1623 for fasting and prayer as the people were living in the midst of a drought; the sorrow was changed to thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers.

Gradually the custom prevailed of having a thanksgiving annually after the harvest.

Finally, in 1817, New York adopted a day as Thanksgiving and the idea spread through many of the other states. But it wasn't until 1864 that President Lincoln appointed a day of Thanksgiving; President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed a Thanksgiving the fourth Thursday of November.

Now, as our families get together for good food and talk, let's try to take a few minutes to remember why we have this day.

ONE FAMILY which has established a deeper meaning to this holiday is the M. W. Prellberg family of Arlington Heights. A letter described last Thanksgiving.

"I did not have time to think ahead as to just what our little observance would be," Mrs. Prellberg wrote. "But as we sat around the table I asked my husband to read 'A Prayer of Thanks' by Harold Blake Walker, and my son read Governor Bradford's 'One Small Candle' which was on the front page of the morning paper, and then I read my granddaughter's Thanksgiving testimonial which she had pasted inside a card she had colored and made.

'I am Thankful for:
My home,
My food,
For my brother, and sister, our church, for animals, for our clotheing, for our bed, for other people, for light, for teeth, and Uncals and Ants and Grandmamas and Grandpas and Coisns, freinds, for trees, and flowers, and wachs, and crops, and turkeys and Pilgrims, and everything.
The end.
from Bonnie.' "

I TRUST Bonnie won't mind her note appearing now when she is a whole year older than when it was written, but the charm and earnestness of the words written for grandma tell so easily the simple, everyday things that need a "thank you."

A child will express simple thanks for the objects close at hand, the familiar which he knows.

So along with the bird, the cranberry sauce, the mashed potatoes, gravy, baked squash, dressing, waldorf salad and pumpkin pie, let's not forget to say a special "thanks" for our daily bread. (S

AMERICAN INDIANS display a sample of their authentic arts and crafts which will occupy a spot at Arlington Market during Thanksgiving weekend. Proceeds of the sale of handmade pottery, ceramics, jewelry and toys will go to the American Indian Center, 738 W. Sheridan Road, Chicago, according to Mrs. Charles Tully, chairman of the Indian Affairs committee of Arlington Heights Woman's Club which sponsors the sale. Friday, Nov. 27, the booth will be open at 11 a.m. and Saturday, Nov. 28, at 9 a.m. (S

If you're among the five million Americans who have diabetes, your physician probably has told you your disease is due to inadequate manufacture of insulin in your body.

This vital substance breaks down complex sugars so they can be utilized by the body and converted into energy necessary to maintain our vital processes, advises the Illinois State Medical Society.

FAILURE to utilize this sugar results in increased blood sugar levels, setting off a chain reaction of chemical mishaps in the blood and urine that results in the classic symptoms of diabetes — excessive thirst, increased urination, hunger, weakness, weight loss and dryness of skin.

Failure to control these symptoms with adequate injections of insulin and proper diet can result in diabetic coma, and even death.

To stay well, diabetic patients must adhere to a strict diet — and take their insulin faithfully.

WHAT ELSE does the diabetic have to watch for? Among the many complications of diabetes are:

Vascular disease — Hardening of the arteries appears in most diabetics who have the disease for 15 years or more. Resulting decreased blood supply to the feet can cause cold feet, numbness, local infection, ulceration and gangrene.

Diabetic neuritis — Early symptoms of this complication are tingling and numbness of the hands and feet, followed by constant, aching pain which usually is worse at night.

Infection of the skin — This complication is so frequent that many doctors treating patients with recurrent boils and carbuncles test them to see if they are diabetic.

Tuberculosis — This disease is twice as common in diabetics as it is in non-diabetics.

IN ADDITION, obese diabetics often have a far more difficult time managing their condition than diabetics of slender build. A recent study demonstrated how one group of obese diabetics previously requiring large doses of insulin remained perfectly healthy with no insulin at all following reduction of weight.

Still another problem in diabetes is pregnancy. In diabetic mothers, the incidence of toxemia, defective infants and fatal deaths remain high.

The listing of these complications is not intended to frighten or discourage the diabetic, but rather to demonstrate the importance of constant vigil and regular physical examination for all diabetics.

The greatest threat to a diabetic is not the disease process itself, but carelessness. If the diabetic sees his physician regularly, guards his general health, and follows the diet and insulin dosage prescribed, he can lead a constructive, enjoyable life. (S

50th Wedding Day Feted at Dinner

MR. AND MRS. HENRY MALZAHN

The Henry Malzahns of 38 S. Chestnut St., Arlington Heights, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary of Oct. 18 in the same church in which they were married. A dinner for friends and relatives took place in St. Peter Lutheran Church, where they were married 50 years ago by Rev. C. M. Noack.

The anniversary couple have lived in their Chestnut Street home for the entire 50 years.

They have four children, Herbert of New York City, Harold of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Norma Wolff of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Arlene Baade of Barrington. There are eight grandchildren. (S

Job's Daughters Honor Parents

Bethel 103, Job's Daughters of Arlington Heights, observed Moms' and Dads' Night at the Nov. 16 meeting. A potluck supper preceded the business session.

Mrs. Henry Wallace, guardian secretary of Bethel 103, was chosen to represent the moms for the evening, and William Cook was the honored dad.

Bethel 103 meets Wednesday, Nov. 25, for election of officers.

Classic, Gay Linens Pleasing

Give someone on the list a merry Christmas with a gift of linens for the home.

Sheets and pillowcases in classic white or decorative patterns or solids are always welcome. Towels in coordinated sets come in many decorator colors and patterns — including richly monogrammed styles.

Opening devotions will be led by Mrs. Gerald Andrews.

In lieu of the Christmas bazaar, a Christmas party will be held, incuding a buffet dinner followed by a short business meeting. Surprise entertainment is planned by Mrs. Paul Quick.

THE EVENING is also designated as Loyalty Night, and each member will bring her "Loyalty Jar" in which money has been saved. The money will be used for church improvement and mission work which is part of the purpose of the women's guild.

Hostesses will be Mrs. James Sternberg, Mrs. Charlotte Thorse, Mrs. George Kusch and Mrs. Gene Fricke.

President Mrs. Alex Liesik, CL 3-2434, may be called for further information.

Jacqueline DeRosa Is Fred Mossman's Bride

Emerald green floor-length dresses were worn by attendants of Jacqueline DeRosa of Arlington Heights for her Oct. 17 marriage in Our Lady of the Wayside Church. She became the bride of Fred R. Mossman, son of the junior Fred Mossmans of Chicago, at noon in double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Kerr of Arlington Heights and was given in marriage by her brother, Frank DeRosa.

Preceding her down the church aisle were Mary Lou Mossman, the groom's sister, as maid of honor and four other attendants. All but the flower girl were gowned in emerald green Shantaffeta and carried pompons, mums and wheat sprays in rust and gold combinations.

BRIDESMAIDS' were Mrs. Mary Jean Pringle of Chicago and Mrs. Judy Kurak of Algonquin; the bride's sister, Susan DeRosa, was junior bridesmaid.

The bride's niece, 5-year-old Diane DeRosa of Arlington Heights, was flower girl, wearing a gold floor-length taffeta dress and carrying a miniature of the bridesmaids' bouquets.

The bride entered the sanctuary wearing a silk-faced peau de soie dress with an alencon lace bodice. The lace also trimmed the bell shaped skirt and chapel train. Her fingertip veil had a matching cluster headpiece, and she carried Amazon lilies with white roses.

FALL FLORAL bouquets adorned the altar as the bride and groom met before Father H. O'Hara to be united in marriage. Mrs. Hal Berman of Evanston was organist.

Standing with the groom were William Livas of Chicago as best man, and three ushers, Gerry Gebhart and Armand Onesto, both of Chicago, and Frank DeRosa of Arlington Heights.

The wedding reception was planned for 200 guests in Montclare Ballroom, Chicago. In the receiving line the bride's mother wore a gold sheath dress of silk peau de soie with a beaded bodice. She wore matching accessories and also had a cymbidium corsage.

Following a week's tour of the New England states, the newlyweds chose Chicago for their first home.

The bride works in Des Plaines for City Products and the groom for H. W. Lochner, Consulting Engineers. He is an alumnus of the University of Illinois. (Jenart (S

Rubash-Engelking Rites Oct. 17 at St. Peter's

St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, was the scene of an Oct. 17 wedding which united Darlene Janice Rubash, daughter of the junior Joseph Rubashes of 1102 Greenwood, Mount Prospect, and Dennis Engelking, son of the Herman Engelkings of 201 S. Highland, Arlington Heights. The 5 o'clock ceremony was performed by Rev. R. O. Bartz in an altar setting of white mums.

A peau de soie gown appliqued in lace and accented with two rosebuds at the back waistline was chosen by the bride for her wedding day. A chapel train flowed from the gown, and complementing it was a fingertip veil held by three rosebuds which matched the gown.

The bride's flowers were gardenias with lilies of the valley.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Carole Rubash, was her maid of honor and a cousin of both, Jackie Haggard of Brentwood, Mo., was bridesmaid. Both girls wore sapphire blue dresses with full overskirts and carried white mums.

The groom's two brothers attended him, Robert Engelking as best man and Richard Engelking as an usher.

MINT GREEN brocade was chosen by the bride's mother as her ensemble for the day's festivities, and the groom's mother wore a turquoise dress.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at Adam's Hartman House for 150 guests.

The newlyweds are living in Arlington Heights while employed in the local area. The bride, a graduate of Prospect High School, works at the Jewel Tea Store in Wheeling. The groom, an Arlington graduate, is working for the local public schools.

7th District Juniors Attend State Confab

Mrs. Harold A. Thompson, Seventh District Junior director; Mrs. Gordon T. Beckley, Northern Region director and recording secretary of Seventh District; Mrs. Donald Carrara, Junior projects chairman, and Mrs. Elmore Lechelt, Junior get-together chairman, attended the state executive board meeting of the Junior organization, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, on Oct. 28 and 29 in Normal, Ill.

Mrs. George Young, State Junior director, presided. Special guests were Dr. Harold Phelps, director of special education, Dr. Richard Smith, director of student financial aids, and Dr. Francis Belshe, dean of the undergraduate school of Illinois State University.

Prior to the board meeting, a tour was conducted of the special education building at the university, and that afternoon a ways and means clinic was conducted.

SLIDES WERE shown on the Congressional Medal of Honor Grove at the American Freedom Center at Valley Forge. This is in honor of America's more than 3,000 Medal of Honor winners.

The foundation has set aside 52 acres of historic Valley Forge countryside with a stand of oak, beech, maple and dogwood trees in which a tree will be marked for each patriot who received a Medal of Honor.

Each state will have an acre set aside for its heroes, the center of which will be cleared and a monument erected with all their names inscribed.

This is solely a project of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs.

DISCUSSION OF the General Federation Diamond Jublilee convention of 1966 was held. It takes place in Chicago with IFWC members as hostesses.

A report on the sale of first aid kits showed a total of 2,352 and the clubs may re-order.

University students who received scholarships from the Junior organization through the Scholarships for Teachers of Exceptional Children were present at a "coffee" for the Junior board members. It gave an opportunity to become acquainted with one another. (S

Early Yule Baking on Local Cook's Schedule

Seasonal Treats Of Mrs. R. Wegner

by LOIS SEILER

If you've begun to think about Christmas baking, you'll want to give some thought to Mrs. Robert L. Wegner's excellent recipes.

Mrs. Wegner's favorite fruit cake is best made several weeks before using, while two of her cookie specialties can be made any time and store in covered containers.

Although in past years she often baked over two dozen varieties of Christmas cookies, this good cook has, in trecent years, narrowed her selection to about 15 of her family's favorites, and of these her Butternut and Brazil Nut Dainties are just about tops on the list.

"I splurge on my Christmas cookies and always use butter and cake flour," Mrs. Wegner explained. "This gives them a nicer texture and flavor."

The Butternut Drops are a rich and dainty cookie flavored with both orange and lemon rind. The batter is formed into balls, rolled into slightly-beaten egg white and coated with chopped nuts. A small piece of candied cherry is centered in each. These cookies are as appealing in appearance as they are delicious to taste.

Another colorful addition to a cookie assortment are this good cook's Brazil Nut Dainties.

GROUND BRAZIL nuts are combined in the batter of these cookies to give them an interesting flavor. The batter is formed into rolls and refrigerated.

Sliced and baked, the cooled cookies are then decorated by dipping the edges into lightly-beaten egg white and colored sugar.

Rich and buttery, these delightful cookies will melt in your mouth. Both the taste and appearance of a light fruit cake found favor in the Wegner family.

"The recipe belonged to my husband's mother, and I have been making it for several years," Mrs. Wegner said.

Containing candied pineapple and cherries, citron, chopped pecans and raisins, the cake batter is also flavored with both orange and lemon rind and juice.

"THE CAKE itself is similar to a pound cake in color and texture," Mrs. Wegner explained, "and is very pretty with the red and green of the colored fruit."

"It should be stored in a cool place for at least three weeks and should be refrigerated before using as it slices best when very cold."

Served along with a cookie assortment for holiday callers, this delightful cake also makes an appealing Christmas gift.

An accomplished cook, Mrs. Wegner especially enjoys baking, and in addition to cakes, pies and other delicacies, she bakes bread regularly each week.

The Wegner family lives at 726 N. Belmont in Arlington Heights. They have two children: Kathy, 16, a high school junior, and Gary, 12, who is in seventh grade.

They are members of St. John's United Church of Christ.

BUTTERNUT DROPS

½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 egg, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1¼ cups sifted cake flour
¾ cup pecans, ground fine
Candied cherries for garnish

Cream shortening and sugar. Combine egg yolk with vanilla, milk and grated rinds. Add to shortening and sugar and mix well. Beat in flour and chill dough overnight.

Shape dough into small balls the size of a walnut or smaller. Roll into the slightly-beaten egg white. Coat with ground nuts. Place on greased cookie sheet and place ½ or ⅛ of a candied cherry in the center of each cookie. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Store in covered tin. Yield: about 2 dozen bookies.

BRAZIL NUT DAINTIES

⅞ cup butter (1 cup less 2 tablespoons)
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup ground Brazil Nuts

Cream butter and sugar together. Add vanilla. Work in flour, which has been sifted with baking powder, and ground nuts.

Form into rolls about one-inch in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator overnight. Slice about ¼-inch thick and bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a 300 degree oven for 22 minutes.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

½ pound butter
1 cup butter
3 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
3 cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon baking powder
½ cup milk
½ pound candied pineapple, chopped
½ pound candied cherries, cut in half
¼ pound citron, chopped
¼ pound pecans, coarsely chopped
½ pound light raisins
Grated rind and juice of ½ orange
Grated rind and juice of ½ lemon

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs and vanilla and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and beat in alternately with milk.

Add juice of orange and lemon to chopped nuts and fold into batter.

BAKE IN TWO greased bread pans in a 350 degree oven for one hour and 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven and remove cake from tins immediately. Let cool overnight. Wrap in waxed paper and store in an air-tight tin in a cool place.

These cakes are best made three weeks before using. Place in refrigerator a day or two before slicing.

Note: in last week's food column ingredients for the Tomato Soup Cake listed the amount of cloves twice. This was a typographical error.

Bake Fruit Cake Now for Holiday

Rich tasting raisin fruit cake takes on a new look of elegance when it's cut in slim fingers. This marvelous recipe is a prizewinner that's bursting with taste surprising California golden seedless raisins, candied fruits and nuts.

As with most all fruit cakes, carefully wrap and age this one in a cool place from four to six weeks before cutting.

Make fruit cake now so it will be ready for all holiday entertaining. For open house refreshments cut it in fingers to serve with eggnog. Salty nuts and colored thin mints are other good nibblers for the occasion.

GOLDEN RAISIN FRUIT CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
5 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups golden seedless raisins
½ cup diced candied pineapple
¼ cup diced candied citron
¼ cup diced candied orange peel
½ cup pecans

Plan Ahead Roast Serves Two Meals

When a beef pot roast is on the Sunday menu, buy one a pound or two heavier than needed with a seoncd meal in mind. For yesterday's pot roast becomes today's memorable menu when made into a delectable main dish such as Beef and Noodles Parmesan.

The smooth creamy gravy of this meaty dish owes its success to double-rich evaporated milk, so handy and so thrifty to use.

BEEF AND NOODLES PARMESAN

¼ cup butter
2 medium onions, sliced
1 cup sliced celery
About 3 cups cut-up cooked beef pot roast
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup boiling water
1 beef bouillon cube
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons flour
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 can (14½ oz.) evaporated milk (1-2/3 cups)
8-oz. pkg. medium noodles, cooked

Melt butter in large skillet. Add onions and celery; cook over medium heat until onions are transparent, stirring occasionally. Add meat; continue to cook slowly until meat is thoroughly heated.

Remove from heat. Add salt, pepper, water in which bouillon cube has been dissolved and Worcestershire sauce. Gradually sprinkle in flour, stirring to blend smoothly. Stir in Parmesan cheese and evaporated milk.

Heat stirring occasionally, until mixture is hot and bubbling, about 5 minutes. Serve over hot cooked noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Early Yule Baking on Local Cook's Schedule

Seasonal Treats Of Mrs. R. Wegner

by LOIS SEILER

If you've begun to think about Christmas baking, you'll want to give some thought to Mrs. Robert L. Wegner's excellent recipes.

Mrs. Wegner's favorite fruit cake is best made several weeks before using, while two of her cookie specialties can be made any time and store in covered containers.

Although in past years she often baked over two dozen varieties of Christmas cookies, this good cook has, in trecent years, narrowed her selection to about 15 of her family's favorites, and of these her Butternut and Brazil Nut Dainties are just about tops on the list.

"I splurge on my Christmas cookies and always use butter and cake flour," Mrs. Wegner explained. "This gives them a nicer texture and flavor."

The Butternut Drops are a rich and dainty cookie flavored with both orange and lemon rind. The batter is formed into balls, rolled into slightly-beaten egg white and coated with chopped nuts. A small piece of candied cherry is centered in each. These cookies are as appealing in appearance as they are delicious to taste.

Another colorful addition to a cookie assortment are this good cook's Brazil Nut Dainties.

GROUND BRAZIL nuts are combined in the batter of these cookies to give them an interesting flavor. The batter is formed into rolls and refrigerated.

Sliced and baked, the cooled cookies are then decorated by dipping the edges into lightly-beaten egg white and colored sugar.

Rich and buttery, these delightful cookies will melt in your mouth. Both the taste and appearance of a light fruit cake found favor in the Wegner family.

"The recipe belonged to my husband's mother, and I have been making it for several years," Mrs. Wegner said.

Containing candied pineapple and cherries, citron, chopped pecans and raisins, the cake batter is also flavored with both orange and lemon rind and juice.

"THE CAKE itself is similar to a pound cake in color and texture," Mrs. Wegner explained, "and is very pretty with the red and green of the colored fruit."

"It should be stored in a cool place for at least three weeks and should be refrigerated before using as it slices best when very cold."

Served along with a cookie assortment for holiday callers, this delightful cake also makes an appealing Christmas gift.

An accomplished cook, Mrs. Wegner especially enjoys baking, and in addition to cakes, pies and other delicacies, she bakes bread regularly each week.

The Wegner family lives at 726 N. Belmont in Arlington Heights. They have two children: Kathy, 16, a high school junior, and Gary, 12, who is in seventh grade.

They are members of St. John's United Church of Christ.

BUTTERNUT DROPS

½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 egg, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1¼ cups sifted cake flour
¾ cup pecans, ground fine
Candied cherries for garnish

Cream shortening and sugar. Combine egg yolk with vanilla, milk and grated rinds. Add to shortening and sugar and mix well. Beat in flour and chill dough overnight.

Shape dough into small balls the size of a walnut or smaller. Roll into the slightly-beaten egg white. Coat with ground nuts. Place on greased cookie sheet and place ½ or ⅛ of a candied cherry in the center of each cookie. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Store in covered tin. Yield: about 2 dozen bookies.

BRAZIL NUT DAINTIES

⅞ cup butter (1 cup less 2 tablespoons)
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup ground Brazil Nuts

Cream butter and sugar together. Add vanilla. Work in flour, which has been sifted with baking powder, and ground nuts.

Form into rolls about one-inch in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator overnight. Slice about ¼-inch thick and bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a 300 degree oven for 22 minutes.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

½ pound butter
1 cup butter
3 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
3 cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon baking powder
½ cup milk
½ pound candied pineapple, chopped
½ pound candied cherries, cut in half
¼ pound citron, chopped
¼ pound pecans, coarsely chopped
½ pound light raisins
Grated rind and juice of ½ orange
Grated rind and juice of ½ lemon

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs and vanilla and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and beat in alternately with milk.

Add juice of orange and lemon to chopped nuts and fold into batter.

BAKE IN TWO greased bread pans in a 350 degree oven for one hour and 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven and remove cake from tins immediately. Let cool overnight. Wrap in waxed paper and store in an air-tight tin in a cool place.

These cakes are best made three weeks before using. Place in refrigerator a day or two before slicing.

Note: in last week's food column ingredients for the Tomato Soup Cake listed the amount of cloves twice. This was a typographical error.

Bake Fruit Cake Now for Holiday

Rich tasting raisin fruit cake takes on a new look of elegance when it's cut in slim fingers. This marvelous recipe is a prizewinner that's bursting with taste surprising California golden seedless raisins, candied fruits and nuts.

As with most all fruit cakes, carefully wrap and age this one in a cool place from four to six weeks before cutting.

Make fruit cake now so it will be ready for all holiday entertaining. For open house refreshments cut it in fingers to serve with eggnog. Salty nuts and colored thin mints are other good nibblers for the occasion.

GOLDEN RAISIN FRUIT CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
5 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups golden seedless raisins
½ cup diced candied pineapple
¼ cup diced candied citron
¼ cup diced candied orange peel
½ cup pecans

Beat butter until soft; gradually beat in sugar until light. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Resift flour with baking powder into egg mixture; stir only until blended. Stir in flavorings, fruits and nuts.

Turn into greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1½ hours, or until cake tests done. Cool on wire rack, Sprinkle with brandy, if desired. Carefully wrap in foil or saran.

Store 4 to 6 weeks in cool place before cutting. Makes 1 (9-inch) loaf.

For the nuptials and a reception at Fox Meadows Country Club the mothers of the couple both wore beige dresses and had orchid corsages. Mrs. Anderson's dress was fashioned of satin and Mrs. Siebert's of lace.

The newlyweds spent a short honeymoon in Kansas City belive.

Mt. Prospect Nurses' Club Extends Scholarship Fund

At the Nov. 13 meeting, Mount Prospect Nurses' Club voted to increase its nursing scholarship from $200 to $350 and make the award available to all Mount Prospect students.

In the past, a Prospect High School graduate was chosen by the school to receive the $200 scholarship. Now that Mount Prospect students are graduating from Forest View and several other high schools, the club decided to revise the scholarship program.

ANY STUDENT who is a resident of Mount Prospect and plans to enter an accredited school of nursing is eligible for this scholarship. Recipients will be chosen on the basis of their interest in nursing, scholastic standing, personal achievement and financial need.

A committee from the Mount Prospect Nurses Club will select the winner.

Application forms will be available at local high schools. Interested students may contact David Lindemann, college consultant, at Prospect High; Gerry Konetshny, guidance department, Forest View; Sister Mary Jovita, assistant principal, St. Patrick's Academy, Des Plaines; Sister Mary Columba, principal, Sacred Heart of Mary, Rolling Meadows, or Mrs. Gilbert Basnik, 392-1619, Mount Prospect Nurses Club, scholarship chairman.

Gene Ralston of Topeka served as best man, while Joseph Pickle of Colorado Springs and George Wheat, Kim Joslin and Jim Mattox, all of Wichita, ushered.

Junior groomsman was the bride's 9-year-old brother, John W. Anderson. A sister of the groom, Mrs. Judith Ann Pickle, was in charge of the guest book.

For the nuptials and a reception at Fox Meadows Country Club the mothers of the couple both wore beige dresses and had orchid corsages. Mrs. Anderson's dress was fashioned of satin and Mrs. Siebert's of lace.

The newlyweds spent a short honeymoon in Kansas City belive.

Mt. Prospect Nurses' Club Extends Scholarship Fund

At the Nov. 13 meeting, Mount Prospect Nurses' Club voted to increase its nursing scholarship from $200 to $350 and make the award available to all Mount Prospect students.

In the past, a Prospect High School graduate was chosen by the school to receive the $200 scholarship. Now that Mount Prospect students are graduating from Forest View and several other high schools, the club decided to revise the scholarship program.

ANY STUDENT who is a resident of Mount Prospect and plans to enter an accredited school of nursing is eligible for this scholarship. Recipients will be chosen on the basis of their interest in nursing, scholastic standing, personal achievement and financial need.

A committee from the Mount Prospect Nurses Club will select the winner.

Application forms will be available at local high schools. Interested students may contact David Lindemann, college consultant, at Prospect High; Gerry Konetshny, guidance department, Forest View; Sister Mary Jovita, assistant principal, St. Patrick's Academy, Des Plaines; Sister Mary Columba, principal, Sacred Heart of Mary, Rolling Meadows, or Mrs. Gilbert Basnik, 392-1619, Mount Prospect Nurses Club, scholarship chairman.

Cranberries, Chicken Combined for Pot Pie

The music's playing—the guests have arrived and the party's on. And now's the time for the hostess to come up with the piece de resistance, which will make this gathering a huge success.

She's a woman with know-how, for she's planning to serve a really elegant supper—piping hot fresh cranberry-chicken pie!

For when the pie is open, out will pop bright red fresh cranberries, as gay and festive looking as a Christmas package. And what a flavor! Par excellence.

And for other cranberry suggestions for holiday festivities, how about a fresh cranberry fruit salad? Pineapple, peaches, pears, mandarin oranges and cranberries. Try it.

And, for your liquid refreshments, cranberry juice is a great mixer, served in combinations with other beverages or a la natural.

DEEP DISH CRANBERRY Chicken Pie is as festive as it sounds and will be the piece de resistance for your colorful holiday-at-home buffet.

CRANBERRY CHICKEN PIE

(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

1 cup fresh cranberries
2 cups chicken stock or bouillon
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
2 cups light cream
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons gravy coloring
Salt and pepper to taste
4 cups diced, cooked chicken or turkey
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed
1 cup cooked sliced carrots
1 can (1 pound) whole onions, drained
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 package pie crust mix

Combine cranberries, chicken stock and chopped onion in a saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and press through a sieve. Stir in cream.

Melt butter and blend in flour. Gradually stir in strained cranberry mixture. Add gravy coloring. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Season with salt and pepper.

Combine remaining ingredients except pie crust in a shallow 3-quart casserole. Pour sauce over mixture in casserole.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. Roll out on a lightly floured surface into a circle that is about 1-inch larger than the top of the casserole.

Place pastry over filling, sealing crust to edge of casserole. Cut a few slashes in the top to allow steam to escape. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes, or until crust is golden brown.

The Way We See It

State Must Tackle Park Land Shortage

The problem of providing adequate park and recreation land in the northeastern part of Illinois is causing increasing concern.

Some groups traditionally concerned with the outdoors have been aware of the problem for some time. These include sportsmen's clubs, conservation societies, clean streams committees and the like.

Now we note a broader concern, arising as a result of what is coming to be called "the urban sprawl." As more people make their homes in the metropolitan area, the supply of open space dwindles. At the same time, more people are demanding park and recreation facilities and demanding them more often because they possess more leisure time. Here is an acute dilemma of supply and demand.

It was brought out during the recent election campaign that Illinois ranks nearly last in the amount of land per capita the state owns for parks and recreational uses. This shortage of state park land is to some extent offset by the remarkable achievement over the years of the Cook County Forest Preserve District in acquiring large tracts of land and guarding them jealously against the encroachments of commerce. However, this achievement will not be enough. The state must do its part, too.

Gov. Otto Kerner, during an interview in October at Paddock Publications, pointed out that Illinois cannot compare in buying land for recreational purposes with states like Michigan and Wisconsin, which have been able to purchase park land for only $28 or $29 an acre.

Despite vastly higher costs than this, Illinois must acquire land. But one must also acknowledge the truth of Gov. Kerner's observation that the cost of park land within easy reach of the metropolitan area will limit the amount that can be provided.

This difficult situation was discussed by Arthur A. Davis, deputy assistant commissioner for open space land in the Urban Renewal Administration, in his keynote address at the recent 37th annual conference of the Illinois Association of Park Districts and Illinois Recreation Association in Rockford.

Davis stressed the need for imagination and ingenuity in discovering new approaches to solving the problem.

"Where we have roads and highways, let's have roadside rests, foot paths, bicycle trails, landscaped areas, buffer strips, screens of trees, historical markers — let us consider these as usual concomitants of our road-building, to be included in the planning, budgeting, and construction process as normal costs of our highway system," Davis suggested.

"We will need new water supply reservoirs. Build into these projects park and recreation features. Municipal water supplies can be used for outdoor recreation. If this means certain remedial measures, as a new filtration plant, let's fight for them," he continued.

"Airports are being expanded with longer runways to handle new jets," he pointed out. "For the good of both planes and people, approach zones should be as spacious as possible. Let's not permit unwise development, such as housing sure to be blighted by the constant din of jet engines. Dedicate these areas instead to a permanent open space use — perhaps a park, perhaps an agricultural or conservation area.

"The grounds of our hospitals, libraries, court houses, municipal buildings — all can be made to contribute to breaking up the monotony of urban development, arresting blight, and giving form and identity to our communities," Davis added.

"Still other tools are available, often overlooked or untried because they are untested," he declared. "Easements, long term leases, and development rights can often be acquired at less cost and dislocation than would be the case if lands were purchased outright. Compensable regulations offer a unique approach to keeping lands in a natural condition. Tax incentives and preferential assessment, agricultural zoning — all offer promise for helping to preserve open space."

Our state, county, and local officials, as well as private groups traditionally interested in parks and recreation, must take these words to heart if the Chicago metropolitan area is to cope with the problem of providing an attractive environment for an ever-growing population.

Opportunity for GOP

The coming session of the Illinois General Assembly will be of unusual importance. There is always a tendency to bestow critical significance on whatever is current, but in the matter of the forthcoming legislative session, a legitimate case can be made for its importance.

First of all, the issues that must be considered are major ones.

One of them is reapportionment, which must be accomplished in accordance with the Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" ruling. Because this involves a transfer of power from rural and small-town areas to urban and suburban regions, its achievement will require statesmanlike leadership.

Another major issue will be revenue reform. During the election campaign, all was sweetness and light on the need for reform of the almost 100-year-old Revenue Articles, but the failure of past efforts at change suggests that statesmanlike leadership will also be needed to achieve this reform.

Education is another major issue. Gaps exist at both the common school and college level that must be closed by the legislature.

The coming session will be of particular importance to the Republican Party because of its severe defeat at the polls Nov. 3.

Of necessity, the chief voice of the Republican Party in Illinois in the months ahead will be the voice of Republicans in the General Assembly, particularly in the Senate, where the Republicans still have a majority. The legislative record written by Republicans in Springfield will form a large part of the platform Republicans must stand on in the 1966 elections.

Will it be a record of defense of the status quo? Certain lawmakers will strive for this, we can be sure from their history. But let us hope the majority of Republicans will reject the shibboleths of the Harding-Coolidge era and move forward to answer the pressing problems of today with constructive proposals.

This is the path to restoring the Republican Party to full equality under the two-party system.

Critic's Corner

The Charity 'Crisis'

By DAN BAUMANN
Staff Editor

Four incidents in the past few weeks reminded me of one more thing I have to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day.

Three of the incidents were door - to - door fund solicitations. Now I wasn't especially thankful for them—I'm a real grump about being put on the spot for a buck, whether it's by a well dressed individual on my own door step or a more seedy person on the steps of Union Station.

BAUMANN

What did remind me to be thankful, though, was the announcement two weeks ago of the launching of the United Fund Drive.

First, the unpleasantness:

THE THREE solicitors who visited our house recently were kids. One was collecting money for a high school (public, I believe) band. Another wanted support for a youths' military reserve unit. The third was collecting for the purchase of equipment at a parochial school.

With adults, I have a standard line:

"I'm sorry, I give only through the United Fund."

At this point, the dawn of recognition usually lights the eyes of the solicitor as he realizes he is confronted by a genuine Scrooge.

He may remember his instructions, summon a weak smile, and say, "Thank you, anyway." Or he may leave in a huff.

I'M NOT accustomed to losing sleep over their reactions.

But with kids, it's different. My resistence is paper thin. If they so much as flinch, I've got my wallet out.

The three kids who stopped at our house all had expensive candy as the vehicle for their fund raising. One kid got through, and as a result we enjoyed 12 pieces of good candy—for $1.50.

WE PREFER buying merchandise from merchants we recognize as having good products at competitive prices; they, too, regard their income as a worthy cause.

Aside from that, thought, I had no idea of the merit of each request. Couldn't the public school, if it was public, rely on tax funds allocated by its board of education to support its band? If not, couldn't the band members earn money by doing something productive? Couldn't the nonpublic group support its school by shaking its members a little harder, raising tuitions or, again, giving the kids some more productive activity than soliciting? Couldn't the paramilitary group, if it is a worthwhile activity, affiliate with the United Fund appeal?

Beyond even these questions, I and others who opened our doors had only the honest faces of the solicitors to assure us the money sought would go to the designated organization.

OPPOSED TO this is the United Fund method. United Fund techniques, both as far as the giver and the recipient agency are concerned, are open to legitimate criticism But the giver, ideally, knows these things when he gives through his United Fund:

1) Collection costs are relatively low. That is, a reasonable portion of his generosity will filter through administrative costs to the needy agency and, hopefully, to the individuals he hopes to help.

2) Some sort of check is provided; the United Fund has enough information about its member agency to know whether it is a legitimate charity or whether it is being used for someone's personal gain.

3) It is natural for any agency to want as much money as it can get, to do the best job it can. United Fund allows the community to apportion its charity dollar with some degree of rationality.

4) Although some United Fund agencies flagrantly violate the spirit of a common appeal by conducting secondary, individual campaigns, most do not.

THERE ARE legitimate reasons for individual money drives, but they are few—like unanticipated emergencies or the channeling of trick - or - treat activities of youngsters — which would exist in any case! — away from garbage collection and toward support of some worthwhile charity.

Some organizations are identified publicly with a distinctive collection — perhaps tied to a season or a trinket. Joining the United Fund might be a hard choice for them, but it would serve their interests in the end.

Eventually, they may recognize the advantages.

But for this year, as I survey the names of 13 agencies which belong to my local United Fund, I can be thankful knowing that whatever my townsmen and I contribute through United Fund will be apportioned in a reasonable way and knowing that for the most part these agencies will spend the rest of the year helping people instead of collecting money.

I'll be even more happy next year if that list of agencies is longer—and if the United Funds in suburbia and elsewhere are successful in reaching the goals they have announced.

A Tradition Gets the Axe

The Screwdriver Gap

By BOB CUMMINS
Managing Editor

Secretary McNamara has gone and done it. He's swung the big axe. It looks like the Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal is just about done for. What a shame!

The Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal has a terrific tradition. Why, it furnished the screwdrivers for the wagon trains Gen. Custer took with him to the Little Big Horn. It furnished screwdrivers for Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders. And Gen. Pershing's pursuit of Pancho Villa. The Argonne. Corregidor. Normandy. Inchon. In peacetime and wartime, the Sioux Juncton Screwdriver Arsenal was always on the job, ready to give the G.I. whatever screwdriver he needed to assure victory.

CUMMINS

AND NOW it's all about to end.

What a fabulous place the Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal has been! Thousands of people work there, keeping the millions of screwdrivers sorted out properly. Big screwdrivers and little ones. Long ones and short. Round handles and square handles. Hexagonal and octagonal. Red, blue, yellow, green, purple. Screwdrivers for the infantry, the artillery, the engineers, the tanks.

Maybe they did too good a job. Maybe that was the trouble. "Why do you need so many screwdrivers?" McNamara wanted to know. Isn't that just like a civilian? What does he know about the great military traditons? When they make everyone use the same type of screwdriver, can you imagine what that's going to do to morale?

THIS THING is going to hit Sioux Junction pretty hard. Rep. Clyde Dankwort, Sioux Junction's congressman, is simply sick about the whole thing. The screwdriver arsenal was a big part of his life.

This election was the 16th time he had campaigned up and down the district on his screwdriver arsenal platform. "Vote for me and wipe out the screwdriver gap!" he kept pleading with the folks. And they backed him up—16 times. Yes, 16 times and 16 million screwdrivers worth. Nothing's too good for our boys in uniform.

This may be the end of Clyde Dankwort. And that just goes to show you how shortsighted it is to close down the screwdriver arsenal.

WHY, CLYDE Dankwort has been one of the best fighters in Congress for the good old American virtues. "Let every man stand on his own two feet," Clyde always said. None of this social welfare pap for Clyde, you can bet on that. "These government handouts will rot a man's moral fibre quicker than anything," Clyde always said.

Now Clyde's career lies in wreckage. They've just cleared the way for the big-government, big-spending crowd to march over Clyde's prostrate body in their ruthless quest for power.

It makes me wonder what this country is coming to.

Press Award For Cummins

The Illinois Press Association this week paid honor to Bob Cummins, managing editor of Paddock Publication, for "Best Original Column" in the 1964 Illinois Newspaper Contest.

In selecting Cummins for third place award in competition with weekly and daily newspapers throughout the state, judges described his weekly column of satirical comment as "appealing to the universal funnybone." Other winners were the LaSalle Daily News-Tribune and the Harrisbury Daily Register.

Hike Driver Age Limits?

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Editor

People have varying opinions on whether or not the age to obtain a driver's license in Illinois should be raised from 16 to 18.

When questioned by a Paddock Publications inquiring reporter, some who favored an age increase noted they opposed a change when they were 16, but with increased age and experience find themselves in favor of the increase.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, 648 Walnut Court, Des Plaines, said, "I don't think it should be changed. I learned to drive when I was 14. The safety knowledge one has does not depend on age."

SAM MEISTER of Skokie said, "It should be increased to 18. At 16, kids aren't mature enough. They should at least be of voting age, have a goal, be earning a dollar and know what responsibility is."

Mrs. Gordon Anderson of Barrington said, "It should be raised to 18, but how would you stop them from driving. Kids are more responsible at that age than at 16."

"I don't feel 16 is so bad. But, there are a lot driving under 16. I do not feel 16 is the age of responsiblity. They don't feel the responsibility they should have," said F. M. Brasch, 1909 Bonita Ave., Mount Prospect. "Yes, I feel it should be raised. There are probably some exceptions, but each case should be handled separately."

HAROLD G. Appleby, 203 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, said, "I feel that if children were unable to drive until 18, it would have worked a hardship in our family."

John R. Hanus, 1212 White St., Des Plaines, said "I think it should be raised There would be some effect on the kids between 16 and 18 who have their licenses when the law was passed, with some having licenses and other unable to get them. I think the additional age would make them more responsible."

Swinford

Mrs. Syme Ako, 4991 Wilke Road, Rolling Meadows, said, "Yes, it should be raised to 18. We have too many teen-aged drivers on the streets now. They should be more adult and more mature before they get the license."

Pat Kennedy, 15 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, said "When I was 16 I didn't think it should be raised. But now that I'm older and listen to the stories these kids tell about what they do when their folks aren't around, why I think it should be raised to 18."

MRS. MARY W. Brock, 661 Grosvener, Elk Grove Village, said "I feel 16 is all right provided the child is properly trained. In this I include driver training and parents seeing their children respect the power and know how to handle it. I feel it is more of a parental responsibility than a public responsibility."

Mrs. A. E. McNamara, 245 Harmony Lane, Elk Grove Village, said. "It should be raised. I have seen too many 16-year-olds killed. I know one that has been paralyzed for 10 years. I would hope the additional two years would give a sense of responsibility."

Warren Petrie, 123 Blecke of Addison said, "No I don't think it should be raised because the 18-year-olds can do the same things the 16 year-olds can do and they wait longer to do it. Besides, they have more parental supervision. I think there would be more car thefts if the age was raised to 18."

What did remind me to be thankful, though, was the announcement two weeks ago of the launching of the United Fund Drive.

First, the unpleasantness:

THE THREE solicitors who visited our house recently were kids. One was collecting money for a high school (public, I believe) band. Another wanted support for a youths' military reserve unit. The third was collecting for the purchase of equipment at a parochial school.

With adults, I have a standard line:

"I'm sorry, I give only through the United Fund."

At this point, the dawn of recognition usually lights the eyes of the solicitor as he realizes he is confronted by a genuine Scrooge.

He may remember his instructions, summon a weak smile, and say, "Thank you, anyway." Or he may leave in a huff.

I'M NOT accustomed to losing sleep over their reactions.

But with kids, it's different. My resistence is paper thin. If they so much as flinch, I've got my wallet out.

The three kids who stopped at our house all had expensive candy as the vehicle for their fund raising. One kid got through, and as a result we enjoyed 12 pieces of good candy—for $1.50.

WE PREFER buying merchandise from merchants we recognize as having good products at competitive prices; they, too, regard their income as a worthy cause.

Aside from that, thought, I had no idea of the merit of each request. Couldn't the public school, if it was public, rely on tax funds allocated by its board of education to support its band? If not, couldn't the band members earn money by doing something productive? Couldn't the nonpublic group support its school by shaking its members a little harder, raising tuitions or, again, giving the kids some more productive activity than soliciting? Couldn't the paramilitary group, if it is a worthwhile activity, affiliate with the United Fund appeal?

Beyond even these questions, I and others who opened our doors had only the honest faces of the solicitors to assure us the money sought would go to the designated organization.

OPPOSED TO this is the United Fund method. United Fund techniques, both as far as the giver and the recipient agency are concerned, are open to legitimate criticism But the giver, ideally, knows these things when he gives through his United Fund:

1) Collection costs are relatively low. That is, a reasonable portion of his generosity will filter through administrative costs to the needy agency and, hopefully, to the individuals he hopes to help.

2) Some sort of check is provided; the United Fund has enough information about its member agency to know whether it is a legitimate charity or whether it is being used for someone's personal gain.

3) It is natural for any agency to want as much money as it can get, to do the best job it can. United Fund allows the community to apportion its charity dollar with some degree of rationality.

4) Although some United Fund agencies flagrantly violate the spirit of a common appeal by conducting secondary, individual campaigns, most do not.

THERE ARE legitimate reasons for individual money drives, but they are few—like unanticipated emergencies or the channeling of trick - or - treat activities of youngsters — which would exist in any case! — away from garbage collection and toward support of some worthwhile charity.

Some organizations are identified publicly with a distinctive collection — perhaps tied to a season or a trinket. Joining the United Fund might be a hard choice for them, but it would serve their interests in the end.

Eventually, they may recognize the advantages.

But for this year, as I survey the names of 13 agencies which belong to my local United Fund, I can be thankful knowing that whatever my townsmen and I contribute through United Fund will be apportioned in a reasonable way and knowing that for the most part these agencies will spend the rest of the year helping people instead of collecting money.

I'll be even more happy next year if that list of agencies is longer—and if the United Funds in suburbia and elsewhere are successful in reaching the goals they have announced.

A Tradition Gets the Axe

The Screwdriver Gap

By BOB CUMMINS
Managing Editor

Secretary McNamara has gone and done it. He's swung the big axe. It looks like the Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal is just about done for. What a shame!

The Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal has a terrific tradition. Why, it furnished the screwdrivers for the wagon trains Gen. Custer took with him to the Little Big Horn. It furnished screwdrivers for Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders. And Gen. Pershing's pursuit of Pancho Villa. The Argonne. Corregidor. Normandy. Inchon. In peacetime and wartime, the Sioux Juncton Screwdriver Arsenal was always on the job, ready to give the G.I. whatever screwdriver he needed to assure victory.

CUMMINS

AND NOW it's all about to end.

What a fabulous place the Sioux Junction Screwdriver Arsenal has been! Thousands of people work there, keeping the millions of screwdrivers sorted out properly. Big screwdrivers and little ones. Long ones and short. Round handles and square handles. Hexagonal and octagonal. Red, blue, yellow, green, purple. Screwdrivers for the infantry, the artillery, the engineers, the tanks.

Maybe they did too good a job. Maybe that was the trouble. "Why do you need so many screwdrivers?" McNamara wanted to know. Isn't that just like a civilian? What does he know about the great military traditons? When they make everyone use the same type of screwdriver, can you imagine what that's going to do to morale?

THIS THING is going to hit Sioux Junction pretty hard. Rep. Clyde Dankwort, Sioux Junction's congressman, is simply sick about the whole thing. The screwdriver arsenal was a big part of his life.

This election was the 16th time he had campaigned up and down the district on his screwdriver arsenal platform. "Vote for me and wipe out the screwdriver gap!" he kept pleading with the folks. And they backed him up—16 times. Yes, 16 times and 16 million screwdrivers worth. Nothing's too good for our boys in uniform.

This may be the end of Clyde Dankwort. And that just goes to show you how shortsighted it is to close down the screwdriver arsenal.

WHY, CLYDE Dankwort has been one of the best fighters in Congress for the good old American virtues. "Let every man stand on his own two feet," Clyde always said. None of this social welfare pap for Clyde, you can bet on that. "These government handouts will rot a man's moral fibre quicker than anything," Clyde always said.

Now Clyde's career lies in wreckage. They've just cleared the way for the big-government, big-spending crowd to march over Clyde's prostrate body in their ruthless quest for power.

It makes me wonder what this country is coming to.

Press Award For Cummins

The Illinois Press Association this week paid honor to Bob Cummins, managing editor of Paddock Publication, for "Best Original Column" in the 1964 Illinois Newspaper Contest.

In selecting Cummins for third place award in competition with weekly and daily newspapers throughout the state, judges described his weekly column of satirical comment as "appealing to the universal funnybone." Other winners were the LaSalle Daily News-Tribune and the Harrisbury Daily Register.

Hike Driver Age Limits?

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Editor

People have varying opinions on whether or not the age to obtain a driver's license in Illinois should be raised from 16 to 18.

When questioned by a Paddock Publications inquiring reporter, some who favored an age increase noted they opposed a change when they were 16, but with increased age and experience find themselves in favor of the increase.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, 648 Walnut Court, Des Plaines, said, "I don't think it should be changed. I learned to drive when I was 14. The safety knowledge one has does not depend on age."

SAM MEISTER of Skokie said, "It should be increased to 18. At 16, kids aren't mature enough. They should at least be of voting age, have a goal, be earning a dollar and know what responsibility is."

Mrs. Gordon Anderson of Barrington said, "It should be raised to 18, but how would you stop them from driving. Kids are more responsible at that age than at 16."

"I don't feel 16 is so bad. But, there are a lot driving under 16. I do not feel 16 is the age of responsiblity. They don't feel the responsibility they should have," said F. M. Brasch, 1909 Bonita Ave., Mount Prospect. "Yes, I feel it should be raised. There are probably some exceptions, but each case should be handled separately."

HAROLD G. Appleby, 203 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, said, "I feel that if children were unable to drive until 18, it would have worked a hardship in our family."

John R. Hanus, 1212 White St., Des Plaines, said "I think it should be raised There would be some effect on the kids between 16 and 18 who have their licenses when the law was passed, with some having licenses and other unable to get them. I think the additional age would make them more responsible."

Swinford

Mrs. Syme Ako, 4991 Wilke Road, Rolling Meadows, said, "Yes, it should be raised to 18. We have too many teen-aged drivers on the streets now. They should be more adult and more mature before they get the license."

Pat Kennedy, 15 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, said "When I was 16 I didn't think it should be raised. But now that I'm older and listen to the stories these kids tell about what they do when their folks aren't around, why I think it should be raised to 18."

MRS. MARY W. Brock, 661 Grosvener, Elk Grove Village, said "I feel 16 is all right provided the child is properly trained. In this I include driver training and parents seeing their children respect the power and know how to handle it. I feel it is more of a parental responsibility than a public responsibility."

Mrs. A. E. McNamara, 245 Harmony Lane, Elk Grove Village, said. "It should be raised. I have seen too many 16-year-olds killed. I know one that has been paralyzed for 10 years. I would hope the additional two years would give a sense of responsibility."

Warren Petrie, 123 Blecke of Addison said, "No I don't think it should be raised because the 18-year-olds can do the same things the 16 year-olds can do and they wait longer to do it. Besides, they have more parental supervision. I think there would be more car thefts if the age was raised to 18."

Does This Make Sense?

If we make wills and plan for retirement years ahead, why not also plan funeral arrangements in advance? More families are using our Pre-Arrangement Plan now than ever before in our history.

'Die Cast on Percy Strategy Before Goldwater Nominated'

I am writing this in response to the editorial comment entitled "Election Message for GOP is Clear" which appeared in the Nov. 12 issue. The constructive comments as to what must be the course of the Republican Party in the future are very much in order and I think will be heeded by most Republicans.

Certainly the defeat was of such dimensions across the entire country that responsible party leaders must develop a new concept and proposals to present to the American people along with the traditional well-established Republican principles which the party cannot forsake.

Speaking only for myself, I intend to spend all the time I possibly can reshaping the image and the message of the Republican party so that it can generate a greater appeal for people in all walks of life throughout this country.

I do, however, want to draw particular attention to certain comments you made with respect to Barry Goldwater's candidacy and the position that Charles Percy, and other Republican leaders too, took with respect to that candidacy. Hindsight has its great advantage, but it is so very important not to lose our sense of perspective on the facts as they unfolded in the course of the past year.

I think most objective minds would agree that the things which occurred which tended to hurt Mr. Goldwater's candidacy happened, for the most part, during the Republican convention or thereafter. The one exception, obviously, was the Civil Rights vote, which took place prior to the Republican convention. Some would argue that the harmful decisions or statements were mistakes. Others might argue they were misinterpretations. But in any event, the things that contributed primarily to Goldwater's defeat occurred subsequent to the convention.

It is no particular mystery to me that Republicans in the 13th Congressional District desired a conservative candidate. This was a perfectly legitimate desire on their part as the district tends to be conservative in its political makeup. The conversation battle will range for a long time as to whether or not the American voters across this country were rejecting a philosophy, or a kind of campaign, or the man.

In my opinion it is completely erroneous to assume that the country was rejecting the conservative philosophy in its entirety and that Mr. Johnson was handed a mandate for a more liberal program.

When a man is down it is so easy to see everything in a bad light, but the fact remains that there are many admirable qualities in Barry Goldwater and he seemed to represent much that was good.

Though it has been said many times over in an 18-month period, it is still apparent that memories are short when it comes to political figures and their actions.

With respect to Charles Percy's position in the presidential campaign, the fact is that this position was established 18 months ago when neither Mr. Goldwater nor any other Republican was clearly in line as the presidential nominee. When Mr. Percy announced for governor he made it very clear that he would run on state issues, he hoped and prayed that he would be judged on his own merits, and he clearly indicated that he would not state a presidential preference in the primary but would support the candidate chosen by the Republican party. This was a pledge he made and this was pledge he kept.

As a team-player he supported Barry Goldwater in this campaign and Illinois did not have a Romney or a Keating.

There was a perfect understanding at the upper levels of the Percy and Goldwater campaigns and an unpublicized but substantial amount of cooperation. Much of the trouble which occurred developed at the grassroots level where many of the supporters of both Percy and Goldwater did not try to take time to understand the positions of the other man. This, I think, is the situation that is bound to occur when two or more outstanding candidates appear on the same ticket.

My only criticism of the strong Goldwater supporters is that they completely failed to understand that Chuck Percy is his own man, was engaged in a campaign directed at state and not national issues, and was dedicated to win or lose on the proposition that he be judged on his own merits and not on the merits of another candidate. Because Percy had the drive and the popularity to conduct a distinctive campaign on his own, this was interpreted by too many Goldwater supporters as showing a lack of enthusiasm for Barry Goldwater.

The point I am basically trying to make is that the die was cast for the strategy and direction of the Percy campaign long before the national candidate was chosen. Actually it is a fact that at the time Percy was making this decision it was thought by most people across the country that Nelson Rockefeller would be the candidate for president. Reviewing the total picture with these facts in mind presents, I think, a new dimension for your consideration and evaluation.

Asks Contest To Pick Best Male Helpmate

I have just finished reading about all the wonderful dedicated women who were nominated for the Suburban Homemaker title. As I'm lying here in bed (recuperating from the flu) and listening to the sounds from the kitchen as my husband cleans up after preparing dinner, I really had an idea. Why not have the same kind of a contest for the Suburban Male who helps his wife to be the worker she is?

I'll bet that each one of these women has a husband who is an enthusiastic backer of her interests and talents. He knows that if his wife can blossom out in her own fields of interests and talents she will be a happier wife and mother and the community and country will benefit from her services inside and outside of the home.

If you should start such a contest, I would like to be the first to nominate a candidate. That would be my husband who would more than qualify for the title.

'Let's Keep Politics Out Of Our Schools'

A paperback book, "Shaping Educational Policy" by Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, is being published on Nov. 16. In it, Dr. Conant sharply criticizes Illinois schools because of their entanglement in partisan politics.

We have recently observed an incident in which some of our own young people were exploited for political ballyhoo. When some of the heat of the controversy has died down, I wonder if the Board would not consider it wise to reconsider the wording of its policy on band and personnel participation in certain activities.

There is no question of good intent, but Board membership changes, band personnel changes, parents "graduate" with their children; even principals come and go. Today's interpretations are not necessarily tomorrow's. Let's keep politics out of our schools.

Nature Group To Preserve Prairie Land

Pine Rock and its native prairie, located about four miles east of Oregon, Ill., on Highway 64, has been bought by the Illinois Chapter of the Nature conservancy, a nation-wide, member-supported organization whose sole purpose is the saving of natural land so that our children and their children can see what our country was like before the white man came.

Illinois is a Prairie State, yet most of our prairies have been plowed up for cultivation. Pine Rock prairie escaped this fate, thanks to the former owner, Mr. Alonzo Miller, who will continue to live in his home on the property.

The regulations which govern all property acquired by The Nature Conservancy require that there be no use or activity which will destroy the natural conditions. Students, Scouts, bird watchers, nature photographers and nature lovers will be admitted as soon as trails can be laid out. All visitors will be required to sign a guest book. There will be no picnicking and no littering.

To buy the land, the Illinois Chapter had to borrow $10,000 and a campaign is now under way to repay this loan by public subscription. Only about $4,000 have been raised to date. If you wish to help in this worthy cause, make your check payable to the Illinois Chapter, The Nature Conservancy, Pine Rock, project and mail to the Treasurer, Mr. Elliott Donnelley, Lakeside Press, 2223 S. Parkway, Chicago, Ill. 60616.

If you contribute $5 or more, you will become a member of the organization and will receive all its literature.

Its work is growing by leaps and bounds. It is the only national conservation organization which buys, or receives by donation, pieces of natural land to preserve them for future generations. It has saved over 40,000 acres of land, numbering 121 reserves, valued at over $6,000,000, and has more than 100 projects in process of being saved. All work of the Illinois Chapter is done by volunteers, so your total donation goes for buying wild land — forests, swamps, bogs, river valleys, ponds and prairies.

Comments on Church-State Separation

I wonder—

As long as we're being rdiculous about church-state separation—how is it someone hasn't made it illegal to display the American flag in and around our churches? We really should abolish Thanksgiving as a national holiday too—all those schools and Federal offices closed on the day we set aside to thank God might tend to blur the separation a little.

Lists Flaws in Philosophy of Birch Society

I have been told that many north suburban residents are considering joining the John Birch Society. Before they do I urge them to think over these four points.

First, literally hundreds of civilian and military men's careers were ruined in 1948 during the Joe McCarthy era. Mere innuendo and quasi-accusations due to past associations made these men hands-off items no matter how innocent they were. Others became afraid to hire or associate with them out of fear for themselves. It could happen again. Only this time in reverse. In fact President Johnson in his recent campaign predicted exposure of "extremist" groups to "pull their robes open" so all could see.

Secondly, while many well intentioned members of the society believe they are preserving the traditions and philosophies of our founding fathers, they are in truth tearing them down. Organizations of this type, either left or right, absolutely refuse to tolerate opposition in any form. Remember, America was founded as a refuge where all men, regardless of their leanings, could find a sanctuary to express their beliefs. Extremist organizations are not formed to tolerate opposition but to eliminate it. This is against all of the principles we stand for.

Thirdly, as long as the John Birch Society rallies around Robert Welch as their titular head they will be a discredited organization. Such claims of Welch's that great American leaders like President Eisenhower, John Foster Dullas, General George Marshall and President Truman were conscious dedicated communists or unconscious agents of a Soviet conspiracy to take over the United States is completely ridiculous and refuted by the American people. Membership in this group appears to be an endorsement of Welch and his followers who are the backbone of the group. No matter how hard members try and divorce policy from Welch, he is still considered their leader.

Fourth, after 19 years, the world and the United States sees signs of a relaxing of tensions and the possibility of eventual world peace. And not just on the communists' terms either. Many fear this and would rather maintain the status quo of suspicion, tension and hate. They are afraid of the future. Afraid of world peace. Afraid of the ability of the American people to hang on to their freedom and maintain their capitalistic way of life. They give the communists more credit than they deserve and the American people not enough.

Those who want to work to preserve freedom and our American traditions should devote their time and efforts to effective organizations operating through American principles and accepted by the American public. Until the day comes that a person can say with pride to all people that he or she is a member of the John Birch Society, that organization doesn't deserve their support. And I, like most Americans, do not think that day has arrived.

Congratulates Pribilski on His Column

May I congratulate Mr. Pribilski on his editorial concerning the racial issue in the suburbs (Nov. 12). Since reading this, I have made a small survey among my friends and neighbors. Inevitably they agree—to a certain point. There is always a "but" involved, and this is where we fall down as Christians, and as truly good Americans.

I have been told by one person that I am one of a very small group concerned with the moral issue here, and that, unfortunately, the almighty dollar is of more concern than the Almighty. I would like to think this untrue.

I am not trying to foster or support a token move of Negroes, backed by a group, to the suburbs. I think Mr. Pribilski is entirely correct when he states that as industry grows, the Negroes will be seeking better housing, which they can afford, close to their jobs. This is their right.

To quote from Harry Golden's book, "Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes"—"At this advanced date people everywhere are still saying, What will the Negro want next? When we give him this, will he want that? When, O when, will he ever be satisfied? The lack of communication has completely insulated them. They do not realize that what the Negro wants is not theirs to give—in fact, they have nothing to give that was not the Negroes' on the day he or she was born on American soil."

May I suggest that we would all profit by reading this book.

The question is this—Are we ready to act as intelligent Americans and practicing Christians, to accept the Negro peaceably and with the courtesy and kindness due our fellow man? Or will we fall flat on our faces?

May I congratulate Mr. Pribilski on his editorial concerning the racial issue in the suburbs (Nov. 12). Since reading this, I have made a small survey among my friends and neighbors. Inevitably they agree —to a certain point. There is always a "but" involved, and this is where we fall down as Christians, and as truly good Americans.

I have been told by one person that I am one of a very small group concerned with the moral issue here, and that, unfortunately, the almighty dollar is of more concern than the Almighty. I would like to think this untrue.

I am not trying to foster or support a token move of Negroes, backed by a group, to the suburbs. I think Mr. Pribilski is entirely correct when he states that as industry grows, the Negroes will be seeking better housing, which they can afford, close to their jobs. This is their right.

To quote from Harry Golden's book, "Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes"—"At this advanced date people everywhere are still saying, What will the Negro want next? When we give him this, will he want that? When, O when, will he ever be satisfied? The lack of communication has completely insulated them. They do not realize that what the Negro wants is not theirs to give—in fact, they have nothing to give that was not the Negroes' on the day he or she was born on American soil."

May I suggest that we would all profit by reading this book.

The question is this—Are we ready to act as intelligent Americans and practicing Christians, to accept the Negro peaceably and with the courtesy and kindness due our fellow man? Or will we fall flat on our faces?

DEADLINES

Classified advertising now appearing in Thursday editions can also be scheduled in Sunday Suburbanite at the same time at advantageous discount. No classified advertising will be accepted for just the Sunday Suburbanite, without also appearing in the Thursday editions.

Tuesday at 3 p.m. for Thursday editions, and for Thursday-Sunday combination. Ads received until 10 a.m. Wednesday will appear in "Too late to Classify" section of Thursday edition. Thursday at Noon for Sunday Suburbanite for Sunday-Thursday insertions.

RATES

Reader classified rates: 20c a word first insertion, 17c a word repeated consecutive insertions. Minimum charge for any ad $2.00.

Display classified rates: $4.90 per col. inch first insertion, $4.20 per col. inch repeated consecutive insertions.

We also offer a contract rate to display classified advertisers. Special introductory offer, for limited time only, 50% discount on classified advertising appearing in the Sunday Suburbanite in addition to the Thursday editions.

BLIND ADS

A $1 service charge will be made for all ads when replies are to be received through this newspaper.

ADJUSTMENTS

If your ad appears incorrectly, notify us immediately. We accept responsibility for the first incorrect insertion only. Such responsibility is limited to such a proportion of the entire cost of the advertisement as the space occupied by the error bears to the entire space of the advertisement.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Ads will be taken over the telephone on a charge basis if the advertiser is listed in the phone book, or a subscriber to one of our newspapers. All ads appearing under "Situations Wanted" classification must be paid in advance.

KNITTERS

SKIING — This weather really brings it to mind. And what would be more fun than a new Hand-Knit Ski Sweater — one made in a few hours. If you want to be first with the newest, Toros is it! A new heavy yarn — beautiful to look at — fun to knit — wonderful texture. And of course for quick knits, we also have Homespun (a plain yarn) and Skandia. Make any one of these on your Thanksgiving vacation.

KNITTERS

SKIING — This weather really brings it to mind. And what would be more fun than a new Hand-Knit Ski Sweater — one made in a few hours. If you want to be first with the newest, Toros is it! A new heavy yarn — beautiful to look at — fun to knit — wonderful texture. And of course for quick knits, we also have Homespun (a plain yarn) and Skandia. In Appreciation

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Margaret Brennan.
I dream of you, dear loved one,
And see your smiling face,
And know that you are happy
In your Father's chosen place.
Loving Father, Fred Siese.

At St. Catherine

Susan Alm of 223 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, is one of two senior nursing students at the College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minn., to receive undergraduate traineeships in psyciatric nursing from the National Institute of Mental Health.

The grant is $2,560 for the senior year, covering tuition and fees plus additional monthly support. The students were selected on basis of their aptitude for psychiatric nursing, academic records, and intention to pursue graduate study in psychiatric nursing. 10CC

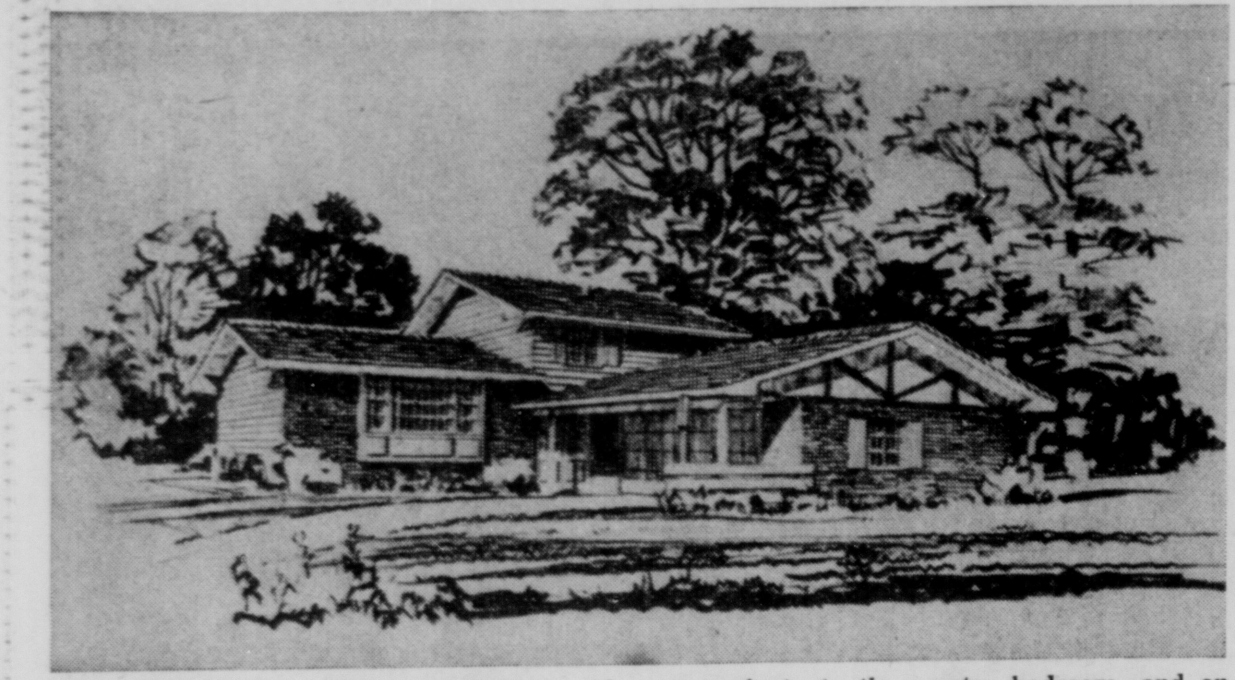
Expressway Saves Time For Countryside Dwellers



DESIGNED AFTER THE country house of Colonial America, the "Homestead" offers the visitor with rambling comfort. A concept of Albert Riley Builders, features are distinctive both inside and out, including two baths, one private to the master bedroom, and an unusually large powder room. The model may be seen daily in Plum Grove Countryside on Route 53, two miles south of Palatine.

(10 BB

With the opening of the new three-mile expressway segment of Illinois Route 53 between the Northwest Tollway and U.S. Route 14, residents of Plum Grove Countryside, two miles south of Palatine, are now enjoying additional convenience of location and transportation.

Al Riley, builder of Plum Grove Countryside, said, "For today's home buyers, transportation advantage is judged not so much by miles as by time required on the road. With this new Route 53 expressway segment only two blocks away, home owners here now save valuable time driving in any direction."

THE BUILDER noted that it was only one mile, via Expressway 53, from Plum Grove Countryside to the Northwest Tollway—with average driving time to Chicago's Loop now about 30 minutes. The new express section of Route 53 puts residents still closer, in time, to frequently visited points such as O'Hare Field, Randhurst Shopping Plaza, Arlington Park and surrounding towns.

"The train ride from Palatine to the Loop is still unchanged at 32 minutes," said Riley. "But plenty of wives around here really appreciate this new convenient stretch of expressway when driving their husbands to the station. It now takes only five minutes or so, and they can drive directly to the station."

Among home designs offered in Plum Grove Countryside is the "Homestead House." Exterior styling of this split-level is reminiscent of the gentleman's country house of Colonial America. Brick and wood are attractively blended. Eye-catching touches include multi-paned colonial windows, antique house lamp and wide double doors.

An extension of the gabled roof forms a portico that protects both front entry and the entrance to the attached garage. Inside, the foyer is big and square, with traffic immediately dispersed to living, family and utility rooms and to the upper-level sleeping area.

THE LIVING room, three steps up from the foyer, features a Colonial-styled bay window in the front wall. The adjacent dining room has a room-wide window at the rear.

The family room, taking up one corner of the house, is connected to the kitchen by a short corridor. On one side is the unusually large powder room; on the other is a large utility closest. On the upper level, the three bedrooms and main bath open onto a large, centered hallway. The master bedroom has two separate closets and its own private bathroom.

The "Homestead House" and other designs are open to visitors daily 11 a.m. till 6 p.m.

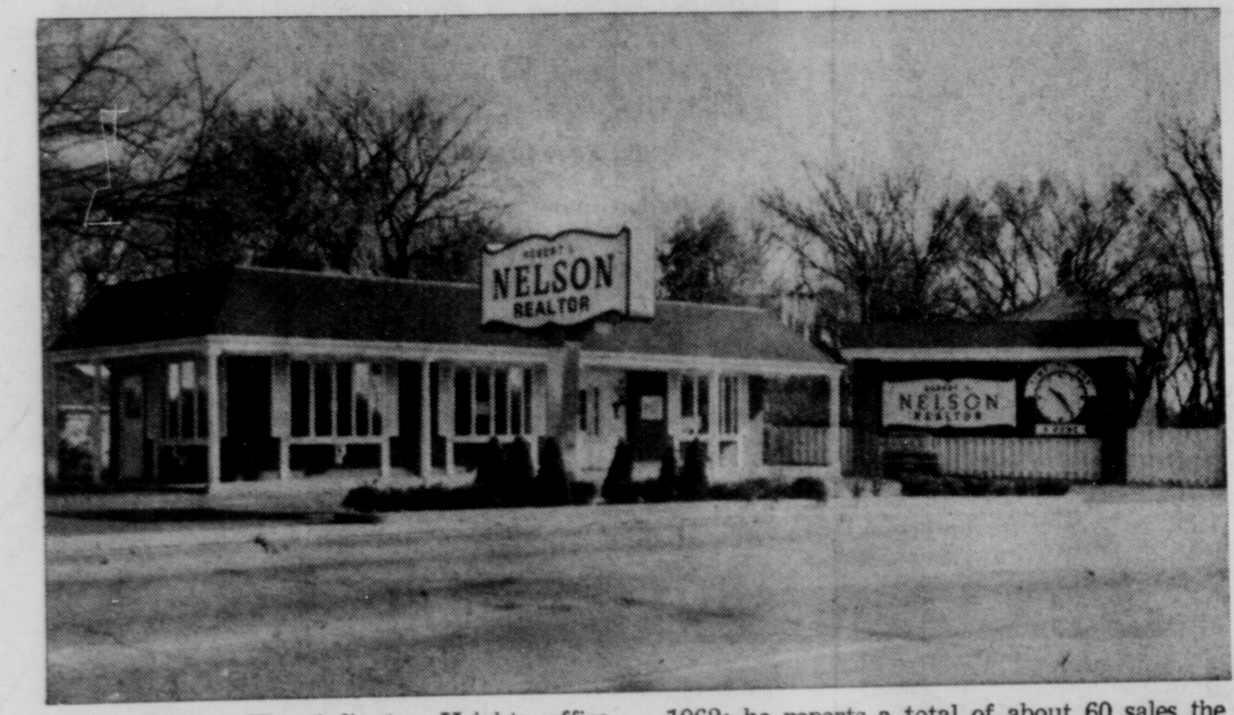
BEFORE: The building at 300 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, was occupied until more than a year ago by United Automotive. After that firm moved out, the structure was purchased by realtor Robert L. Nelson, who had offices at 550 W. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, and at 6 W. Northwest Highway, Mount Prospect. Renovation was begun . . .



AND AFTER: The Arlington Heights office was moved to the new location last June 1. But official opening of the doors at the new office will be tomorrow (Friday) during Grand Opening Day. Nelson, who was graduated from Arlington High School and has lived in the community for 21 years, has been in real estate about 10 years. He opened the Mount Prospect office in early 1958, the Arlington office in 1962; he reports a total of about 60 sales the first year, predicts they will run close to 360 this year. The staff now includes 19 persons. Nelson is a past president of MAP multiple listing, a director of the First National Bank in Mount Prospect and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, and a member of the Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce.

Consumer Protection

Stop Him If You've Heard That Before

BY WILLIAM G. CLARK
Attorney General

Our consumer fraud office has been in operation just 3 years, while confidence men dedicated to swindling others have developed many devious tricks over the centuries.

The Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Chicago reports there are over 800 ways to be taken in by such tricks.

While the approach of merchandising pirates has been called a "hard sell," it is actually a "soft sell."

And although house-to-house soliciting is known as "direct" selling, the fraudulent salesman's approach is so indirect he prepares you to welcome him into your home as a personal friend. Frequently he gains your sympathy for his supposed situation.

The successful "con artist" is actually a smooth talker, very striking in appearance, who wears flashy or continental clothes. His aim is to get into your living room on a first name basis. Before you know it, you're inviting him in, pouring him a drink, or offering him a cigarette.

SHOULD YOU get to this point with any salesman, stop him if he pusues any of the following approaches:

—Says he is "not selling anything."

—Tells you he will use your home as a "model" and retire the cost of your siding contract.

—Says that you and he will be partners, and you will make more than the cost of the vacuum, television, movie equipment, stereo, whatever, by referring your friends.

—Dangles a "golden opportunity," such as "this offer is only good today."

—Says his firm will handle the financing.

—Wants you to sign a contract he will fill in later.

—Represents that his prices are "wholesale."

—Wants to give you a lifetime membrship" or a "lifetime service guarantee."

—Insists on consummating the deal without giving you time to check with the Better Business Bureau or local Chamber of Commerce.

Refuses or hedges on putting his promises in writing on the contract.

Scares you into building or furnace repairs by representing that yours are in hazardous condition.

DURING THE PAST 3 years many of my assistants have devoted their own leisure hours to a continuing program of consumer education. They have addressed school and church groups, fraternal and social clubs, civic improvements and homeowner organizations, business management and union representatives in an attempt to alert their membership to the patterns of deceptive selling.

As investigations and hearings held with duped consumers reveal more and more tricks of the various trades, we continue to relay the information to the consumers with the cooperation of this newspaper and the various other new media in the state.

BY OUTLINING the frills by which pattern operators peddle their wares and the foibles characteristic of the merchandise or service they offer, we hope to make Illinois the least fertile field for their operations and provide a healthy climate for legitimate businesses.

The work cannot be accomplished by efforts of my office alone. It requires continued cooperation from alert citizenry who are interested enough in the good of their community and others to call the local Chamber of Commerce and report the activities of such salesmen.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Abbott started his career with Shell as clerk in the marketing service department in 1949, then served as sales representative and merchandising representative. He has been sales supervisor in the Chicago north district since 1958.

He and his wife, Anne, have eight children, including two sets of twins, ranging in age from 14 to 4 years. 10BB

Megown Selected Nutrition Manager

John W. Megon of 2403 Fulle, Rolling Meadows, has been promoted to the position of manager, nutritional services, of the Morton Salt Co. Agricultural Division.

The move reflects a growing recognition of the need for more and better nutritional services brought about by the recent introduction of Morton's complete line of mineral mixture feed supplements, according to the agricultural division marketing manager, Ben W. Carrington Jr.

Megown has served as a nutritionist with Morton since 1959. Prior to that he held key agricultural and feed research positions with other organizations.

HE IS A graduate of the University of Missouri with a master of science degree in animal nutrition and animal breeding. He is also a graduate of the Chicago Grain Exchange Institute's course in grain marketing, and he has studied at Northwestern University.

He and, his wife, Dorothy, have a son, Jeffrey.

Consumer Protection

Stop Him If You've Heard That Before

BY WILLIAM G. CLARK
Attorney General

Our consumer fraud office has been in operation just 3 years, while confidence men dedicated to swindling others have developed many devious tricks over the centuries.

The Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Chicago reports there are over 800 ways to be taken in by such tricks.

While the approach of merchandising pirates has been called a "hard sell," it is actually a "soft sell."

And although house-to-house soliciting is known as "direct" selling, the fraudulent salesman's approach is so indirect he prepares you to welcome him into your home as a personal friend. Frequently he gains your sympathy for his supposed situation.

The successful "con artist" is actually a smooth talker, very striking in appearance, who wears flashy or continental clothes. His aim is to get into your living room on a first name basis. Before you know it, you're inviting him in, pouring him a drink, or offering him a cigarette.

SHOULD YOU get to this point with any salesman, stop him if he pusues any of the following approaches:

—Says he is "not selling anything."

—Tells you he will use your home as a "model" and retire the cost of your siding contract.

—Says that you and he will be partners, and you will make more than the cost of the vacuum, television, movie equipment, stereo, whatever, by referring your friends.

—Dangles a "golden opportunity," such as "this offer is only good today."

—Says his firm will handle the financing.

—Wants you to sign a contract he will fill in later.

—Represents that his prices are "wholesale."

—Wants to give you a lifetime membrship" or a "lifetime service guarantee."

—Insists on consummating the deal without giving you time to check with the Better Business Bureau or local Chamber of Commerce.

Refuses or hedges on putting his promises in writing on the contract.

Scares you into building or furnace repairs by representing that yours are in hazardous condition.

DURING THE PAST 3 years many of my assistants have devoted their own leisure hours to a continuing program of consumer education. They have addressed school and church groups, fraternal and social clubs, civic improvements and homeowner organizations, business management and union representatives in an attempt to alert their membership to the patterns of deceptive selling.

As investigations and hearings held with duped consumers reveal more and more tricks of the various trades, we continue to relay the information to the consumers with the cooperation of this newspaper and the various other new media in the state.

BY OUTLINING the frills by which pattern operators peddle their wares and the foibles characteristic of the merchandise or service they offer, we hope to make Illinois the least fertile field for their operations and provide a healthy climate for legitimate businesses.

The work cannot be accomplished by efforts of my office alone. It requires continued cooperation from alert citizenry who are interested enough in the good of their community and others to call the local Chamber of Commerce and report the activities of such salesmen.

United Goes Underground

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Nov. 12 at United Air Lines executive headquarters for the airline's subterranean switching center.

To be built to a floor level depth 16½ feet below ground, the center will house United's electronic switching system, linking all headquarters offices with the airline's 116-city system and 18,000 route mile network. The center is being located below ground to simplify humidity and temperature control.

United's computerized switching system, the largest in private business, will handle in excess of 200,000 teletypewriter messages daily, it was announced by John M. Hodgson, vice president of communications for United.

Key to the high speed switching system is an RCA Model 4103 computer that processes teletypewriter messages and transmits these over more than 300,000 miles of leased telephone and telegraph wires. In addition to normal transmission the computer stores data, automatically selects fast message routing, and codes messages.

THE NEW CENTER will contain 8,000 square feet of floor space and will house administration offices, air conditioning equipment, auxiliary power units and related employe facilities. It will be connected to the headquarters structure through a tunnel from the main building, as well as through an exterior stairway and an equipment elevator.

Construction on the new center is to be completed in April and the center will become operational by July 1.

Coward Re-elected Chairman of Council

Thomas A. Coward of 410 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights, president of Tom Coward Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., has been reelected for a second year as chairman of the National Lincoln-Mercury Dealers Council.

The 15-member council, representing 2,500 dealers from throughout the country, was established in 1945 to provide better communication between dealers and the manufacturer, with the purpose of making Lincoln-Mercury more efficient in the market place.

In their meetings with factory officials, the council discusses and designs policies which affect the entire marketing program of the company, as well as acting as spokesman for the dealers in their relationships with the company.

HOLIDAY SEASON at Old Orchard Shopping Center will begin the day after Thanksgiving, with opening of an ice show, "Ice Chips." Teenager Donna Badalota of Park Ridge is among young skaters from the Michael Kirby schools in the show, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. each Monday through Friday and 3 p.m. Saturdays from this Friday through Dec. 12. The ice rink will be on the west side of the mall, near the southwest corner of Marshall Field. Following the series of ice shows, caroling groups will begin the evening of Dec. 14 and continue through the holidays. Church and community groups will sing on special staging in the north and south malls.

Employes to Aid Drive For Funds

Mrs. Jeanette Pegoraro of 302 Waterman, Prospect Heights, and Alfred Fickensher of 331 Sycamore Ave., Medinah, will serve as lieutenant employe chairmen of the $8.5 million development program at Resurrection Hospital, Chicago.

Mrs. Pegoraro is a staff nurse and Fickensher works in the engineering department.

They will work with 26 other chairmen in soliciting pledges for the hospital's expansion. The expansion, brought on by the heavy population growth in the surrounding community, will include enlarged surgical and increase bed capacity to 380.

Resurrection now employs more than 600 persons.

Pure Oil Co. Earnings Up

Earnings of The Pure Oil Co. in the third quarter rose to $6,008,000, or 61 cents a common share, from $5,464,000, or 56 cents a share, in the comparable 1963 period.

Total revenues edged higher to $177,952,000 from $177,088,000 in 1963.

The third-quarter upturn resulted from an increase in retail sales, a continuing cost control program, and a decrease in the provisions for income taxes and lease bonus amortization. This improvement was achieved in spite of lower gasoline prices.

For the nine months, total revenues were $550,845,000, a record for the period, compared with $542,418,000 in 1963.

NET INCOME for the first nine months of 1964 was $16,218,000, equal to $1.64 a share on common stock. This compares with $19,123,000, or $1.94 a share, for the same period in 1963.

Natural gas production for the nine months totaled a record 88.2 billion cubic feet, an increase of 13.1 per cent from 1963; crude oil production climbed 2.2 per cent to 21,589,000 barrels; and production of natural gas liquids rose 4.8 per cent to 1,473,000 barrels.

Nine-months sales of gasoline alone were up 2.8 per cent with premium recording a 14.8 per cent gain. Sales increases of 25 per cent or over were scored in petrochemicals and diesel fuel.

Decreases occurred in jet and aviation fuel, burning oils, and residual fuel oil.

OPENING SATURDAY are the St. Johns Apartments at 1500 Busse Road, Mount Prospect, offering casual country living with the convenience of the city only 30 minutes away. On display are studio, one-bedroom and two-bedroom apartments, each with either a patio or balcony which opens onto a landscaped arcade. Adding to the theme of "casual country living" is the man-made lake, 250 feet long and 70 feet wide, complete with a waterfall and tame ducks. Developed by the Anvan Corp., St. Johns offers many unusual features, such as: lateral and vertical soundproofing; fireproof pre-cast concrete; double glazed glass windows; and radiant gas heat, which is offered free with each apartment. There are a heated swimming pool, putting green and year-round recreation center available to all residents. An additional convenience is the free courtesy coach with shuttle service to and from shopping areas and the Northwestern Railroad.

ERNEST H. PALLME, vice president-engineering of Chicago Aerial Industries, Inc. in Barrington, has been elected a director of the Great Lakes Region of the American Society of Photogrammetry. He resides with his wife, Jane, and five children at 1917 Pheasant Trail, Palatine.

Pure Oil Co. Earnings Up

Earnings of The Pure Oil Co. in the third quarter rose to $6,008,000, or 61 cents a common share, from $5,464,000, or 56 cents a share, in the comparable 1963 period.

Total revenues edged higher to $177,952,000 from $177,088,000 in 1963.

The third-quarter upturn resulted from an increase in retail sales, a continuing cost control program, and a decrease in the provisions for income taxes and lease bonus amortization. This improvement was achieved in spite of lower gasoline prices.

For the nine months, total revenues were $550,845,000, a record for the period, compared with $542,418,000 in 1963.

NET INCOME for the first nine months of 1964 was $16,218,000, equal to $1.64 a share on common stock. This compares with $19,123,000, or $1.94 a share, for the same period in 1963.

Natural gas production for the nine months totaled a record 88.2 billion cubic feet, an increase of 13.1 per cent from 1963; crude oil production climbed 2.2 per cent to 21,589,000 barrels; and production of natural gas liquids rose 4.8 per cent to 1,473,000 barrels.

Nine-months sales of gasoline alone were up 2.8 per cent with premium recording a 14.8 per cent gain. Sales increases of 25 per cent or over were scored in petrochemicals and diesel fuel.

Decreases occurred in jet and aviation fuel, burning oils, and residual fuel oil.

BOB Gives Show for Couples

Member of the Couples Club of Mount Prospect Community Church were entertained this month by Best-Off Broadway Players.

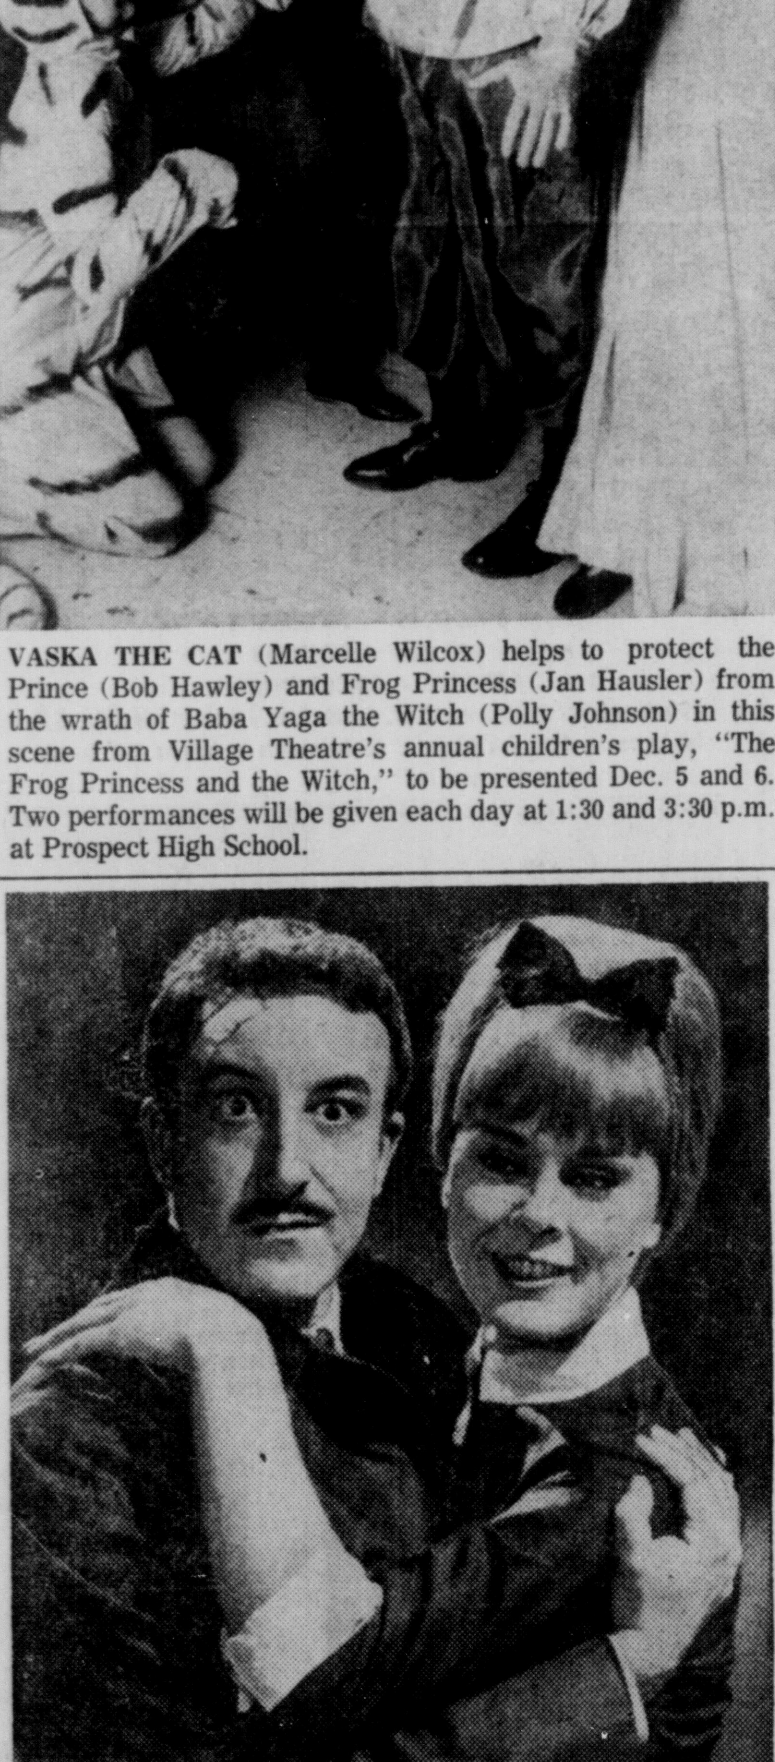
Talent bank chairman Vera Karst of 132 S. Ashland, Palatine, acted as mistress of ceremonies and introduced excerpts from B.O.B. productions "Oklahoma!" and the recent "Pajama Game." Also included were songs from "South Pacific," "Sound of Music" and "Funny Girl."

Participating in the show were members Polly Johnson, Box 10 Rohlwing Road, Palatine; Allen Johnson, 284 Pleasant St., Hoffman Estates; Allan Shields, 1536 N. Patton, Arlington Heights; Nancy Goldwood, Cary, and Patricia Lemker, Barrington.

DIRECTOR John Shaw of Glenview accompanied the vocalists and Larae Biesterfeld of Barrington handled the lighting. The entertainment concluded with Mrs. Karst announcing the forthcoming B.O.B. production, which will be Cole Porter's memorable musical, "Kiss Me Kate."

Shows from 15 minutes to an hour in length may be contracted by local groups from Mrs. Karst, FL 9-0598. (Bill

VASKA THE CAT (Marcelle Wilcox) helps to protect the Prince (Bob Hawley) and Frog Princess (Jan Hausler) from the wrath of Baba Yaga the Witch (Polly Johnson) in this scene from Village Theatre's annual children's play, "The Frog Princess and the Witch," to be presented Dec. 5 and 6. Two performances will be given each day at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. at Prospect High School.



PETER SELLERS plays a bumbling policeman, and Elke Sommer stars as the maid in Blake Edwards' "A Shot in the Dark," opening tomorrow (Friday) at the Mount Prospect Cinema Theatre. Co-featured is "A Farewell to Arms" with Rock Hudson and Jennifer Jones.

Unusual Props Needed For 'Old King Cole'

A 3-foot long magic box which captures a foot-long toothbrush, a pocket watch 10 inches in diameter and an over-sized magnifying glass are a few of the unusual props being collected for Masque and Staff's forthcoming production of "Old King Cole."

This marks the Elk Grove Village community theater group's fouth annual presentation of a play for children. It will be given Dec. 11, 12 and 13 at Dempster Junior High School.

According to Mrs Deane Presar, chairman of properties for the play, acquisition of the props has required more than the normay amount of ingenuity and perserverance.

"MANY OF the necessary props aren't among the things people usually have around the house," she explained, "so the committee members have had to create a number themselves. However, we were lucky to get the foot long toothbrush from a local dentist.

A few of the items which had to be made include the "magic" box, which plays an important part in the play, and three violins for Tic, Tac and Toe, Old King Cole's three fiddlers.

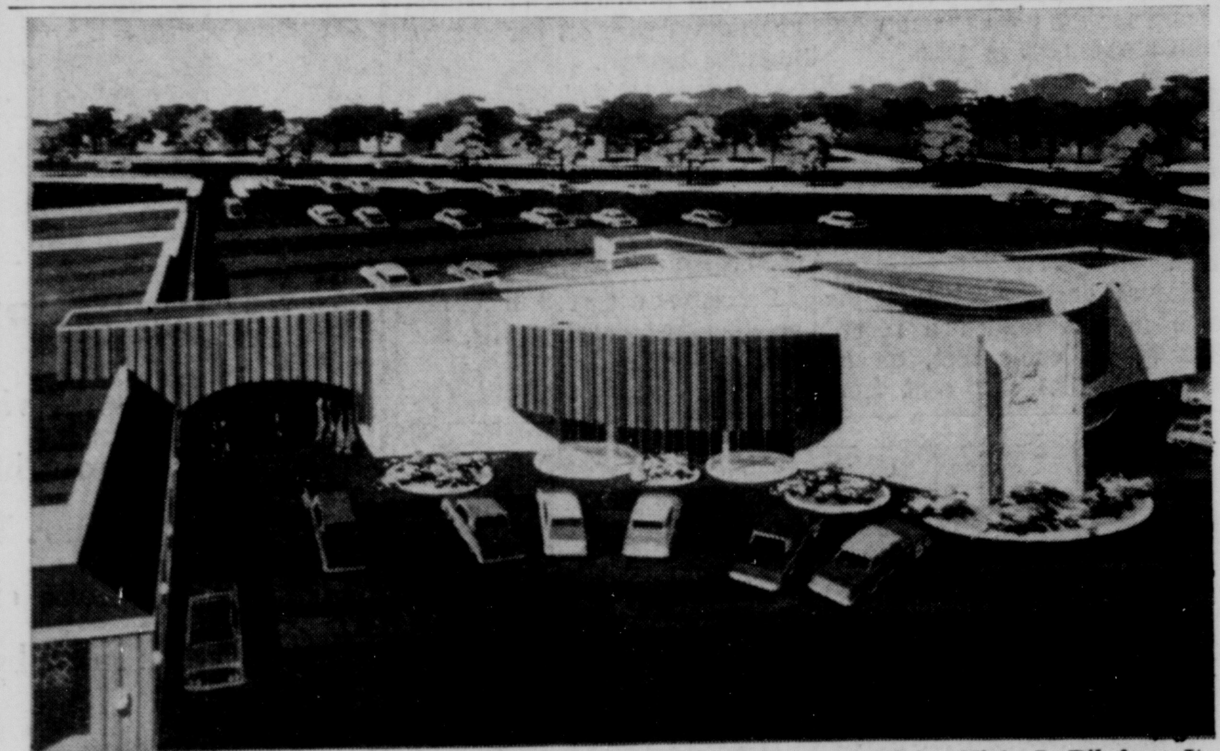
"The fiddles take quite a beating during the course of the play," Mrs. Presar commented, "so they were not something we felt we could ask people to loan us. But we constructed them out of old cigar boxes."

THE TWO - ACT children's play, based on the familiar Mother Goose nursery rhyme, is under the direction of Mrs. Robert Johnson, who directed the first Masque and Staff children's play, "The Red Shoes," as well as many of the adult productions.

Mrs. Ed Romero is producer of the show, Mrs. Russ Gotha is musical director and Mrs. Dan Casey is choreographer.

EVENING performances will be on Friday, Dec. 11, Saturday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m., and matinees are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 13, at 1:30 and 4 p.m. Free bus service will be provided for both matinee performances Dec. 12 from Elk Grove District 59 schools.

Information and tickets may be obtained by calling HE 7-0497 or may be purchased on the buses or at the door.



GROUND HAS BEEN broken for construction of the new Mill Run Playhouse in the Golf Mill Shopping Center, Golf and Milwaukee Roads, Niles. The theatre is scheduled for a late February, 1965, opening. Seating capacity will be 1,700. Mill Run Playhouse will be adjacent to the existing Tiffiny Restaurant, owned and operated by Nick J. Pilafas. Its general decor will be natural wood and lumber, rough textured concrete with ponds and pools in the lobby for an over-all contemporary Old English appearance. The theatre will also be utilized for industrial shows and sales meetings.

TEAMED AS HUSBAND and wife in Universal's comedy, "Send Me No Flowers," are Doris Day and Rock Hudson. Their co-stars in the merry proceedings are Tony Randall and Clint Walker. The film is now playing at the Catlow Theatre.

Symphony Concert To Feature Pianist

Pianist Jeanne Scott, will be the featured soloist when the Northwest Symphony Orchestra presents its first concert of the season on Sunday at Maine East High School.

She will play Brahm's D Minor Piano Concerto.

Mrs. Scott has appeared in recital on numerous occasions, including the presentation of a group of her own compositions. She trained with Robert Casadesus, eminent French pianist, and Rudolph Ganz.

She has appeared at Orchestra Hall on the Musical Arts Piano series and was recently spotlighted with TV Artist's Showcase.

Schumann's First Symphony and Brahm's Academic Festival Overture will complete the program which will be conducted by Perry Crafton, first violinist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. (Bill

Artist Gives Show at High School

A graduate of Maine East high school who has become a portrait artist of local prominence returned to her alma mater last week to be honored with a showing of her paintings.

"We also feel honored that the school had opportunity to show the works of this young artist, which are of exceptional merit," declared Stanley Whitley, Maine's art department chairman.

The "young artist" is Mrs. Pat Trefelner, who grew up in Des Plaines and Barrington as Pat Peterson and was graduated from Maine East in 1952. She was an art student then.

NOW, 12 years later, married and the mother of three boys, she has studied privately with Robert Floodstrand of Des Plaines and become a specialist in portraits, both oil and pastels.

Pat lives at 707 S. Williams, Mount Prospect. Her husband, George, who operates a wholesale meat business, keeps encouraging her to turn completely professional.

Although she accepts commissions now, for some time she has given much of her work to friends, she ruefully confesses.

KEEPING house for her husband and her boys, Jay, 8, Eric, 6, and Curt, 2, and being a Cub Scout den mother forces her to paint only at night when the children are out of the way.

Among the startling lifelike and brilliantly colorful works on display were her portrait of a boy in an orange sweater against a green background, which she said she did primarily to fit into the color scheme of her boys' bedroom. Whitley and other local artists who have seen the piece admire it greatly.

"There is no doubt about the vividness and good draftsmanship in this showing," Whitley said. (Bill

MOUNT PROSPECT ARTIST, Pat Trefelner, returns to Maine East High School, from which she graduated in 1952, to show oil and pastel portraits which are now her specialty. She shows some of her latest works to Stanley Whitley, Maine East art department chairman, who pronounced them "especially spirited and colorful." Pat's mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Trefelner, works in the business office of Harold Markworth, secretary and business manager of the school district. (BILL

N. U. Chorale To Sing Free Concert Dec. 5

The 80 voice Northwestern University Chorale will present its 19th annual Christmas Concert on Saturday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. in Thorne Hall at Lake Shore Drive and Superior Street, Chicago.

Founded 28 years ago by Dr. George Howerton, dean of the School of Music at Northwestern University, the Chorale will be under the direction of Dr. William J. Peterman, director of music at New Trier High School. The organist will be Mrs. Marjorie Whitson, who has been accompanist for the Chorale for the past several years.

Composed of students, faculty and staff members of the Northwestern Graduate Campus and Evening Division, and the Wesley, Passavant and VA Hospitals, the Chorale invites the public to attend this free concert. (Bill

Children's Play Will Be Dec. 5, 6

The "Frog Princess and the Witch," a children's play, will be presented by Village Theatre Dec. 5 and 6 at Prospect High School and these two week prior to the presentation of a play are the most hectic weeks for the backstage workers.

Lynn Lobenhofer of Mount Prospect has designed the set and Bruce Meyer of Arlington Heights heads the construction crew who are building it to specification. When they have completed it the set decoration and paint crew will take over and Mary Estrella of Rolling Meadows and Chris Bauske of Arlington Heights will add the color and glamour to make it a fitting background for a fairy story.

THE COSTUME crew is headed by Alice Linde of Rolling Meadows; Marian Malcolmson and Herb Braden of Arlington Heights, and Ann Hume of Rolling Meadows are in charge of lights, sound and make-up; and Carolyn Burkett of Arlington Heights heads props.

Other backstage workers are Bette Grayson, Dot Watkins, Shirlty Freeman, Ann Allen, Eva Loken, Dave Dove, Lois Drum, Mary Spellman, Carol Weiser, Harriet and Jim Smith, Jewel Jokiel, Helen Aagaard and Barbara Meshburg, all of Arlington Heights; Beverly Holden, Al Estrella and Betty Weber, Rolling Meadows; Stella Pevsner, Judy Owens, and Doris and Jim Paterson, Palatine; Arlene Nemecek, Prospect Heights; Carol O'Dea, Elk Grove.

BETTY BROOKS is production manager, coordinating all crews, and Jeanette Jenkins, assisted by Sheila Baker, Arlington Heights, is stage manager.

Although tickets are sold out for all performances, names are being accepted on a waiting list in case of cancellations. For information phone CL 9-3200 between 9:30 a.m. and noon. (Bill

Art League Members Exhibit Work in Area

BOBBY DRISCOLL sets a troublemaker down in a tub of honey, much to everyone's amusement, in Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "So Dear to My Heart." Driscoll stars with Burl Ives and Beulah Bondi in the film opening tomorrow (Friday) at the Arlington Theatre with matinee tomorrow. Second feature is "The Lively Set" with James Darren and Pamela Tiffin.

November and December are busy months for Mount Prospect Art League members.

During November, Miss Karen Larssen of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Dorothy Kruse, 718 S. William, Palatine, have been exhibiting their work at the Thunderbird Bowl on Rand Road in Mount Prospect. As of Dec. 1, Jeane Kramer, of Des Plaines and Terry Mueller, 841 S. Belmont, Arlington Heights, will take over the display walls there and exhibit work in oil and water color.

The works of art of 11 of the Art League members have been on display at Doris Kirkeby, Inc., Mount Prospect, through October and November. As of Dec. 1, nine additional members will take over the exhibit there. They are Hedvic Vlasak, 611 S. Emerson; Thelma Bliss, 405 S. HiLusi; Mrs. Herbert H. Kemp, Jr., 503 N. Maple; Betty Boyle, 408 W. Lonnquist Parkway; Mary Hunter, 214 Dale; Gideon Haynes, 14 N. Emerson; Ann Buhrke, 249 E. Prospect, and Ginny Helgren, all of Mount Prospect; and Lucille Anderson, 1215 W. Sigwalt, Arlington Heights.

IN DECEMBER, Miss Barbara Liljequist of 113 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, will be exhibiting at the Mount Prospect State Bank. Miss Liljequist, who is the League's program chairman, will exhibit in oil.

During November, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, 106 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, and several members of the league who attend a workshop conducted by Mrs. Mitchell have work on exhibit at the Mount Prospect State Bank.

Several members of the Mount Prospect Art League who are studying with Leonard Presley of the Mount Prospect Park District are currently exhibiting their works of art at the Ronald Hansen Real Estate firm in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Carl (Christl) Hansen, 110 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, gave an art demonstration-lecture in Waukegan Nov. 23 for the Waukegan Art League. Her subject for the demonstration was oil portrait of a child. It was in Waukegan that Christl won the First Purchase Award at the art show last summer.

Through December and January, Mrs. Hansen will have a one-man show at the Arlington Heights Theatre, and she will also exhibit at the Thanksgiving Holiday Art Show at the McCormick Place in Chicago.

MRS. LUCILLE Anderson of Arlington Heights will also be exhibiting at the McCormick Place show.

Victor Bittner, past president of the Mount Prospect Art League, was awarded both cash and ribbon awards at the Barrington Art Show this fall for an outstanding exhibit. Bittner won this same award at the Golf Mill show in the fall. An award such as this means that Bittner's entire exhibit of nearly 20 pictures was considered to be award winning material.

The Dec. meeting of the Art League will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club at 8:15. The program will be a demonstration of collage by Mr. Skaggs of the Chicago Art Institute. Guests are welcome.

Mildred Miller Will Open Concert Season

Mildred Miller, whose appearance at the Arlington Theatre Monday, Nov. 30, will open the 18th season of the Arlington Heights Community Concert Association, has especially fond memories of Stuttgart, Germany

It was in Stuttgart that she married her husband, Air Force Col. Wesley Posvar. She was in Europe to sing and he was on leave from the Air Force to study at Oxford as a Rhodes scholar.

And it was also in Stuttgart that Miss Miller was first offered a contract by Rudolph Bing of New York.

MISS MILLER, a Cleveland-born mezzo-soprano, was a sensational success in her Metropolitan debut. Since then she has been a star also of the San Francisco and Vienna State Opera companies and engaged in successful recital tours around the world.

At least one Vienna critic has called her "one of the truly great mezzo - sopranos of our time."

When not on tour, Miss Miller lives with her husband and their three children in Colorado Springs, Col. (Bill

'The Tender Trap' Scheduled Dec. 4-6

Enthusiastic participation by all members of the cast keynotes Winston Little Theatre's new play, "The Tender Trap," to be presented Dec. 4, 5 and 6 at Palatine High School.

Rudy Kandlbinder and Dorothy Daniels, co-directors of this frothy comedy, report rehearsals are running smoothly and the cast is perfecting characterizations on schedule.

Kandlbinder, of 1308 Gloria Dr., Palatine, an experienced actor, is undertaking his first stint as a director. He will be remembered by Palatine area playgoers for his recent performances as the blustering executive in "The Whole Darn Shooting Match," and as a featured player in WLT's "Pocket Revue" presented last month.

MRS. DANIELS, 567 W. Hellen Road, Palatine, also has a wide range of theatrical experience.

Headlining the cast is Bruce Drake of 101 Aubrey Lane, Mount Prospect. He plays a foot-loose bachelor who enjoys an idyllic existence as the pampered playmate of several beauteous females until an ingenuous lab assistant lures him into the trap. Wynanne Diersson of 1149 E. Patten, Palatine, plays the feminine lead.

Major roles are played by Doug Stone of Wauconda, and Karen Costin, 1442 Joan Dr., Palatine. Rounding out the cast are Peggy Courtney, Rolling Meadows; Charles Sayre of 610 S. Kasper, Arlington Heights; Betty Kandlbinder, 1308 Gloria, Ted Weiss, 1109 Pratt, and Patti Clark, 1049 E. Fosket, all of Palatine.

Production coordinatr George Daniels, 567 W. Helen Road, reports construction crews have been active, properties are on hand, and the general bustle has resulted in a nearly completed stage for this first play of the 1964-65 season.

"THE TENDER TRAP" is the first of two plays to be given this year. Following will be "Born Yesterday," scheduled for March 19, 20 and 21, at Forest View High School.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the cast or production staff or by calling the ticket chairman, Lee Yelovich, at 359-1318.

CAUGHT REHEARSING, a tender scene from "The Tender Trap" are feminine lead Wyanne Diersson and Bruce Drake, her stage lover. Doug Stone, who also has a major role in the Winston Little Theatre production, is the onlooker. The play will be presented at Palatine High School Dec. 4, 5 and 6. (Staff Photo)

Latin American Dance Lessons Will Be Given

Latin American dance instruction will be sponsored by Beth Tikvah Congregation beginning Saturday, Nov. 28, at 8:30 p.m. in Hoffman Estates and the fourth Saturday of each month thereafter.

These lessons are open to the public. A nominal fee will be charged.

Instruction will be given by Marion and Nat Markowitz of Chicago.

Call Charles Bournstine, HE 9-2633, for information. (Bill

Art League Members Exhibit Work in Area

BOBBY DRISCOLL sets a troublemaker down in a tub of honey, much to everyone's amusement, in Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "So Dear to My Heart." Driscoll stars with Burl Ives and Beulah Bondi in the film opening tomorrow (Friday) at the Arlington Theatre with matinee tomorrow. Second feature is "The Lively Set" with James Darren and Pamela Tiffin.

November and December are busy months for Mount Prospect Art League members.

During November, Miss Karen Larssen of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Dorothy Kruse, 718 S. William, Palatine, have been exhibiting their work at the Thunderbird Bowl on Rand Road in Mount Prospect. As of Dec. 1, Jeane Kramer, of Des Plaines and Terry Mueller, 841 S. Belmont, Arlington Heights, will take over the display walls there and exhibit work in oil and water color.

The works of art of 11 of the Art League members have been on display at Doris Kirkeby, Inc., Mount Prospect, through October and November. As of Dec. 1, nine additional members will take over the exhibit there. They are Hedvic Vlasak, 611 S. Emerson; Thelma Bliss, 405 S. HiLusi; Mrs. Herbert H. Kemp, Jr., 503 N. Maple; Betty Boyle, 408 W. Lonnquist Parkway; Mary Hunter, 214 Dale; Gideon Haynes, 14 N. Emerson; Ann Buhrke, 249 E. Prospect, and Ginny Helgren, all of Mount Prospect; and Lucille Anderson, 1215 W. Sigwalt, Arlington Heights.

IN DECEMBER, Miss Barbara Liljequist of 113 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, will be exhibiting at the Mount Prospect State Bank. Miss Liljequist, who is the League's program chairman, will exhibit in oil.

During November, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, 106 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, and several members of the league who attend a workshop conducted by Mrs. Mitchell have work on exhibit at the Mount Prospect State Bank.

Several members of the Mount Prospect Art League who are studying with Leonard Presley of the Mount Prospect Park District are currently exhibiting their works of art at the Ronald Hansen Real Estate firm in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Carl (Christl) Hansen, 110 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, gave an art demonstration-lecture in Waukegan Nov. 23 for the Waukegan Art League. Her subject for the demonstration was oil portrait of a child. It was in Waukegan that Christl won the First Purchase Award at the art show last summer.

Through December and January, Mrs. Hansen will have a one-man show at the Arlington Heights Theatre, and she will also exhibit at the Thanksgiving Holiday Art Show at the McCormick Place in Chicago.

MRS. LUCILLE Anderson of Arlington Heights will also be exhibiting at the McCormick Place show.

Victor Bittner, past president of the Mount Prospect Art League, was awarded both cash and ribbon awards at the Barrington Art Show this fall for an outstanding exhibit. Bittner won this same award at the Golf Mill show in the fall. An award such as this means that Bittner's entire exhibit of nearly 20 pictures was considered to be award winning material.

The Dec. meeting of the Art League will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club at 8:15. The program will be a demonstration of collage by Mr. Skaggs of the Chicago Art Institute. Guests are welcome.

Mildred Miller Will Open Concert Season

Mildred Miller, whose appearance at the Arlington Theatre Monday, Nov. 30, will open the 18th season of the Arlington Heights Community Concert Association, has especially fond memories of Stuttgart, Germany

It was in Stuttgart that she married her husband, Air Force Col. Wesley Posvar. She was in Europe to sing and he was on leave from the Air Force to study at Oxford as a Rhodes scholar.

And it was also in Stuttgart that Miss Miller was first offered a contract by Rudolph Bing of New York.

MISS MILLER, a Cleveland-born mezzo-soprano, was a sensational success in her Metropolitan debut. Since then she has been a star also of the San Francisco and Vienna State Opera companies and engaged in successful recital tours around the world.

At least one Vienna critic has called her "one of the truly great mezzo - sopranos of our time."

When not on tour, Miss Miller lives with her husband and their three children in Colorado Springs, Col. (Bill

'The Tender Trap' Scheduled Dec. 4-6

Enthusiastic participation by all members of the cast keynotes Winston Little Theatre's new play, "The Tender Trap," to be presented Dec. 4, 5 and 6 at Palatine High School.

Rudy Kandlbinder and Dorothy Daniels, co-directors of this frothy comedy, report rehearsals are running smoothly and the cast is perfecting characterizations on schedule.

Kandlbinder, of 1308 Gloria Dr., Palatine, an experienced actor, is undertaking his first stint as a director. He will be remembered by Palatine area playgoers for his recent performances as the blustering executive in "The Whole Darn Shooting Match," and as a featured player in WLT's "Pocket Revue" presented last month.

MRS. DANIELS, 567 W. Hellen Road, Palatine, also has a wide range of theatrical experience.

Headlining the cast is Bruce Drake of 101 Aubrey Lane, Mount Prospect. He plays a foot-loose bachelor who enjoys an idyllic existence as the pampered playmate of several beauteous females until an ingenuous lab assistant lures him into the trap. Wynanne Diersson of 1149 E. Patten, Palatine, plays the feminine lead.

Major roles are played by Doug Stone of Wauconda, and Karen Costin, 1442 Joan Dr., Palatine. Rounding out the cast are Peggy Courtney, Rolling Meadows; Charles Sayre of 610 S. Kasper, Arlington Heights; Betty Kandlbinder, 1308 Gloria, Ted Weiss, 1109 Pratt, and Patti Clark, 1049 E. Fosket, all of Palatine.

Production coordinatr George Daniels, 567 W. Helen Road, reports construction crews have been active, properties are on hand, and the general bustle has resulted in a nearly completed stage for this first play of the 1964-65 season.

"THE TENDER TRAP" is the first of two plays to be given this year. Following will be "Born Yesterday," scheduled for March 19, 20 and 21, at Forest View High School.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the cast or production staff or by calling the ticket chairman, Lee Yelovich, at 359-1318.

CAUGHT REHEARSING, a tender scene from "The Tender Trap" are feminine lead Wyanne Diersson and Bruce Drake, her stage lover. Doug Stone, who also has a major role in the Winston Little Theatre production, is the onlooker. The play will be presented at Palatine High School Dec. 4, 5 and 6. (Staff Photo)

Latin American Dance Lessons Will Be Given

Latin American dance instruction will be sponsored by Beth Tikvah Congregation beginning Saturday, Nov. 28, at 8:30 p.m. in Hoffman Estates and the fourth Saturday of each month thereafter.

These lessons are open to the public. A nominal fee will be charged.

Instruction will be given by Marion and Nat Markowitz of Chicago.

Call Charles Bournstine, HE 9-2633, for information. (Bill

Brigid Bazlen Now Appearing At Pheasant Run

Actress Brigid Bazlen is appearing in two productions at Pheasant Run Playhouse, St. Charles.

She opened Nov. 17 for two weeks in "Come Blow Your Horn" which stars Dick Kallman and Anthony Eisley, and she will also appear in "Personal Appearance," starring Vivian Blaine, Dec. 1 through Dec. 20.

MISS BAZLEN has been seen on the ligitmate stage in many Chicago area theatres as well as on television and in motion pictures.

She is the daughter of Chi-Maggie Daly.

Q. I have been asked to pour tea at an afternoon social in the near future. How long am I supposed to remain at the tea table?

A. Just so long as the guests are arriving and asking for tea.

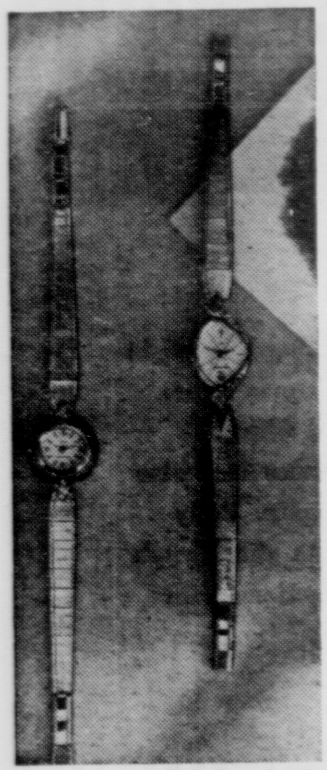
Jewelry Suits Every Family Member

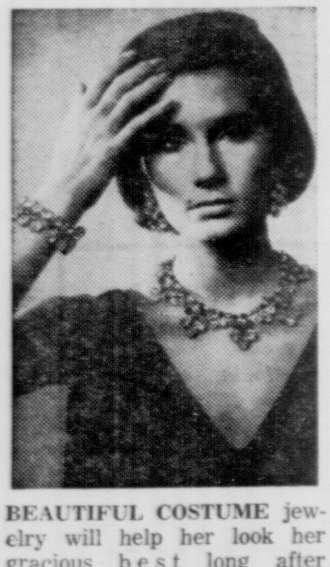
A glance at the showcases in local jewelry stores will reveal attractive Christmas gifts for the whole family this year. The greatly diversified selections for every member of the family are sure to offer just the right present for every person on the gift list.

When buying jewelry, the recipient's personality and tastes should always be taken into account.

TEENAGERS LOVE a bit of the off beat in Christmas jewelry. This trio features a golden flop-eared bunny pin, suggested by the Jewelry Industry Council.



SEE HER EYES match the sparkle of her gift when it's a diamond watch, a gift that lasts forever. These are from Bulova.



BEAUTIFUL COSTUME jewelry will help her look her gracious best long after Christmas is over. Suggested by Jewelry Industry Council.

When, for instance, you buy a watch, the Jewelry Industry Council advises that you should bear in mind that handsome styling and individuality are likely to be as important to the wearer as split-second accuracy. There is an extensive choice of new and fashionable watches to suit every taste this year.

AMONG THE popular gift watches for Christmas are outdoors and sports models, thin pocket watches and chains for formal wear, as well as many kinds of wrist watches designed for business and professional people.

For infants, there are bent-handle spoons, silver rattles or teething rings with silver bells, brush and comb sets, silver-handled tooth brushes, pearls for starting a necklace, cups, bib holders, porringers and gift rings.

For young boys, as well as for men, you may choose fashionable cuff links, tie tacs, tie clips, key chains or wallets. Sterling identification bracelets are very popular among young teenagers.

Pen and pencil sets, money clips, leather wallets and desk accessories are avilable to suit the personal tastes and interests of everyone.

Smoking accessories, such as lighters, cigarette cases and holders, always win a warm welcome. Rings bearing fraternal insignia, initial or signet designs have a strong masculine appeal and are bound to win the heart of your favorite male.

YOUNG WOMEN'S gift choices are sure to include fashionable earrings, necklaces, bracelets, pins, clips and rings. Gifts of jewelry flatter every woman and make her feel more desirable.

For young girls there are pieces of sterling in her chosen pattern, precious jewelry in the form of bracelets, pendants, rings, pins and lockets.

Silver ranks high as a gift that can be enjoyed by the whole family. For example, picture frames, nut and condiment dishes, candlesticks, cigarette holders, lighters and vases, all add a touch of beauty to any home that will be a joy all year around.

Silver trays, in all sizes and shpes, are among the most usable gift ideas on anyone's list.

Corsages Are Ideal

Charming new arrangements, fresh, bright colors, delectable natural scent make Christmas corsages ideal holiday gifts.

With all the festivities coming up, any girl would welcome a beautiful corsage to pin on her best dress, wear on her wrist or in countless other attractive ways, say Florist Telegraph Delivery designers.

One unusual fresh-flower idea for formal holiday parties is a flexible garland, to be worn up and over the bare shoulder of a strapless or tiny-strap gown as an effective costume accent.

ANOTHER elegant gift is a flower tiara, crown or headband —perhaps of miniature chrysanthemums or small roses — the ultimate in decorative headgear.

Christmas corsage gifts may be wired to friends anywhere in the nation.

FLATTERING AND feminine, cultured pearls bring joy to the heart of any woman. Here, necklace, earrings and bracelet suggested by the Jewelry Industry Council.

MAKE THIS CHRISTMAS an "engaging" one with a beautiful solitaire diamond ring for her. There are several different cuts to choose from. Above is the marquise, among the most popular.

Silver Heightens Holiday Features

Gleaming silver and festive occasions go together like love and marriage, says the Jewelry Industry Council.

For silver is the "Queen of Metals" and always reflects good taste and charm to family gatherings of all kinds, especially during the holidays.

With the accent these days on elegance in entertaining, nothing adds as much to the table as the luster of fine silver bringing a special glow to family and guests alike.

Sterling flatware today is available in a wide range of patterns, traditional and modern, and gives years of service in gracious living. Daily use keeps it bright and shining, eliminating the concern of some housewives about keeping it polished.

A FINE SILVER service grows more beautiful with use through the years, and makes a memorable Yuletide gift that the entire family will appreciate and enjoy. A new and exciting flatware service is the popular Vermeil — pronounced Ver-May —which is actually sterling with an overlay of karat gold.

Holloware pieces bring a "special occasion" feeling to any meal, the Council points out, and the unique distinction of beautiful silver makes it one of the most exciting and wanted Christmas gifts any woman of any age can receive. What makes holloware particularly attractive as a gift is the fact that many pieces are "dual purpose."

FOR EXAMPLE, there are casserole dishes that set into new, footed dish holders that can be used as extra serving pieces when not holding a glass pyrex baking dish, and lovely ceramic or plastic lined bowls that are marvelous for serving various items such as lemons, mayonnaise, relish, etc.

There is also a wide range of other bowls, either in sterling or plate; tiny bowls for nuts and condiments, medium-size silver bowls for food and flowers, and big bowls for salads and fruits that give a lovely look to any table.

TRAYS ARE another sure-fire silver gift suggestion with a wide size and price range. From tiny appetizer trays to big, beautiful tea trays, these silver accessories fill a glamorous role in any woman's homemaking plans.

Table accessories such as salt and pepper shakers, gravy and mayonnaise boats, candlesticks and candelabra and even that Victorian glory, the silver goblet, are exciting gifts, the Council points out.

And silver shines with a special glow in home accessories, such as ash trays, coasters, vases, match boxes and cigarette boxes.

SILVER GOES STRAIGHT TO WORK at Christmas to make modern entertaining truly a Yuletide pleasure, and continues to add to gracious living through the years. It is a happy gift for every family, with a wide range of patterns to choose from. This set, suggested by the Jewelry Industry Council, features two combination hurricane lamps and candlesticks in silver.

Many Gift Ideas to Please Photographer

There is just no such thing as an advanced amateur photographer who has everything he needs or wants for better picture-making. That is why choosing a most satisfying Christmas gift for him—or her—should be easy.

Take for example the photographer who makes color slides and who is fully equipped with a projector. Choose some slide trays for him to fit his projector, and you'll have made a happy and inexpensive selection.

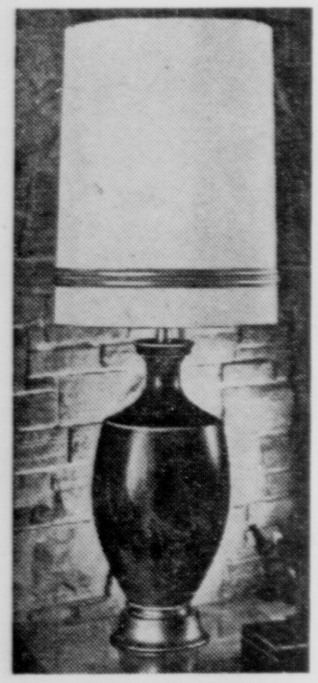
OR ASK YOUR photo dealer about kits of binding tape and optical glass cut to proper size, for him to use in re-mounting his favorite slides for better protection and more safety.

Or, consider the man or woman who spurns the cameras that set exposures automatically. They usually depend on a light meter. Choose an advanced battery operated model and you'll have made someone happy indeed.

There are such handy little devices as clamps with which to fasten a camera almost anywhere when a tripod is not available, to insure steadiness during a long exposure. And these are inexpensive also.

NO DOUBT your advanced amateur has outgrown the gadget bag he now carries. Choose a new one, with adjustable compartments, to take care of all the equipment he likes to carry on trips.

Best of all, consult the expert in the camera stores who will have a long list of handy accessories from which to make a suggestion to please your photographer gift candidate.



GIVE THE HOME, the family or friends a handsome lamp. This one, a table model, has ceramic base. By the Charles Co.

Lamps Are Bright Idea For Giving

For Santa's helpers who want their Christmas gifts to be, literally, a shining success, lamp stores and departments shed light on the subject of Yuletide gifting.

Lamp categories to choose from include table, floor, desk, tray, pole and wall. There's a lamp for every taste and need.

Table lamps come in a variety of sizes and styles to suit every room in the home. They're decorative as well as useful, with bases and shades to please individual tastes.

WHERE MORE general room lighting is needed, a floor lamp might be the answer. Pole lamps, too, provide plenty of illumination, along with styling that is particularly right for contemporary decor.

Tray lamps, a newly popular group, are really double gifts since they provide a table surface, too.

Wall lamps save space and can be used, attractively, almost anywhere—over beds, tables, mirrors, for instance.

HOURS OF usefulness as well as decorative beauty come from timely gifts such as this new wall clock, with a hand-carved look. It's by Arabesque.

SPREAD HAPPINESS at Christmas by giving practical, pretty bedspreads. Here's one by Fieldcrest in Avisco rayon and cotton.

Kissing Ball Ancient Custom, Spectaculor Fun

Spectacular idea for Christmas decor is the revival of the ancient kissing ball, a custom handed down from Merrie Olde England, where every home had its own kissing ball hook.

Modern version of a kissing ball is a sphere of fresh flowers, with green leaves, holly, mistletoe and miniature artificial fruit.

IT CAN BE hung from the chandelier or lamp-arm. For another modern touch, rest one on the coffee table — for holiday "bussing" above it.

The local Florists' Telegraph Delivery florist can make one for the home. or wire it to faraway friends as an unusual gift.

Flowers for Santa

Give Santa flowers, too—a rose or carnation boutonniere to wear to holiday parties.

KITCHEN MATCH-UPS in terry towels, potholders, aprons and toaster covers are Christmas pleasers for homemakers. By Morgan-Jones.

Mail Early To Be Sure Of Arrival

Literally, "wrap up Christmas early!" To be sure all Yule cards, letters and packages reach their destination in time for Christmas, mail early.

Be sure letters and packages are correctly and fully addressed, with a clear and full return address.

Pack gifts to be mailed carefully, especially fragile items; then wrap parcels securely.

Mail all parcels and out-of-state Christmas cards by Dec. 10. Mail local Christmas cards by Dec. 16.

For speediest delivery of gifts and cards by mail, be sure to use zip code numbers.

ZIP CODE information may be obtained from the local post-office.

There's also a booklet available which lists all the zip codes in the U. S. Cost is $2.75 and the booklet is obtainable from: Superintendent of Documents Washington, D. C.

AN ALL WEATHER RAIN-. coat is always a good gift for Dad. It's something he can wear the whole year through. Most raincoats are versatile enough to be worn with all of his outfits. By Alligator.

MAKE IT A colorful Christmas with a gift of color television for the family. New, simpler controls, trimmer, more compact table models and neater styling, plus all channel reception will add to the whole family's enjoyment. By RCA Victor.

All Share In Choice Of Gifts

Families, homes, presents, Christmas: they belong together.

At Christmas, a time for giving, for decorating the home and, most of all, for joy amongst the family, gifts of "something for the home" become the successful answer to many a present problem. Home gifts fill a need, serve a purpose, look wonderful, last long—and please everbody.

From the family to the family, home gifts express the very spirit of Christmas—the joy of giving, plus the warmth of family ties centered in the home. In keeping with this spirit, the family can band together to pay for the home gift, and go together to select it.

Call a Conference

Call a family conference early to decide on the gift—or gifts. Then, shop early to be sure of having the selections delivered in time for Christmas enjoyment.

Convenient credit plans in local stores make it easy to make this the year the family realizes its special wish for some major piece of furniture that can be shared and enjoyed by all, whether it be a sofa, new carpeting, dining table and chairs, complete equipment for a family recreation room—or whatever.

Then there are the "personal" presents—home gifts chosen by individual members of the family, to surprise Mom, Dad or the children.

Even the young children can play an important part here. They learn the joy of giving and the gift of cooperation by putting their money together and choosing a gift for Mommy anl Daddy that fits into the home.

Let Them Choose

Let them pick it out themselves, with a little tactful guidance if they're very young. A mirror, planter, clock, throw pillows might be "big gifts" for little folks to present, while such smaller gifts as kitchen gadgets for Mom or barbecue tools for Dad fit young budgets and get a big welcome.

Since Mother is always happiest when she feels she has kept the family home a pleasing, comfortable and convenient place to live in, almost any home gift will delight her. Dad and the children might surprise her with a gift just for her—a serving cart to help lighten her own relaxing corner.

FOR THE HOBBY set this Christmas, new kits range from "Superman" sets to miniature replicas of World Wars 1 and II. By Aurora Plastics.

SHE SHALL HAVE TV where-ever she goes . . . with one of the new transistor sets. Compact and light, they travel anywhere. By General Electric.

For the Children

Traditionally, Christmas is the time to give Dad a comfortable chair—and he'll also welcome such gifts as games tables, desks, man-sized lamps to read or work by, chests and cabinets for everything from clothing to hobby equipment.

Whether they're married, college students or just youngsters, the children will enjoy something new for their rooms or home. Newlyweds can use just about anything and everything to help them start home-keeping, while older married children are usually ready to refurnish or modernize their home.

Many Gift Ideas to Please Photographer

There is just no such thing as an advanced amateur photographer who has everything he needs or wants for better picture-making. That is why choosing a most satisfying Christmas gift for him—or her—should be easy.

Take for example the photographer who makes color slides and who is fully equipped with a projector. Choose some slide trays for him to fit his projector, and you'll have made a happy and inexpensive selection.

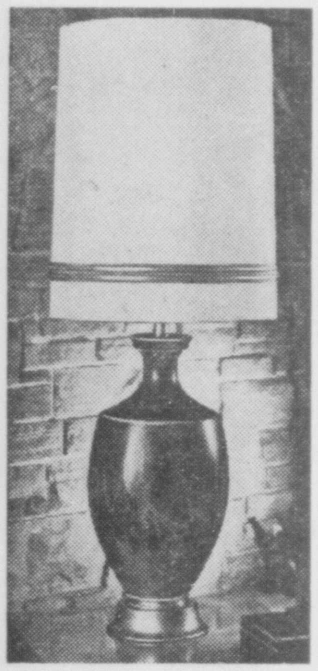
OR ASK YOUR photo dealer about kits of binding tape and optical glass cut to proper size, for him to use in re-mounting his favorite slides for better protection and more safety.

Or, consider the man or woman who spurns the cameras that set exposures automatically. They usually depend on a light meter. Choose an advanced battery operated model and you'll have made someone happy indeed.

There are such handy little devices as clamps with which to fasten a camera almost anywhere when a tripod is not available, to insure steadiness during a long exposure. And these are inexpensive also.

NO DOUBT your advanced amateur has outgrown the gadget bag he now carries. Choose a new one, with adjustable compartments, to take care of all the equipment he likes to carry on trips.

Best of all, consult the expert in the camera stores who will have a long list of handy accessories from which to make a suggestion to please your photographer gift candidate.



GIVE THE HOME, the family or friends a handsome lamp. This one, a table model, has ceramic base. By the Charles Co.

Lamps Are Bright Idea For Giving

For Santa's helpers who want their Christmas gifts to be, literally, a shining success, lamp stores and departments shed light on the subject of Yuletide gifting.

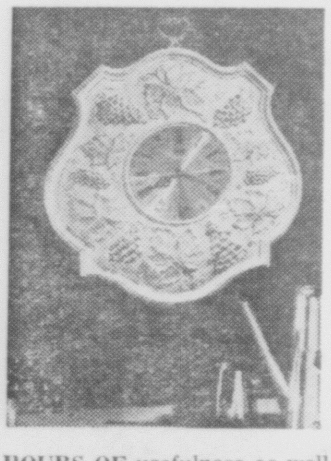
Lamp categories to choose from include table, floor, desk, tray, pole and wall. There's a lamp for every taste and need.

Table lamps come in a variety of sizes and styles to suit every room in the home. They're decorative as well as useful, with bases and shades to please individual tastes.

WHERE MORE general room lighting is needed, a floor lamp might be the answer. Pole lamps, too, provide plenty of illumination, along with styling that is particularly right for contemporary decor.

Tray lamps, a newly popular group, are really double gifts since they provide a table surface, too.

Wall lamps save space and can be used, attractively, almost anywhere—over beds, tables, mirrors, for instance.



HOURS OF usefulness as well as decorative beauty come from timely gifts such as this new wall clock, with a hand-carved look. It's by Arabesque.

SPREAD HAPPINESS at Christmas by giving practical, pretty bedspreads. Here's one by Fieldcrest in Avisco rayon and cotton.

Kissing Ball Ancient Custom, Spectaculor Fun

Spectacular idea for Christmas decor is the revival of the ancient kissing ball, a custom handed down from Merrie Olde England, where every home had its own kissing ball hook.

Modern version of a kissing ball is a sphere of fresh flowers, with green leaves, holly, mistletoe and miniature artificial fruit.

IT CAN BE hung from the chandelier or lamp-arm. For another modern touch, rest one on the coffee table — for holiday "bussing" above it.

The local Florists' Telegraph Delivery florist can make one for the home. or wire it to faraway friends as an unusual gift.

Flowers for Santa

Give Santa flowers, too—a rose or carnation boutonniere to wear to holiday parties.

KITCHEN MATCH-UPS in terry towels, potholders, aprons and toaster covers are Christmas pleasers for homemakers. By Morgan-Jones.

Mail Early To Be Sure Of Arrival

Literally, "wrap up Christmas early!" To be sure all Yule cards, letters and packages reach their destination in time for Christmas, mail early.

Be sure letters and packages are correctly and fully addressed, with a clear and full return address.

Pack gifts to be mailed carefully, especially fragile items; then wrap parcels securely.

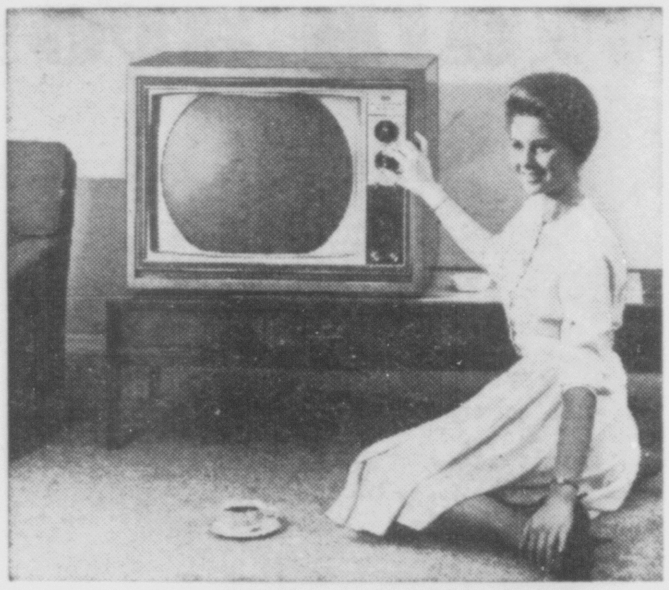
Mail all parcels and out-of-state Christmas cards by Dec. 10. Mail local Christmas cards by Dec. 16.

For speediest delivery of gifts and cards by mail, be sure to use zip code numbers.

ZIP CODE information may be obtained from the local post-office.

There's also a booklet available which lists all the zip codes in the U. S. Cost is $2.75 and the booklet is obtainable from: Superintendent of Documents Washington, D. C.

AN ALL WEATHER RAIN-.coat is always a good gift for Dad. It's something he can wear the whole year through. Most raincoats are versatile enough to be worn with all of his outfits. By Alligator.



MAKE IT A colorful Christmas with a gift of color television for the family. New, simpler controls, trimmer, more compact table models and neater styling, plus all channel reception will add to the whole family's enjoyment. By RCA Victor.

All Share In Choice Of Gifts

Families, homes, presents, Christmas: they belong together.

At Christmas, a time for giving, for decorating the home and, most of all, for joy amongst the family, gifts of "something for the home" become the successful answer to many a present problem. Home gifts fill a need, serve a purpose, look wonderful, last long—and please everbody.

From the family to the family, home gifts express the very spirit of Christmas—the joy of giving, plus the warmth of family ties centered in the home. In keeping with this spirit, the family can band together to pay for the home gift, and go together to select it.

Call a Conference

Call a family conference early to decide on the gift—or gifts. Then, shop early to be sure of having the selections delivered in time for Christmas enjoyment.

Convenient credit plans in local stores make it easy to make this the year the family realizes its special wish for some major piece of furniture that can be shared and enjoyed by all, whether it be a sofa, new carpeting, dining table and chairs, complete equipment for a family recreation room—or whatever.

Then there are the "personal" presents—home gifts chosen by individual members of the family, to surprise Mom, Dad or the children.

Even the young children can play an important part here. They learn the joy of giving and the gift of cooperation by putting their money together and choosing a gift for Mommy anl Daddy that fits into the home.

Let Them Choose

Let them pick it out themselves, with a little tactful guidance if they're very young. A mirror, planter, clock, throw pillows might be "big gifts" for little folks to present, while such smaller gifts as kitchen gadgets for Mom or barbecue tools for Dad fit young budgets and get a big welcome.

Since Mother is always happiest when she feels she has kept the family home a pleasing, comfortable and convenient place to live in, almost any home gift will delight her. Dad and the children might surprise her with a gift just for her—a serving cart to help lighten her own relaxing corner.

For the Children

Traditionally, Christmas is the time to give Dad a comfortable chair—and he'll also welcome such gifts as games tables, desks, man-sized lamps to read or work by, chests and cabinets for everything from clothing to hobby equipment.

Whether they're married, college students or just youngsters, the children will enjoy something new for their rooms or home. Newlyweds can use just about anything and everything to help them start home-keeping, while older married children are usually ready to refurnish or modernize their home.

Dolls More 'Real' Than Ever

But Fantasy Toys Provide Contrast

From squirming new baby prototypes to sophisticated ladies with elaborate heardos and smartly styled clothes, dolls for Christmas '64 are more like humans than ever.

Greater participation in family life motivates many of the new doll designs. For example, Pamela, a new version of the child-size walking doll, escorts her own poodle, holding him firmly on a leash.

New thrills in the nursery section of the doll world include an astonishing baby, who, when her lips touch her wonder bottle, demonstrates all over action. Not only does she turn and twist, she kicks her feet, her hands grope for the bottle and her body gives an extraordinary illusion of life.

ANOTHER BABY prototype is Blabby, who "talks" realistically as her lips open and close. She coos and chortles in perfect synchronization.

"Yummy Kiss" is a new infant marvel whose mouth moves and emits a kissing sound when her stomach is pressed.

Still another bundle of love in Santa's new pack is Weepsy Wiggles, who cries real tears after being fed her bottle, meanwhile wriggling as a lullaby blends music with tears.

In tune with toyland's mobility, many of the new dolls and their accessories are packaged ready to travel.

TYPICAL OF the trend to real life participation is Penny Brite, an older doll, who has not only a suitable wardrobe for all occasions but also her own sports car and an operating beauty parlor, as well as smart furniture.

An authentically styled hospital bed that raises and lowers adds spice to nurse-convalescent doll play.

The newest fashion doll house of sturdy fiberboard, with furniture scaled to fit eight and 10 inch dolls, presents an efficiency one-room apartment. With the aid of a decorative screen, the apartment converts from living room-dinette to bedroom, and has its own smart patio layout, too.

Hairdos for the lieflike new dolls — show greater variety, from infants' pixie hair and toddler dolls' bangs to the sophisticated doll contingent with high rising pompadours, chignons and braid effects.

CONTRASTING WITH the galaxy of realism is an array of fantastic trolls, engagingly grotesque with wildly streaming hair and holes in their heads. Among these ingenious fantasy dolls is the Wishnik clan, ranging from a family of cave dwellers to an Insomnik in pajamas and Smartniks in academic robes.

Boys are more in evidence in the doll world. There's a Jack and Jill pair of pre-school aged dolls. Teenage dolls like Barbie and Tammy have male companions of comparable age. And there's even a GI Joe doll with authentic uniforms.

THE WORLD of stuffed animals also reflects fascinating designs. Pooches are carefully styled according to champion dog tradition and include all the favorites from poodles and St. Bernards to dachshunds and terriers.

Pokey the playful pup is an intriguing variation of the puppet concept. He operates on two strings, from a bone shaped control bar. Give Pokey a squeeze and he obliges with a highly realistic "woof woof."

FASHIONABLE DOLLS dress right for every occasion. Teenage Tammy, above, sports a smart ski outfit which might inspire a sports-shy young lady to take more interest in group activities. A choice of nearly 50 costumes is available. By Ideal. (SS

'Big League' Sports Make Realistic Games

Big league sports, scaled to home front size, play an increasingly important role in family recreation.

A breakthrough in realism of home ice hockey is achieved this season with a new "icy-pro-puck" that gives the effect of actual play on ice. This innovation, which incorporates a ball bearing construction, gives super realism to a new electric slide action hockey game.

A new 3-D effect stadium adds to the authentic atmosphere of big hockey game competition, according to Edward Gluck, who has pioneered many realistic adaptations of big league sports to table size.

Dedicated fans are highly appreciative of fine points of action in miniaturized versions.

A SPECIAL feature of the National Football League electric game this season is a real-as-life magnetic football which makes it possible for home front players to pick up a loose ball while it is in motion.

The NFL game utilizes large three-D players in four different playing positions. Team members are motivated by built-in polyethlene "legs." NFL teams' favorite plays are outlined in an accompanying booklet.

The rise of billiards as a home front family favorite is a phenomenon this season. Favorite base for play is the medium size table whose legs collapse for easy storage. (SS

They're Monstrous

Most bizarre trend in '64 toylands is a crop of monsters, mostly inspired by reruns of horror movies of a generation ago.

Frankenstein and Dracula, for example, may be produced from plastic kits.

THURS., NOV. 26, 1964

PLAYING BILLIARDS is a family affair this Yuletide. Gifted idea might be a medium-sized table with "big table" features such as automatic ball return, live rubber cushions. Legs fold for easy storage. By Gotham Pressed Steel Corporation.

BOATING BUFF'S Christmas would be complete with a portable multi-band transistor, receiving ship-to-shore news as well as music. By General Electric.

Transistorized Gifts Delight Hard-to-Please

One novel gift idea for the sportsman, businessman or hard-to-please son in the family is a walkie-talkie.

Transistorized, such a set permits sending or receiving indoors or out, on the "unlicensed" citizen's band.

A welcome gift for any driver on the Christmas list is a new car radio. Many of the new models are now transistorized.

TALKING DOLLS are more life-like than ever. An example is Nancy Nurse, who coughs and sneezes, too—without spreading germs! By De Luxe Reading.

WALKING DOLLS will be stepping from under many Christmas trees this year. Pamela, above, can stroll with her very own poodle, too. By Uneeda Doll Co.

Tables for Yule

Tables come in a wide variety for Christmas gifts.

A dining table with matching chairs or a kitchen set are fine major gifts for Mom; a game or card table is a good idea for Dad or the family.

Coffee or end tables could bring lasting pleasure to anybody on the list.

"DECK THE HALLS with boughs of holly" — and deck the home with the gift of music, a new piano. Santa might have the gift delivered before Christmas, to turn tree-trimming into a song-fest and set the key for the family's holiday fun. By Steinway.

LONG YEARS of fun and companionship are gifts to the lucky little girl who receives her own bike — and her own dog, too — for Christmas. Chances are, both she and the dog will enjoy the bike — the dog for the fun of romping along beside her as she wheels away. (SS

Favorite Toys Now Big as Youngsters

New variations of old favorites this Christmas cater to youngsters' love of playthings as big as they are and, at the same time, light in weight.

New blocks, for example, are made of tough fiberboard so even a toddler can pile them up without strain and jump on them without adverse effects, if it suits his fancy.

New animal sounds add to the fun as the blocks are squeezed. Another style musical block of fiberboard emits animal sounds when shaken.

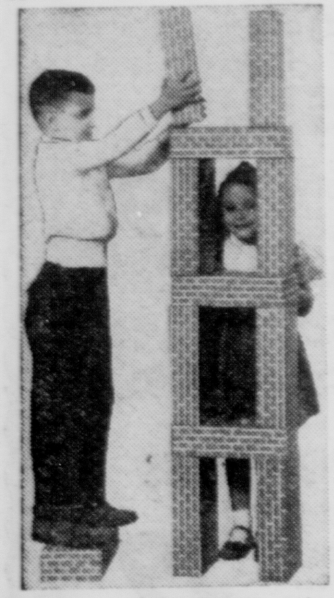
Crawl-in garages encourage junior to put away his wheel toys. A crawl-in firehouse adds realism to children's universal interest in playing fireman.

THIS SEASON the streamlined rocking horse has a variant—a tugboat on untippable rockers. There's a rocking elephant too, as another novelty.

New challenges to the toddler include a put-together telephone whose components are attached to a cord to eliminate hunting for lose pieces.

The eternal challenge of learning to lace shoes is lightened by a music attachment.

FAVORITE TOYS such as blocks take on new dimensions this Christmas. Large, lightweight block here makes a different animal sound every time it's turned. By Toymaster.



YOUNG ARCHITECTS enjoy building fun, with "bricks" of lightweight fiberboard, sturdy enough to withstand even adult weight. By Toymaster.

VROOM! HE'S ready to go on his new bike, one of the "different" ones in Santa's selection. It looks, sounds like a motorcycle, operates like a bike. "V-Rroom" by Mattel.

YOUNG INDIVIDUALISTS often favor the unusual when it comes to bicycle gifts, such as the unicycle shown here, or perhaps a tandem.

Santa Gift Tradition Goes Back Centuries

Though Santa makes an early appearance for the Christmas shopping season, youngsters can count on it that he'll come back again on Christmas Eve, making a perfect landing on many a rooftop in his reindeer-drawn sleigh.

His arrival in this fashion was first described by Dr. Clement C. Moore in 1823, when he wrote the famous poem, "The Night Before Christmas."

Even then, Santa didn't have his bright red suit. Dr. Moore reported he was "dressed all in fur from his head to his foot." He did, however, have his beard, which unfortunately was covered with "ashes and soot," during his trip down the chimney.

SANTA KEPT his beard and acquired his now-traditional red suit later on, when Cartoonist Thomas Nast deicted him in a drawing in 1869.

In one guise or another, Santa has been making the rounds on Christmas Eve for a long, long time. Referring to the jolly old gentleman in "Knickerbocker History of New York," in 1809, Washington Irving described him as wearing a broad-brimmed hat and huge breeches.

Earlier, a book called "The Children's Friend" told of "Santeclaus" and observed that he was dressed like a bishop.

A BISHOP'S garb for the Christmas gift giver goes back to the first of all Santas, St. Nicholas, a bishop in Asia Minor in the fifth century A.D.

The story goes that St. Nicholas wanted to help the three daughters of a man too poor to give them the dowries they needed in order to marry.

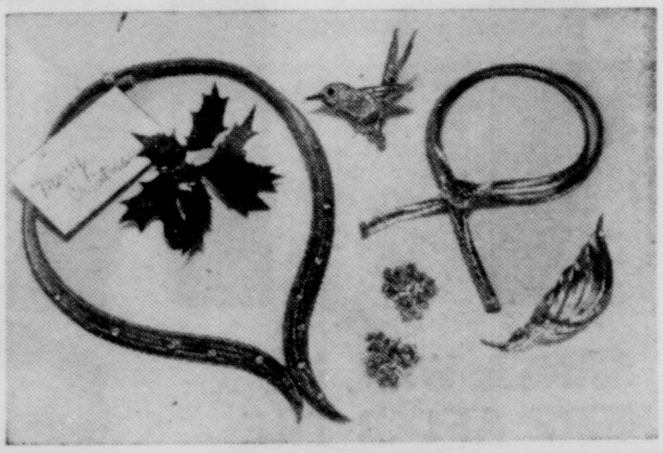
Since he wished his gifts to be anonymous, he threw a bag of gold down the chimney of their home every Christmas Eve for three years, until all the daughters were married.

On the third Christmas, the father surprised St. Nicholas in the act of tossing the gold into the chimney. Next day, he told everyone of the good saint's kindness.

IN LATER YEARS St. Nicholas became the patron saint of children. He traveled by horseback, wearing his bishop's robes, to deliver gifts to good children on the eve of his day, Dec. 6.

St. Nicholas "traveled" with the Dutch to the New World and gradually evolved into Santa Claus, although his original name still lives on in a nickname—a "nick" name indeed, since it's St. Nick.

Whatever Santa is called—Pere Noel, Father Christmas, Kris Kringle, Grandfather Frost—children eagerly await him on Christmas Eve.



LITTLE DIAMONDS mean a lot in Christmas sentiment, and they enhance the looks of every type of women's jewelry. Here's an array of 14-karat gold jewelry that's "peppered" with diamonds.

CHRISTMAS TURKEY gets sliced in style, when you give Dad something different . . . an electric carving knife, to help him show off his carving skill. This one is by Dominion.

AUTOMATIC GIFT solution: for the friend or relative who's hard to please, give an automatic travel toothbrush, in its own case. By Dominion.

GOSSAMER-SHEER gift idea, stockings are always appreciated. Here, nylons in a special gift box. By Hanes.

EVER-FASCINATING "tabletop" sport that every member of the family can enjoy is provided by sets with miniature electrically-powered cars and flexible track arrangements. Motoring or racing, skill is required to manipulate the cars. By Aurora Plastics.

Stockings Good Idea

This Christmas more than ever, stockings provide Santa with happy solutions for present problems, as a galaxy of new styles, textures, colors appears on the fashion scene.

Diamonds are a fair lady's best friend — and not beyond Santa's pocketbook — when they are "diamonds," a new pattern in seamless stockings of texturized nylon.

Herringbone and ribbed patterns are other favorites.

For a girl who loves dancing, a gift box of sheer sandalfoot seamless stockings could be a happy choice.

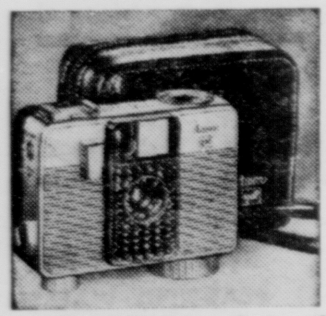
Attention Is Focused on Camera Gifts

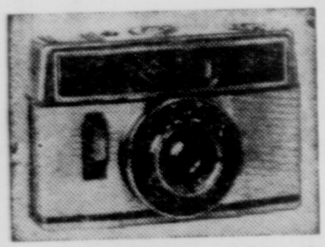
Although the gadgetry of photography presents a happy hunting ground for gifting untold millions of enthusiastic picture makers, major attention appears to be focused on the new cameras available for Christmas.

This is true both with respect to still cameras and movie cameras, both of which, regardless of what they may cost, will yield either black and white or color pictures. Remember, it's the film you use that is the determining factor here.

ANSCO TITAN 8 mm movie camera with grip handle sets lens automatically for proper exposure, even warns if light is too bright or too dim. It has bettery-powered electric motor and f/8 lens with zoom available on some models.



ANSCO MEMO II outfit based in this tiny single frame camera that's fully automatic, containing flash unit, bulbs, battery, fast color film and a carrying case. Camera takes twice as many pictures on standard 35 mm film.



OPTIMA-PARAT by AGFA is a fully automatic half frame camera for which a telephoto lens also is available.

KODAK ESCORT 8 is a budget priced movie camera including automatic exposure control, fast lens and footage indicator among other features. Available also with zoom lens.

Chief across-the-board feature of the new cameras—and this applies even to many in the budget priced category—is the extension of automation which frees the user from the mathematical problem of figuring exposures. Yes, this is applicable to movie cameras as well as still cameras.

Popular preference for still cameras that use 35 mm film—possibly because of their convenience and maybe even more so because of the color slides they produce—continues to increase.

A NEW trend brings what is called the "single frame" still cameras onto the market in wide and fascinating variety.

"Single frame" means just half the size of a traditional 35 mm negative or slide. This in turn means that these compact and easy to carry cameras will yield just twice as many pictures from a given roll of 35 mm—72 from a roll of 36 or 40 from a roll of 20.

True, this is an economy as far as film is concerned, but more significant is the compactness of these cameras, most of which are equipped with most desirable automatic exposure features.

Some are hardly bigger than a package of cigarettes. All slip with equal convenience into a coat pocket or a lady's purse.

They are recommended as most convenient for the traveler who doesn't want to be burdened in any way and for all those who are fond of the idea of modern miniaturization within reason. By choice of proper film, they will produce negatives and transparencies that will blow up sharply. They are especially fitted for gifting the "snapshooter."

THE AREA OF convenience for the amateur has been greatly developed by Kodak's work in perfecting its Instamatic series—the still cameras that are loaded and set for shooting by simply dropping a cartridge of film into position. Foreign camera makers currently are following the trend by bringing out models also featuring this ease of loading.

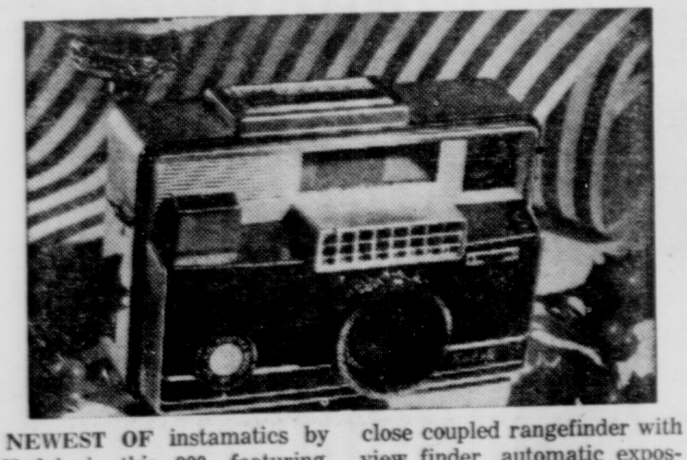
Instamatics are available in a wide variety of models, from budget priced models to those ranging to three figures and equipped with almost every conceivable type of automation, from motorized film advances to built in automatic flash units.

More and more "zoom lenses" are becoming available for still cameras as well as for movie cameras. These are the lenses which permit making everything from wide angle shots to close-ups from the same vantage point.

There also is a special type of camera on the market this year that would bring joy to the skin diver. It's presented as an "all weather" 35 mm, hermetically sealed against the effects of water, that will work just as conveniently under normal conditions as under water.

BECAUSE MANY amateur picture makers are becoming increasingly skillful and "sophisticated" about their photography, it is recommended that buyers of gifts for them consult with the experts in the photo stores. These men know the field thoroughly.

Remember that any gift of a camera just must be accompanied by a gift of some film so that the camera may be put to use immediately.



NEWEST OF instamatics by Kodak is this 800, featuring instantaneous cartridge loading that sets speed of film, close coupled rangefinder with view finder, automatic exposure control and built-in pop-up flash holder.

Selection Is Broad For Traveling Man

Luggage is for the man who travels; and what man doesn't travel these days. Whether he travels on long trips, or just two days, or even one at a time, he'll always need something to carry that extra shirt in.

Of course, if he is gone for long periods of time, then he'll be needing a two-suiter, with plenty of room for more shirts, underwear and socks. Chances are, likely as not, that he travels by air to the many places his work takes him. If this is the case, then the lighter weight the luggage the better.

Suits, ties, shirts and underwere aren't the only things that a man takes along with him when he travels.

A handsome shaving kit for all his portable toiletries, brushes and combs, would certainly make an ideal gift. A portable tie case to keep his cravats unwrinkled, or even a small laundry bag for the clothes he soils "down the line" may well be in order.

And don't forget that his initials on the travel aids that you give him are always a special thought that adds to his Christmas thrill and his status, too.

For many a businessman, be he traveler, commuter, or townsman, a trim attache case will bring the aura of status to his public image. Slim and smart, the latest attache cases and briefcases come with one or more compartments and many have room for a shirt or two and a few ties.

There are numerous sizes of luggage, all of which come in various materials. Of course, the most luxurious of all the luggage materials is leather.

Smooth, grained or even brushed leather luggage comes in all sizes and shapes—full two suiters, 21-inch weekenders, trim carry-on cases and shuttle bags.

If he's a front-runner, give him the latest in a soft sided two-suiter with three separate entry compartments. Two half-sized pockets cover one side of the suitcase, with a third full size compartment on the other side.

Still in the travel field are any number of items to make his visits away from home base ever more comfortable. Choose a traveling clock, folding slippers, personalized playing cards, or even a portable bar for long thirsty trips.

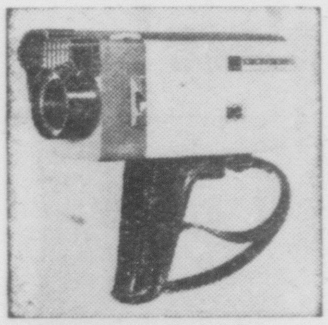
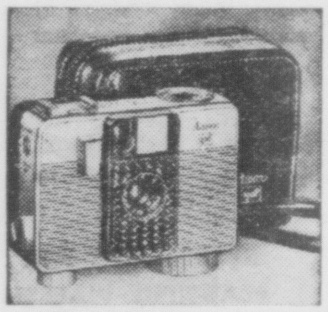
Attention Is Focused on Camera Gifts

Although the gadgetry of photography presents a happy hunting ground for gifting untold millions of enthusiastic picture makers, major attention appears to be focused on the new cameras available for Christmas.

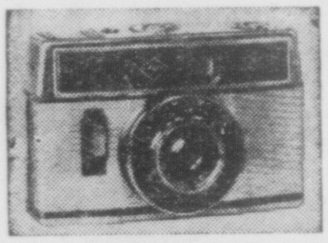
This is true both with respect to still cameras and movie cameras, both of which, regardless of what they may cost, will yield either black and white or color pictures. Remember, it's the film you use that is the determining factor here.



ANSCO TITAN 8 mm movie camera with grip handle sets lens automatically for proper exposure, even warns if light is too bright or too dim. It has bettery-powered electric motor and f/8 lens with zoom available on some models.



ANSCO MEMO II outfit based in this tiny single frame camera that's fully automatic, containing flash unit, bulbs, battery, fast color film and a carrying case. Camera takes twice as many pictures on standard 35 mm film.



OPTIMA-PARAT by AGFA is a fully automatic half frame camera for which a telephoto lens also is available.

KODAK ESCORT 8 is a budget priced movie camera including automatic exposure control, fast lens and footage indicator among other features. Available also with zoom lens.

Chief across-the-board feature of the new cameras—and this applies even to many in the budget priced category—is the extension of automation which frees the user from the mathematical problem of figuring exposures. Yes, this is applicable to movie cameras as well as still cameras.

Popular preference for still cameras that use 35 mm film—possibly because of their convenience and maybe even more so because of the color slides they produce—continues to increase.

A NEW trend brings what is called the "single frame" still cameras onto the market in wide and fascinating variety.

"Single frame" means just half the size of a traditional 35 mm negative or slide. This in turn means that these compact and easy to carry cameras will yield just twice as many pictures from a given roll of 35 mm—72 from a roll of 36 or 40 from a roll of 20.

True, this is an economy as far as film is concerned, but more significant is the compactness of these cameras, most of which are equipped with most desirable automatic exposure features.

Some are hardly bigger than a package of cigarettes. All slip with equal convenience into a coat pocket or a lady's purse.

New Appliances Give Mom Leisure

A GIFT of increased leisure for Mom is always welcome. A new, streamlined appliance is a Christmas gift that will give her pleasure all year long. Here, a modern new divided refrigerator with lighted countertop work space, eye-level shelves and roomy freezer section could be a homemaker's dream. By General Electric.

How's your kitchen fixed for Christmas? Is it arranged and equipped to help make your holidays happy or is it a bottleneck that makes you dread the approaching festivities?

If you've ever tried to squeeze a 20-pound turkey into a crowded little old refrigerator that's barely adequate for regular needs, you'll appreciate what a modern electric refrigerator-freezer can mean, especially if it's one that never has to be defrosted at all.

The freezer section, whether at top, bottom or side, can be used to store both homemade and commercially prepared foods, either cooked or purchased well before the holidays. Some homemakers even cook most of their Christmas dinner ahead of time and simply heat it up on Christmas day.

With a no-frost unit, frozen foods won't stick together, labels will remain visible, and there's no frost to steal storage space.

The fresh-food section of a new electric refrigerator-freezer will hold quantities of festive fare, in addition to regular family foods.

A new automatic range, with its accurate timers, will make it a joy to prepare the specialties associated with Christmas. Results will be uniform, and the extra capacity provided by roomy models is perfect for both company dinners and big-batch baking.

The third factor in beating the kitchen bottleneck at Christmastime is an automatic dishwasher. Instead of spending hours at the sink hand-washing stacks of dirty dishes, you can just brush off remaining food, add detergent, press a button, and your dishwashing's done for you.

Many of the new models have a choice of cycles. These include a pre-rinse cycle for dishes put in the dishwasher and left to be washed later when there's a full load, plus cycles for china and glassware, pots and pans, and normal after-dinner loads.

An electric garbage disposer for the kitchen sink can speed up clean-up chores.

THE GIFT MOM WANTS MOST is a needed appliance to ease her housework chores. A modern, streamlined washer-dryer duo is a good idea. Newest models have push-button controls, eliminating much of the guesswork and constant watching for Mom, and special attachments for delicate launderables. By Maytag.

A HOLIDAY FROM housework would be Mom's favorite gift, and a new compact mobile dishwasher would work wonders! By Frigidaire.

Cheery Wraps Give Gay Look to Gifts

Colorful gifts under the tree make Christmas merrier. The many gala wrappings available this year can help give every present, large or small, a joyous holiday look.

"New" trend in wrapping papers, ribbons and bows sees a return of the old-fashioned, cheery red-and-green Christmas spirit, along with many pretty pastels. Traditionally loved subjects such as bells, Santa, pine cones and Christmas trees abound on printed papers.

Whatever type of paper is used, it's well to remember the basic rules of wrapping.

—Always use non-transparent paper (so no one knows what the box says).

—Keep wrappings secure with glue or rubber cement, seals or transparent tape.

—Leave at least two inches of paper for a neat squared corner.

SOME OTHER hints include: Disguise presents in unusual packages. Use paper towel rolls to hide small presents or flat ones such as scarves or handkerchiefs. Red tissue and cotton turns this kind of wrap into a "skinny" Santa, or pastel tissue and ribbon make it into a pretty doll.

For larger boxes, create holiday scenes or funny faces on the tops by using greeting cards, cotton, colored tissue ribbon and pompon bows.

Don't stop with the outside! Stuff boxes with candy, confetti or shredded tissue. That makes it more fun to try and find the present.

LOVELY LEISURE fashions make grand Christmas gifting. Here, a fluid drawstring gown, topped with brocade robe. Gown of Enka Crepeset Nylon.

Youngsters Can Create Yule Cards

Making greeting cards always a favorite juvenile pastime, is added fun this Christmas with a new art set called My Greeting Card Kit.

This includes instructions for creating appropriate cards for every occasion. A series of stencils contain letters, numbers, outlines of animals, birds and holiday ornaments.

TWO NEW highly decorative mediums are included in this unusual kit. Containers of green, yellow and red fluff make designs look and fell real.

Glitter-tone multi-color paint which makes greeting cards sparkle and shine provides extra glamor to juvenile created greetings.

AT-HOME ELEGANCE will be the theme of many gifts this Christmas. Here, long flowered robe. Fabric, Klopman Mills.

Music Supplies Gift for Future

To give children Christmas presents with a future, consider musical instruments — along with music lessons, too.

For younger children there are instruments designed especially for small hands. At age eight or 10, standard-size musical instruments can be handled with comfort.

A ROBE FOR SANTA will give him warm comfort mornings and evenings, too. This pure wool robe from Countess Mara.

New Blouses Top on List

Tops for the gift list this season could well be new styles in blouses and sweaters.

Feminine-looking blouses in a flurry of ruffles are fashion news, but she still needs her tailored shirts, too. A smart Santa might give her both!

Gift-worthy sweaters show the ski look, the bulky look or the dressmaker look.

"TO MOTHER," says the gift tag, because Santa knows she appreciates presents that add convenience to her day and charm to her home. The family might give her an expandable dining table with matching chairs. Group by B. Brody Seating Co.

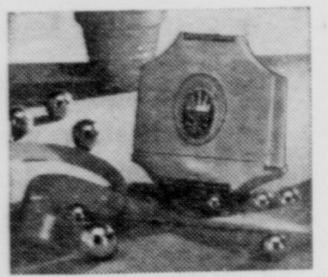
Beauty Items Always Welcome

HOLIDAY HAIRDOS, everyday hair-care are easier with a gift of a home hair dryer. This one by Lady Norelco.

MOST FEMININE gift a woman could receive is a fragrant one, such as spray cologne. Shown here, Chantilly by Houbigant.

HEAVEN-SCENT for Christmast gifting, bath preparations are gift-boxed, always welcome. Here, "Red Roses" by Yardley.



GIFT OF GOOD grooming is always appreciated. Here, a cordless ladies' shaver. By Lady Remington.

Long a favorite on Christmas lists, beauty gifts are one of Santa's standbys when it comes to choosing something feminine for her, yet each year they're new and different.

From new developments in beauty products to fresh approaches in the way they're packaged, this gifts category always offers opportunities to please and surprise women of every age, along with the assurance that the presents will be welcome and useful.

Types and prices of beauty gifts are varied, too. A beauty gift could well be her "big" present this Christmas — a portable electric hair dryer, for instance.

ON THE other hand, there's a wealth of little beauty gifts, ideal for gifting her with the many small packages that add a lot of extra pleasure. Purse-size spray cologne, fragrant soap, bath powder or bath mitt are just some of the possibilities.

And if Santa wants to make her beauty gift really different, how about false eyelashes — or a wig? Since Santa's a man, he may think such suggestions sound far out — but many a busy woman will tell him they're really practical!

Handyman Will Like New Tools, Gadgets

Is your man a handyman around the house? Almost all men are.

These avid work bench enthusiasts seem never to run out of the desire for new tools and gadgets that will carry them further into the realm of "do-it-yourself."

Have you ever seen your home handyman pass a display of tools without letting his eyes browse through the equipment for a while? Hardly!

HE MAY HAVE three hammers and still feel that he could use a couple more. Or, he may have five screwdrivers but still find himself lacking the one that is just the right size at one particular time or another.

Perhaps he has had the same old tools for years. If this is the case, now might well be the time to buy him a new set.

If he is all set in the hand tool category, then it is time to get him into power tools. These will open a whole new field to him. He will be able to do things that otherwise would have been impossible.

TOOLS aren't the only things he may need though. What about his workshop area? New lights, a paint job, insulation racks for tools, cabinets, or better still, materials to make some of these items might be in order.

Need it or not, however, he's sure to enjoy any tool you buy him.

THURS., NOV. 26, 1964

GIFTS FOR THE do-it-yourself man should hew to his interest in the tools that extend his skills. These may range from hand tools to one of the immensely versatile kits of power tools that can do almost anything for him, illustrated here by Stanley Works.

Accessories Gifts Can Prove Little Things Mean a Lot

Point the way to a Merry Christmas for her with a gift of gloves, in every length from shortie to above-elbow. Hand her a handbag to carry Yuletide good wishes and her many scarves and stoles.

Deck her with fashion jewelry — bracelets, pins, earrings, necklaces, rings. There's a sparkling selection this Yuletide, with the accent on the glowing look and the "real look" in gems.

ALL-AROUND GIFT is the all-around sweater . . . to be worn with slacks, skirts or suits. Here, a cowl-collared cashmere style. By Dalton of America.

Whatever Santa's choice of accessories gifts, he'll discover that little things do indeed mean a lot to her, in terms of fashion, practicality, beauty.

Going around in the best fashion circles, belts make a welcome gift for her, in casual to elegant styles. Hankies, headwarmers, umbrellas, aprons, even little touches of fur are still more of the gifted ideas accessories departments offer for her.

Perhaps one of the most important accessories gifts, with regard to both Santa's investment and her long-term use, is a handbag. With this one style-right gift, she can solve a clothes problem, secure her fashion reputation and score a double gain in wardrobe beauty and practicality.

For a handbag with all-around appeal, choose a daytime style such as a satchel or pouch. In brushed or grained leathers, these will serve her smartly through busy hours of working, shopping, visiting, running errands ad infinitum.

If she's an advocate of the handy shoulder - strap bag, give her one of the sleek new versions now available.

Beautifully detailed envelopes and clutches in smooth, suede, fine-grained or embossed leather textures accessorize perfectly with her dressy costumes.

To make her tree glitter on Christmas morn, give her a decorative evening bag.

Coordinated purse accessories such as wallets, french purses, eyeglass and key cases can add joy to the gift of a handbag or serve as presents on their own.

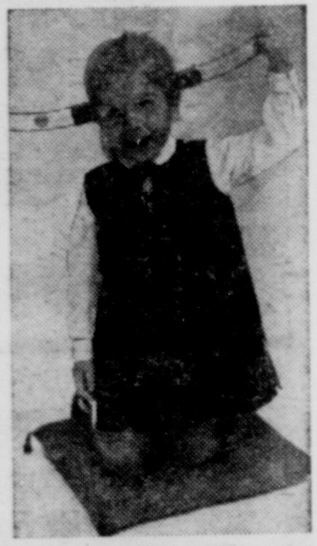
Stores Offer Ideas

Puzzled? Many stores have lists of toys which appeal to children at different ages, to help in making gifts choices.

UNUSUAL THERMOMETERS make practical gifts for everyone — Mom, Sis, Dad or Brother. For Mom and Sis, there are kitchen thermometers for every need from jelly making to roasting. Sporting choices for Dad or Brother might be a fish-finder thermometer which indicates the best depth to fish, or a fisherman's barometer which tells where fish are biting best. For the whole family, traditional weather instruments are always welcome gifts. This selection posed by Taylor Instruments.

FEMININE LACE flatter her at Christmas. Glamorous gift suggestion here is a black lace mantilla. In Ban-Lon lace.

MOBILE MUSIC is the newest trend, and appropriate for gifting. Here, a portable transistor AM-FM radio. By Elgin.



SHEER NONSENSE games, just for fun, make sense, too. "Hollowhead," here, "proves" everyone has a hole in the head! Attach to head, tilt, and a ball in the clear plastic horn seems to slide right through.

STOCKING STUFFER or extra gift, handkerchiefs in bright prints and patterns are fine for Christmas. These imported from Switzerland.

BATTING 1,000 with the young set, "Sluggerniks" are baseball dolls said to bring good luck. By Uneeda Doll Co.

Gift Variety for Sportsmen Is Great

This decade is synonymous with the "active man" or the "man on the go." More men have been spending more time is the playing fields, or indoors at their favorite sports, than ever before. One of the reasons for this is that they have more time to do so. And age is no handicap.

There's a sport for every man. And this means that there are lots of new Christmas gift ideas for your sportsman. More and more men have gotten together to start their own amateur leagues in their favorite sports. This means football and baseball, the top spectator sports, are no longer secluded to a man's reading about them in the sports pages. He's actually out there playing them.

MAKE YOUR MAN a happy angler by giving him a new fishing rod and reel this Christmas. New flies make good gifts also. This rod by the Garcia Corporation.

He is certain to have his favorite sport, and the family is sure to know about it. This will make picking a present for him relatively easy.

BUT THERE are many other sports besides the "big two." Take, for instance, bowling, tennis, golf, squash, hand ball, fishing (above and under the water, boating, and others.

These should offer many gift selections that are sure to please. A new racquet, tennis balls; new clubs and balls for the golfer, not to mention golf bags, club covers, portable caddies and golf shoes; a fishing rod and reel, tackle box and tackle for the fisherman; or if he's an underwater fan, aqua lung, goggles, flippers, rubber suit and spear gun might be just what he needs.

For the boating man there are plenty of things that his craft, no matter what the size, is sure to need. A new compass, radio, galley equipment, are just a few of the great number of items that a boat man always finds handy.

FOR THE HUNTER, there is a wide variety of gifts, one of which he may well need. New rifles, shotguns, supplies of ammunition are all high on the hunter's list for Christmas. A telescopic sight may be just what his favorite gun lacks. Camping equipment is always a good suggestion for the hunter who likes to spend some time at his game.

Is he a skier (on snow or water)? How about giving him a new pair of skis, new boots, a set of bindings, poles, furs for the really accomplished snow skier; all of these will be a real delight.

What about the indoor sportsman? Does he enjoy ping-pong or billiards? These are games that the whole family can enjoy with dad. There are games for the yard too, such as badminton, croquet and horse shoes, all of which can offer fun for every age member of the family.

A GAME OF chess or checkers should be high on the list of gifts for a man whose favorite sport may be the quick thinking that it takes to win.

If there's any doubt in your mind about choosing exactly the right gift in his favorite sports category, then buy him a gift certificate at his favorite sports shop.

To Charm Teens

Charm bracelets seem still to The variety of charms is great this year.

Miniature Class rings, pennats, silhouette heads, zodiac signs and various types are favoured.

THE MAGIC OF CHRISTMAS lasts all year long for the family gifted by Dad with a tape-recorder. Many families record special holiday messages to send to loved ones or to replay in the future. The merry sounds of the holiday festivities may be captured on tape, also, and played back at the next family gathering. Recorder by Wollensak. Living Letter Scotch Magnetic Tape.

WHAT A THRILL for dad, that great indoor sportsman, to find a handsome new billiard table in the playroom, as a gift that he can share with the family. New smart, slim, lightweight but sturdy styles in a wide range of prices. This one by Brunswick.

Variety Offered In Men's Jewelry

Even though the men and boys on your Christmas list would probably be the last to admit it, the chances are that they're real sentimentalists at heart.

All the more reason, says the Jewelry Industry Council, that each would surely welcome a gift of jewelry for Christmas as a lasting expression of love and appreciation.

Personal jewelry, whether in karat gold, sterling silver or gold filled, suits the occasion perfectly by being both a practical as well as memorable gift NEW CUFF links, tie bars, tie tacs and pen and pencil sets are always much wanted. Lighters, belt buckles, key chains and money clips are other favorites.

Today's sleek new watches are sure to bring a glow of pride to the lucky ones who get them. These watches are the last word in styling and scientific ingenuity for dress, business and sport use, and they come in all price ranges.

CUFFLINKS GET the man's vote this Christmas, such as this set of knotted gold links with matching studs. Suggested by Jewelry Industry Council.

Rings have been growing in popularity among men to such an extend that jewelry stores carry wide assortments, marking schools, colleges and fraternal groups, as well as signet and stone rings.

A birthstone ring, with the stone symbolizing his birth month is a meaningful gift he'll wear with pride and sentiment for years to come.

Bride, Groom Like Help Furnishing

Are there newlyweds on the gift list this year? Give them something they can use!

People have a tendency to forget all the things they needed when they started housekeeping when they're choosing presents for their newly married friends and relatives.

The newlywed couple often has a lovely centerpiece but no dining-room table to put it on, a wonderful assortment of knick-knacks but no niche to put them on. They get many things for entertaining and having parties but they don't have enough chairs to have a party.

Newlyweds have another problem. Someone whose feelings they don't wish to hurt inevitably gives them a perfectly lovely piece of furniture that sticks out like a sore thumb when placed with the rest of their decor.

DO A LITTLE research before buying and find out what decorating scheme the couple is using and buy accordingly, or give a gift certificate so they can pick out exactly what they want.

If the newlyweds already have the essentials, remember there are things they need much more than a silver ice bucket or a gold plated bartender. Before they can begin to entertain, they need a set of good china, good silverware and a set of holiday glassware.

When it comes to the cost of these items, it is much better for two or three people to get together and get the newlyweds one thing they need than three things they couldn't use.

Watchbands Take Aura Of Fashion

Watchbands, too, have taken on a fashion aura and complement the watch itself.

With the fascinating and new watchbands now available, there is no reason for an elegant watch not to have a handsome band. The latest ones are extremely thin, of tapered mesh, and give almost a "solid gold" look to the watch.

For extra ease and comfort, they have flexible links where the band joins the watch, and a small expansion section is concealed under the clasp to make it easy to get on and off.

IN ADDITION, there are many varieties of the woven mesh band that are designed to suit every man's individual tastes.

Some men, however, either don't like, or won't look "right" in a fancy watchband. For them there are still many choices, from a new leather, alligator and others to some of the very smart new fabric watchbands that come in solids and patterns.

WELCOME GIFTS for now and later are colorful bath or beach towels like this one. By Martex in Avisco's Avicolor rayon.

UNDER THE TREE, what woman wouldn't love to find an elegant fur? Here, a seal reefer, brightly buttoned. Of Fouke-Dyed Matara Alaska fur seal, by Georges Kaplan.

Fashions Can Please All Tastes

SANTA BRINGS sweaters—and the gals love 'em! Here, new sleeveless styling in a diamond - patterned sweater. By Russ.

Whoever she is, wherever she lives, whatever she does—Santa can be sure of one thing. The woman in his life wants fashion gifts for Christmas.

Actually, Santa will be well advised to think of Christmas in terms of the women, not woman, in his life. Mother, grandmother, wife, daughter, sister, aunt, cousin, sweetheart or friend—each deserves to be gifted, and each is, in terms of her interests, responsibilities and pleasures, not one woman but many.

Every phase of every woman's life involves the practicality and beauty of fashion, and this happy circumstance makes Santa's gifts-choosing task both easy and pleasant.

She's a working gal—as career girl, homemaker, mother or all three—and therefore she welcomes "on the job" fashions that are smart, attractive and easy to care for. Santa's choice here can range from comfortable, colorful, well-fitting separates in new stretch fabrics to wash-and-wear daytime dresses or dainty and feminine but thoroughly practical aprons.

SINCE SHE leads a busy life, she deserves to be pampered, and fashion gifts offer Santa myriad opportunities to show her she's appreciated. Whether the gift choice is a luxurious fur coat or jacket, or some inexpensive but important costume jewelry, or even a pretty little hankie, presents with a touch of glamour are certain to be cherished by her.

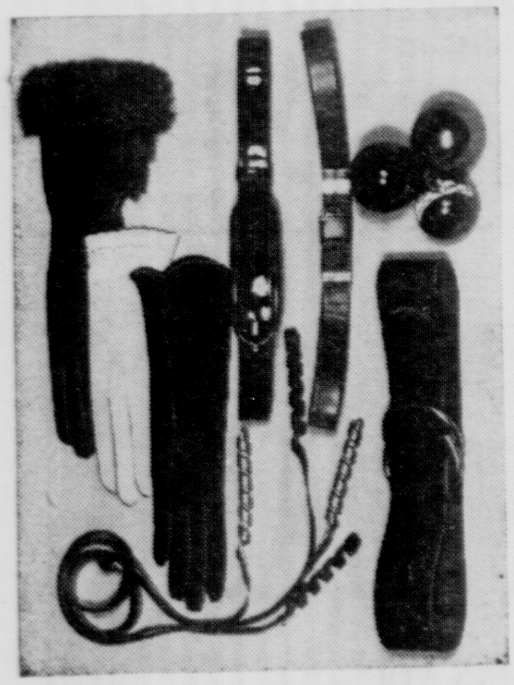
The same is true of all the many fashion accessories with which Santa can gift a woman. This season, stockings—certainly useful—are fashion news, too, and the variety of colors and textures is so great that a hosiery wardrobe has become virtually a necessity. Why not give her an assortment—stockings for day, for evening, for sports and casual wear.

Handbags, gloves, scarves headwarmers, belts—the cost of these items is as varied as the tastes of Santa's girls, yet each carries the extra advantage of versatility which will help her to plan and dress for "the complete look" of fashion, with day-to-day variety, too.

THERE'S something to please every woman in the giftworthy array of sweaters, blouses, shirts, skirts, jumpers, jackets and pants, all of which continue the theme of fashionable variety and versatility for her wardrobe.

Lingerie which looks delicate and dainty but which wears and washes wonderfully has an important place on the gifts list. This year's gifts lingerie news features stretch fabrics and laces, as well as new easy-care crepes and taffetas.

For her private life, too, she probably needs everything from cozy robes and dusters to elegant costumes for at-home entertaining.



FASHIONABLE Christmas gifts are delight of women young and old. There's a wide selection of accessories for Christmas gifting. Gloves and belts in elegant leathers are good choices. Double ring belt by Bonnie Cashin for Coach, other belts in this group are by Colony. Gloves by Grandoe. Suggested by Leather Industries of America.

TOPPING THE LIST of luxury Christmas gifts is fur, in all styles and shades. A fur jacket, stole, cape or coat is every woman's dream gift. Here, a mink stole, with furs worked in criss-cross design. Of Emba Autumn Haze Mink.

Leather Fashions Lasting

Something elegant and easy to wear, something smart now and next season, too — these are her specifications when it comes to fashion gifts, and one way Santa's helpers are planning to meet them is with pleasing presents of new leather apparel.

Suede dresses, smooth and grained leather coats, new embossed and printed leather separates have fashion importance, and can be found in every style, color and price range, so that individual tastes and budgets may be served.

STANDOUTS in style detailing of leather coats are detachable fur collars for dress wear, the use of quilting and the return of the classic wrap-around.

Traditional leather separates such as jackets and overblouses now are joined by skirts, stoles, pants, jumpers and tunics.

Furs Fit Budget

Furs come in an assortment of styles and prices so every Santa can afford fur for his Mrs. Claus.

They range from the bigger, and costlier, coats, capes, jackets to the little muffs, collars and scarves.

FROTHY FASHION CONNECTIONS, romantic new blouses make marvelous gifts for every girl on Santa's list. Feminine ruffles and lace trim make a gal feel as festive as the season, as in the two pretty styles for mother and daughter, shown here. By Macshore.

Young Artist Gets Assist From Santa

Santa's new toy pack gives special attention to the young artist.

Those classic juvenile art media — crayons, water colors and poster paint — provide new dimensions of fun and creativity this Yule season.

One of the most ingenious new art kits is Melt n' Color by Milton Bradley. It gives new scope for the crayon artist by providing an electrically controlled brush that melts and applies the rich crayon color in one operation.

THIS IS safe for even the youngest artists to use and permits overlapping and build up to achieve highly decorative three dimensional effects.

Glitter Color Kit is another boon to the junior artists ambitious to create new highly decorative effects. This includes glitter tone, which consists of tiny sparkling metallic particles suspended in a clear water soluble solution, and silk tone, a new poster paint that dries to a silken finish.

Gold, silver and multi glitter tone paints are included in this unusual set, along with red, green and blue silk tone. These new paints adhere well to glass, wood, or plastic, so there is wide scope for the youngsters who want to make decorative presents for family and friends.

BOTH THESE new paint mediums come ready mixed.

Another breakthrough in the area of junior art will be a special delight to Mother. It is a dripless poster paint; the paint spreads easily, but through a special formulation, it does not drip from the brush.

GLITTER COLOR KIT

IT'S A CREATIVE Christmas for young artists, thanks to gifts such as Glitter Color Kit, with sparkling paints. By Milton Bradley.

IN THE PICTURE are drawing kits that inspire and instruct as well as amuse. This one is Art-EE-Fun, with sketch pads, pencil and drawing book. By Embree.

Tables Loom Large in Holiday Plans

Though good friends may meet every day of the year, the spirit of the season adds special pleasure to holiday get-togethers. Whether it's "just drop in" or an "R.S.V.P." party, entertaining at home is a part of Christmas.

Since such entertaining usually includes something good to eat, holiday thoughts and plans often turn to the kitchen and table. Hostess and host prepare to welcome friends, and find that kitchen and serving gear need some replacing and refurbishing.

Guests, planning to bring or send hostess gifts, may well hit on the idea that something to help with the entertaining now and in the future is particularly appropriate.

ONE RECIPE for making the hostess happy might be gifts of cookware. Shown, Fiesta porcelain-enameled utensils.

GIFTED IDEAS for the Christmas table might range from salt and peppers to coffeepots to candlesticks and even a dinner bell. Group shown is by Castleton.

HOMEMAKER'S DELIGHT are gifts of dessert dishes. If Santa delivers them himself, he might bring along dessert, too. "Checkerboard" ice cream is by Sealtest.

SINCE ONE day's guest may be tomorrow's hostess—or vice versa—shopping trips offer the opportunity to accomplish two things at once. When entertaining aids from candlesticks and ashtrays to new china and silverware are purchased, the shopper at the same time may discover a variety of gifts large and small to say "Merry Christmas" and "Thank you."

Housewares departments provide a particularly good source of gifts items that are both practical and decorative. Price tags are equally varied.

COFFEE-MAKING GIFTS go right to work for entertaining. Here, distinctive drip pots with bonus gift of coffee with chicory.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS is clearly the message, when tableware gifts are holly-patterned. Shown, party platter and bowl by Lenox.

Shoes Also Good Gift

Bedroom slippers are traditional men's gifts — but shoes, too, can make great gifts this Christmas — and don't worry about size.

Any feminine Santa worth her Christmas morning kiss can easily abstract an old shoe from his closet. But be sure to return it if you want to keep your gift a secret until Dec. 25.

Shoes are available in every price range, and in great variety, from a pair of simple loafers to an elegant pair of kiltie - topped oxfords.

A long - time masculine favorite, the styled - up moccasin has been interpreted in new colors and leather grains this year. With a medium weight sole underfoot, the handsewn moc will take the full heft of a big man without losing its shape.

What about the shoes that he works in, especially if he has an outdoor job? Anyone from a newspaper reporter to a construction worker will appreciate shoes or boots that will stand up to the beatings they get in the different places his jobs take him.

A popular leisure time shoe with men is the chukka, a half boot that can be worn with a variety of casual clothes. The reason for its popularity is obvious: the higher top keeps out wind and weather without the weight of storm gear.

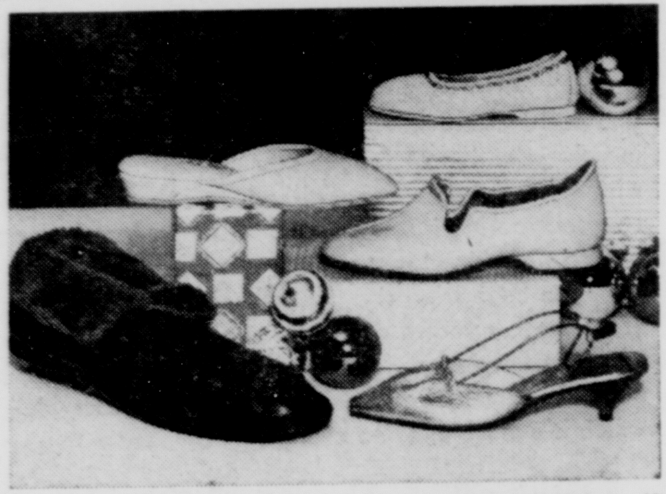
Strictly for casual purposes, the chukka is a familiar sight on the suburban scene.

There aremany new styles out for men now in canvas, especially for casual wear. He may appreciate the extra comfort these shoes and sandals afford him on the beach and around the house and neighborhood, throughout the year.

HOBBIES, LEARNING get a boost with educational gifts such as this efficient microscope. It's Bausch & Lombs Zoom microscope.

HOLIDAY WHIMSY is provided by the bevy of new character dolls. Here, the "Gonk"—perfect gift for kids six to sixty. By Gund.

SLIPPERS ARE traditional of course, but why not also think in terms of shoes for your favorite man this Christmas? There are many new styles for casual and everyday wear and, although his right size may be a problem, don't worry — most stores will exchange them. Leather Industries of America photo.



FOR ALL THE FAMILY, slippers are welcome holiday gifts. Here, clockwise from lower left, are: For the man of the house, leather slipper with shearling lining; for Mother, leather scuff; for a very young miss, leather ballet-type slipper; for a teenager, leather bootee with peaked back; and for glamour at home, gold crushed leather sandal. By Daniel Hays, Oomphies, Bertlyn and Gustinettes. Suggested by Leather Industries of America.

All of Family Like Slippers

Traditionally, a "Merry Christmas" means Santa, snow — and new slippers under the tree. Fun to get and give, slippers bring fashion and foot ease to every member of the family.

This season's attractive array of comfortable slippers offers sizes and styles that make it easy to choose just the right presents for everyone.

Women on the go will appreciate their leisure hours twice as much when they slip into pretty slippers.

Mules and sandals, simply styled or ornamented tastefully with embroidery or fur, please and pamper busy feet. Textures include smooth, grained, suede, brushed, crushed and embossed leathers.

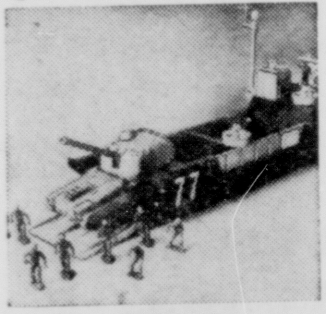
Striking slippers of gold, silver or bejeweled leather can be worn for glamorous at-home entertaining as well as for at-home comfort and ease.

Make it a happier holiday for the men on the gift list with a handsome classic, the opera slipper. For the man who has marked the boot for his own, even around home, there are lightweight leather slipper-boots lined in smooth leather or shearling.

Super slipper styles for the fashion-minded teenager include leather bootees trimmed with bows, buckles, braid or bunny fur, as well as the Persian "turned-up-toe" model and the ballet flattie.

To discourage bare-footedness in the milk-and-cookies set, stuff youngsters' stockings with cozy slippers. They especially like crayon-bright colors and warm shearling linings.

Packability equals practicality for the frequent traveler who receives a pair of leather folding slippers. These come in a variety of styles and colors for fashion news, too.



JUNIOR GENERALS get a chance to brush up on history, too, with toys such as "Anzio Invader," an authentic reproduction of landing equipment used on D Day. By Ideal.

LIGHT UP Christmas with holiday cheer that lasts through the year. Give a beautiful lighting fixture. This one by Progress.
